BENGAL TENANCY ACT.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—LAND REVENUE.

Darjeeling, the 1st November 1885.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report of a Committee appointed to consider and advise on the Rules to be framed by the Local Government under the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885.

The Draft Rules prepared by the Committee.

THE informal publication of a draft of the Rules which it was proposed to issue under the Bengal Tenancy Act, when that Act had come into force, has had the good result of eliciting valuable comments from several public Associations and private persons interested in the working of the Act. The provisional Draft Rules, with the comments made upon them, have now been revised and recast by a Committee composed of the gentlemen named in the margin, who have submitted a Report upon the subject.

Hon'ble H. J. Reynolds, C.S.I., Member, Board of Revenue	President.
Hon'ble A. P. MacDonnell, Secretary to Government	Members.
Mr. R. F. Rampini, Officiating Judge, 24-Pergunnahs ...
Mr P. Nolan, Collector, Shahabad
Mr. M Finucane, Director, Agricultural Department
Mr. H. H. Risley, on Special Duty

2. The Draft Rules, as amended by the Committee, have now been considered by the Lieutenant-Governor, and some modifications, chiefly in the sequence and grouping of the Rules, have been introduced. Substantially, however, the Rules remain the same as in the draft submitted by the Committee.

ORDERED—That the Committee's Report be printed for general information, and that the Draft Rules be published in the Calcutta Gazette as Proposed Rules, in conformity with section 190, Act VIII of 1885, for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. P. MACDONNELL,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

REPORT.

WE, the Members of the Committee appointed under the orders of Government, dated the 20th instant, to consider and advise on the form which the Rules under the Bengal Tenancy Act should take, with a view to their publication under section 190 of the Act, have the honour to report that we have considered the provisional draft rules published in the Gazette of the 12th August and various subsequent dates, and also the papers noted in the margin. With many of the objections and criticisms embodied in these papers we are not able to concur; but in several instances we have found them to contain useful suggestions, of which we have gladly availed ourselves.

1. Letter from Baboo Kedar Nath Roy, dated the 15th August 1885.
2. Letter from Baboo Pronob Nath Ghosal, dated the 25th August 1885.
3. Letter from the Secretary, Bhagulpore Landholders' Association, dated the 28th August 1885.
4. Letter from the Secretary, Bhagulpore Landholders' Association, dated the 7th September 1885.
5. Letter from the Secretary, East Bengal Landholders' Association, dated the 26th September 1885.
6. Remarks by the Secretary, East Bengal Landholders' Association, dated the 11th October 1885.
7. Letter from the Secretary, Behar Landholders' Association, dated the 1st October 1885.
8. Letter from the Secretary, British Indian Association, dated the 1st October 1885.
9. Letter from the Secretary, Burrisal People's Association, dated the 25th September 1885.
10. Letter from the Secretary, Bhagulpore Landholders' Association, dated the 8th October 1885.

2. It will be observed that the provisions of the Tenancy Act include executive orders of three different kinds. Some matters are left to be dealt with in such a manner as the Local Government may from time to time direct. Such matters are not the subject of rules, and usually there is no legal obligation to publish the orders of Government regarding them in the official Gazette. In the next place, many sections of the Act refer to proceedings which are to be carried out in the "prescribed manner," or to notices which are to be prepared in the "prescribed form." In all these cases the law requires a publication in the official Gazette; but the matters need not be made the subject of rules, unless they concern the regulation of the procedure to be followed by Revenue Officers under the Act, or prescribe the manner in which notices are to be served. Lastly, there are certain matters which can only be dealt with by rules duly published under section 190 of the Act.

The distinction will perhaps be more clearly seen if we give an example of each class of cases. Under section 39 (1), Collectors are to prepare price lists of staple food-crops grown in such local areas as the Government may from time to time direct. An order defining these local areas is not a rule, and the Government is not required to publish it in the Gazette. Under section 13 (1) the purchaser of a permanent tenure is required to pay into Court the prescribed fee for service of the notice of sale on the landlord. The amount of the fee must be fixed by a notification published in the official Gazette; but no rule on the subject need be framed. Under section 61 (2) a deposit of rent must be accompanied by a fee of such amount as the Local Government, from time to time, by rule, directs. The amount of this fee must be notified under section 190, and cannot be finally fixed until one month after the date of the notification.

3. While recognizing these distinctions, we have found, in the process of framing rules, that it was not possible to preserve them and at the same time to make the rules self-explanatory and intelligible. For instance, a given procedure, in order to be practically effective, may have to be made up of directions falling under each and all of the classes indicated above, and to break it up into the various forms of rule and notification appropriate to those classes would make it difficult to understand and cumbersome to administer. We have therefore decided to bring together under each section all the instructions necessary for its enforcement, irrespective of the consideration whether the instructions are technically "rules" under the Act or not.

4. The sections of the Act under which the Local Government is required or empowered to make "rules" are the following:—

(a) Under section 39 (7)—rules for determining what are to be deemed staple food-crops in any local area, and for the guidance of officers preparing price lists.

(b) Under section 54 (2)—rules authorizing a tenant to pay his rent by postal money-order.

(c) Under section 61 (2)—rules prescribing the amount of the fee which must accompany a deposit of rent.

(d) Under section 80 (2)—rules respecting applications for the registration of landlords' improvements.

(e) Under section 82 (5)—rules for the appointment of assessors to estimate the compensation to be awarded for improvements.

(f) Under section 87 (2)—rules regarding the manner of publishing a notice by the landlord that he has treated a holding as abandoned.

(g) Under section 92 (3)—rules declaring local standards of measurement.

(h) Under section 103—rules to enable a Revenue Officer to ascertain and record certain particulars with respect to an estate or tenure.

(i) Under section 107—rules to regulate the procedure of Revenue Officers engaged in the settlement of rents.

(j) Under section 118—rules to enable a Revenue Officer to ascertain and record whether land is or is not private land.

(k) Under section 134 (1)—rules to prescribe the charges to be levied as costs of distraint and sale of distrained property.

(l) Under section 189—rules to regulate the procedure to be followed by Revenue Officers under the Act, and to prescribe the mode of service of notices where no more is prescribed by law.

5. The accompanying draft will be found to contain no mention of rules under the headings (b), (e), and (g) of the preceding paragraph. It appears to us that the experiment of permitting rent to be paid by postal money-order may well be deferred till the plan of paying Government revenue through this agency has been found on trial to work successfully. With regard to section 82, it may be permitted to us to hope that cases of ejectment will be rare. It is probable, too, that the amount of compensation awardable in such cases will not ordinarily be very large. It seems to us a matter of some difficulty to specify in a rule the qualifications of persons whose assistance would be useful to the Court; and we are unwilling to add to the costs of the trial by prescribing a procedure which would involve an expenditure incommensurate with the amount of the compensation. If it should be found hereafter that the Courts experience a practical difficulty in the decision of these cases, and express a wish for the appointment of assessors, the question of making a rule may be further considered. The definition of local standards of measurement, under section 92 (3), is a matter which demands very careful previous enquiry; and the information at our disposal does not justify us in recommending that the Government should put forward any declaration on the subject at present. With these three exceptions, the draft we have prepared deals with all the matters in respect of which the Act contemplates the publication of rules by the Local Government

6. Under section 39, we have given a list of local areas and of the marts at which price lists are to be prepared. The list of local areas is not, strictly speaking, a part of the rule; but there is a manifest convenience in treating it as such, and publishing it for general comment. The list of marts falls under sub-section (7), as an instruction for the guidance of officers engaged in the preparation of the price-lists. We have suggested a scheme for the determination of the staple food-crops, and for the preparation and publication of the lists. It will be observed that we propose that the prices shall be recorded on two market days during the month, and that the lists shall be published at the marts to which they refer, as well as at the revenue office, the Munsif's court, and the police stations.

7. Under section 80 (2), we have abbreviated and simplified the previous draft with a view to making the procedure for registration as short and inexpensive as possible. It was, we think, the intention of the law that the enquiry should be limited to the fact of the alleged improvement having been actually and lawfully made, and we have modified the rules accordingly. We have also provided that a subordinate officer's refusal to register shall not be final until confirmed by the Collector.

8. The rules regarding the conduct of proceedings under Chapter X are of great importance, as they will not only apply to the survey and record of rights about to be taken in hand in Mozufferpore, but will also, in the majority of cases, form a code of instructions for the guidance of officers engaged in making settlements of land revenue in any of the districts to which the Act extends. We have accordingly recast these rules with great care; and we believe that, in their present form, they will be found sufficient for the objects which they have in view, and that they are also entirely consistent with the provisions of the Act.

9. The published rules of the Board of Revenue relating to settlements will have to be revised in accordance with the changes of the law introduced by the Act. When this revision has been made, the instructions contained in the Board's rules will be supplementary to the rules under the Act, it being manifestly impossible to frame the latter in such detail as to form a complete manual for the guidance of officers in every particular. We have accordingly provided that, in carrying out the rules under the Act, Revenue Officers shall have regard to the instructions issued by the Board of Revenue so far as they are consistent with the present rules, and that the Board's rules shall be followed where no other mode of procedure is prescribed.

10. The course of proceedings under Chapter X will, we understand, be of the following kind. The Local Government will appoint the Survey and Settlement Officers employed upon the work to perform such of the functions of Revenue Officers as are assigned to them by the rules under section 189 (1). The rules declare that all orders of Revenue Officers, passed in the discharge of any duty under the Act, shall be subject to the supervision and control of the Board of Revenue; and that the orders of each inferior Revenue Officer shall be subject to the supervision and control of the Revenue Officers to whom the Board may declare him to be subordinate. In this manner every Officer engaged in settlement operations will have the legal status of a Revenue Officer, while at the same time his action will be restricted to the particular duties which he is called upon to perform.

11. We have made numerous minor and verbal alterations in the draft rules as provisionally published, the particulars of which need not here be specified. We recommend that the rules, as now revised, should be published under section 190 of the Act.

NOTIFICATION.

BENGAL TENANCY ACT.

The 1st November 1885.—The following draft of Proposed Rules under the provisions of Act VIII of 1885 are published for general information, in conformity with section 190 of the Act, and it is hereby notified that the draft will be taken into consideration by the Government of Bengal on the 7th December 1885. Any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft should be submitted to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal in the Revenue Department, Calcutta, before the date specified above.

A. P. MACDONNELL,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RULES UNDER THE BENGAL TENANCY ACT.

CHAPTER I.—GENERAL.

1 In carrying out the following rules Revenue Officers shall have regard to the instructions which have been issued, or which may hereafter be issued, by the Board of Revenue for the guidance of Revenue Officers subordinate to them, so far as such instructions are consistent with the rules herein prescribed under Act VIII, 1885.

2. All proceedings and orders of Revenue Officers, passed in the discharge of any duty imposed upon them by or under this Act, shall be subject to the supervision and control of the Board of Revenue. The orders of each interior Revenue Officer under this Act, shall be subject to the supervision and control of the Revenue Officers to whom he may be declared by the Board of Revenue to be, for the purposes of the Act, subordinate.

3. Where no other mode of service of not ce is prescribed under the Tenancy Act or any other Act under which proceedings are being taken, Revenue Officers shall cause notice to be served in the manner prescribed for the service of a summons on a defendant under the Code of Civil Procedure, if the notice is addressed to only one person, and if it is addressed to a number of persons occupying or owning land in the same village, the notice shall be served by proclamation and beat of drum in the village, and also by suspending it in the office where the rent is usually paid, or some conspicuous place in the village.

CHAPTER II —STAPLE FOOD-CROPS AND PRICE LISTS.

1. Section 39 ( ).*—The local areas under this section shall be those entered in Schedule II annexed to these rules, and the mart specified in the same schedule for each local area shall be that at which prices shall be recorded.

2. Section 39 (7 —The Collector, after such enquiry into the relative extent to which particular food-crops are grown in his district, as he may think necessary, shall report to the Board of Revenue what food-crops are most extensively grown in each local area, distinguishing, if necessary, staple food-crops grown on uplands from those grown on lowlands The Board of Revenue shall submit this report to the Local Government. The Local Government, after considering the report, shall determine and notify in the Calcutta Gazette what shall be deemed staple food-crops in each local area.

3 Price lists of staple food-crops shall be prepared on two market days in the month at intervals of not less than ten days. Such market days shall be selected by the Collector, subject to the control of the Board of Revenue.

4. The price recorded for each staple food-crop shall be the prevailing retail price at which that crop was actually sold in the mart to which the price list refers on the days prescribed in the last preceding rule.

Price lists shall ordinarily be prepared by a gazetted officer not below the rank of a Sub-Deputy Collector But in special cases where a Sub-Deputy Collector is not available, the Collector, with the sanction of the Commissioner, may authorize a canongoe to prepare the lists

6. Every officer charged with the preparation of price lists shall keep a record showing—

(a) The date of his visit to the market, the prices in which are to be recorded;
(b) The names of vendors and purchasers, the quantities sold, and the prices thereof for any sales effected in his presence.

7. When price lists are prepared at the sudder sub-division by an officer other than a Covenanted Deputy Collector, or the Senior Deputy Collector, or at other sub-divisions by an officer subordinate to the Sub-Divisional Officer, they shall be submitted to the Covenanted Deputy Collector, or the Senior Deputy Collector, or Sub-Divisional Officer as the case may be Such officer shall scrutinize the lists; he may call for explanations and cause manifest errors to be corrected; and, having satisfied himself of the accuracy of the lists, he shall countersign them

* These references are in all cases to the sections of the Bengal Tenancy Act (Act VIII, 1885).

8. The price lists shall be published at the marts to which they respectively refer, at the Collector's or sub-divisional office, and at every police station and munsifi in the local area.

9. The lists shall then be submitted to the Board with any objections made to them, and with the opinions of the officers who prepared and countersigned them, and of the Collector, on such objections.

CHAPTER III.—LANDLORDS' IMPROVEMENTS.

1. Section 80.—An application for the registration of a landlord's improvement may be presented to the Collector of the district or to the officer in charge of the sub-division in which the land benefited by the improvement is situated, or to any Assistant or Deputy Collector who may be specially appointed by the Government to receive such application. It shall be in the form specified in Schedule I appended to these rules.

2. The officer receiving the application may, if he thinks fit, require the applicant to present as many copies of the application as there are tenants mentioned in column 7 of the application, or as there are villages mentioned in column 2, and he may, as the case may be, either forward by registered letter copies to the tenants whose names are specified, or may cause a copy to be fixed up in some conspicuous place in every such village. In either case he shall fix a date for hearing objections to the application, and shall cause that date to be notified to the parties concerned, either by entering it in the copies forwarded by registered letter or by proclaiming it by beat of drum in each village. The expenses of such service shall be borne by the applicant for registration.

3. The officer may make over the application to any of his subordinates, not being below the rank of a canoongoe, for local enquiry and report, and shall in that case fix a date for hearing the report, and shall cause such date to be notified to the parties concerned in the manner set forth in Rule 2. The enquiry shall be limited to the ascertainment of the fact whether the alleged improvement is of such a nature as to come within the meaning of section 76 (2) or not.

4. On the date so fixed, or on any date to which the proceedings may be adjourned, the officer shall hear summarily such of the parties and their witnesses as may attend, and shall consider any report submitted to him under Rule 3 He shall then decide whether the work is an improvement as defined in section 76 (2), and whether the landlord is entitled to register it, and shall accordingly order it to be registered or refuse registration.

5. Nothing hereinbefore contained shall preclude the officer receiving the application from holding a local enquiry in person, and from ordering the improvement to be registered, or refusing the registration in accordance with the result of the enquiry so held.

6. If an order refusing to register an improvement is passed by an officer lower in rank than the Collector of the district, such order shall not take effect until confirmed by the Collector of the district.

7. Section 81 (1).—Evidence relating to any improvement under this sub-section shall be recorded by the Revenue Officer specified in Rule 1 of this Chapter, who shall exercise the powers of a Civil Court in the trial of suits, and shall be guided by the provisions of sections 182 and 184 of the Civil Procedure Code.

CHAPTER IV.—RECORD OF PROPRIETORS' PRIVATE LANDS.

1. Section 118 —Applications under this section may be made to the Collector of the district, or to the officer in charge of the sub-division in which the land in question is situated, or to any Assistant or Deputy Collector specially empowered by Government to receive such applications. If the application is made to the Collector of the district, he may transfer it for disposal to any officer empowered to receive it.

2. An application shall contain the following particulars so far as the applicant is able to furnish them:—

(a) The name, towji number, and Government revenue of the estate.
(b) The names of the registered proprietors, and the share held by each
(c) The specification of each plot of land referred to in the application, showing the village in which it is situated and the area and boundaries of each plot, if known.
(d) The names of the tenants (if any) in occupation of each such plot
(e) Grounds of the application.

3. The application shall be signed and verified in the manner prescribed by section 51 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

4. On receipt of the application the officer shall make such inquiry as he may think fit by examining the applicant or his agent, and may call for further particulars before ordering further proceedings.

5. If the area of the lands has not been already recorded in a map made under the authority of Government, the officer shall order the lands to be measured, and shall estimate the cost of measurement in accordance with the rules for the time being in force for the measurement of lands in partition cases, and shall require the applicant to deposit the amount either at once or in such instalments as the officer may direct.

CHAPTER V.—SERVICE OF NOTICES.

1. Sections 12, 13, and 15.—Notices under these sections shall contain, so far as may be possible, the particulars given in the forms specified in Schedule I, and shall be served on the landlord or his agent, or, where two or more persons are joint landlords, on their common agent, referred to in section 188, or on their common manager appointed under section 95 as the case may be, in the manner prescribed for the service of a summons on a defendant under the Code of Civil Procedure. Where there is more than one landlord, and no common agent or common manager has been appointed, the notice shall be served by being posted in some conspicuous place on the tenure. When notice is served personally, the landlord's fee shall be tendered with the notice If in cases of personal service a receipt cannot be obtained for the fee from the landlord or his agent, and in all cases when the notice is not served personally, the fee shall be held in deposit by the Collector until applied for by the person or persons authorized to receive it.

2. Section 45.—Notice to a raiyat to quit under this section shall be served through the Collector* in the manner prescribed for the service of a summons on a defendant under the Code of Civil Procedure, and shall be subject to the same process fee.

*Criticism is invited on an alternative proposal to serve this notice through the Court having jurisdiction to entertain a suit for ejectment from the holding. It has been suggested that this alternative mode of service would simplify proof of service

3. Section 46 (2).—The agreement under this section shall be filed in the Court having jurisdiction to entertain a suit for arrears of rent of the holding, and shall be served on the raiyat in the manner prescribed for the service of a summons on a defendant under the Code of Civil Procedure, and shall be subject to the same process fee

4. Section 46 (4).—The notice under this section shall be filed in the Court having jurisdiction to entertain a suit for arrears of rent of the holding, and shall be served on the landlord in the manner prescribed for the service of a summons on a defendant under the Code of Civil Procedure, and shall be subject to the same process fee.

5. Section 63 (2).—In cases (a), (b), and (d) of section 61 herein referred to, the notice of the receipt of the deposit shall be served by forwarding the notice by post in a letter registered under Part III of the Indian Post Office Act, 1866, or, where the Court may deem it necessary, in the manner prescribed for the service of a summons on a defendant under the Code of Civil Procedure.

6 Section 72 (2).—The general notice referred to in this sub-section may be published by the transferee by fixing up a written notice to the tenants in the village office or in some conspicuous place on the lands, and by proclaiming to the tenants by beat of drum in every village to which the transfer extends, that the interest of the former landlord has passed to the transferee. The transferee may, if he thinks fit, apply for service of the notice to the Civil Court having jurisdiction to entertain a suit for arrears of rent of the holding, and the Court shall thereupon serve the notice as hereinbefore prescribed on payment of a process fee of Re 1 for each village to which the transfer extends.

7. Section 73.—Notice under this section shall be in writing, and shall be delivered to the landlord or his agent, or, where two or more persons are joint landlords, to their common agent referred to in section 188, or to their common manager appointed under section 95, as the case may be, at the landlord's village office, or at such other convenient place as may be appointed by the landlord for the payment of rent under sub-section (2) of section 54

8. The raiyat may, if he thinks fit, cause the notice to be served through the Civil Court having jurisdiction to entertain a suit for arrears of rent of the holding in the manner prescribed for the service of a summons on a defendant under the Code of Civil Procedure, and subject to the same process fee.

9. Section 86 (4).—The notice of surrender to the landlord by the tenant under this sub-section shall be served in the manner prescribed for the service of a summons on a defendant under the Code of Civil Procedure, and shall be subject to the same process fee.

10. Section 87.—A notice of the tenant's abandonment of his holding under sub-section (2) of this section shall be in the form specified in Schedule I, shall be published by beat of drum upon the holding alleged to be abandoned, and a copy thereof shall be affixed to some dwelling-house, or tree, or other conspicuous object upon the holding. The fee payable by the landlord shall be Re. 1.

11. Section 155.—Notice of ejectment to the tenant under this section shall be filed in the Court having jurisdiction to entertain a suit for arrears of rent of the holding, and shall be served in the manner prescribed for the service of a summons on a defendant under the Code of Civil Procedure, and shall be subject to the same process fee.

CHAPTER VI.—RECORD OF RIGHTS AND SETTLEMENT OF RENTS.

Powers of Revenue Officers.

1. All Revenue Officers appointed to be Settlement Officers or Assistant Settlement Officers for the purpose of making surveys, records of rights, and settlement of rents under the Tenancy Act are hereby vested with all powers exercised by a Civil Court in the trial of suits, and with the powers mentioned in section 189 (1) (b) and (c) of the Tenancy Act, VIII of 1885.

Procedure for Cadastral Survey and Record of Rights.

2. The following processes will ordinarily be comprised in a cadastral survey and record of rights:—

I.—Demarcation of boundaries.

II.—Measurement.

III.—Testing of measurement.

IV.—Record of rents and rights.

V.—Determination of fair rents on application, and, in certain cases, without application, of parties.

3. All disputed entries shall be shown in red ink, and undisputed entries in black ink.

Demarcation of Boundaries before Cadastral Survey.

4 The demarcation of village boundaries shall be carried out by a Deputy Collector or Sub-Deputy Collector in accordance with the definition of a village given in section 3 (10), and the boundary according to possession, where different from that demarcated as above, shall also be shown on the map.

5. Boundary pillars of a permanent nature shall be erected at every point where the boundaries of three or more villages meet, and may be erected wherever the Revenue Officer considers it necessary to define by pillars the boundaries of estates or tenures or of lands which have been the subject of dispute.

Measurement.

6. A field map of every village shall be prepared. It shall show the boundaries of every field separately assessed to rent, or of such plot of land as the Board of Revenue may from time to time direct by general or special order.

7. A field register or khasrah shall be prepared at the time of survey in the form annexed (I), or such similar form as the Board of Revenue may from time to time direct, with reference to any order which may be made under section 101 (1)

8. The Board of Revenue shall from time to time issue such instructions, consistent with these rules, as they may deem necessary for the guidance of officers in preparing the khasrah.

(2) For raiyat and under-raiyat will be substituted tenure-holder and undertenure-holder in case of tenure-holder's khatians.

11. The record of right shall consist of and be contained in—

I.—The khewat.

II.—The khatians or abstracts of particulars of raiyats' holdings.

Rights of Proprietors and Tenure-holders.

12. The khewat shall contain—

(a).—A record of the character and extent of proprietary interests as entered in the Collector's register under the Land Registration Act, VII (B.C.) of 1876.

(b) —A record of the particulars specified in section 102 or in any order that may be issued under section 101(1) regarding tenures.

13. The khewat will be prepared in the following manner :—

(a) —An extract from the Collector's Registers A, B, C, D, framed under the Land Registration Act, VII (B.C.) of 1876, containing the names, extent, and character of the interests of proprietors of all revenue-paying and revenue-free lands comprised within the mouzah, shall be supplied by the Collector of the district to the Revenue-officer on the latter's application.

(b).—If the Revenue-officer finds that the proprietary interests existing in the village are in accordance with the entries regarding extent and character of proprietary interests as given in the Collector's registers, he shall have the entries copied into the khewat, which will form the record of proprietary and proprietary-mortgagees' interests for the purposes of the record of rights under the Tenancy Act. The extracts from the Collector's land revenue registers will also show the names and proprietary interests of managers and mortgagees of all revenue-free property within the village.

(c).—If any person claiming as proprietor or as assignee or mortgagee of an alleged proprietor deny the accuracy of the khewat as copied from the Collector's registers, the Revenue-officer shall refer him to the Collector of the district, and shall also report the fact to the Collector in order that action may, if necessary, be taken under the Land Registration Act, to compel registration of the proprietor's name.

(d).—In any proceeding under Chapter X, the Revenue-officer may, at his discretion, recognise as proprietor the person in possession of the land pending the registration of his name and interest under the Land Registration Act.

(e).—The record of the rights of tenure-holders and undertenure-holders shall be prepared in the same way as the record of raiyats' rights, or in such other manner, not being inconsistent with those rules, as the Board of Revenue may direct.

Rights of Raiyats and Under-Raiyats.

14 The record of raiyats' and under-raiyats' rights shall be prepared in the manner hereinafter described:—

15 As soon as possible after the completion of the field measurements of each village, the following papers shall be made over to the Revenue-officer:—

(1) The map. | (2) The amin's khasrah. | (3) The khatian.

16. On receipt of these papers, the Revenue-officer shall depute one of his subordinates to the village with a copy of the map and khatians, with instructions to explain the entries to all parties concerned. The Revenue-officer shall fix and notify a period which shall not be less than fifteen days after which applications for the settlement of fair rents will not be received. Such notice shall be given by proclamation and beat of drum in the village in which the land is situated, and shall also be suspended in some conspicuous place in the village. He shall also notify his intention to come to some specified place at or near the village on a specified date within that period, for the purpose of framing the record of rights and settling rents, and he shall call on all persons interested to attend there on that date, and on any other dates to which the proceedings may be adjourned. On arriving at the place specified, he will there cause the raiyats, under-raiyats, and landlords, or there authorized agents, to assemble.

17. The entries recorded by the amin in each raiyat's khatian at the time of measurement shall then be read out in presence of such of the interested parties as are in attendance.

18. If the correctness of the entries recorded by the amin be disputed, the Revenue-officer shall settle the dispute by local enquiry or otherwise: Provided that if the correctness of the measurement is called in question, and a fresh measurement demanded, the Revenue-officer may require the costs of the re-measurement to be deposited. If the re-measurement show the original measurement to have been inaccurate, the amount deposited shall be refunded to the objector.

19. The Revenue-officer shall then summarily ascertain and record in column 12 of the khatian the amount of each raiyat's present rent.

20. The Revenue-officer shall ascertain from the raiyats which (if any) of them claim the right to hold at fixed rates, explaining, as far as may be necessary, the provisions of the Act in this respect. If the right claimed is disputed by the landlord, the Revenue-officer shall call on the claimants for proof of such right.

21. The Revenue-officer shall ascertain which of the raiyats are settled raiyats or occupancy raiyats, as the case may be, and shall record them as such in column 14 of the khatian.

22. The Revenue-officer shall obtain from the landlord or his agent a statement showing the names of the raiyats alleged by him to be non-occupancy raiyats. He shall explain to the raiyats whose names are entered in the statement the nature of the presumption raised by section 20 (7). If after such explanation a raiyat admits himself to be a non-occupancy raiyat, he shall be recorded as such. If he does not admit himself to be a non-occupancy raiyat, the Revenue-officer shall call on the landlord to prove the allegation made by him in regard to such raiyat.

Determination of Proprietor's private lands,—Nij-jote, Sir, Zerat, or Khamar.

23. Only land which is proprietor's private land, as defined in section 120 of the Tenancy Act, will be entered as such Land which, though cultivated by the proprietor, is not proprietor's private land within the meaning of the law, will be entered thus—"Cultivated by the proprietor, but not private land." Separate khatians should be prepared for such land and for "Propri tor's private land."

Record of Rents payable.

24. Abwabs will not be recorded with, nor entered as forming part of, the existing rent. Cesses which are authorized by law will be recorded in column 12 (b).

25. The record of rents payable will be contained in the khatians. The existing rents summarily ascertained by the Revenue-officer under Rule 19 will be recorded as the rents payable, except in cases when proceedings for settlement of fair rents and proceedings for decision of disputes under section 106 are necessary. In such cases the fair rent, when settled, shall be recorded in column 13 of the khatian as the rent payable.

26. In proceedings for the settlement of fair rents, if the landlord applies for a settlement of a fair rent, he shall be considered as plaintiff and the tenant as defendant, and the proceeding shall be dealt with as a suit under the Tenancy Act. If the tenant applies for the settlement of a fair rent, he shall be considered as plaintiff and the landlord as defendant, and the proceeding shall be dealt with as a suit under the Tenancy Act.

27. In settling rents, the existing rent being presumed under section 104 (clause 3) to be fair till the contrary is proved, if the landlord claims an enhancement, he will have to prove the grounds of and amount of enhancement claimable in accordance with the law; and if a raiyat claims a reduction, he will similarly have to prove the grounds of reduction. Such cases shall be dealt with as suits in accordance with the rules prescribed for the guidance of officers acting under section 107 of the Tenancy Act.

28. When it appears that the tenant is holding land in excess of or less than that for which he is paying rent, and neither the landlord nor the tenant applies for a settlement of rent, the Revenue-officer shall notify to the landlord and tenants, in the form specified in Schedule I annexed to these rules, his intention to settle rents at a future date, which shall not be less than fifteen days after the date of such notification, and he shall call upon them to appear before him on the date specified and on any subsequent dates to which the proceedings may be adjourned, and to state any objection they may have to urge against the existing rent being recorded as the fair and equitable rent. Such notice shall be given by proclamation and beat of drum in the village in which the land is situated, and shall also be suspended in some conspicuous place in the village, and it shall be given to the landlord by service, if practicable, on himself or his agent, or manager in the village.

If neither the landlord nor tenant attend on the date specified in the notice, or on any subsequent date to which the proceedings may be adjourned, the existing rent shall be recorded as the fair rent in respect of the land held by the tenant.

If the landlord attend and claim an enhancement on the existing rent, he shall be considered as plaintiff and the tenant as defendant, and the proceeding shall be dealt with as a suit under the Tenancy Act.

If the tenant attend and claim a reduction, he shall be considered as plaintiff and the landlord as defendant, and the proceeding shall be dealt with as a suit under the Tenancy Act.

29 Where the estate or tenure belongs to or is managed by the Government or the Court of Wards, the procedure laid down in the preceding rules for the settlement of rents and for proceedings under section 106 shall be followed, the Government or the manager of the estate or tenure respectively, as the case may be, being regarded as the landlord.

30. With the consent of the Revenue-officer, any number of tenants occupying land under the same landlord, in the same village or estate, may make a joint application for the settlement of rents, or may be joined as defendants in the same proceeding on a similar application by the landlord: Provided that if at any time it shall appear to the Revenue-officer that the question between any two of the parties of whom one is so joined with others cannot conveniently be so jointly tried, he may order a separate trial to be held of that question.

31. In proceedings under section 106, when a dispute arises before the final publication of the record regarding the correctness of an entry (not being an entry of rents settled under Chapter X) or as to the propriety of any omission, notice of the objection shall be served on all persons whose interests may, in the opinion of the Revenue-officer, be affected thereby, and they shall be called upon to attend at such time and place as the Revenue-officer may fix for the disposal of the objection. If any person attends and contests the objection, the proceeding shall be dealt with as a suit between the parties under the Tenancy Act, in which the objector shall be plaintiff and the other parties defendants. If no person attends to contest the objection, the record may be amended accordingly or the person who made the objection may, if the Revenue-officer thinks fit, be called upon to produce evidence in support of his objection, which may in that case be heard and decided as a suit ex parte under the Tenancy Act.

Publication of the Record.

32. When the record of rights and rents has been prepared in the manner described in these rules, the Revenue-officer shall cause a draft of it to be posted at the landlord's village office, if there be one, and, if not, in some conspicuous place in the village, for one month, and small receive and consider any objections which may be made to any entry therein during this period

33. When all applications for settling a fair rent, and all disputes under section 106, have been decided by the Revenue-officer, he shall finally frame the record and cause it to be published by having it posted in the landlord's village office, or in some conspicuous place in the village.

Supply of Copies of the Record of Rights to parties interested.

34. The Revenue-officer having completed the record, shall cause copies of it to be made, one of which will be made over to the proprietor of the village or, where there are more proprietors than one, to their common agent or common manager, as the case may be, one to the village patwari, if there be a patwari, one to the Collector or Sub-divisional Officer.

35. A copy of the khatian relating to his tenancy shall be given to every tenant under the signature and seal of the Revenue officer.

Final Reports.

36. The Local Government may, if it thinks fit, direct that a final report be written in English for each village and each local area under survey. The report for the village will show—

(a).—The number of tenants of each class.

(b).—The area and classification of the village lands according (a) to survey and settlement; (b) to landlord's jamabandi, if known.

(c).—The rental according to settlement, and according to landlord's jamabandi, with explanation of increase or decrease, amount of Government revenue, and comparison of rent with revenue.

(d).—The rates of rent prevailing, with history of past enhancements.

(e).—Proximity to markets.

(f).—Facilities for irrigation.

(g).—Village customs, including customs as to payment of village officials.

(h).—Arrangements made for maintenance of records.

(i).—Other matters deserving of notice which have been excluded from the record of rights.

The report for the whole area under survey will contain the following particulars:—

I.—General description of the tract.

II.—Its fiscal history.

III.—Statistical results.

IV.—Comparison of condition of tract as regards rentals before and after survey.

V.—Financial results, including approximate division of expenses under the heads—

(a).—Survey.

(b).—Record of rights.

(c).—Preparation and distribution of records.

These reports shall not form part of the record.

Applications by Proprietors for Survey and Record of Rights.

37. Section 103.—Applications under this section shall be made to the Collector of the district.

38. The application shall specify—

(a).—The status of the applicant, viz. whether he is a proprietor or a tenure-holder, and the particulars in respect of which the application is made.

(b).—The number of tenants (so far as the applicant is able to state it) occupying the estate or tenure, or part thereof in respect of which the application is made, the total rent payable by them at the time, and the estimated area covered by the application.

39. If the application is made by a proprietor, it shall not be admitted unless the name of the applicant and the extent of his interest are registered under Act VII (B.C.) of 1876.

40. On receipt of the application the Collector shall forward it to the Commissioner with any remarks which he may think necessary.

41. The Commissioner may call for further information, or may require the application to be amended.

42. If the Commissioner shall have reason to believe that the number of tenants affected by the application does not exceed 200, and that the rent payable by them at the time the application is made does not exceed Rs. 1,000, he shall pass an order allowing or rejecting the application; but otherwise he shall forward the application with an expression of his opinion for the orders of the Board of Revenue.

43. A Commissioner rejecting an application shall record his reasons for doing so, and the applicant, if dissatisfied with the order, may appeal within one month to the Board of Revenue.

44. When an application is referred to the Board under Rule 6, or in consequence of an appeal under Rule 7, the Board shall pass such orders as it may think fit for allowing or rejecting the application.

45. The Commissioner or the Board, as the case may be, when allowing an application shall specify the Revenue-officer or officers by whom the record is to be prepared.

46. As soon as an application is allowed, the Collector shall call upon the applicant to deposit the expenses at the rate of eight annas per acre for the estimated area in respect of which the application has been allowed. If the Collector is unable to estimate the area, he shall calculate the expenses at the rate of Rs. 2 per each tenant. If the amount does not exceed Rs. 500, the applicant must deposit the whole amount in advance. If it exceeds Rs. 500, the applicant shall deposit the sum of Rs. 500, and shall give such security as the Collector may require for the balance. The applicant shall from time to time deposit such further sum as may be necessary for carrying on the operations. On completion of the proceedings, any unexpended balance shall be refunded to the applicant.

17. In conducting the operations, the Revenue-officer shall proceed in accordance with the rules for the guidance of officers acting under orders made under section 101.

CHAPTER VII.—GENERAL SCALE OF FEES.

1. For service of Notices.—For the service of every notice under this Act directed to one or more persons residing in the same village, a process fee of 12 annas shall be levied.

2. Where notices are directed to several persons resident in different villages, a fee of 12 annas shall be levied for service in each village.

3. In addition to the above fee, the actual charge which must be incurred, if it is necessary to travel by railway or boat, or cross ferries, will be levied from and paid by the person at whose instance the process is issued before issue of the process. If a peon carries more than one process involving charges for railway-fare, boat-hire, &c., the sum leviable will be charged in equal shares upon all the processes so carried. The rates at which such boat-hire is to be charged shall be the same as those fixed for criminal processes under Rule VII of the rules prescribed by the High Court under clause 2, section 20, Act VII of 1870, and shall be sufficient only to cover, on the whole, the actual cost of hiring boats, or of such boat establishment as it may be necessary to maintain for the purpose of serving processes of these classes.

4. If a peon is detained at the place of service for more than 24 hours at the request of the person at whose instance the process was issued, or of his agent, such person or agent must then and there pay demurrage at the rate of 5 annas a day. Unless this demurrage is paid, the peon must decline to wait. No demurrage is to be charged if the delay was not due to the person requiring the process or to his agent.

5. For deposits of Rent.—For deposits of rent under section 61 (2), 4 annas for every such deposit of Rs. 25 or less, with an additional 4 annas for every Rs. 25 or part of Rs. 25 in excess: Provided that in no case shall the fee exceed the sum of Rs. 5.

6. For distraint of Crops.—The following scale of charges is prescribed on account of processes for distraint and sale under the Bengal Tenancy Act:—

(a).—In respect of the warrant of distraint—8 annas.

(b).—In respect of each man necessary to effect the distraint and also to ensure safe custody, where such man is to be left in actual possession—4 annas a day.

(c).—In respect of action taken under section 126 (clause 2) for the reaping, storing, or preservation of the crop distrained—4 annas a day for every person employed, and in addition actual hire of threshing floor or store-house, if necessary.

In addition to the charges under clauses (a), (b), and (c) above, railway-fare, boat-hire, and ferry charges will be levied when necessary as under Rule 3 of this Chapter.

NOTIFICATION.

The 4th November 1885.—Under section 392 of Act XIV of 1882, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following rules as to the persons to whom commissions shall be issued under the Bengal Tenancy Act :—

Whenever, under sections 31 (b) and 158 (2) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, a Court directs that a local enquiry be held under Chapter XXV of the Code of Civil Procedure, the commission shall be issued to such person, not being below the rank of an Assistant or Deputy Collector, as the Collector of the district may from time to time select for the purpose.

The Court shall issue a precept to the Collector, requiring him forthwith to nominate a fit person as above to conduct the enquiry, and the commission shall be issued to the person so nominated.

A. P. MACDONNELL,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION.

The 4th November 1885.—Under the powers conferred upon him by section 101 (1) of the Bengal Tenancy Act VIII of 1885, and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to order that a survey shall be made, and a record of rights prepared, in respect of all lands included within the external boundaries of pergunnah Gudesswar and Tuppehs Chukla Nye and Butsaleh in the district of Mozufferpore.

The particulars to be recorded in the survey and record of rights shall be the following :—

The name of each proprietor, with the character and extent of his interest.
The situation, quantity, and boundaries of proprietors' private lands, as defined in Chapter XI of the Act.
The name of each tenant.
The class to which he belongs : that is to say, whether he is a tenure-holder, raiyat holding at fixed rates. occupancy-raiyat, non-occupancy raiyat or under-raiyat, and, if he is a tenure-holder, whether he is a permanent tenure-holder or not, and whether his rent is liable to enhancement during the continuance of his tenure.
The situation, quantity, and boundaries of the land held by him.
The name of his landlord.
The rent payable.
The mode in which that rent has been fixed, whether by contract, by order of a Court, or otherwise.
If the rent is a gradually increasing rent, the time at which, and the steps by which, it increases.
The special conditions, and incidents, if any, of the tenancy.

A. P. MACDONNELL,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

REVENUE (FORESTS) DEPARTMENT.

The 30th October 1885.—Mr. C. A. G. Lillingston, Assistant Conservator of Forests, Palamow Forest sub-division, is allowed leave for six days, under sections 71 to 74, chapter V of the Civil Leave Code, in extension of the leave granted to him under orders of the 11th June 1885.

A. P. MACDONNELL,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION.

The 30th October 1885.—The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to declare, under the provisions of section 26 of the Indian Forest Act (VII of 1878), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, that the area specified below, which, in the notification of the 17th June 1881, published at page 629 of the Calcutta Gazette of the 22nd June 1881, was declared to be reserved forest under section 19 of that Act, as forming part of the reserved forest then so declared under the name of the "Teesta Chel Range," shall cease to be reserved forest from this date. The area in question is made over to the charge of the Deputy Commissioner of Darjeeling for settlement under orders of Government.

A piece of land measuring, more or less, 2 1 acres, demarcated by masonry pillars, separating it on all sides from the Leesh forest reserve, which forms part of the Chel Range, Teesta Forest sub-division, and is situated in the Dumsong sub-division of the Darjeeling district.

A. P. MACDONNELL,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION.

The 29th October 1885.—The following revised rules for the w rking of the Indian Treasure Trove Act (VI of 1878) have been approved by the Lieutenant-Governor, and are hereby published under section 19 of the said Act for general information, in modification of those published at page 1223 of the Calcutta Gazette of the 20th November 1878 :—

1. The notification under section 5 (a) shall be published at the Collector's cutcherry, sub-divisional cutcherry, Munsif's cutcherry and police station within the jurisdiction of which the treasure was found, and at some conspicuous spot in the village in which it was found.

2. On receipt of any application under section 4, or on receipt of information from any person other than the finder that treasure has been found, the Collector shall report the fact to the Commissioner, stating—

(1) name of finder;
(2) nature of treasure, and number of coins, if any;
(3) approximate value;
(4) date of finding;
(5) whether the treasure, being coin, has been acquired under section 16, or whether it is recommended that Government should acquire the treasure.

A copy of this report shall be sent to the Asiatic Society at Calcutta for information.

3. In the case of information being given by a person other than the finder, the Collector shall issue a notice under section 5 (b) of the Act on the person informed against to show cause why he should not be prosecuted for not giving the required notice; and in the event of no cause being shown, the Collector shall take such further action as may seem expedient.

4. All notices under section 5 shall be served at the cost of Government.

5. On receipt of the Collector's report, the Commissioner will, if he thinks the property ought to be acquired by Government, report the case for the orders of the Board of Revenue. This rule does not apply to cases where coins are the property found.

6. Collectors shall ordinarily acquire, under section 16 of the Act (without its being necessary for them to obtain the sanction of higher authority) the whole of any coins found, whether gold, silver, or copper, that appear to be old and not of British mintage.

Explanation.—These include coins struck at Calcutta, Moorshedabad, Benares, Surat, Arcot, in the name of Shah Alum, dated 19th Juloos.

7. If for any special reasons, such as the largeness of the quantity found, or the coins being known to be of merely metal value, the Collector considers it unnecessary to acquire the whole of the coins found, he shall, in the report mentioned in rule 2 above, state (sixthly) why he considers that the whole of the coins found need not be acquired on behalf of Government.

8. On receipt of the report, the Commissioner, if he thinks that the whole of the coins found should not be acquired, shall report the case for the orders of Government.

9. Coins acquired under section 16 of the Act shall be sent to the Asiatic Society at Calcutta, and the Society shall report to this Government the number and nature of the coins, and their probable numismatic value.

10. Collectors are empowered to purchase, otherwise than when proceeding under the provisions of the Treasure Trove Act, any coins of the age and description stated in rule 8 above, when they are less than Rs. 10 in value, on payment of a sum equal to the value of the materials of the coins, together with one-fifth of such value. Coins so purchased shall be treated in the manner described in the last section.

11. All fines levied under this Act shall be credited to Land Revenue, "Miscellaneous," and any treasure which vests in Government under section 20 or 21 shall, unless it be such as it is thought advisable for Government to retain, be sold by public auction to the highest bidder under the orders of the Commissioner, and the proceeds be credited to the above head.

12. All Commissioners and Collectors should append a paragraph to their land revenue annual reports stating whether any applications have been presented during the year under report under section 4, or any proceedings taken before the Magistrate under section 20 or 21, or under rule 10 above.

SUBMARINE TELEGRAPH ACT, 1885.

ARRANGEMENT OF SECTIONS.

[48 & 49 VICT. c. 49.]

An Act to carry into effect an International Convention for the Protection of Submarine Telegraph Cables. [6th August 1885.]

Be it enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows—

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as the "Submarine Telegraph Act, 1885"

Confirmation of Convention.

2. The Convention of the fourteenth of March one thousand eight hundred and eighty-four, mentioned in the schedule to this Act as set forth in that schedule, is hereby confirmed, and subject to the provisions of this Act, the articles of such Convention (referred to in this Act as the Convention) shall be of the same force as if they were enacted in the body of this Act.

Punishment for violation of Article two of Convention.

3. (1) A person shall not unlawfully and wilfully, or by culpable negligence, break or injure any submarine cable to which the Convention for the time being applies, in such manner as might interrupt or obstruct, in whole or in part, telegraphic communication.

(2) Any person who acts or attempts to act in contravention of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, and on conviction—

(a) if he acted wilfully, shall be liable to penal servitude for a term not exceeding five years, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding two years and to a fine, either in lieu of or in addition to such penal servitude or imprisonment; and

(b) if he acted by culpable negligence, shall be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, without hard labour, and to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, either in lieu of or in addition to such imprisonment.

(3) Where a person does any act with the object of preserving the life or limb of himself or of any other person, or of preserving the vessel to which he belongs or any other vessel, and takes all reasonable precautions to avoid injury to a submarine cable, such person shall not be deemed to have acted unlawfully and wilfully within the meaning of this section.

(4) A person shall not be deemed to have unlawfully and wilfully broken or injured any submarine cable, where in the bonâ fide attempt to repair another submarine cable injury has been done to such first-mentioned cable, or the same has been broken; but this shall not apply so as to exempt such person from any liability under this Act or otherwise to pay the cost of repairing such breakage or injury.

(5) Any person who within or (being a subject of Her Majesty) without Her Majesty's dominions in any manner procures, counsels, aids, abets, or is accessory to the commission of any offence under this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, and shall be liable to be tried and punished for the offence as if he had been guilty as a principal.

Limitation of Article four of Convention.

4. Article four of the schedule to this Act shall not apply to that part of a cable which is laid in a depth of water exceeding one hundred fathoms; but nothing in the Convention or this Act shall take away, prejudice, or affect any right or remedy to which by law any party is or may be entitled otherwise than under the provisions of the Convention or this Act.

Application of law as to lights and signals for carrying into effect Articles five and six of Convention.

5. (1) It is hereby declared that the enactments of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1862, and the enactments amending the same, touching regulations as to lights and to signals and for the avoiding of collisions, shall extend to authorise regulations for carrying into effect Articles five and six of the schedule to this Act, within as well as without the territorial waters of Her Majesty's dominions, and reglations may be made, applied, altered, and revoked, and the contravention thereof punished accordingly under the said enactments; and section six of the Sea Fisheries Act, 1883, shall extend to the enforcement of the said regulations as regards sea fishing boats within the limits of that Act.

(2) If any vessel engaged in the laying or repairing of a submarine cable to which the Convention for the time being applies, interferes contrary to the said regulations or articles with any vessel engaged in fishing, or if the operations of any vessel in connection with any such submarine cable are wilfully delayed so as to interfere with sea fishing, the master of the vessel, or the owner thereof, if it appear that he was in fault, shall be deemed guilty of a breach of the said regulations, and may be punished accordingly.

Powers of British and foreign officers.

6. (1) For the purpose of carrying into effect the Convention, a person commanding a ship of war of Her Majesty or of any foreign State for the time being bound by the Convention, or a ship specially commissioned for the purpose of the Convention by Her Majesty or by the Government of such foreign State, may exercise and perform the powers and duties vested in and imposed on such officer by any article in the schedule to this Act.

(2) If any person obstructs any such officer in such exercise or performance, or refuses or neglects to comply with any demand or direction lawfully made or given by him in pursuance of this Act, such person shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds, or to be imprisoned for a term not exceeding two months, with or without hard labour.

(3) Any action, prosecution or proceeding against any officer for any act done in pursuance or execution or intended execution of this Act, or in respect of any alleged neglect or default in the execution of this Act, shall not lie or be instituted unless it is commenced within twelve months next after the act, neglect or default complained of.

(4) In any such action tender of amends before the action was commenced may, in lieu of or in addition to any other plea, be pleaded. If the action was commenced after such tender, or is proceeded with after payment into court of any money in satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim, and the plaintiff does not recover more than the sum tendered or paid, he shall not recover any costs incurrd after such tender or payment, and the defendants shall be entitled to costs, to be taxed as between solicitor and client, as from the time of such tender or payment.

(5). Every such action shall be brought in one of Her Majesty's superior courts in the United Kingdom (which courts shall have jurisdiction to try the same wherever the matter complained of occurred) or in a supreme court in India or in a court exercising in a British possession the like authority as the High Court of Justice in England, but in no other court whatsoever.

Incorporation of Part X of 17 and 18 Vict. c. 104.

7. Part X of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854 (which relates to legal procedure), and the enactments amending the same, so far as unrepealed, shall have effect as if enacted in this Act; and offences under this Act may be tried, and fines under this Act recovered accordingly, save that nothing in the said Part shall authorise the award of any punishment not authorised by this Act, or the summary prosecution of any indictable offence under this Act.

Evidence.

8. (1) Any document drawn up in pursuance of Article seven or Article ten of the schedule to this Act shall be admissible in any proceeding, civil or criminal, as primâ facie evidence of the facts or matters therein stated.

(2) If evidence contained in any such document was taken on oath in the presence of the person charged in such evidence, and such person had an opportunity of cross-examining the person giving such evidence and of making his reply to such evidence, the officer drawing up such document may certify the said facts or any of them.

(3) Any document or certificate in this section mentioned purporting to be signed by an officer authorised to act under the schedule to this Act for carrying into effect the Convention, shall be admissible in evidence without proof of such signature, and, if purporting to be signed by any other person, shall, if certified by any such officer to have been so signed be deemed, until the contrary is proved, to have been signed by such other person.

(4) If any person forges the signature of any such officer to any such document as above mentioned, or makes use of any such document knowing the signature thereto to be forged, such person shall be guilty of a misdemeanour and liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months with or without hard labour, and on conviction on indictment to imprisonment with or without hard labour for a term not exceeding two years.

Liability of masters of vessels.

9. Where any offence against this Act has been committed by means of a vessel, or of any boat belonging to a vessel, the master of such vessel shall, until some other person is shewn to have been in charge of and navigating such vessel or boat, be deemed to have been in charge of and navigating the same, and be liable to be punished accordingly.

Savings.

10. The provisions of this Act shall be in addition to and not in derogation of any other provisions existing at common law or under Act of Parliament or under the law of a British possession for the protection of submarine cables; and nothing in this Act shall prevent any person being liable under any Act of Parliament, law of a British possession, or otherwise to any indictment, proceeding, punishment or penalty other than is provided for any offence by this Act, so that no person shall be punished twice for the same offence; and nothing in this Act, nor any proceedings with respect to any matter, shall exempt a person from any liability in any action or suit with reference to the same matter, so that no person shall be required to pay compensation twice in respect of the same injury.

Extent of Act.

11. This Act shall, so far as such extension is consistent with the tenor of this Act, extend to the whole of Her Majesty's dominions, and to all places within the jurisdiction of the Admiral of England and to all places where Her Majesty has jurisdiction.

Definitions.

12. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires—

The expression "vessel" means every description of vessel used in navigation, in whatever way it is propelled; and any reference to a vessel shall include a reference to a boat belonging to such vessel:

The expression "master" includes every person having command or charge of a vessel:

The expression "British possession" includes any part of Her Majesty's dominions exclusive of the United Kingdom:

The expression "person" includes a body of persons corporate or unincorporate.

Commencement and continuance of Act.

13. This Act shall come into force on such day as may be fixed by a notice in that behalf published in the London Gazette, and if the Convention ceases to be binding on Her Majesty, shall cease to be of any effect.

SCHEDULE.

SUBMARINE TELEGRAPHS CONVENTION.

CONVENTION for the preservation of telegraphic communications by means of submarine telegraphs made on the 14th of March 1884, between Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Empress of India, His Majesty the German Emperor, King of Prussia, His Excellency the President of the Argentine Confederation, His Majesty the Emperor of Austria, King of Bohemia, &c., and Apostolic King of Hungary, His Majesty the King of the Belgians, His Majesty the Emperor of Brazil, His Excellency the President of the Republic of Costa Rica, His Majesty the King of Denmark His Excellency the President of the Dominican Republic, His Majesty the King of Spain, His Excellency the President of the United States of America, His Excellency the President of the United States of Colombia, His Excellency the President of the French Republic, His Excellency the President of the Republic of Guatemala, His Majesty the King of the Hellenes, His Majesty the King of Italy, His Majesty the Emperor of the Ottomans, His Majesty the King of the Netherlands, Grand Duke of Luxemburg, His Majesty the Shah of Persia, His Majesty the King of Portugal and the Algarves, His Majesty the King of Roumania, His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russians, His Excellency the President of the Republic of Salvador, His Majesty the King of Servia, His Majesty the King of Sweden and of Norway, and His Excellency the President of the Oriental Republic of the Uruguay.

The following is an English translation of the Convention, with the ommission of the formal beginning and end—

ARTICLE I.

The present Convention applies outside territorial waters to all legally established submarine cables landed on the territories, colonies, or possessions of one or more of the High Contracting Parties.

ARTICLE II.

It is a punishable offence to break or injure a submarine cable, wilfully or by culpable negligence, in such manner as might interrupt or obstruct telegraphic communication, either wholly or partially, such punishment being without prejudice to any civil action for damages.

This provision does not apply to cases where those who break or injure a cable do so with the lawful object of saving their lives or their ship, after they have taken every necessary precaution to avoid so breaking or injuring the caole.

ARTICLE III.

The High Contracting Parties undertake that, on granting a concession for landing a submarine cable, they will insist, so far as possible, upon proper measures of safety being taken, both as regards the track of the cable and its dimensions.

ARTICLE IV.

The owner of a cable who, on laying or repairing his own cable, breaks or injures another cable, must bear the cost of repairing the breakage or injury, without prejudice to the application, if need be, of Article II of the present Convention.

ARTICLE V.

Vessels engaged in laying or repairing submarine cables shall conform to the regulations as to signals which have been, or may be, adopted by mutual agreement among the High Contracting Parties, with the view of preventing collisions at sea.

When a ship engaged in repairing a cable exhibits the said signals, other vessels which see them, or are able to see them, shall withdraw to or keeping beyond a distance of one nautical mile at least from the ship in question, so as not to interfere with her operations.

Fishing gear and nets shall be kept at the same distance.

Nevertheless, fishing vessels, which see or are able to see a telegraph ship exhibiting the said signals, shall be allowed a period of twenty-four hours at most within which to obey the notice so given, during which time they shall not be interfered with in any way.

The operations of the telegraph ships shall be completed as quickly as possible.

ARTICLE VI.

Vessels which see, or are able to see, the buoys showing the position of a cable when the latter is being laid, is out of order, or is broken shall keep beyond a distance of one-quarter of a nautical mile at least from the said buoys.

Fishing nets and gear shall be kept at the same distance.

ARTICLE VII.

Owners of ships, or vessels, who can prove that they have sacrificed an anchor, a net or other fishing gear in order to avoid injuring a submarine cable, shall receive compensation from the owner of the cable.

In order to establish a claim to such compensation, a statement, supported by the evidence of the crew, should, whenever possible, be drawn up immediately after the occurrence; and the master must, within twenty-four hours after his return to, or next putting into, port, make a declaration to the proper authorities.

The latter shall communicate the information to the Consular authorities of the country to which the owner of the cable belongs.

ARTICLE VIII.

The tribunals competent to take cognizance of infractions of the present Convention are those of the country to which the vessel on board of which the offence was committed belongs.

It is, moreover, understood that in cases where the provisions in the previous paragraph cannot apply, offences against the present Convention will be dealt with in each of the Contracting States in accordance, so far as the subjects and citizens of those States respectively are concerned, with the general rules of criminal jurisdiction prescribed by the laws of that particular State, or by international treaties.

ARTICLE IX.

Prosecution for infractions provided against by Articles II, V, and VI of the present Convention shall be instituted by the State, or in its name.

ARTICLE X.

Offences against the present Convention may be verified by all means of proof allowed by the legislation of the country of the court. When the officers commanding the ships of war, or ships specially commissioned for the purpose by one of the High Contracting Parties, have reason to believe that an infraction of the measures provided for in the present Convention has been committed by a vessel other than a vessel of war, they may demand from the captain or master the production of the official documents proving the nationality of the said vessel. The fact of such document having been exhibited shall then be endorsed upon it immediately. Further, formal statements of the facts may be prepared by the said officers, whatever may be the nationality of the vessel incriminated. These formal statements shall be drawn up in the form and in the language used in the country to which the officer making them belongs; they may be considered, in the country where they are adduced, as evidence in accordance with the laws of that country. The accused and the witnesses shall have the right to add, or to have added, thereto, in their own language, any explanations they may consider useful. These declarations shall be duly signed.

ARTICLE XI.

The proceedings and trial in cases of infraction of the provisions of the present Convention shall always take place as summarily as the laws and regulations in force will permit.

ARTICLE XII.

The High Contracting Parties engage to take or to propose to their respective Legislatures the necessary measures for insuring the execution of the present Convention, and especially for punishing, by either fine or imprisonment, or both, those who contravene the provisions of Articles II, V, and VI.

ARTICLE XIII.

The High Contracting Parties will communicate to each other laws already made, or which may hereafter be made, in their respective countries relating to the object of the present Convention.

ARTICLE XIV.

States which have not signed the present Convention may adhere to it on making a request to that effect. This adhesion shall be notified through the diplomatic channel to the Government of the French Republic, and by the latter to the other Signatory Powers.

ARTICLE XV.

It is understood that the stipulations of the present Convention do not in any way restrict the freedom of action of belligerents.

ARTICLE XVI.

The present Convention shall be brought into force on a day to be agreed upon by the High Contracting Powers.

It shall remain in force for five years from that day; and unless any of the High Contracting Parties have announced, twelve months before the expiration of the said period of five years, its intention to terminate its operation, it shall continue in force for a period of one year, and so on from year to year.

If one of the Signatory Powers denounce the Convention, such denunciation shall have effect only as regards that Power.

ARTICLE XVII.

The present Convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications exchanged at Paris with as little delay as possible. and, at the latest, at the expiration of a year.

ADDITIONAL ARTICLE.

The stipulations of the Convention concluded under to-day's date for the protection of submarine cables shall be applicable, in conformity with Article I, to the colonies and possessions of Her Britannic Majesty, with the exception of those hereinafter mentioned, namely—

Canada.	Victoria.
Newfoundland.	Queensland.
The Cape.	Tasmania.
Natal.	South Australia.
New South Wales.	Western Australia.

New Zealand.

Provided always that the stipulations of the said Convention shall be applicable to any of the above named colonies or possessions on whose behalf notice to that effect shall have been given by Her Britannic Majesty's representative at Paris to the French Minister for Foreign Affairs.

Each of the above named colonies or possessions which may have acceded to the said Convention shall be at liberty to withdraw from it in the same manner as the Powers parties to it. In the event of any of the said colonies or possessious desiring to withdraw from the Convention, a notification to that effect shall be made by Her Britannic Majesty's representative at Paris to the French Minister for Foreign Affairs.

EVIDENCE BY COMMISSION ACT, 1885.

[48 & 49 VICT. C. 74.]

An Act to amend the Law relating to taking Evidence by Commission in India and the Colonies and elsewhere in Her Majesty's Dominions. [14th August 1885.]

Be it enacted by the Queen's most excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows—

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as the Evidence by Commission Act, 1885.

Power to courts to nominate examiner in civil proceedings.

2. Where in any civil proceeding in any court of competent jurisdiction an order for the examination of any witness or person has been made, and a commission, mandamus, order, or request for the examination of such witness or person is addressed to any court, or to any judge of a court, in India or the colonies, or elsewhere in Her Majesty's dominions, beyond the jurisdiction of the court ordering the examination, it shall be lawful for such court, or the chief judge thereof, or such judge, to nominate some fit person to take such examination, and any deposition or examination taken before an examiner so nominated shall be admissible in evidence to the same extent as if it had been taken by or before such court or judge.

Power in criminal proceedings to nominate judge or magistrate to take depositions

3. Where in any criminal proceeding a mandamus or order for the examination of any witness or person is addressed to any court, or to any judge of a court, in India or the colonies, or elsewhere in Her Majesty's dominions, beyond the jurisdiction of the court ordering the examination, it shall be lawful for such court, or the chief judge thereof, or such judge, to nominate any judge of such court, or any judge of an inferior court, or magistrate within the jurisdiction of such first mentioned court, to take the examination of such witness or person, and any deposition or examination so taken shall be admissible in evidence to the same extent as if it had been taken by or before the court or judge to whom the mandamus or order was addressed.

Application of 22 Vict. c. 20, as to conduct money, &c., to proceedings under this Act.

4. The provisions of the Act passed in the twenty-second year of Her Majesty, chapter twenty, intituled "an Act to provide for taking evidence in suits and proceedings pending before tribunals in Her Majesty's dominions in places out of the jurisdiction of such tribunals" (which may be cited as the Evidence by Commission Act, 1859), as amended by this Act, shall apply to proceedings under this Act.

Amendment of 22 Vict. c. 20 as to costs.

5. The power to make rules conferred by section six of the Evidence by Commission Act, 1859, shal be deemed to include a power to make rules with regard to all costs of or incidental to the examination of any witness or person, including the remuneration of the examiner, if any, whether the examination be ordered pursuant to that Act or under this or any other Act for the time being in force relating to the examination of witnesses beyond the jurisdiction of the court ordering the examination.

Oath or affirmation of witness.

6. When, pursuant to any such commission, mandamus, order or request as in this Act referred to, any witness or person is to be examined in any place beyond the jurisdiction of the court ordering the examination, such witness or person may be examined on oath, affirmation or otherwise, according to the law in force in the place where the examination is taken; and any deposition or examination so taken shall be as effectual for all purposes as if the witness or person had been examined on oath before a person duly authorized to administer an oath in the court ordering the examination.

NOTIFICATION.

The 30*th October* 1885.—It is hereby notified for general information that the Lieutenant Governor has, under the powers vested in him by section 17, Act IV (B.C.) of 1876 prescribed the following revised rules for the election of Commissioners for the town of Calcutta—

Rule 1.—The next election of members of the Municipal Corporation of the town of Calcutta under the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, Act IV (B.C.) of 1876, shall be held on the 15th December 1885.

Rule 2.—Under section 18 of the Act, any person qualified to vote at an election, or to be elected as a Commissioner, may at any time, not being less than six weeks or more than three months before the election takes place, apply personally or by letter to the Chairman of the Commissioners for the registration of his name as such voter or person qualified for election, and shall at the same time name the ward or wards of the town in which he is entitled to vote. After the receipt and examination of all such applications, and at a date not less than one month before the election, a printed list of all persons qualified to vote or to be elected will be prepared and affixed by the Chairman of the Commissioners in some conspicuous place in or near his office, and at the police-station of each of the wards of the town, for general information, and such lists will be open to public inspection for fifteen days after the date of publication. In virtue of the authority conferred on the Chairman by the second paragraph of section 18 and section 19, Act IV of 1876, "the Chairman shall be at liberty at any time to revise the said list for the purpose of removing therefrom the name of any person not duly qualified and erroneously entered therein, or of recording the name of any person duly qualified and erroneously omitted therefrom."

Rule 3.—No person shall be qualified to vote at an election, or to be elected as a Commissioner, unless his name shall be registered as prescribed by section 18 or section 19 of the Act.

Rule 4.—The election shall be held at the stations hereinafter appointed for the respective wards, which are numbered and defined in the first schedule of the Act, that is to say—

Wards 1, 2, 3, at the Burtollah Police Section.
Wards 4, 5, 6, at the Jorasanko Police Section.
Wards 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, at the Town Hall.
Wards 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, at the Municipal Office.
Ward 18, at Hastings Police Section.

Rule 5.—The Municipal Commissioners shall appoint one or more polling officers to preside at each station, and may pay to each officer so appointed such reasonable remuneration for his services as they may think fit. Each polling officer so appointed shall keep order at his station, shall regulate the number of voters to be admitted at a time, and may exclude all other persons, except the clerks, the agents of the candidates and the constables on duty.

Rule 6.—Each polling officer shall be supplied by the Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners with a copy of so much of the register of the persons entitled to vote as may relate to the ward or wards for which such polling officer is appointed to take votes, and also with a copy of the register of persons qualified to be elected as Municipal Commissioners

Rule 7.—At a date not less than 21 days before the day fixed for taking the poll, the Chairman shall cause one voting paper in the form appended hereto to be posted at the General Post Office, Calcutta, to the address given in the registration form, or to any other address which the voter may have expressly asked to have substituted for that address.

Rule 8.—The signature of the Chairman shall be stamped under his supervision on each part of each voting paper before the same is issued by him, and votes given on any other than the official paper shall be invalid.

Rule 9.—The voter on receipt of this voting paper may—

(1)—Return it by post duly filled up to the Municipal Office in a closed cover marked "voting paper———Ward No——," or

(2)—Return it by hand to the Municipal Office in a closed cover marked "voting paper——Ward No——," or

(3)—Present it himself at the polling station on the day of the poll, or

(4)—Entrust the whole or any part of such paper, containing one or more complete votes, to any person whom he may select for delivery at the polling station on the day of the poll

Rule 10.—All polling papers received at the office in accordance with clause (1) or (2) of Rule 9 will be made over unopened to the polling officers, to be opened by them publicly at the polling station on the day and at the time of the poll.

Rule 11.—Should any cover not marked "voting paper Ward No——" be received in the Municipal Office, and on being opened be found to contain a voting paper otherwise in due order, the Secretary of the Corporation shall at once enclose such paper in a cover and mark it with the ward to which it belongs, and shall forward it to the polling officer on the day of the poll as above.

Rule 12.—Any voter who, owing to miscarriage of the post-office or other mishap, may not have received his voting paper by the 14th day before the poll, may apply at the municipal office personally or by agent, putting in a written statement that he has not received any voting paper. In cases where the application is made by a voter personally, a voting paper marked "duplicate" shall be delivered to him at the municipal office; but where the application is made through an agent, a voting paper marked "duplicate" shall be posted to the address of the voter in the manner prescribed by Rule 7. A voter, on receipt of such duplicate paper, may deal with it as an original voting paper under the provisions of Rule 9.

Rule 13.—When on the application of a voter under Rule 12, a duplicate voting paper is issued by the municipal office, such voter shall give his votes on the duplicate paper and no vote given on his original voting paper shall be counted or received as a valid vote, Provided that nothing herein contained shall prevent such voter from appearing and recording his votes at the polling station under the provisions of the next succeeding rule.

Rule 14.—Voting papers on different coloured paper from the original and duplicate papers referred to above shall be provided at all polling stations at the time of the poll, and any voter who has not already voted, or who may wish to cancel his previous votes, may, notwithstanding that he has already filled up an original or a duplicate voting paper, appear at the poll and fill up a paper in the presence of the polling officer, and such vote or votes shall alone be held valid and shall cancel all previous votes.

Rule 15.—All persons qualified to vote, who are able to read and write, should in their own handwriting put down the names of the candidates for whom they desire to vote. In case a voter is unable to write, he shall, if he is desirous of voting, appear personally at the polling station and present his voting paper to the polling officer, who shall sign for him and put down the names of the candidates for whom he is desirous of voting, and in such case the polling officer shall put down his own signature underneath the name of the voter.

Rule 16.—No municipal officer or employé, or official subordinate of such officer or employé, shall, directly or indirectly engage himself in canvassing for votes or otherwise assisting in the election of any candidate save by giving his own vote. Any breach of this rule will render him liable to dismissal.

Rule 17.—On the day fixed for the election, the polling shall commence at 9 A.M. and shall close at 6 P.M. precisely, and each voter shall, as prescribed in Rule 9, present or forward in a sealed cover his voting paper, with the name of the person, or names of the persons, for whom he desires to vote, and with all particulars duly filled in.

Rule 18.—In all cases where, in accordance with Rule 15, the existing papers are signed and filled up in any language other than English, the name of the voter and of the persons for whom he votes shall also be entered in English.

Rule 19.—On the presentation of each voting paper, the polling officer shall forthwith note on the back of each voting paper whether it was presented by the elector in person and, if not, the name in full and residence of person presenting it.

Rule 20.—If the voting paper is not in accordance with rules 8, 15, and 18, the polling officer shall receive the votes under objection, and shall record the objection on the back of the voting paper

Rule 21.—The polling officer shall satisfy himself that the voter and the person for whom he votes are entered in the printed lists referred to in Rule 3 He shall then note off against the elector's name the fact of the vote or votes and the person or persons for whom the vote or votes have been given. In case the polling officer, on coming afterwards to note off a later vote or votes from the same elector, find that a second voting paper has been used, he shall note the objection and forward the papers to the Chairman for action in accordance with Rule 13 or 14 as the case may be.

Rule 22.—After noting the above information, the polling officer shall attach a consecutive number to each voting paper, and shall, under the said number, affix his signature. The polling officer shall then read out in a loud voice, three times, the name and residence of the elector, and the names and residences of the person or persons for whom he votes.

Rule 23.—Up to the close of the poll, as provided for in Rule 17, any person present at the polling station shall be at liberty to object to any voter or intending voter on any of the grounds indicated in the above rules.

Rule 24.—If any objection authorized by the next preceding rule shall be made to any voter, the polling officer shall, on the back of the voting paper, record the name and residence of objector and the nature of objection, and shall direct, verbally or by letter, the objector and the voter to appear within three days from the day of the election before the Chairman of the Commissioners, and the decision of the Chairman of the Commissioners, made after due enquiry into the objection, shall be final.

Rule 25.—At the close of the poll, the polling officer shall forward all the voting papers, arranged according to their consecutive numbers, in a packet duly sealed and secured, to the Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners.

Rule 26.—The polling officer shall, at the close of the day, transmit to the Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners a list of the objections taken by him under Rules 20 and 21, or admitted by him under Rule 23, and the said Chairman shall, after hearing and deciding upon all such objections, make lists of the votes given in each ward, and shall record the same in his office.

Rule 27.—The Chairman of the Municipal Commissioners shall with all reasonable despatch, after the election, publish in the Calcutta Gazette and at the Municipal Office the names of the persons in whose behalf votes have been recorded and the number of votes given for them respectively; and the candidates for whom the greatest number of votes shall have been given in each ward shall, in the proportion assigned by Act IV (B.C.) of 1876 to the respective wards, be deemed to have been elected members of the Corporation for the said wards accordingly.

WARD No.——————POLICE SECTION.

————Municipal Commissioners are to be elected for this Ward. Each Elector has votes, and may give all his votes to one candidate or may divide his votes amongst the candidates. A separate vote must be recorded on each portion of this paper.

N.B.—Poll for this Ward will take place at ———— on ———— 188 , and this voting paper must be delivered there on that date between the hours of 9 A.M. and 6 P.M., or, as provided for in Rule 9, be previously sent under a closed cover marked "Voting paper, Ward No. ," to the office of the Municipal Commissioners.

The attention of voters is directed to Rules 15 and 18, which are as follows—

RULE 15.—All persons qualified to vote, who are able to read and write, should in their own handwriting put down the names of the candidates for whom they desire to vote. In case a voter is unable to write, he shall, if he is desirous of voting, appear personally at the polling station and present his voting paper to the polling officer, who shall sign for him and put down the names of the candidates for whom he is desirous of voting, and in such case the polling officer shall put down his own signature underneath the name of the voter.

RULE 18.—In all cases where, in accordance with Rule 15, the existing papers are signed and filled up in any language other than English, the name of the voter and of the persons for whom he votes shall also be entered in English.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication]

The following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th October, 1885, and is hereby promulgated for general information.—

ACT No. XVIII OF 1885.

THE LAND ACQUISITION (MINES) ACT, 1885.

CONTENTS.

SECTIONS.

An Act to provide for cases in which Mines or Minerals are situate under land which it is desired to acquire under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for cases in which mines or minerals are situate under land which it is desired to acquire under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, commencement and local extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Land Acquisition (Mines) Act, 1885; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

(3) It extends in the first instance to the territories administered by the Governor of Madras in Council and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, but any other Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend this Act to the whole or any specified part of the territories under its administration.

Saving for mineral rights of the Government.

2. Except as expressly provided by this Act, nothing in this Act shall affect the right of the Government to any mines or minerals.

Declaration that mines are not needed.

3 (1) When the Local Government makes a declaration under section 6 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, that land is needed for a public purpose or for a Company, it may, if it thinks fit, insert in the declaration a statement that the mines of coal, iron-stone, slate or other minerals lying under the land or any particular portion of the land, except only such parts of the mines or minerals as it may be necessary to dig or carry away or use in the construction of the work for the purpose of which the land is being acquired, are not needed.

(2) When a statement as aforesaid has not been inserted in the declaration made in respect of any land under section 6 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, and the Collector is of opinion that the provisions of this Act ought to be applied to the land, he may abstain from tendering compensation under section 11 of the said Land Acquisition Act in respect of the mines, and may—

(a) when he makes an award under section 11 of that Act, insert such a statement in his award;

(b) when he makes a reference to the Court under section 15 of that Act, insert such a statement in his reference; or

(c) when he takes possession of the land under section 17 of that Act, publish such a statement in such manner as the Governor-General in Council may, from time to time, prescribe.

(3) If any such statement is inserted in the declaration, award or reference, or published as aforesaid, the mines of coal, iron-stone, slate or other minerals under the land or portion of the land specified in the statement, except as aforesaid, shall not vest in the Government when the land so vests under the said Act.

The Land Acquisition (Mines) Act, 1885.—(Sections 4-10.)

Notice to be given before working mines lying under land

4. If the person for the time being immediately entitled to work or get any mines or minerals lying under any land so acquired is desirous of working or getting the same, he shall give the Local Government notice in writing of his intention so to do sixty days before the commencement of working.

Power to prevent or restrict working.

5. (1) At any time or times after the receipt of a notice under the last foregoing section, and whether before or after the expiration of the said period of sixty days, the Local Government may cause the mines or minerals to be inspected by a person appointed by it for the purpose; and

(2) If it appears to the Local Government that the working or getting of the mines or minerals, or any part thereof, is likely to cause damage to the surface of the land or any works thereon, the Local Government may publish, in such manner as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, direct, a declaration of its willingness either—

(a) to pay compensation for the mines or minerals still unworked or ungotten, or that part thereof, to all persons having an interest in the same; or

(b) to pay compensation to all such persons in consideration of those mines or minerals, or that part thereof, being worked or gotten in such manner and subject to such restrictions as the Local Government may in its declaration specify.

(3) If the declaration mentioned in case (a) is made, then those mines or minerals, or that part thereof, shall not thereafter be worked or gotten by any person.

(4) If the declaration mentioned in case (b) is made, then those mines or minerals, or that part thereof, shall not thereafter be worked or gotten by any person save in the manner and subject to the restrictions specified by the Local Government.

Mode of determining persons interested and amount of compensation.

6. When the working or getting of any mines or minerals has been prevented or restricted under section 5, the persons interested in those mines or minerals and the amounts of compensation payable to them respectively shall, subject to all necessary modifications, be ascertained in the manner provided by the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, for ascertaining the persons interested in the land to be acquired under that Act, and the amounts of compensation payable to them, respectively.

If Local Government does not offer to pay compensation, mines may be worked in a proper manner.

7. (1) If before the expiration of the said sixty days the Local Government does not publish a declaration as provided in section 5, the owner, lessee or occupier of the mines may, unless and until such a declaration is subsequently made, work the mines or any part thereof in a manner proper and necessary for the beneficial working thereof, and according to the usual manner of working such mines in the local area where the same are situate.

(2) If any damage or obstruction is caused to the surface of the land or any works thereon by improper working of the mines, the owner, lessee or occupier of the mines shall at once, at his own expense, repair the damage or remove the obstruction, as the case may require.

(3) If the repair or removal is not at once effected, or, if the Local Government so thinks fit, without waiting for the same to be effected by the owner, lessee or occupier, the Local Government may execute the same and recover from the owner, lessee or occupier the expense occasioned thereby.

Mining communications.

8. If the working of any mines is prevented or restricted under section 5, the respective owners, lessees and occupiers of the mines, if their mines extend so as to lie on both sides of the mines the working of which is prevented or restricted, may cut and make such and so many airways, headways, gateways or water-levels through the mines, measures or strata, the working whereof is prevented or restricted, as may be requisite to enable them to ventilate, drain and work their said mines; but no such airway, headway, gateway or water-level shall be of greater dimensions or section than may be prescribed by the Governor General in Council in this behalf, and, where no dimensions are so prescribed, not greater than eight feet wide and eight feet high, nor shall the same be cut or made upon any part of the surface or works, or so as to injure the same, or to interfere with the use thereof.

Local Government to pay compensation for injury done to mines.

9. The Local Government shall, from time to time, pay to the owner, lessee or occupier of any such mines extending so as to lie on both sides of the mines, the working of which is prevented or restricted, all such additional expenses and losses as may be incurred by him by reason of the severance of the lands lying over those mines or of the continuous working of those mines being interrupted as aforesaid, or by reason of the same being worked in such manner and under such restrictions as not to prejudice or injure the surface or works, and for any minerals not acquired by the Local Government which cannot be obtained by reason of the action taken under the foregoing sections; and if any dispute or question arises between the Local Government and the owner, lessee or occupier as aforesaid, touching the amount of those losses or expenses, the same shall be settled as nearly as may be in the manner provided for the settlement of questions touching the amount of compensation payable under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870.

And also for injury arising from any airway or other work.

10. If any loss or damage is sustained by the owner or occupier of the lands lying over any such mines, the working whereof has been so prevented or restricted as aforesaid (and not being the owner, lessee or occupier of those mines), by reason of the making of any such airway or other works as aforesaid, which or any like work it would not have been necessary to make but for the working of the mines having been so prevented or restricted as aforesaid, the Local Government shall pay full compensation to that owner or occupier of the surface lands for the loss or damage so sustained by him.

Power to officer of Local Government to enter and inspect the working of mines.

11. For better ascertaining whether any mines lying under land acquired in accordance with the provisions of this Act are being worked, or have been worked, or are likely to be worked so as to damage the land or the works thereon, an officer appointed for this purpose by the Local Government may, after giving twenty-four hours' notice in writing, enter into and return from any such mines or the works connected therewith; and for that purpose the officer so appointed may make use of any apparatus or machinery belonging to the owner, lessee or occupier of the mines, and use all necessary means for discovering the distance from any part of the land acquired to the parts of the mines which have been, are being, or are about to be worked.

Penalty for refusal to allow inspection.

12. If any owner, lessee or occupier of any such mines or works refuses to allow any officer appointed by the Local Government for that purpose to enter into and inspect any such mines or works in manner aforesaid, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

If mines worked contrary to provisions of this Act, Local Government may require means to be adopted for safety of land acquired.

13. If it appears that any such mines have been worked contrary to the provisions of this Act, the Local Government may, if it thinks fit, give notice to the owner, lessee or occupier thereof to construct such works and to adopt such means as may be necessary or proper for making safe the land acquired, and the works thereon, and preventing injury thereto; and, if after such notice, any such owner, lessee or occupier does not forthwith proceed to construct the works necessary for making safe the land acquired and the works thereon, the Local Government may itself construct the works and recover the expense thereof from the owner, lessee or occupier.

Construction of Act when land acquired has been transferred to a local authority or Company.

14. When a statement under section 3 has been made regarding any land, and the land has been acquired by the Government, and has been transferred to or has vested by operation of law in a local authority or Company, then sections 4 to 13, both inclusive, shall be read as if for the words "the Local Government" wherever they occur in those sections the words "the local authority or Company, as the case may be, which has acquired the land" were substituted.

Pending cases.

15. (1) This Act shall apply to any land for the acquisition whereof proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, are pending at the time when this Act comes into force, unless before that time the Collector has made, in respect of the land, an award under section 14 or a reference to the Court under section 15 of that Act, or has taken possession of the land under section 17 of the same. X of 1870.

(2) When the Collector has before the said time made an award or reference in respect of any such land or taken possession thereof as aforesaid, and all the persons interested in the land, or entitled under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, to act for persons so interested, who have attended or may attend in the course of the proceedings under sections 11 to 15, both inclusive, of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, consent in writing to the application of this Act to the land, the Collector may by an order in writing direct that it shall apply, and thereupon it shall be deemed to have applied from the commencement of the proceedings; and the Collector shall be deemed, as the case may be, to have inserted in his award or reference, or to have published in the prescribed manner, when he took possession, the statement mentioned in section 3 of this Act. X of 1870. X of 1870.

Definition of local authority and Company.

16. In this Act—

(a) "local authority" means any municipal committee, district board, body of port commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of any municipal or local fund; and

(b) "Company" means a Company registered under any of the enactments relating to Companies from time to time in force in British India, or formed in pursuance of an Act of Parliament or by Royal Charter or Letters Patent.

This Act to be read with Land Acquisition Act, 1870.

17. This Act shall, for the purposes of all enactments for the time being in force, be read with and taken as part of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870. X of 1870.

2. Some of the Local Governments have objected to the Bill being applied to the provinces under their administration on the ground that, having regard to the manner in which the right to minerals is regulated in those provinces, it is unnecessary there, and that, if unnecessary, it would only prove an encumbrance and complication in the acquisition of lands. To meet these objections we have made the measure applicable by its own vigour only to the territories under the administration of the Governor of Madras in Council and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, but have empowered the remaining Local Governments to extend it to the whole or any part of the territories administered by them if they think fit.

3. An apprehension has been expressed in some of the opinions received that the Bill might by implication affect the rights which the Crown has to all minerals throughout a very large portion of this country. Such an apprehension is, we believe, unfounded, but by way of greater precaution and to prevent misapprehension we have inserted a section (2) saving the rights of the Crown.

4. Section 2 of the Bill as introduced required the Government to determine, before it issued its declaration under section 6 of the Land Acquisition Act, whether the land should be acquired simply under that Act, that is to say, including the minerals, or whether the special provisions of this Bill should be put in force with a view to excluding the minerals from the acquisition.

It has been represented that it is not for the interest of any of those concerned that an irrevocable determination should necessarily be come to on so important a point at a stage of the proceedings when the circumstances of the case would in all probability be imperfectly known. The Government, it will be observed on reference to the Land Acquisition Act, has a discretion to withdraw from a proposed acquisition of land up to a considerably later stage, and it seems but reasonable that it should have a discretion to exclude the minerals from the acquisition at any time up to the same stage if it turns out that their acquisition is not essential to the undertaking, and that either the owners are unwilling to part with them or the Government or the local authority or Company concerned is unwilling to pay their full value. We have accordingly (in section 3) empowered the Collector, who in such a matter would, of course, act under the control of the Government, to exclude the minerals from the acquisition at any time up to the stage of the proceedings at which the land vests, and it is no longer in the discretion of the Government to recede from the transaction.

5. It has been urged that the notice of thirty days to be given to the Government, under section 3 of the Bill as introduced, by a mine-owner desiring to work his mines is too short having regard to the delays in communication in this country. We think the objection is reasonable, and we have accordingly (in section 4 of the amended Bill) extended the period to sixty days.

6. It has been held by the House of Lords in an important case (Dixon v. The Caledonian Railway Co., 5 App. Ca. 820) that when a mine-owner gives notice under section 78 of the Railways Clauses Act, 1845, of his intention to work minerals, the Railway Company is not, for the purpose of giving its counter-notice to stop or control the working, limited to the thirty days for which the mine-owner's notice runs, that the period of thirty days is merely prescribed as a period until the expiration of which the mine-owner is debarred from working, and that the Company can at any time give its counter-notice, though of course if given at any time after the thirty days had expired and the workings had been commenced it would have no effect except as regards the further progress of the workings. The opposite view, as was pointed out by their Lordships, would involve somewhat serious consequences, and it is obviously necessary that there should be no mistake as to the effect of the Bill in this respect. It would doubtless have been sufficient, so far as regards the ultimate result, if we followed the exact wording of the English Act, on the main lines of which we are proceeding throughout. The highest Courts in this country would, as a matter of course, follow the decision of the House of Lords, but it is to be apprehended that inferior authorities might in many cases be ignorant of that decision, and might mistake the effect of the wording of the English Act, which it must be admitted is by no means clear. We have therefore thought it safer to amend the sections concerned in such a manner that they will in a clear and unmistakeable way express the effect of the English Act as construed by the House of Lords.

7. Another important English decision which points to an amendment of the Bill is that in Smith v. Great Western Railway Co. (2 Ch. D. 235), and in appeal before the House of Lords, 3 App. Ca. 165). We may have, under a Bill of this sort, a state of things to deal with, of which that case affords an illustration, where one person holding under a terminable lease has an immediate right to work the minerals, and another person is entitled to the reversion on the expiration of the lease and perhaps to a rent or royalty during its continuance. The lease may or may not be of such a length as to admit of all the minerals being worked out during its continuance, and it may or may not be liable to be put an end to by forfeiture or otherwise before the expiration of its term. The provisions of the English Act, which deal specially with the subject now before us, and which have been incorporated in this Bill, were found inadequate to provide for the exigencies of such a state of things as that referred to. They probably contemplate a settlement only with the person immediately entitled to work the mines, and, in order to provide for the case of a reversioner or other person interested, it was found necessary to call in the aid of a general provision of the law which would be out of place in a Bill like this.

It appears to us that the simplest mode of dealing with the various interests that may co-exist in the mines is to require, in accordance with the scheme of the Land Acquisition Act, that they should all, whether present or future, be considered and compensated for simultaneously, whenever the owner of the surface has occasion to exercise his power of stopping or controlling the working.

We have accordingly provided in effect that where the person immediately entitled to work the mines intimates to the owner of the surface his intention to work them, and the latter after that determines to stop or control the working, the settlement of compensation must extend to all persons interested in the mines, and the stoppage or control will be binding in perpetuity on all alike.

8. We have introduced three new sections (8, 9 and 10), corresponding to sections 80, 81 and 82 of the Railways Clauses Act, 1845. We question whether the object of these sections would not have been otherwise attained through the medium of the Land Acquisition Act, the provisions of which were made applicable by section 6 of the Bill as introduced; but as importance appeared to be attached to them in the memorial of the Coal Companies, we have thought it better to remove all doubt by including them. They will doubtless overlap section 6 of the Bill, but no practical harm will result from this.

9. An objection has been taken in some quarters to section 11 of the Bill as introduced (now section 14), which in effect gives to certain Companies the powers conferred on the Local Government by some of the foregoing provisions of the Bill. It appears to be overlooked that the section in question can apply only to Companies established for such purposes and occupying such a position from a public point of view as would warrant the Government in acquiring land on their behalf. In particular it is provided, by sections 48 and 49 of the Land Acquisition Act, that land hall not be acquired for a Company under that Act unless it is needed for a work likely to prove useful to the public, and the Company enters into an agreement with the Government settling, among other matters, the time within which and the conditions on which the work shall be executed and maintained and the terms on which the public shall be entitled to use it.

10. We may further observe that there appears from some of the papers considered by us to be a certain amount of misapprehension as to the nature of the powers referred to.

If the Local Government or the Company exercising the powers of the Local Government neglects to come to terms with the mine-owner on his giving notice of his intention to work, it does so at the risk of its property. If, considering that the mine-owner is working improperly, it takes steps under section 7 (new numbering) to remedy the mischief with a view to charging the mine-owner with the cost, it does so at the risk of losing its money and of incurring serious legal consequences if the Court before which the case may ultimately come takes a different view of the matter. Similarly, if it considers that the mines are being worked contrary to the provisions of the Act and proceeds to take steps under section 13 (new numbering), it still acts at its own risk, for it is by no means certain that it will appear to the Court that the mines were being so worked.

Thus the powers in question are very far from being so formidable as has been supposed, and we may add that they are framed as closely as possible on the lines of those conferred by Parliament on Railway Companies in England, the substance of which seems generally to have met with approval.

11. We have placed "local authorities" on a footing similar to that of Companies, as in many recent Acts the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act have been made applicable for the purpose of acquiring land for such authorities.

12. We are informed that there are certain land acquisition cases pending at this moment in Bengal, which have already proceeded beyond the stage at which the provisions of this measure would in its ordinary course be applicable to them, but in which it may nevertheless be thought desirable to have the benefit of it. To meet this, we have inserted a clause (15 (2)) which will admit of the Bill being applied in such cases if those concerned unanimously desire that it should.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th October, 1885, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT NO. XIX OF 1885.

An Act to amend the law relating to Government Securities.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to Government securities in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Securities Act, 1885; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Definitions.

2. In this Act—

The expression "Government security" includes promissory notes, debentures, stock certificates, and all other securities issued by the Government of India or by any Local Government in respect of any loan issued under notification in the official Gazette, whether before or after the passing of this Act, but does not include a stock note or a currency note: and

"prescribed" means prescribed by rules made from time to time by the Governor General in Council in this behalf.

Right of survivors of joint payees of Government securities.

3. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Contract Act, section 45, when a Government security issued before the first day of April, 1886, is payable to two or more persons jointly and any of them dies, the security shall be payable to the survivor or survivors of those persons.

(2) Nothing herein contained shall affect any claim which the representative of the deceased person may have against the survivor or survivors in respect of the security jointly payable to them and the deceased.

(3) This section shall apply whether the death of the person to whom the security was jointly payable occurred or occurs before or after this Act comes into force.

Issue of renewed securities.

4. A person claiming to be entitled to a Government security as payable to him under an endorsement may, on satisfying the prescribed officer of the justice of his claim and paying the prescribed fee and delivering the security duly receipted to the prescribed officer, obtain from the officer a renewed security issued payable to himself.

Issue of duplicate securities.

5. (1) When a Government security is alleged to have been wholly or partly lost or destroyed, and a person claims to be the person to whom but for such loss or destruction it would be payable, he may, on application to the prescribed officer, and on producing proof to his satisfaction of the loss or destruction and of the justice of the claim, obtain from him an order for—

(a) the payment of interest in respect of the security said to be lost or destroyed pending the issue of a duplicate security; and

(b) the issue of a duplicate security payable to the applicant.

(2) An order shall not be passed under sub-section (1) until after the issue of the prescribed notification of the loss or destruction and after the expiration of the prescribed period, nor until the applicant has given the prescribed indemnity against the claims of all persons deriving title under the security lost or destroyed.

(3) A list of the securities in respect of which an order is passed under sub-section (1) shall be published in the Gazette of India at such times as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, direct.

Period after which Government is released from liability in respect of original security.

6. When a renewed security has been issued under section 4, or a duplicate security has been issued under section 5, the Government shall be discharged of all liability in respect of the original security of which such renewed or duplicate security has been issued—

(a) in the case of a renewed security, after the lapse of six years from the date of the issue of the renewed security;

(b) in the case of a duplicate security, after the lapse of six years from the date of the publication under section 5, sub-section (3), of the list in which the security is first mentioned, or from the date of the last payment of interest on the original security, whichever date is latest.

Power of Governor-General in Council to make rules.

7. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules to prescribe—

(a) the fees to be paid for applications under sections 4 and 5;

(b) the form in which securities delivered for renewal are to be receipted;

(c) the officer who is to exercise all or any of the powers and perform all or any of the duties prescribed by sections 4 and 5;

(d) the proof which is to be produced by persons applying for duplicate securities;

(e) the form and mode of publication of the notification mentioned in section 5, and the period after which interest may be paid or a duplicate security may be issued under that section;

(f) the nature and amount of the indemnity to be given by a person applying under section 5 for the payment of interest or the issue of a duplicate security; and

(g) generally all matters connected with the grant of renewed and duplicate securities.

Publication of drafts and rules.

8. (1) The Governor General in Council shall, before making rules under the last foregoing section, publish a draft of the proposed rules in such manner as may, in his opinion, be sufficient for the information of the public.

(2) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Governor General in Council shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(4) Every rule made under the last foregoing section shall be published in the Gazette of India, and the publication in the Gazette of India of a rule purporting to be made under that section shall be conclusive evidence that it has been duly made.

2. The only substantive alteration we have made in the Bill is in section 3, which, in cases in which one of a number of joint-holders of a Government security dies, applies what we may term the rule of survivorship as opposed to the rule of representation laid down by section 45 of the Indian Contract Act. The reasons which led to the insertion of this provision are fully set forth in the Statement of Objects and Reasons: but we find that a considerable difference of opinion exists regarding it.

3. On the one hand, it is urged, among others, by so high an authority as the Advocate General of Bengal, that this provision should be generalized and extended to other classes of obligations besides those arising on Government securities.

On the other hand, it is argued in several of the papers that the rule of survivorship as applied to instruments of the description in question is one that does not fit in with the habits and ideas of certain classes of the Native population, and might, if extended to those classes as an absolutely binding rule, open a door to the perpetration of frauds.

The question thus raised is of considerable importance and difficulty. We do not think that we should be justified in entering fully upon it here in the absence of those members of the Council most competent to advise on legal and commercial matters, and we accordingly propose, with a view to avoiding it as far as possible, to confine the section to Government securities already issued, or which may be issued before the 1st of April next.

4. As regards securities already issued, the law must be settled without any further delay, the delay which has taken place in obtaining opinions on the Bill having already led to considerable public inconvenience. Moreover, as it is impracticable to make any distinctions among those securities, one and the same rule must be laid down for all, and it is clear that that rule must be the rule of survivorship. The rule of survivorship has hitherto been applied to them, as well after the passing of the Contract Act as before, subject at most to rare exceptions or qualifications. It is the rule that is most suitable to the great majority of those who hold those securities, and if in exceptional cases it should be found to be less suitable it must be remembered that those securities have been issued under a system which contemplated its application.

5. On the other hand, there is no necessity to settle the question at this moment as regards securities to be issued for all time to come, especially as a simple mode of providing, without the aid of the legislature, for securities to be hereafter issued has been proposed.

It has been suggested that it could be so arranged in the Loan Department of the Government that it should be in the option of persons, in whose favour securities are first issued or to whom they are subsequently transferred by endorsement, either to take them simply in their several names, that is to say, in favour, e.g., of "A, B & C," without qualification, in which case the rule of the Contract Act would apply, or to take them under words giving a right of survivorship, as, e.g., in favour of "A, B & C, and the survivor or survivors of them," in which case we are advised the rule of the Contract Act would be excluded and the rule of survivorship would apply. This, it has been argued, would be likely to afford a more satisfactory solution of the difficulty as regards securities to be hereafter issued than any enactment establishing either the rule of survivorship or that of representation in a hard-and-fast manner, as it would leave it open to all concerned to adopt for themselves the rule best adapted to their requirements.

It is urged, on the other hand, that the requirements of the new system would be likely for some time to be overlooked, and that considerable hardship and inconvenience would thus result, but this danger might perhaps be averted by some device such as that of a warning enfaced on the security in such a way as to attract attention.

We do not, however, recommend that any determination should be arrived at on this matter until it has undergone the fullest discussion. It will doubtless be settled during the course of the Calcutta Session, and we think that we are acting most in accord with the balance of convenience, and so as to occasion the least amount of disturbance in existing relations, by recommending that as regards securities issued meantime, i.e., say up to the 1st of April next, the law should be placed on the same footing as for securities already issued, that is to say, that the rule of survivorship should apply.

6. The remaining changes which we have made in the Bill, being confined to matters of form or drafting, do not call for special notice. We may, however, mention that we have introduced words in the definition of "Government security" to make it clear that the Bill does not apply to stock notes or currency notes—classes of securities to which, as they are otherwise provided for, it was never intended to apply.

The following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th October, 1885, and is hereby promulgated for general information:—

ACT No. XX OF 1885.

An Act to postpone for a limited time the operation of certain provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885.

WHEREAS it is provided by the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, that that Act shall come into force on such date as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, may, by notification in the local official Gazette, appoint in this behalf;

And whereas, in exercise of the power thus conferred, the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, has, by a notification in the local official Gazette, appointed the first day of November, 1885, as the date on which the said Act is to come into force;

And whereas it is convenient that certain portions of the said Act relating to deposits of rent and distraint should not come into force until a later date;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Postponement of operation of deposit and distraint provisions.

1. Notwithstanding anything contained in the said notification—

(a) the provisions of sections 61 to 64, both inclusive, and of Chapter XII, of the said Act, except such of those provisions as confer powers to make rules, shall come into force on such date, not later than the first day of February, 1886, as the Local Government, after the passing of this Act may, by notification in the local official Gazette, appoint in this behalf, or, if no date is so appointed, on the first day of February, 1886, and not before;

(b) until those provisions come into force, the enactments specified in Schedule I annexed to the said Act shall, in so far as they relate to deposits of rent and distraint, continue in force, and all references to those provisions in other portions of the said Act shall, so far as may be, be read as if they were made to the corresponding provisions of the said enactments.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secy. to the Govt. of India

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has, for reasons which have been approved of by the Government of India and in exercise of the power conferred by the Bengal Tenancy Act, directed that that Act shall come into force on the 1st of November next. A reference to section 190 of the Act will show that an interval of at least a month must elapse between the date on which the Act comes into force and the date on which rules made under it can be brought into force. There is no reason to believe that any practical inconvenience will result from this, except possibly as regards the matters of deposits of rent by tenants and distraint; but it is apprehended that inconvenience might be felt in regard to these matters if the provisions of the Act relating to them were for any time in force without the rules by which it is intended that they should be supplemented, and the Lieutenant-Governor has suggested, as the simplest mode of obviating this, that the date on which the provisions of the Act relating to deposits and distraint are to come into force should be postponed for a month or two, and that the existing law relating to these subjects should meantime be retained in force.

The Governor-General in Council, being anxious to minimize the inconvenience incidental to the transition from the old law to the new, has approved of this proposal, and the present Bill has been prepared to give effect to it.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th October, 1885 :—

No. 17 of 1885.

A Bill rendering it permissive to the members of the Maimon Community to declare themselves subject to Muhammadan Law.

Whereas there is in the Presidency of Bombay and elsewhere a class of persons known as Maimons, and questions have from time to time arisen in the case of some of those persons as to the law by which in certain particulars they are governed, and whereas some of those persons consider that they are governed or desire to be governed in those particulars by the Muhammadan law as established in the Hanafi School;

And whereas it is expedient that a procedure should be provided whereby the applicability of that law to them in those particulars could be placed beyond dispute;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Maimons Act, 1886.

Declaration to be made by Maimons.

2. (1) When any Maimon who has attained his majority has declared in manner next hereinafter provided that he desires to be governed by the Muhammadan law as established in the Hanafi School, that law shall thereafter, notwithstanding any custom to the contrary, apply to him in each part of British India in the same particulars and to the same extent as it applies to other persons in that part of British India who are governed by it.

(2) A declaration to take effect under sub-section (1) must be made by a written instrument under the hand of the person making the same, in the form given in the schedule to this Act or in a form to the like effect, and must—

(a) if made in a part of British India in which the Indian Registration Act, 1877, is for the time being in force, be registered during his lifetime under that Act; and [Act III of 1877, s. 33.] III of 1877.

(b) if made elsewhere, be executed before, and authenticated by, a notary public or a Court, Judge, Magistrate, British Consul or Vice-Consul or representative of Her Majesty or of the Government of India.

(3) Nothing in this Act shall prevent any person being or becoming subject to any form of Muhammadan law in any other manner than that provided by this Act.

THE SCHEDULE.

Form of Declaration.

I hereby declare that I wish to be governed to the extent provided by the Maimons Act, 1886, by the Muhammadan law as established in the Hanafi School.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The Maimons, like the Khojás, were originally Hindus, and have been converted to Muhammadanism, but though they are said, as a rule, to be Muhammadans in a fuller sense than the great body of the Khojás, it has been held by the Courts that certain sections of them are in some particulars still governed by Hindu customs instead of by Muhammadan law.

2. From a petition lately received by the Government, it appears that to a large number of the Maimons in question this position is not satisfactory. They hold that they should be governed, or they wish to be governed, by the Muhammadan law of the Hanafi School, and they ask that it may be declared by the legislature that they are so governed.

3. It is not to be expected that any such declaration would be made by the legislature unless it were shown that it was desired by the entire community to which it would apply; and it must be admitted that there is a want of unanimity among them on this subject.

It seems but reasonable, however, that some simple procedure should be provided by which the petitioners and other members of the Maimon class, who may be of their way of thinking, would be enabled to secure the application to themselves of those portions of the Muhammadan law which are applied by our Courts to ordinary Muhammadans, and to avoid all risk of being held to be governed by customs which are distasteful to them, and which it is to be apprehended are far from being well settled.

4. Such a procedure is to be found in the clause which it has been proposed to insert in the Khojá Succession Bill now under consideration, and which provides that a Khojá of full age may by a registered declaration withdraw himself from the peculiar law of succession by which Khojás are to be governed and place himself under the Muhammadan law of succession.

The present Bill has been prepared with a view to providing a similar procedure for Maimons. It is, however, not restricted to the matter of succession, as the difficulty which it is intended to meet is not confined to that branch of the law; and as, from all that has appeared up to this, the Hanafi form of the Muhammadan law is the only one to which Maimons would desire to be subject, it provides for the application to them only of that form of the law.

5. As it is obviously undesirable that any doubt should be thrown on the legal position of Maimons who may be already fully subject to the Muhammadan law, or that it should be suggested that a Maimon could not after the passing of the Bill become fully subject to that law in any way in which he, in common with Hindus and others, might become subject to it at present, a clause has been inserted in the Bill, providing that nothing therein contained shall prevent any person from being or becoming subject to any form of Muhammadan law in any other manner than that provided by the Bill.

SANITATION OF CALOUTTA.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MUNICIPAL.

Darjeeling, the 27th October 1885.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Letter to the Chairman of the Corporation of the Town of Calcutta, No. 819T—M, dated the 1st July 1885, conveying the remarks of the Lieutenant-Governor on the resolution passed by the Commissioners on the subject of the report of the Commission appointed under section 28 of Act IV (B.C) of 1876 to consider the cleaning and conservancy of the Town, and the action taken by them towards carrying into effect certain of the recommendations made by the Commission.

Letter to the Government of India in the Home Department, No. 824T—M, dated the 1st July 1885, submitting for information a copy of the report of the Sanitary Commission, together with copies of the correspondence containing the orders passed by the Lieutenant-Governor on the report.

Letter from the Government of India in the Home Department, No. 256, dated the 31st August 1885, in reply to the above.

Letter to the Chairman of the Corporation of the Town of Calcutta, No. 1668T—M, dated the 9th September 1885, forwarding for the information of the Commissioners copies of the above correspondence with the Government of India.

Letter from the Chairman of the Corporation of the Town of Calcutta, No. 1671, dated the 24th September 1885, reporting the measures that have been adopted by the Commissioners, and the progress made by them in giving effect to the recommendations made by the Sanitary Commission.

The Lieutenant-Governor, in the letter of the 1st July last, to the Chairman of the Calcutta Corporation, gladly recognised the progress in sanitary matters made by the Commissioners in recent years. At the same time he was constrained to animadvert upon the preventible sanitary evils, the continued existence of which had been brought out clearly in the report of Messrs. Beverley and Lidderdale, and to record his opinion that, so long as these evils are permitted to exist, the Commissioners cannot be held free from responsibility from the continuance within the Town of sources of disease the effects of which are not controverted and the removal of which is practicable. These views have since been fully accepted by the Government of India, in their letter of the 31st August last, in which it was recorded that, although the present Commissioners have greatly improved on the practice of their predecessors, they have still to show that they are determined to lose no further time, and spare no possible outlay, in removing those grave sanitary evils which have so long made Calcutta a reproach. It was added that the provision made for sanitation, though recently in advance of what was usual in former years, has never been anything like adequate to the crying necessities of the case. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with much satisfaction that the Corporation, as appears from their Chairman's letter of the 24th September, now recognise that a vast amount of work lies before them in the way of sanitary reform, and are fully impressed with the responsibility which attaches to them, so long as the insanitary conditions which still prevail in many parts of the town are not completely removed. It may now be accepted as the result of a long correspondence and enquiry that this practical agreement as to the existence of the evils and the necessity for their removal, will, in the words of His Excellency in Council, "lead to the early preparation of a complete scheme of future operations, which will fully utilise the whole energies and all the available resources of the Corporation, and not be in any degree departed from or postponed until every remediable sanitary defect has been altogether removed."

2. In the meantime, the Lieutenant-Governor accepts the proposals in the present letter as on the whole complying with the main requisitions made in the letter of the 1st July. The scheme for the further extension of the unfiltered water-supply, which is now being considered by the Water-supply Committee, will, when fully completed, enable the Corporation to carry out the recommendations made by the Sanitary Commission for the flushing of the pipe-sewers and the connection, with the sewers, of private privies and zemindary latrines. The action which is being taken in filling up foul tanks, as reported by the Health Officer, is satisfactory so far as it goes, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that no relaxation will be allowed in dealing with tanks already condemned, but not as yet filled up. The Chairman of the Corporation states that the Commissioners fully acknowledge the necessity of erecting, at least, one bathing platform in every large bustee, and, in accordance with the recommendation of Mr. Beverley's Commission, have issued instructions for the construction of at least seventy-five platforms before the end of the current year Some doubt seems to be felt as to the possibility of completing this work, owing to the anticipated delay in obtaining possession of the required land. The Lieutenant-Governor has called the attention of the officers engaged in the work of acquisition to the necessity of promptitude, and will see that no avoidable delays shall occur.

The Lieutenant Governor is glad to observe that the Commissioners have decided upon making the latrines free and adding to their number. Although the measure of freeing the latrines is described as a tentative one, to last for two years, His Honor has little doubt that its advantage will be seen so clearly before the end of that time, that the question of re-imposing the fee is not likely to be again seriously entertained.

In the present letter the Officiating Chairman repeats the assurance given by Mr. Harrison in his letter of the 4th May last, that the reorganisation of the Health Department will be reconsidered upon the appointment of a permanent whole-time Health Officer. The transfer of Dr. O'Brien to other duties should facilitate the early settlement of this important question.

3. In the letter of the 1st July, the Lieutenant-Governor called attention to the fact that the Corporation had rejected the proposals of their executive to fix the house-rate for 1883-84 at the maximum of 10 per cent., and had since then retained the rate of 7½ per cent.; and His Honor observed that, under these circumstances, it was impossible to avoid the conclusion that the resources at the disposal of the Commissioners have not been utilized to the utmost. The Government of India consider that the action of the Corporation in this matter did not show an adequate appreciation of the requirements of the case, and that the reduction of the house-tax was made in the interests of the house-owners, although there is good ground for supposing that in the great majority of cases the tax has long since been passed on to the occupiers and added to their pre-existing rents. Having regard to the authoritative expression of opinion thus recorded, the Lieutenant-Governor anticipates that the Commissioners will not be unwilling to reconsider their action in this matter, and he is supported in this hope by the concluding sentence of the Officiating Chairman's letter, that the Commissioners do not intend permanently to levy the house-rate at 7½ per cent. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that this resolution will be borne in mind by the Commissioners when preparing the budget for the coming year, and that they will not allow their hesitation to increase the rate of house-tax, to interfere with the progress and completion of the sanitary reforms which still lie before them, and their responsibility for which they now fully acknowledge.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor must postpone the consideration of many of the questions raised in the correspondence cited in the preamble, until he has received the report of the Special Committee, appointed to enquire into the proposed amalgamation of the Town of Calcutta with the Suburbs or a portion of them. There can be no doubt, as remarked in the concluding paragraph of the Officiating Chairman's letter, that fresh legislation will be necessary to define the constitution, the powers, and the duty of the new Municipality; and the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to be assured of the assistance which the experience of the Commissioners will enable them to give him in the preparation of the necessary law. It will probably not be possible to carry a measure of such magnitude and intricacy through the legislature in the course of the coming session, in which case it may be found necessary to introduce a Bill amending the present Municipal Act in some of the points noticed in the report of the Sanitary Commission, and in the letters of this Government and of the Government of India. This question, however, cannot be finally decided pending the receipt of the amalgamation Committee's report.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

To—The Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. 41, dated the 19th May 1885, communicating the remarks of the Government of India upon the Administration Report of the Calcutta Municipality for the year 1883-84. In paragraph 2 it is requested that the Government of India may be furnished, at an early date, with a copy of the Report of the Commission appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor to enquire into certain matters connected with the sanitation of the Town of Calcutta, together with a copy of the orders of the Government of Bengal thereon.

2. In reply, I am directed to submit, for the information of the Government of India, a copy of the Report of the Sanitary Commission, together with a copy of the correspondence noted in the margin, containing the orders passed by the Lieutenant-Governor on the Report.

3. I am to take this opportunity to submit, for the information of the Government of India, the accompanying copy of a Resolution* recently recorded by the Lieutenant-Governor appointing a Committee to enquire into the question "of extending the boundaries of the Town so as to embrace the more populous and important portions of the Suburbs, and the placing of the fiscal and sanitary concerns of the whole area under one metropolitan authority." Reference is made in the resolution to the Report of the Octroi Committee. A copy of this report and of the papers† connected with it is also enclosed.

From—A. MACKENZIE, ESQ., C.S., Secy. to the Govt. of India, Home Dept.,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

I AM directed to acknowledge receipt of your letter No. 824, dated 1st July 1885, submitting a copy of correspondence regarding the sanitation of Calcutta, including the Report of a Special Commission appointed last year by the Lieutenant-Governor under section 28 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1876, with the orders of His Honor thereupon.

2. The Governor-General in Council has read these papers, and the connected Proceedings of the Bengal Government for March and December 1884, with the care demanded by the importance of the subject and the amount of public attention which has recently been directed to it. His Excellency in Council thinks it a matter for grave regret that so much acrimonious feeling and contentious discussion should have been allowed to gather round a subject in which all classes of the Calcutta community, official and unofficial, are personally and equally interested. It appears to the Government of India that the true points for consideration lie on the very surface of the case, and that a disproportionate amount of time and energy has been wasted in discussing issues which are of merely academic or at best of only collateral moment.

3. Thus the question whether the great increase in cholera mortality in Calcutta since 1880* was or was not coincident with the spread over the neighbouring districts of an epidemic cholera-wave, while of interest to students of epidemiology, is but of minor practical importance, so long as the existing defects in the sanitation of the town are as great as they are on all hands admitted to be. The Army Sanitary Commission has repeatedly urged that what practical sanitarians have to look to is the amelioration of those local conditions which determine, as experience shows, the intensity and fatality of epidemic cholera. "Cholera and other epidemics cluster" (as the Army Sanitary Commission has remarked) "round the foul plague spots of large cities." While Calcutta sanitation is as defective in many points as it is shown to be in the reports of the Special Commission and in the Chairman's memorandum printed at page XCIV of that report, it can be no matter of surprise that epidemic exacerbation of cholera in the neighbourhood should lead to exceptional mortality in the city, and, when it is clearly shown that the disease fastens chiefly upon the most insanitary wards, the consequent mortality must certainly be regarded as preventible. It was long ago pointed out by the Army Sanitary Commission that the best and only practicable way of reducing mortality and minimising the effect of epidemics in Calcutta is to provide the people with pure water to drink, to complete the drainage system and house connections, to fill up all foul tanks and wells, to level and drain the surface soil, to cleanse and keep clean the city, not merely as regard its streets, but throughout its private premises and courts, and to reform radically the bustees and their water-supply.

4. Again, an enquiry by the Executive Government into the sufficiency or otherwise of the sanitary provision made by the Municipality does not affect in any way the principles of local self-government as properly understood. The Governor-General in Council regrets to observe the attempts which have been made to prejudice the case by raising irrelevant issues of this description, and to stigmatise all criticism by Government of municipal action as an unwarranted interference with the independence of the Corporation. In all civilised countries, and under all municipal systems, the State has reserved to itself powers such as the Calcutta Municipal Act confers on the Local Government. Thus in England, under the Public Health Act of 1875, the Local Government Board is empowered to examine into and effectually direct municipal sanitation where defects are found to exist without correction; and if such a power of control is found necessary in England, much more is it required in India, where elective municipal institutions on a large scale are comparatively new, and where there are so many influences hostile to the imposition of public burdens for such purposes as sanitation. The Government will not lightly interfere with the independent action of local Boards, but it is bound to see that the health of the community is not sacrificed to a short-sighted and misplaced economy.

5. The Municipal Commissioners have, as it seems to the Governor-General in Council, discussed the question far too exclusively from the point of view of the past progress made in town sanitation and improvement under their administration, and have shown a disposition to resent, on no sufficient grounds, the advice and criticisms of the Local Government. But in fact both the Local Government and the Government of India have repeatedly acknowledged the good work actually done of late years by the Corporation, a summary of which is given in paragraphs 9 to 17 of the Special Commission's Report, and His Excellency in Council is glad once more to take this opportunity of expressing his belief that there is a real desire on the part of at least a large section of the municipal body to push on sanitary improvement and reduce preventible mortality to a minimum. The point really at issue between the Government and the Corporation is as to the rate at which such improvements should be carried forward, and the extent to which the municipal resources should be strained to counteract preventible mortality. There can be no doubt that though the Commissioners have, since the introduction of elective institutions in 1876, done much to improve the city, there have been at the same time very serious shortcomings on which the Government has been frequently compelled to comment. Years of valuable time were wasted in discussion before the extension of the filtered water supply was put in hand. It was not till 1880 that a beginning was made in bustee reclamation, and the expenditure up to date has fallen far short of the minimum sum of 1½ lakhs per annum, which the Government of India, in its orders on the report for 1882-83, declared to be necessary. It was not until the beginning of 1883-84 that an establishment for the surface cleaning of bustees began to be organised. The work of supplying bathing platforms has been but slowly pushed on. Even now it is evident from the remarks of the Corporation on the Special Commission's Report that there is prospect of considerable delay in improving the service of unfiltered water. The filling up of foul tanks and wells has not proceeded so fast as might have been expected. These and similar shortcomings have annually been pointed out by Government and the Army Sanitary Commission; and although the present Commissioners have greatly improved upon the practice of their predecessors, they have still to show that they are determined to lose no further time and spare no possible outlay in removing those grave sanitary evils which have so long made Calcutta a reproach.

6. The Governor-General in Council is constrained to remark that there was in the proceedings of the Commissioners, with reference to the budget provisions for, and expenditure on, sanitation during recent years, sufficient ground for public anxiety and for the initiation of further enquiry by the Local Government. This anxiety was no doubt brought to a climax by the extraordinary cholera mortality of the last two years, and showed at times a tendency to degenerate into panic; but the fact remained that, in spite of the reiterated remonstrances of Government and the Army Sanitary Commission, the provision made for sanitation, though recently in advance of what was usual in former years, has never been anything like adequate to the crying necessities of the case; and the Lieutenant-Governor was justified in his efforts to get this fact recognised by the Municipal authorities. It was certainly alarming to observe that, although the cholera mortality of the town had been steadily rising since 1880, the Commissioners had for 1883-84 reduced the sanitation estimates of their own executive officers by nearly 3 lakhs of rupees, while the outlay upon bustee reclamation in 1883-84, and the provision made for 1884-85, was far below the minimum sum indicated in the Government orders already referred to.

7. It might indeed fairly have been expected that, when once the drainage and water-supply schemes had so far advanced as to set free some portion of the municipal resources, the Commissioners would have devoted the whole of the funds thus made available to those other improvements without which neither drainage nor water-supply can confer any permanent or general benefit. Instead of this, the earliest opportunity was taken of reducing the house-tax in the interests of the house-owners, although there is good ground for supposing that in the great majority of cases this tax has long since been passed on to the occupiers and added to their pre-existent rents. The Governor-General in Council is compelled to remark that this action on the part of the Corporation, opposed as it was to the recommendations of their own Chairman and executive officers, did not show an adequate appreciation by the Commissioners of the requirements of the case. The Lieutenant-Governor has said that he has no wish to judge the Commissioners by any ideal standard of absolute perfection, and it is indeed very manifest that no place for the application of such a standard could at present be found. But it is no sufficient answer to the case against the Commissioners to point to a certain amount of actual progress, real and even considerable as that may have been, when it is clear that, had the available resources of the Municipality been fully utilized, much more might have been done and many valuable lives in all certainty have been saved.

8. Under these circumstances, and in view of the strong feeling, both in Calcutta itself and in Europe, as to the positive inadequacy of the sanitary arrangements of the town, it is much to be regretted that the Corporation declined to accept the Lieutenant-Governor's proposal of the 16th July 1884, to appoint a strong Commission of Enquiry, under the presidentship of their own Chairman, to examine carefully the whole situation and prepare a comprehensive scheme of sanitary and structural improvement, "in order" (as Sir Rivers Thompson stated) "that the Commissioners might see what the real wants of the town are; how far those wants could be provided with the funds to be made available; and how the funds might be most advantageously expended." It would have been better no doubt had the Lieutenant-Governor put forward this proposal on its merits, and without reference to the alternative appointment of a Special Commission under section 28 of the Act, which the Commissioners naturally regarded as a strong censure upon their administration. But the Governor-General in Council considers that the grounds urged in the Lieutenant-Governor's letter of the 16th July 1884, for a comprehensive enquiry into the condition of the town as a basis for the settlement of a well-considered plan of future operations, were such as ought to have commanded the cordial concurrence of the Municipality, and the acceptance of the proposal would have gone far to allay the feeling of dissatisfaction which, rightly or wrongly, had taken possession of a large and influential section of the community.

9. This proposal being, however, rejected, the appointment of a Special Commission, under section 28 of the Municipal Act, was in a measure forced upon the Lieutenant-Governor. It was in any case a matter which the law leaves altogether to his discretion. The Governor-General in Council observes, however, that both the Special Commission itself, and the Local Government in the orders which it has passed on the Commission's report, has treated the question under consideration in a broad and conciliatory spirit, though necessarily without that completeness of result which the more detailed and prolonged enquiry, originally suggested by the Lieutenant Governor, would probably have secured. His Excellency in Council cordially concurs in the hope expressed by His Honor that the good sense and voluntary action of the Municipality will now induce them to give full effect to the recommendations of the Commission, and lead to the early preparation of a complete scheme of future operations which will fully utilise the whole energies and all the available resources of the Corporation, and not be in any degree departed from or postponed until every remediable sanitary defect has been altogether removed. In the opinion of the Government of India no question of remission of municipal taxation can properly arise until it is shown that all important sanitary improvements are adequately provided for. Income should be maintained at the maximum until the town is properly cleansed, drained, and watered. If the ordinary staff of the Municipality is inadequate to superintend the execution of work on such an extended scale, the Local Government could probably arrange to give the necessary temporary assistance.

10. The Governor-General in Council does not propose to examine in detail the recommendations of the Commission, or to consider how far effect might be given to these by orders under section 29 of the Act. That is a matter for the Local Government to determine. His Excellency in Council will content himself with expressing his general concurrence in the remarks of the Lieutenant-Governor on the subject as embodied in Mr. Edgar's letter to the Chairman of the 1st July 1885. His Excellency in Council thinks it, however, his duty especially to endorse the views of the Lieutenant-Governor on the provision of free latrines which are explained in paragraph 12 of that letter. If there is any doubt as to the obligation of the Corporation to make adequate provision of this description for the poorer classes of the population, an early opportunity should be taken of amending the law.

11. The view of the Government of India upon the general question is, as already stated, that, while there is on the Commissioners' own showing so much to be done, the Corporation is bound to utilize its sources of income to the uttermost to provide the necessary establishments and carry out the needed improvements. The Governor-General in Council has already said that 1½ lakhs of rupees is the least sum which should annually be spent upon the cleansing and structural improvements of bustees. This amount was indicated as the minimum limit of expenditure upon one important branch of sanitary reform, and it is for the Local Government to consider whether a minimum outlay on this and other main branches of sanitary expenditure might not be safeguarded by law in the same manner as the minimum outlay on drainage is safeguarded by clause 4 of section 27* of the Municipal Act. The benefits of sanitary reform are so immediate and real, that the existing generation of citizens may well be content to bear their full share of the burden of cost. It is scarcely too much to say, as the Army Sanitary Commission once observed, that the value of a single year's loss of productive labour which the existence of the present acknowledged evil entails upon the city would go far to pay for their entire removal. It must also be remembered that the trade of India with Europe is seriously hampered at present by quarantine regulations which rest for their supposed justification upon the continued prevalence of cholera in our large ports and especially in Calcutta, which is regarded as the nidus of this disease. Every re-appearance of the malady with anything like epidemic prevalency is at once followed by fresh restrictions upon trade, and it is hopeless to attempt to get these removed or reduced to a minimum until the progress of sanitary reform has broken down the epidemic character of the disease by reducing locally the liability to personal seizure. The history of Western epidemic diseases, as remarked by the Army Sanitary Commission on the Calcutta Report for 1876, warrants the anticipation of this result.

12. The Governor-General in Council trusts that for the future the public spirit of the Commissioners will lead them fully to recognise these facts, and that their action will place it out of the power of any outside critics to impute to them indifference or failure to justify the confidence of Government in entrusting to their hands the municipal arrangements of the metropolis of British India. The good effects which have undoubtedly resulted from what has already been done should encourage the Corporation to organize its operations upon a larger scale, and induce the community generally to bear cheerfully the heavy burden which the urgency of the reforms required plainly imposes on it. If in any respect the present law fails to give the Corporation itself adequate control over nuisances arising from the action or inaction of individuals, the local Legislature should be moved to amend it. For the reform of the milkmen's bustees, further powers appear certainly to be required. The executive of the municipality is entitled to have its hands strengthened in every reasonable way to enable it to grapple successfully with the task before it.

13. I am to add that the Report of the Special Commission will, with the connected papers, be forwarded for the information of Her Majesty's Secretary of State and of the Army Sanitary Commission.

14. The Governor-General in Council will await with interest the report of the Committee which the Lieutenant-Governor has appointed to consider the question of extending the boundaries of the town so as to embrace the more populous and important portions of the Suburbs.

From—J. Ware Edgar, Esq., C.S.I., Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal, Munpl. Dept,
To—The Chairman of the Corporation of the Town of Calcutta.

In continuation of my letter No. 819T—M, dated the 1st July last, I am directed to forward, for the information of the Commissioners, copies of a letter* from the Government of India on the subject of the enquiry made by the Commission appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor under section 28 of Act IV (B.C.) of 1876, and of the letter† to which it refers. I am to observe that, although more than two months have elapsed since the date of my letter to your address, referred to above, no reply has yet been received on the subject. I am accordingly to enquire when the Corporation are likely to be in a position to furnish their answer.

† Letter to the Government of India, Home Department, No. 824—M of the 1st July 1885.

No. 1671, dated Calcutta, the 24th September 1885.

From—Baboo Gopal Laul Mitter, Offg. Chairman of the Corporation of Calcutta,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of Government letter No. 819-TM, dated 1st July 1885.

2. The letter was laid in due course before the Town Council, and in accordance with the Resolution passed by the Council, it was submitted for the consideration of the Commissioners at a Special General Meeting held on the 30th July last. At that Meeting the following Resolution was passed:—"That a Committee be appointed to consider the letter from the Government of Bengal, No. 819-TM, dated 1st July 1885, to suggest what course the Commissioners should pursue with regard to that communication, and to draft a reply for approval by the Commissioners in Meeting." The reply to Government was placed before the Special General Meeting held yesterday, and approved.

3. The Commissioners notice with satisfaction the recognition by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of "the substantial progress in sanitary matters which has been made of late years by the Corporation, and especially by the present body of Commissioners." They are aware that a vast amount of work lies before them in the way of sanitary reform, and they are fully impressed with the responsibility which attaches to them so long as the insanitary conditions, which still prevail in many parts of the town, are not completely removed. It may be observed that their efforts in this direction have been steady and sincere and, with due regard to the means at their disposal, successful. It is not necessary to recapitulate, in this letter, all the works that were done in the course of the last official year. This has been fully detailed in the Administration Report of that year, but the Commissioners would refer to some of them, if only to shew that they fully appreciate the importance of the question of sanitary reform. Thirty-four bustees engaged the attention of the Commissioners. The works in respect of eight of these have been completed. Permanent arrangements have been made for the proper conservancy of the entire area of 207 bustees. Twenty-nine tanks were filled up and obliterated, besides four which were filled up by the owners. Though the law does not give the Corporation the power to close wells, 68, which were in a most insanitary condition, were closed by the exertions of the Health Department. The project of the underground drainage of Hastings was sanctioned, and the supplementary works connected with the sewerage of the town, which had nearly been completed (with the exception of Baug Bazar and Hastings), were being carried on at a cost of Rs. 1,20,608. The works for the extension of the filtered water-supply were pushed on with vigor. The pumping station at Mullick's Ghât for the distribution of unfiltered supply was placed in working order by the construction of a jetty, and the existing pipes being found insufficient to carry the full supply, the substitution of larger pipes was commenced at the close of the year. To remedy the foul condition of cowsheds, 1,760 prosecutions were instituted, and of the 550 cowsheds in the town, more than half were connected with the sewer, and the drainage of 88 was placed on a satisfactory footing. Two model cattle sheds, capable of holding 72 cattle, were erected in Jorabagan and Kalabagan at a cost of Rs. 17,412-10-4. The construction of bathing platforms was pushed on steadily, and 28 were in working order at the end of the year. The difficulty which the Commissioners experienced was in the selection of proper sites, and the existing partial extension of the unfiltered supply. A scheme for the extension of the supply to the principal streets is now under the consideration of the Commissioners, and on the completion of the works, they will be in a position to construct these platforms in all parts of the town. They have been a boon to the lower classes, and the Commissioners feel the necessity of increasing their number so as to bring them within the reach of the residents of all the bustees. The scheme for the drainage of the area to the north of Baug Bazar Street has been completed, and is now occupying the attention of the Town Council.

4. The Commission under Section 28 did not, as observed in the Government letter under acknowledgment, confine themselves to the strict letter of the law. Their recommendations were made with a view to giving a "complete account of the requirements of the town," though some of them were beyond the powers of the Corporation to give effect to, and others were "wanting in precision and definiteness." The Commissioners treated these recommendations with the respect which was due to such high authorities as Mr. Beverley and the chief sanitary officer of the Province, and though they were of opinion that the recommendations were not such as could be enforced under the provisions of Section 29 of Act IV (B. C.) of 1876, they adopted most of them with willingness.

5. The Government letter in paragraph 6 observes:—"The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to find no reference in your letter to the important subject of finance, which is discussed in paragraphs 139 to 142 of the Commission's report, and which, for obvious reasons, underlies the whole of its more important recommendations." The Commissioners would beg to observe that there was no desire on their part to avoid this important subject, and they gladly avail themselves of this opportunity of fully entering into it. Under Section 25 of the Calcutta Municipal Consolidation Act, 1876, all funds received or raised by the Commissioners are declared to be applicable to the purposes expressly authorised by that Act, and the Section which follows declares the purposes to which the same may be applied, but so far as the occupiers' rates are concerned (vide Sections 160, 165 and 192 of the Act), the application of the proceeds thereof is restricted to the immediate purposes for which those rates are respectively levied. The only fund, which is thus available for all other purposes, is the General Fund, which is principally composed of the house-rate, license fees from trades and carriages, fines and penalties, tramway receipts, fees for removal of business refuse, night-soil fees, receipts from the Slaughter-house and the Municipal Markets, &c. The other sources of income being practically fixed, there remains the house-rate, from the proceeds of which alone the General Fund may be augmented. Your letter observes that, in settling their Budget for 1883-84, the Commissioners rejected the proposals of their executive that the house-rate should be fixed at the maximum of 10 per cent., and reduced expenditure by 3½ lakhs of rupees, of which Rs. 2,93,100 was cut out of the estimates from various conservancy departments, and again that the house-rate of the current year has been fixed at 7½ per cent. It may here be pointed out that the reference to the reduction relates to the year 1884-85 and not to the year 1883-84. Be that as it may, the Commissioners regret that there should be any misapprehension on the subject. The estimates of expenditure are fixed in the first instance, and in the presence of the executive officers, and usually with their consent. Before that is done, the Committee appointed for the purpose of settling the Budget estimates minutely enter into the past expenditure of several years, and the requirements of the year for which the Budget is framed. They then fix the estimates of all other sources of income, leaving the house-rate to be considered last, and it is not until every requirement has been provided for, and every income from other sources considered, that the house-rate is fixed. As regards the reductions in the Budget estimates for 1884-85, the Commissioners did not depart from the usual practice of former years. That they were perfectly justified in making the reductions will be evident from the fact that even the estimates as reduced could not, during the year, be fully worked out; and it has been the invariable practice of the Commissioners to raise the sanctioned grant whenever just grounds are brought forward, and they observe with satisfaction that the majority of the members of the Commission correctly represent that the Commissioners, "while insisting on the integrity of the Budget system as regards their officers, have not always thought it necessary to regard it as a hard-and-fast rule for themselves." Adverting to the subject of these reductions, Mr. Harrison, at the Special General Meeting of the Commissioners, held on the 26th of February 1885, observed as follows:—

In presenting this budget he wished to say a few words to remove certain misapprehensions which had prevailed at the time when last year's budget was presented, from the fact that the expenditure side of the draft budget was 3¾ lakhs in excess of the budget as it was passed by the Commissioners. That gave rise to criticisms from two opposite quarters, one that the budget prepared by the executive was an extravagant budget; the other that the grant passed by the Commissioners was insufficient, being 3¼ lakhs less than what was considered necessary by the executive. Neither of these criticisms was entirely correct. A budget as passed contained what might be considered the necessary provision for the year together with such desirable additions as occurred reasonable. But in framing the budget, the executive had to include not only what might really be considered necessary, but also what was considered desirable if funds were available, but which no one considered necessary. He had to consider not only all that was necessary, but improvements, alterations, new buildings, &c., which the officers in charge of the departments considered desirable. The consequence was that the budget always contained a good deal which no single person considered, and he himself did not consider absolutely necessary. He saw no harm in putting before the Commissioners a large proportion of desirable improvements. He had therefore always proceeded on the principle of keeping in the budget estimates for all reasonable improvements, not intending that the Budget Committee should pass them all, but that they should exercise the discretionary power of passing what they considered most important. At the same time, in this present year, the Municipality enjoyed the advantage of having resources which they never had in any previous year. They were not only relieved from the payment of interest on 25 lakhs of 6 per cent. debentures, but the assessment on property had increased so substantially that the rates and taxes would themselves produce an appreciable increase of that income; and therefore from both these sources a great deal more money would be available this year. He had been very careful to include in the budget only such items as he considered most desirable; at the same time he was far from saying that everything entered in the budget was necessary, but he did think, looking at the funds which would be available, that a large proportion of them was desirable.

And again, at the Meeting held on the 30th March 1885, after the Budget estimates of the current year were framed, Mr. Harrison remarked as follows, with special reference to the 7½ per cent. house rate:—

They would all admit that this was perhaps the most satisfactory budget yet laid before the Commissioners since the present Municipal Act was passed. He said that, because on the one hand, it practically conceded all that had been asked for by the executive departments, and, on the other hand, it did so without any necessity for raising the house-rate, which formed what was the back bone of the General Fund for all general expenditure above 7½ per cent. He might recall to their minds the discussion which took place at the end of 1881, when there was a question whether the rate for that year should be lowered to 7 per cent., or not. In advocating the not lowering of it, he said that, even at 7½ per cent. there was a slight deficit, and his arguments were thus recorded in the proceedings of that Meeting: "Even at 7½ per cent. an equilibrium could not be maintained, there would be a slight deficiency, and he thought therefore that the true interests of the rate-payers was to endeavour to maintain the house-rate at 7½ per cent. There was a possibility, he might say, a probability, that with the 7½ per cent. the Commissioners might with economy be able to maintain an equilibrium, but if the rate was lowered, there was a moral certainty that the rate must be raised next year to 8 per cent.," and in conclusion, he said on that occasion that "if the rate was kept at 7½ per cent. gradually as the town improved, the income of the Municipality would be sufficiently elastic, and with strict economy that rate might permanently suffice."

6. The Commissioners have no hesitation in saying that the well-being of the Municipality depends upon an efficient control, rigorously maintained, over the various items of expenditure, and it is because this control is maintained over the finances that they are in a position to lay out large sums of money on substantial improvements. It will be remembered that when the administration of the Municipality was handed over to the Commissioners under the present law, they inherited a legacy in the shape of a deficit of a large sum of money, but their position has since changed very much for the better. They have spent considerable sums of money on improvements, and yet their financial position is perfectly solvent. It has been stated that the "resources at the disposal of the Commissioners have not been utilized to the utmost," that the house-rate has been kept at 7½ per cent., while the law gives the Corporation the power to raise it to 10 per cent., and that the Commissioners have failed to avail themselves of the maximum amount which they can and ought to apply to the improvement of the town. It is necessary, therefore, that the circumstances which have hitherto influenced the Commissioners in this matter should be stated. The number of premises which are assessed for the purpose of levying the house-rate is 42,500. Of these 24,361 are assessed on an annual valuation of less than Rs. 108, as shown in the annexed statement. The number of premises, the annual valuation of which ranges from Rs. 61 to Rs. 108, is 5,745, and consists of 2,412* huts and 3,333 pucca premises. The number assessed at below Rs. 60 (less than Rs. 5 per month) is 18,616, or considerably more than one-third of the total number of premises in the town. These consist of 15,753 huts and 2,863 pucca premises. The poverty of a large class of residents thus admits of no doubt, and when it is considered that most of them have to pay not only the house-rate but the other rates also, it cannot but be conceded that the burden of taxation, even as imposed on them at present, is extremely heavy. His Honor, in recommending the free use of public latrines, has had his attention direct to the poverty of a large class of residents. "There are large classes of persons," says the Government letter, "resident within the town whose circumstances will not permit them to pay any charge, however small, for the use of a latrine; these people have no alternative, in the absence of free accommodation, but to resort to the lanes and open spaces in the neighbourhood of their own houses; nor is it possible to prevent it by any measure of practical severity." The Commissioners submit that an increase in the house-rate, which, under the present law, will not exempt any class of residents, will inflict a very great hardship, and should only be resorted to in case of absolute necessity. The Commissioners have been able, during the present year, with a house-rate at 7½ per cent., to make provision for the improvement of the town to the extent desired by Government. This they have been able to do partly in consequence of the increase in the assessments of houses during the late revision, and much more by reason of a saving of over two lakhs of rupees, which has followed upon the repayment of the loan of 1864. But more is expected of them, and yet they must express with some degree of regret that they have not received from Government the relief which they prayed for in regard to the Police-rate. The Commissioners submitted a proposal to the Local Government to be relieved from contributing to the Police Fund, for the express purpose of spending a much larger amount, than what is now available, for the improvement of the town. Their proposal was that the Police-rate should be done away with, and in lieu thereof they should be authorised to raise another rate from the class who now pay that rate, for the purpose of devoting the principal portion of it for the improvement of the town. If this proposal had been accepted, all classes of the community would have borne their share for the improvement of the town: but this did not meet with the approval of Government, and the Commissioners have not yet been relieved from the contribution to the Police Fund. It does seem hard to the Commissioners that the concession to which they have a just claim is delayed by the Local Government, and yet they are asked to raise the house-rate for the purpose of doing more towards the improvement of the town. The Commissioners do not intend permanently to levy the house-rate at 7½ per cent., but they will be prepared, from time to time, to adjust it to the necessary requirements of the town.

7. With reference to the recommendations alluded to in paragraph 8 of your letter, viz. (I) that unfiltered water be laid on to as many sewer-summits as possible, with a view to the more effectual flushing of pipe-sewers; (No. XI) that more rapid progress be made in the distribution of unfiltered water in the principal streets; (No. XIX) that wherever possible, privies should have unfiltered water laid on, and be connected with the sewers, and (No. XXII) that zemindary latrines be connected with the sewers and with the water-supply, the Commissioners observe that the adoption of these recommendations in their completeness depends upon the further extension of the unfiltered supply. Such a scheme, as has already been stated in paragraph 4, has been placed before the Water Supply Committee, and is now under their consideration. On the 30th May last, the Town Council passed the following Resolutions:—"That pipes of sufficient dimensions be laid down for the distribution of unfiltered water where it is most wanted, and that a list be submitted of all applications received for unfiltered supply connections, and that all such applications, together with all applications subsequently received, be considered and disposed of by the Town Council." These Resolutions are being carried out. The additional streets, named in the margin, have been piped from 31st September 1884 to the 30th June 1885; a large number of public latrines and night-soil depôts have been supplied with unfiltered water. The pipe sewers are flushed by means of carts, pumps and hose attachments, unfiltered water only being used for the purpose. This has been done regularly, but it is not possible to state what quantity of water has been used. The scheme for further extension, however, provides for flushing them more effectively and more promptly than is now the case. A copy of this scheme, as submitted by the Engineer, is herewith forwarded for the information of Government.

8. The recommendations of the Commission, regarding the de-watering and filling up of tanks, are being practically carried out. Besides the 33 tanks filled up in 1884-85, as mentioned above, it was found necessary to de-water three. During the last hot weather, when cholera made its appearance in some parts of the town, particular attention was directed to the condition of the tanks in the vicinity of the outbreak, and guards were placed near two or three which were considered most foul, and these were immediately de-watered. Ten tanks have been de-watered this year (1885). The Health Officer reports that "the state of the tanks is continually occupying the attention of the Health Department, and that not only in the hot weather, but in the cold, is a vigilant watch kept over them. Should unusual sickness of any kind, especially cholera, occur in the neighbourhood of a tank, measures are at once taken to have it de-watered, and in the usual routine of inspection, tanks that are observed to have become particularly foul, are brought to the notice of the Engineer for early action in the matter of filling up." The operation for filling-up tanks, which have already been condemned, will commence at the close of the rainy season.

9. The necessity for constructing a sufficient number of bathing platforms for the bustee population of the town is fully acknowledged by the Commissioners, and they agree with the Commission that platforms should be erected in those parts of the town where they are required, at least one being given to every large bustee. They also agree that it is desirable to construct at least 75 platforms before the end of the current year, and have issued instructions that this shall, if possible, be done. They have, however, to represent that the present unfiltered water supply limits the operation to those localities which are at sufficiently measureable distance from the pipes which have been laid down. Unavoidable delay is occasioned by the procedure prescribed by law for the acquisition of land, and the time which should be taken by the Collector under Act X of 1870 for making over possession to the Corporation, cannot be definitely fixed.

10. In paragraph 12 of your letter under reply, it is stated:—"So far from admitting that the freeing of the latrines may properly be deferred, because they have hitherto paid only a moderate percentage on their capital cost, the Lieutenant-Governor regards it as quite indefensible that they should be expected to yield any return whatever. But even if this were not the case, the argument, with which the Commissioners seek to justify their disregard of the recommendations of the Commission, would appear singularly unhappy in the face of the fact that they have for years past derived a handsome annual profit from the operation of the Night-soil Department." And again:—"The impropriety of working this Department so as to bring in a profit has been represented by the Chairman on more than one occasion, and has also been admitted by the Commissioners themselves. It is difficult, therefore, to reconcile their accepted views upon the question with their present hesitation to apply a small part of this profit to remove a very grave defect in their administration of the Department from which it accrues." It seems to the Commissioners that the question of freeing latrines is distinct from that of the realization of the night-soil fees. Before the present system, the night-soil was removed by tolah mehters, who paid to the Municipality, by way of fees, the annual sums, noted in the margin, for the years 1874 to 1876. The work not having been done by them in a satisfactory manner, the Commissioners, in 1877, introduced the present system, which, it must be admitted, has, on the whole, worked well. The accounts certainly show a surplus, as stated in your letter, but it does not follow that the whole of it represents a profit to the Corporation, for nothing is debited on account of contribution to the Health Officer's establishment.

	Rs.

In the current year, the sum of Rs. 23,678 has been debited under that head, so that the profit is really a great deal less than the amount mentioned. If their predecessors could receive fees from tolah mehtors, the Commissioners do not see why they should not be justified in securing a surplus in the place of those fees, but if it is indefensible for them to derive any profit from this source, their obvious course is to reduce the fees for the benefit of those who pay them.

The question, whether the latrines should be made free or not, is a different one altogether. If the Commissioners were satisfied that the sanitary condition of the town would be very much improved by freeing the latrines, they would not hesitate to adopt the recommendation of the Commission. They must say that it was unfortunate that the members of the Commission did not take fuller evidence on the point, but having regard to the opinions expressed by the majority who signed the report, and the views of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, the Commissioners have resolved to make the existing latrines free tentatively for two years, and to construct three latrines for the exclusive use of females. They also agree with His Honor that it is desirable to construct more latrines, and have called on the executive to prepare estimates, and indicate sites, with a view to the erection of a latrine in every large bustee where there is no such accommodation at present, an improvement advocated in paragraph 91 of the Report of the Commission.

11. The views of the Commissioners on recommendation (XXXV) of the Commission have been stated in paragraph 36 of their letter to Government, dated the 4th May last The organization of the Health Department will be reconsidered by them on the appointment of a whole-time Health Officer.

12. The question of the amalgamation of the Town with the Suburbs is now under the consideration of the Special Committee appointed by His Honor. Whether the whole or a portion of the Suburbs is ultimately included in the Town, there can be no doubt that fresh legislation will be necessary to define the constitution, the powers, and the duties of the new Municipality, and the Legislature will have to determine issues which will be of vital importance to the residents of the Town and of the Suburbs. The Commissioners will always be ready to offer such assistance to the Special Committee and to the Legislature as their past experience of the working of the present Municipal Act may lead them to think necessary, for the amendment of existing provisions or for the introduction of future reforms.

EXTENSION OF UNFILTERED WATER-SUPPLY.

TO THE OFFICIATING CHAIRMAN.

1. I have now the honor to submit the plan and detailed estimate for the full "extension of the unfiltered water-supply" from Mullick's Ghât amounting to Rs. 3,71,592 as follows:—

	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Northern Division.
Main and sub-mains with ground hydrants and wash-outs	1,63,319
Flushing branches to sewer-summits in piped streets ...	1,861
Ditto ditto in side streets ...	53,670
	2,18,850
Deduct value of pipes to be taken up and relaid	18,669
		2,00,181
Southern Division.
Mains and sub-mains with ground hydrants and wash-outs	89,164
Flushing branches to sewer-summits in piped streets ...	2,009
Ditto ditto in side streets ...	20,595
	1,11,768
Deduct value of pipes to be taken up and relaid	22,498
		89,270
			2,89,451
Providing hydrants for those streets which are already piped	...	.	32,141
Add for marginal item	...	...	50,000
Total of estimate Rs. ...	...	...	3 71,592

2. This extension is exclusively for distribution pipes, the mileage of which would be effected in the manner shewn by the following figures:—

Northern Division.—Length of existing pipes	16 77
Net length of pipes now proposed to be laid	8·78
Add for flushing branches to side streets ..	12·38
		37 93
Southern Division.—Length of existing pipes (exclusive of 1·12 miles to the drainage pumping station and slaughter-houses)	17·01
Net length of pipes now proposed to be laid	5·20
Add for flushing branches to side streets ...	4·59	26·80
Total mileage ...		64 73

That is to say, there are 33 78 miles of streets piped at present, and the proposed extension is to be 30·95 miles more. Of the existing pipes the 20-inch and 12-inch mains running down Bow Bazar Street (the dividing line between the northern and southern divisions of the town) supply half of wards 7, 8, 9 of the northern division besides the whole of the southern. With this exception, however, the northern division has till now been entirely without large supply mains, and has merely been provided with small pipes which have been laid down from time to time in a tentative manner and with limited regard to a comprehensive system. Now that the demand for unfiltered water, in the northern division particularly, has been unmistakeably pronounced, it has become necessary to fully develope the resources contained in the new pumping power at Mullick's Ghât. With this view the estimate now submitted is the result of a thorough revision of the pipe plan de novo.

3. The principle upon which the scheme is based consists in the demand for road watering. This demand is by far the largest that takes place within a definite period, and that being satisfied, it is assumed that all other demands can be satisfied, with the general proviso that these other demands shall be complied with at other hours than those devoted to road-watering. To meet probable increase of demand, a margin of 16 per cent. has been allowed for in the northern division and 6 per cent. in the southern over present road-watering areas, there being more room for expansion in the north than in the south.

The method of calculation is this: it is assumed, from practical experiment, that a square yard of road surface in the hot weather requires one gallon of water for one effectual watering; there are two waterings daily, and the process of watering occupies two periods in the day of three hours each, so that each square yard of road surface as shown on the watering list is assigned 2 gallons of water to be supplied in 6 hours. This, with the marginal percentages as above added, works out to—

For northern division	...	... 680 cubic feet per minute.
For southern division	...	... 540 „ „
	Total	... 1,220 cubic feet per minute.
	Equal to	7,600·6 gallons per minute.

which the Mullick's Ghât engines are capable of supplying by working at the rate of 27·54 revolutions per minute, which is within their capability. Up to the present these engines have not worked up to half this quantity.

4. Under the scheme now presented the following are among chief advantages which will be obtained:—

(1) Every street of 50 feet wide and upwards and several others to give equable distribution as shown by plan will be piped, and supplied with ground-hydrants at suitable intervals for watering the roads by hose. Thus a large number of watering carts will be set free, which can be utilized for the more effectual watering of streets, which at present are scantily treated, for the extension of road watering and for conveying flushing water to pipe sewers in streets and lanes not provided with pipes.

(3) Branch pipes with sluice-valves will be laid to every sewer-summit passed by the pipe lines for flushing purposes.

(4) Branch pipes will be laid up every side street off the pipe lines to the nearest sewer-summit in such side street for flushing purposes.

(5) Every bathing platform will be supplied with a branch pipe in place of the existing ferrule system, so as to ensure an abundant supply. The supply being under control, however, by means of stop-cocks and equilibrium ball-valves.

(6) Supply to house privies along all the pipe line can be given, provided the pressure requisite for road watering is not unduly reduced, and provided that when that pressure becomes unduly reduced, measures be adopted for not giving the house supply simultaneously with the road watering.

(7) A more abundant supply can be given to all public latrines, and latrines can be increased in number as may appear necessary. Night-soil depôts, until they become things of the past through the universal connection of privies and latrines with the sewers, can also be more abundantly supplied where necessary.

5. The flushing of pipe sewers and of the minor or tributary brick sewers will be brought completely under control, and independently of the increased domestic filtered supply in prospect. The improvement, consisting only of pipe-laying, can be carried into effect with far greater celerity than any of the works necessary for an increase to the filtered water-supply.

6 The total cost of the unfiltered water-supply to Calcutta, as far as I have been able to ascertain, is shown by the following figures:—

		Rs.
Chandpal scheme	...	2,46,369
Mullick's Ghât scheme to 30th June 1885 ...	...	4,23,967
Total expended	...	6,70,336
To which add present estimate	...	3,71,592
Grand total cost	...	10,41,928

This amount does not include the cost of the old pumping station at Nimtollah Ghât nor of the small station at Chandpal originally handed over by Government to the town. On the other hand, however, there is the set-off of Rs. 1,00,731, which amount has to be contributed by the Port Commissioners for removal of the station from Chandpal to Mullick's Ghât, and the sale of the old machinery and buildings at Chandpal, the proceeds of which have amounted to Rs. 7,909 from first to last.

7. In conclusion, I would mention that the specification of the pipes with the view to calling for tenders is being printed, and I would suggest that Messrs. Joseph Quick and Son, the lately appointed professional agents, be instructed to call for tenders from three or four well-known pipe founders, including Messrs. Cochrane Grove and Co., the contractors for the 48-inch main. I would further suggest that, if possible, advantage be taken of Mr. Harrison's presence in England to ask him to settle the contract in conference with Messrs. Joseph Quick and Son, on behalf of the Commissioners; thereby much time would be saved.

JAMES KIMBER, C.E.,
Engineer to the Corporation.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE SANITARY COMMISSIONER FOR BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1884 INCLUDING THE REPORT ON VACCINATION IN BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1884-85.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—SANITATION

Darjeeling, the 31st October 1885.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report of the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal for the year 1884, including the Report on Vaccination in Bengal for the year 1884-85.

Read again—

The Reports for the previous year, and the Resolution recorded upon them.

The present Report is submitted by Dr. Lidderdale, who was in charge of the office of Sanitary Commissioner throughout the year. It was not received until the end of July, and the delay in its submission is said to have been chiefly due to irregularities in the office of the Sanitary Commissioner, which have since been removed. It is again urged that the 1st May, which is the date fixed for the submission of the report, is "too early a one, with which it is almost impossible to comply, and which does not give a fair time for the proper compilation and digest of statistical and other information given." No doubt the submission of the Vaccination Report with the Sanitary Report has much to do with the delay, since the former, unlike the latter which is for the calendar year, is for the official year which terminates on the 31st March, and there is barely time between that date and the 1st May to check and compile the reports and statistics of each circle of vaccination, and to submit a proper report on the whole in a printed form; but there appears to be no reason why, since returns of the work performed in each circle are now submitted monthly, and the vaccinating season has been curtailed, the annual report cannot be drawn up and submitted much earlier than it has been for the last three years. Its earlier submission would certainly be facilitated by a reduction in its bulk. The length of the report has steadily increased during the last four years. The report for 1881 occupied 73 pages (exclusive of appendices and tables); that for 1884 has extended to 187 pages. In the Resolution on the Report for 1883, the disproportionate attention paid to vaccination by the Sanitary Department was commented upon. But this subject occupies 64 pages in the present report, as against 37 in the report for the previous year. Several other subjects are treated at needless length; and while the Lieutenant-Governor fully recognizes the care and industry bestowed on its preparation, he is satisfied that it would be an advantage to every one if, with the omission of a great mass of details, the necessary information could be compressed into a smaller compass.

2. The year 1884 was characterised by drought in nearly all the districts of the Province, particularly those of the Burdwan and Patna Divisions, where the distress among the people was so great as to necessitate the adoption of special relief measures which were carried on to the end of the year. In Durbhunga a grant of Rs. 5,000 in aid of the road cess funds was sanctioned by Government for expenditure on relief works, and the Board of Revenue were authorized to suspend the collection of rent in those Government estates in the district of Gya in which distress was anticipated by reason of the failure of crops. The rainfall, which was unseasonable and irregularly distributed, was again much below the average, being 57·56 inches against 64·70 inches, the average of previous years, and, as a consequence, the harvest partially failed, giving rise to a considerable advance in the prices of food-grains, particularly common rice, the price of which rose from Rs. 1-10-6 per maund, the average of previous years, to Rs. 2-8-1 per maund in 1884. Notwithstanding the great scarcity and the high prices of food, it is a noticeable feature in the sanitary history of the year that the health of the people throughout the Province does not seem to have suffered. The Sanitary Commissioner records the opinion "that the prejudicial effects of a diminished food-supply with high prices were more than counterbalanced by a comparatively drier season proving beneficial to health."

3. Some advance was made in the registration of vital statistics during the year. The ratio of births per mille of population was 23·51 against 22·08, and that of deaths 20·83 against 18·82. The recorded death-rate, which is still of course very far from being accurate, is considered to be an indication of marked improvement in the registration of mortuary statistics, inasmuch as there was no unusual general epidemic prevalence of sickness to cause an increase in the number of deaths, and, according to local reports, "many deaths were unreported owing to chowkidars having left their villages to seek a livelihood elsewhere, by other labour, in consequence of high prices of food-grains caused by deficient rainfall having injured the crops." The Lieutenant-Governor is disposed to agree with the Sanitary Commissioner in referring almost the whole of the increase to improved registration. It is beyond question that public health was far better in 1884 than in 1882, when cholera raged with unwonted severity, and a deadly wave of fever passed over the greater part of the Province, yet the recorded death-rate in the past year (20·83) exceeds that recorded for 1882 (20·41) by ·42. The districts in which a marked improvement in registration is noticeable are Pubna, Balasore, Sarun, Faridpore and Monghyr. In Sarun, where the number of deaths recorded rose from 34,972 in 1883 to 49,971 in 1884, the hath-chitti or hand-book system was introduced, and is said to have worked satisfactorily.

4. During the year under review the provisions of the Compulsory Registration Act IV (B.C.) of 1873 were extended to the Bansberiah Municipality, in the district of Hooghly, and the Naihatti Municipality, in the district of the 24-Pergunnahs. The provisions of the Act, so far only as they relate to the registration of deaths, were also extended to the portion of the Darjeeling district which lies to the west of the river Teesta. The law is now in operation in 116 towns and one rural tract. Its provisions were, however, only enforced in 42 towns during the year. The total number of prosecutions was 396 with 316 convictions, against 297 prosecutions with 232 convictions in 1883. The largest number of prosecutions instituted was reached in Howrah, where 81 persons were tried for offences under the Act, 71 of whom were convicted. The results for the year show an improvement in the administration of the law, and the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to learn that in some towns "the absence or paucity of prosecutions is due to the people spontaneously and regularly reporting the occurrence of births and deaths among them, and thus giving no occasion for the exercise of the clause of the law, prescribing a penalty for evasions, and that, moreover, in some municipalities special agency has been engaged to detect cases of non-compliance by the people with the requirements of the law." The Lieutenant-Governor recognises the fact that, so long as the work of registration in municipalities is done by the police, Municipal Commissioners are not likely to take any active interest in the subject. He is glad therefore to learn that several municipalities have already taken this work into their own hands, and he trusts that, as this practice becomes more general, the co-operation of the Municipal Commissioners will ensure rapid improvement in the registration of vital statistics in their respective towns.

5. The registration of births was carried on in 47 towns with a total population of 1,685,651 persons during the year, against 46 towns with a total population of 1,685,159 in 1883. The recorded number of births, exclusive of 1,437 children still-born, was 39,640, or a ratio of 23·51 per mille of the total population under registration, against 37,215, or a ratio of 22·08 recorded in the previous year. The record of the number of births is still very defective, and, compared with the number of deaths recorded in the same area, it is shown to be less by 10,709, or a ratio of 6·35 per mille of population. The following are the towns in which the best results were obtained:—

	1884.	1883		1884.	1883
Jamalpore in Monghyr	49·39	49 17	Bankura	33·55	34·93
Kendrapara	46 91	26·54	Revilgunge	32·41	37·30
Brahmenberia	37 45	31 46	Serampore	31·02	26·79
Bettiah	36 17	30 17	Durbhunga	29·57	24·32
Jamalpore in Mymensingh	34 49	34·24	Gya	29·41	29·38
Bhagulpore	33 88	33·64

In all these towns, with the exception of Bhagulpore, Serampore, and Gya, the recorded number of births exceeded the number of deaths. The percentage of male to female births was 116 against 114 in the previous year.

6. Of a total population of 66,163,884 persons within the area in which the registration of deaths was carried on, 1,378,610, exclusive of 20,015 still-born children, were reported to have died during the year, showing an increase of 132,934 compared with the number reported to have died in the previous year. The ratio of deaths to population was 20·83 against 18·82 in 1883. The increase in the death-rate was, as noticed above, mainly due to greater interest having been taken in the registration of deaths, especially in the rural circles. The following table exhibits the death-rate from specific causes for the year under review, compared with that for the previous year and the quinquennium 1879—83:—

There was an increase in the mortality recorded under every head of disease, especially under cholera, fevers, and the maladies classed under "other causes." Most of the increase was contributed by the rural circles. The Sanitary Commissioner observes that, "where registration has been improved, the opinion is growing that the rural circles, characterized by the existence in them of unchecked morbific influences stimulated by primitive filthiness of habits of the people, &c., are unhealthier than the urban circles in which corrective precautions are observed." The experience of the year again showed that the fourth quarter of the year, immediately after the rains, is the most fatal to life. The two worst months were November and December, and October came fourth in the death-scale, the most prevalent diseases being, as usual, fevers and bowel-complaints. The months of April and May were marked by the prevalence of cholera and small-pox, which caused the death-rate for these months to rise considerably above the death-rate for the same months in the previous year. The mortality among infants was higher than usual, the ratio having been 117·90 against 99·22 in 1883. The death-rates per mille of population according to class or nationality were—Christians 13·61, Hindus 20·26, Mahomedans 22·48, Budhists 13·79, and "Other races" 15·21.

7. As in the previous year, the birth-rate in Calcutta was lower and the death-rate higher than in the other Bengal towns. The ratio of births was 19·13 and of deaths 30·59. The increase in the number of deaths occurred under cholera and "Other causes." The mortality in the cantonments in Bengal, among a total population of 33,346, rose from 21·50 per mille in 1883 to 24·35 per mille in 1884. The mortality was again highest in the Hazaribagh Cantonment, where the death-rate rose from 61·16 per mille in 1883 to 129·41 per mille in the year under review. Of 21,182

European seamen who visited the Port of Calcutta during the year, 2,026 were admitted into hospital, of whom 76 died from various causes, chiefly from cholera, the number of deaths from which cause was 36. Besides these, there were 31 deaths which occurred out of hospital. Compared with the statistics of the previous year, the death rate among the European port population was 63·53 per mille against 48·92. Of the native floating population estimated at 25,409 at the census of 1881, 301 resorted to hospital, of whom 62 died while under treatment. Among this number 38 died from cholera. Outside hospital there were 135 deaths, 100 of which were from cholera. This disease appears to have afflicted the native floating population very severely, "the deaths from it amounting to no less than 70·05 per cent. of the total loss of the year."

8. During the year under review, cholera prevailed to a much greater extent, and with more fatal effect, than in the previous year The number of deaths recorded was 134,121, or at the rate of 2·03 per mille of the registered population, against 90,439, or a rate of 1·36 per mile of population in 1883. The disease was "present in every district, and pervaded 24,621 villages against 16,316 in 1883, prevailing epidemically in 90 of the registering circles against 47, and with conspicuous severity in 90 against 64; while 432 against 491 circles enjoyed much immunity, and 37 against 46 were entirely free from the pest." Of the total number of deaths, 9,390 were contributed by the urban and 125,031 by the rural circles. The districts in which the disease prevailed with the greatest severity were Balasore (7·79), Nuddea (5·79), Faridpore (5·34), Moorshedabad (4·99), Rajshahye (4·95), Backergunge (4·63), Cuttack (4·16), Dacca (3·85), 24-Pergunnahs (3·57), Pooree (3·52), Jessore (3·38), and Pubna (3·36). In all these districts the death-rate was higher than in the previous year.

9. Thirty-four pages of the report are devoted to the history of cholera during the year; but the observations made in different districts appear to have led to no new discoveries on the subject. As usual, the disease was most fatal in the hot, dry months, and local insanitary conditions fostered its development. With a few exceptions, all the northern districts were comparatively free from it. It is a common idea that the disease is disseminated by pilgrims who carry it with them in their journeyings from district to district. This point was made the subject of special investigation by the Sanitary Commissioner, who, after a careful examination of the cholera statistics of those districts which are traversed by pilgrims, records the following opinion:—

"I think it unfair to infer that cholera is disseminated by pilgrims per se, or that they communicate the disease wherever they go. The fact is that when cholera, engendered by causes not yet definitely determined, and fostered by climatic influences or local insanitary conditions, is prevailing in any locality, pilgrims, if present there, suffer in common with the local residents, often more severely owing to fatigue, old age, debility, bad food or water, crowding, &c; but they do not import or communicate the disease. They, however, continue to suffer during their onward journey, if the wave of the disease is travelling in the same direction, and the people residing in the localities traversed by this wave also suffer along with them. The disease appears in places far removed from pilgrim routes, and it is during the dry months that it prevails with intense severity, generally in every district in Bengal Proper, whether pilgrims are present in them or not during that period."

A remarkable circumstance in the cholera history of the year is that in a very few instances was the disease found to have manifested itself in the crowds of people who assembled at the public fairs held for days together in the districts. This is attributed to the sanitary precautions adopted. Some noteworthy efforts were made to arrest the progress of cholera in places where it appeared in a virulent form. Special mention is made of the measures adopted by Mr. Collier, the Sub-Divisional Officer, and Dr. Barker, the Civil Surgeon of Serampore, and of the help rendered them by Mr. Finlay of the Hastings Jute Mills, in mitigating the severity and checking the spread of the disease in that town. The remarks made by the Sanitary Commissioner in paragraph 93 of his report, regarding the necessity for an improved water-supply at Pooree, have been communicated to the Public Works Department, and the question will be considered by the Lieutenant-Governor when at Pooree during his approaching visit to Orissa.

"The Suburbs of Calcutta again heads the list with an increase in mortality of nearly one per 1,000 of population, as compared with the death-rate of 1883. The mohullahs in it which formed the scene of greatest suffering were Balliaghatta, Entally, Bhowanipore and Watgunge. This Municipality was specially inspected by me and found in an extremely insanitary condition. A report embodying the defects and indicating remedies was sent to the Commissioners, and a copy thereof submitted to Government. An abstract of this report, with a note of the action taken by the Commissioners on the suggestions therein made, will be found in Appendix III to this report. Some of the officers of the Vaccination Department visited the Suburbs of Calcutta and several of the other localities where exceptional mortality from cholera occurred. Assistant Surgeon Priumber Mitter, Deputy Superintendent of Vaccination, Metropolitan Circles, records the following observations in connection with some localities in the Suburbs and in the North and South Suburban Towns. Manicktollah is the most filthy part of the Suburbs, the land behind houses being used as public latrines. In fact, all the bustees in this area are in an extremely insanitary condition from fæces and house refuse lying on the roadsides, lanes and bye-lanes and the ponds, hollows, and low lands being the receptacles of liquid sewage and filth. Garden Reach.—All the bustees here are in a similar insanitary condition with regard to conservancy, drainage, roads, &c. Sett Bagan and Ghose Bazar.—In these and the neighbouring bustees foul water holes, containing decaying vegetation, abounded; there are many filthy private privies; the water in two large tanks was filthy, green in colour and turbid and two of the smaller ones were covered with decomposing plants, their sides lined with rank vegetation, the water in them 'appearing like vegetable decoction emitting disagreeable odour.' Ballygunge.—Here the waste lands were found to be covered with litter and other refuse, and were resorted to for defæcation Gangarambusti and Wolfutbazar—These were found in their usual state of uncleanliness without any arrangement for the removal of sewage and refuse. Matiabrooj, Mooriali and Kanchisharak were so crowded as to prevent free perflation of air, and their courtyards and compounds were extremely filthy. In Ekbalpore some of the drains were filthy and obstructed, and the cowsheds full of decomposing litter and refuse. Baniapooker.—Here the drains were filthy and emitted a sickening odour, and the ditches and low lands covered with fæces, rank vegetation and refuse of every description. The water-supply in all its bustees was bad, drinking-water being taken without any regard as to its quality; many of the houses were deficient in ventilation, the ground about them damp, and no arrangements existed with regard to house scavenging Bhowanipore.—This place was in an indescribably insanitary condition, and its bustees do not admit of free scavenging. The tanks are foul and the drains, with few exceptions, are defective in level. Watgunge.—Some of the ditches here contained weeds, house sweepings, and human excreta, and the receptacles in one of the latrines were overflowing with fæces emitting an abominable odour. Kalighat in Tollygunge—Although some improvements had been effected, the sanitary condition of this locality is yet very defective with regard to scavenging, cleanliness, ventilation and crowding of huts. The latrines were most filthy, the vessels in them overflowing with decomposed bubbling fæces seats unclean, and the latrine too near a much-used tank belonging to the police. The remarks of Dr. Ghose, the Officiating Deputy Sanitary Commissioner of the Metropolitan Circles, who also visited most of the above-named localities, are equally condemnatory His reports also expose many extremely insanitary conditions obtaining at Cossipore, Baranagore, Barripore and Joynuggur thanas, and Baraset Municipality. I would be extending my Report to an undesirable length were I to reproduce all the defects disclosed in the reports of the Officers of the Vaccination Department. It will suffice to say that the above description applies mutatis mutandis to several other localities in the Suburbs, one of the largest and most important of the Municipalities in Bengal, and to other towns and thanas in the Province. It may be noted here that some judicious recommendations made by Dr. Ghose, after careful inquiry and inspection of several bustees in the Suburbs, do not appear from his later reports to have been followed by any action on the part of the municipal authorities."

It seems to the Lieutenant-Governor that it would be impossible for Government to approach the subject of a removal of these horrible conditions in different parts of the Suburban Municipality till the question of amalgamation is settled. At the same time he is convinced that, if the Suburban Municipality is unable or unwilling to cope with the state of things revealed by the Sanitary Commissioner's report, it is only by the amalgamation that any effective reform can be secured.

These remarks, together with a copy of paragraph 299 of the Report, will be communicated to the Committee appointed to consider the question of the amalgamation of a portion of the Suburbs with the town of Calcutta.

11. Small-pox prevailed in a more virulent form during the year 1884 than in the previous year. "The reported number of casualties amounted to 18,533 against 9,714 and the proportionate death-rate to population to ·28 per mille against ·14 per mille. The disease prevailed with more or less severity in 53 circles against 30, and was absent from 224 against 284; and it invaded 2·96 per cent. of the villages against 1·73 per cent." Of the total number of deaths, 2,711 were contributed by the urban and 15,822 by the rural circles. The areas in which the disease was most severely felt belonged to the districts of Gya (10), Sarun (8), Patna (7), Chumparun (5), and Hazaribagh (7). The districts of Gya and Sarun have not yet been brought under the operation of the Vaccination Act, and this no doubt accounts for the high death-rates returned by them. The same may be said of Chumparun, which has been only partially protected; and although Patna was reported to have been almost thoroughly protected, the number of deaths from small-pox in that district seems to contradict this statement. As in the previous year, the mortality was highest among children; no less than 72·27 per cent. of the total number of deaths were those of children under 12 years of age. The record of the seasonal incidence of the disease confirmed the experience of former years that small-pox is most prevalent during the hot months of March to June.

12. The total number of deaths from fever recorded during the year was 966,233, or a ratio of 14·60 per mille of the registered population, against 913,766, or a ratio of 13·81 in 1883. The registered mortality from this cause has steadily increased year after year since 1871, when the recorded number of deaths stood at 169,505, or a ratio of 2·56 per mille of population. With regard to this return, the Sanitary Commissioner states that the numerical increase is due to the facts revealed by improved registration, and that no circumstances have occurred to "justify the belief that the Province generally is getting more feverish than before." Of the total number of deaths, 584,893 were registered in Bengal Proper, 301,302 in Behar, 26,523 in Orissa, and 53,485 in Chota Nagpore. The death-rate per mille of population in each of these areas was 16·67, 13·02, 7 30, and 12·34 respectively. The districts which suffered most from fever were Rajshahye (30·40), Nuddea (29·22), Pubna (27·45), Jessore (22·41), Bogra (20·96), Gya (20 81), Moorshedabad (20·25), Beerbhoom (19·53), Burdwan (18·81), Khulna (18 52), Julpigoree (18·25), and Rungpore (17 09). The experience of the year again showed "that the severity of the disease begins and progresses in intensity after the rains have well set in, and is most virulent in January, October, November, and December, especially in the two latter months, when the evaporation of moisture from the sodden soil is rapid and the daily range of temperature considerable." As in the case of cholera, "the relationship of fever with the quantity of rainfall has always been a constant phenomenon." The local reports continue to show that fever is found to be most prevalent in those districts in which the soil is saturated with moisture, and the land is loaded with decaying organic matter owing to obstructed drainage due either to artificial deposits, or to the silting up of the beds of rivers and khals. It is no doubt true, as reported from many districts in Central and Eastern Bengal, that the process of silting is steadily going on throughout a very wide area, and extending its influence on health from year to year. The effect of drainage on fever is strikingly exemplified in the case of certain villages visited by Dr. Ghose, Officiating Deputy Sanitary Comissioner, in the Midnapore district. On the inner side of the embankment, along the right bank of the Roopnarayan river, is a group of well-drained villages, in which "no vestige of malarious cachexia, is to be seen in the people;" while on the outer side of the embankment, "the people of churs Najooreh and Bilkota living on churs generally inundated during the rains have well-marked signs of malarious disease in them." The Lieutenant-Governor notices the frequency with which the steeping of jute fibre in tanks and water-courses is spoken of in the present report as a harmful source of pollution of water, and consequently a probable cause of much disease. The matter is one to which local attention should also be specially directed, and the point should be specially noticed in the next report. The water-supply stations on the Eastern Bengal Railway were specially reported on in August 1884, in consequence of which measures have been taken by the Manager to improve the supply at some of the most important stations, and other improvements are in contemplation. The remarks of the Sanitary Commissioner regarding the silting up of the Kana and Sarasati nuddees in the Hooghly district will be considered in the Public Works Department.

13. The mortality during the year from "bowel-complaints," "injury," and "other diseases" was 58,376, 24,674, and 176,373 respectively. Compared with the statistics of the previous year, there was an increase under each of these heads, though not to a very noticeable extent. Under "injury" the largest number of deaths are again shown to have been occasioned by snake-bites and attacks of wild beasts. The recorded mortality from this cause was 10,393 against 9,776 in 1883. Accidents stood high in the list of casualties, the number having been 10,078 against 8,727 in 1883. Among "other diseases," heat apoplexy and scurvy caused more suffering among the European seamen who visited the port during 1884 than in the previous year

14. The work of the Vaccination Department continued to progress during the year 1884-85. The total number of operations performed was 1,488,296 against 1,364,642, the number performed during the previous year, showing an increase of 123,654. Towards this increase the vaccination circles contributed 114,483 and the municipal area 9,171 operations, as exhibited in the following table:—

Of the total number of operations in the year, 421,274 were performed by the Government agency, 976,226 by licensed agency, 4,760 by the Bovine Vaccination Department, and 86,036 by municipal vaccinators, dispensary medical officers, &c. Comparatively speaking, the largest amount of work was done by the Government vaccinators, each of whom performed on an average 1,280 operations. The licensed vaccinators performed on an average 915 operations each. It is believed that better results would have been obtained from the licensed system of vaccination, were it not for the difficulty which is experienced by the licensed vaccinators in realizing the fees for operations performed by them. It appears to the Lieutenant-Governor that this difficulty would not be felt, in places where the Compulsory Vaccination Act is in force, if in each case the fee were demanded before the operation was performed. The law, if rigidly enforced, would compel the people to seek vaccination, and the licensed vaccinators, to whom the people would have to go, would be able to refuse to perform the operation without prepayment. Protection was afforded for the first time by Government vaccinators to four thannas in the Tipperah district, two thanas in the Noakhally district, six thanas in the Cuttack district, and four thanas in the district of Shahabad. On the other hand, nine thanas in the district of Mymensingh, and the whole of the Patna district, were for the first time placed under the licensed system of vaccination, after having been traversed by the Government vaccinators. In addition to the areas protected in former years, the whole of the districts of Tipperah and Pubna, and parts of the districts of Manbhoom, Lohardugga, and Cuttack, were reported to have been thoroughly protected at the close of the season 1884-85. The Sanitary Commissioner, however, shows that the words "thorough protection" must not be construed too literally. Even in the Metropolitan Circles, in which the districts have been reported year after year to be "thoroughly protected," many whole villages have been found by Dr. Ghose, the Officiating Superintendent, which have up to this time successfully resisted vaccination. In the Midnapore district alone there are no less than 356 villages in which the whole or a large portion of the inhabitants are still unprotected. Until the strong prejudices against vaccination, which still prevail in the minds of a considerable section of the population in all parts of the Province, are overcome, thorough protection, in the literal sense of the words, will be impracticable.

15. The following table exhibits the number of primary and secondary operations performed during the year 1884-85 in the different circles (including municipalities), and the percentage of successful cases under each :—

The reason assigned for the comparatively small number of operations performed in the Orissa Circle is that the districts of Balasore and Pooree were excluded from the sphere of operations for the year, and that in some of the selected areas of the Cuttack district, vaccine operations had to be stopped in the middle of the season owing to an outbreak of cholera. In the Sonthal Pergunnahs Circle, where the work performed was unfavourably reported on in 1883-84, the number of operations rose considerable. The increase is said to have been caused by work having been carried on largely during the recess, to suppress outbreaks of small-pox in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, Bhagulpore, and Monghyr districts. It was also due in part to the exertions of the new Superintendent. The Lieutenant-Governor learns with regret that much of the work of the Government vaccinators in the district of Shahabad was retarded in consequence of an order issued by the Magistrate, permitting certain inoculators to vaccinate, and forbidding police interference with them. It appears that some of these men not only induced people to refuse vaccination by the Government vaccinators, but, under cover of the licenses granted to them, practised inoculation even in thanas where the prohibitory law is in force. The Lieutenant-Governor will await the result of the Sanitary Commissioner's enquiry into this matter. Compared with the figures of the previous year, there was an increase in the number of children brought under protection in the year 1884-85; but fewer adults were vaccinated than in the previous year.

16. During the year under review, the provisions of the Compulsory Vaccination Act were extended to the towns of Kotechandpore in Jessore, Deoghur, Sahebgunge, Dumka, and Rajmehal in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, Brahmanbaria and Commilla in Tipperah, Darjeeling, Cuttack, Bali in Howrah, Sherpore in Bogra, Patna, Durbhunga, Hazareebagh, Purneah, and Pooree, and to five thanas in Tipperah. The law is now in force in 81 towns, 4 cantonments, and 9 rural areas, and preliminary steps have been taken to extend it to the Chittagong and Sudharam municipalities. With a few exceptions, such as Gya, Monghyr, and Bhagulpore, the law met with comparatively less resistance in the places in which it was enforced during the year 1884-85 than in previous years. It is evident that the measure is being gradually more appreciated by the Mahomedans, and that the Rajpoots and Marwaris, who have always stoutly resisted it, are in many places less persistent in their opposition. In Burdwan, owing to the presence of small-pox, operations had to be carried on throughout the year, and it is stated that the Marwaris, who were at the outset strongly hostile to the measure, at last acquiesced and allowed their children to be vaccinated. Experience of the beneficial effects of vaccination is slowly, but surely, popularizing it wherever it is introduced: it is a work of time, and inoculation is still a powerful rival; but every year shows that the superiority of vaccination is more generally acknowledged.

17. A very large number of the operations during the year were performed with bovine lymph, which is still spoken of as "equal in operative power to humanized lymph." Its only drawback is that when stored in tubes it soon deteriorates, on account of the serum of blood which passes into the tube with the virus when squeezed from the vesicle on the calf, and when conveyed to long distances its efficacy is lost in consequence of this deterioration during transit. When used direct from the calf its efficacy is indisputable. On the whole, the work performed with this lymph was successful, and the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to learn that the prejudice against it entertained by the Hindus is dying out. The one great advantage which bovine lymph has over humanized lymph is that it is easily obtained, and that the supply is always equal to the demand.

18. The total amount expended on vaccination during the year 1884-85 was Rs. 1,51,448-14-4, exceeding the expenditure, in the previous year by Rs. 15,853-15-6. Of the total expenditure, Rs. 73,663-9 represent the cost of the operations performed by the Government vaccinators, Rs. 67,082-15-8 the cost of the establishment provided by Government for supervising the operations of the licensed vaccinators, and Rs. 10,702-5-8 the cost of vaccination to municipalities. In addition to the regular expenditure, Rs. 1,201-11, which were received as private contributions from various sources, were expended in aid of the work The average cost of each successful operation performed by the Government vaccinators was 2 annas and 10 pies; that by the licensed vaccinators 1 anna and 1 pie; and that by the municipal agency 2 annas and 2 pies On the whole, the average cost of each operation performed during the year was 1 anna and 8 pies, the same as it was in the previous year.

19. The percentages of municipal income expended on sanitary works and roads during the year 1884-85 were 38 and 19 against 34 and 18 respectively in the previous year. The districts in which the largest proportion of municipal income was devoted to improvements in sanitation were Julpigoree, Dacca, Hazaribagh, Burdwan, Pooree and Midnapore. The towns in the districts of Mymensing, Khulna, Bogra, and Noakholly were most deficient in this respect. The special purposes for which the municipal allotments for sanitation were expended during the year 1884, compared with the figures for the year 1883, are shown in the following statement:—

Nature of work.	Total cost.		Difference in 1884.
	In 1884.	In 1883.	Increase.	Decrease.

Total including roads ..	18,61,367	17,54,090	1,07,277	68,922

There was an increase of expenditure under all heads except establishment and water-supply.

20. Among the important sanitary works carried out during the year 1884, the Burdwan water-supply takes a leading place. The water-works were formally opened by the Lieutenant-Governor on the 4th November, and the regular supply of water commenced from the 1st December 1884. The beneficial effect of the improved water-supply on the inhabitants of the northern portion of the town where the pipes are laid, 99 per cent. of whom are said to use the water, is unquestionable. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that it will not be long before the supply is extended to the southern portion of the town, the inhabitants of which still resort to the Banka Nulla and the Eden Canal. Very slow progress appears to have been made with regard to the proposed water-supply scheme for all the riparian municipalities on the right bank of the Hooghly from Howrah to Serampore. The services of a Government Engineer have been lent for the purpose of preparing the necessary estimates, and it is hoped that some definite project will be adopted before the close of the current year. A scheme of water-supply for the town of Bhagulpore has been sanctioned by Government, and the work is being carried on as rapidly as possible. Some attention was devoted to the improvement of drainage during the year, but very much still remains to be done in this direction, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the suggestions made from time to time by the Sanitary Department on the subject will not be disregarded by the local bodies to whom they have been communicated. During the year 1884, much attention was paid by the Government to the insanitary condition of Calcutta and its Suburbs, and steps were taken with the view of remedying the evils which have been shown to exist.

21. The Lieutenant-Governor observes with satisfaction the improvement in the amount of sanitary work performed by the officers of the Vaccination Department. The record of the observations made by these officers is interesting, and cannot fail to help on the cause of sanitation. The work of the Department affects the well-being of some 68 millions of people; and if the progress is slow, the result is due to the apathy and, sometimes, hostility of the people to any measure of reform, and to the cost involved in any practical schemes of improvement. There is also the fact that outside of municipalities there is no law by which the officers of the Department can enforce their remedies. Even, however, if the advice given to the inhabitants of the villages inspected is not immediately followed by action, it is in itself an advantage to the Province to have so many qualified medical officers thoroughly acquainted with the sanitary condition of the areas under their charge; and with the introduction of the Local Self-Government Act, when funds are made available for local improvements, the question of village sanitation should, at any rate in the more advanced districts, be taken up in real earnest. The detailed remarks of the Sanitary Commissioner upon his subordinates will be communicated to the Appointment Department for information. Finally, the thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to Dr. Lidderdale for his report, which, though too lengthy and diffuse, is full of interesting and valuable information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. WARE EDGAR,

Offg. Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE FOREST ADMINISTRATION REPORT FOR 1884-85.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—FORESTS.

Darjeeling, the 31st October 1885.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Progress Report of Forest Administration in Bengal for 1884-85.

The Report has been submitted by Mr. A. L. Home, who was in charge of the Department throughout the year. It reached Government considerably after the prescribed date—a fact which is not adequately explained by the circumstance that during part of the year the Conservator had executive charge of the Darjeeling Division in addition to his own office. Owing to the pressure of work in connection with the floods in Bengal, the consideration of the Report by Government has been unavoidably postponed.

The Report is full to a degree. Consisting of 52 quarto pages of text, besides 45 pages of tabular statements and appendices, it leaves no detail of the year's administration untouched. Numerous topics, which have formed the subject of separate correspondence during the year, are here again brought to notice, and the result is that in the mass of unimportant and uninteresting details, the broad facts of administration, which alone it was necessary to set forth, are obscured. The Lieutenant-Governor must confess to a feeling of dissatisfaction at the size to which the Forest, as well as other annual reports are extending. Whatever the merits of administration in any department may be, those merits are greatly enhanced, in the Lieutenant-Governor's judgment, by the capacity to record its results in a concise and clear narrative; and certainly if the report of one year's forest work in Bengal requires a big volume to itself, the Lieutenant-Governor looks with despair to the duty which would devolve upon him in any adoption of a triennial system of reports. Steps are now being taken to reduce the size of other reports, and Sir Rivers Thompson desires that the Conservator shall, for his part, submit a plan whereby in future the size of his report may be diminished, without sacrifice of what alone it is material for Government to receive in the shape of an Annual Forest Administration Report.

2. Area of Forests.—The following statement shows the areas of the various classes of forests superintended by the Department during the year under report:—

Class of Forest.	Area in acres.
Reserved	3,124,267
Protected	1,470,376
District	2,760,563
Total ...	7,355,236
Proposed reserves not included under either District or Protected forests	147,980
Total	7,503,186

The variations of these figures from the corresponding areas shown last year are inconsiderable, and call for no special comment.

The forest areas specified above lie chiefly on the declivities and at the foot of the Himalayas in the Darjeeling and Julpigoree districts, in the Chittagong district, in the Sunderbuns, and in the Chota Nagpore and Orissa Divisions. In addition, however, to the forests under State control or supervision, there are considerable private forests in Bankoora and Midnapore in South-

Western Bengal, in the districts of Dacca and Mymensingh in Eastern Bengal, in Rungpore and Dinagepore in Northern Bengal, in Chumparun, in North Behar, in Shahabad and Monghyr in South Behar, in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, in Chota Nagpore, and in Orissa. Very great benefit would undoubtedly accrue to the owners of these private forests, as well as to the country generally, from the adoption of a system of conservancy adapted to the circumstances of each case. Some owners have already shown an intelligent interest in the matter; and it is to be hoped that the special report which has been called for by the Government of India, in regard to the extent of private forests in these Provinces, may lead to the general adoption of some simple rules of conservancy for the protection of these valuable properties. In this connection it may be mentioned that the Lieutenant-Governor has recently received a valuable report on the forests in the Chota Nagpore Division from the Inspector-General, Dr. Schlich. The report is under His Honor's consideration.

3. Demarcation and Surveys and Working Plans.—Some progress has been made during the year with the important work of forest demarcation and survey. The report for 1883-84 stated that the boundaries of 3,584 square miles of reserved forest had been completely surveyed, that the boundaries of 60 square miles had been partly surveyed, while the boundaries of 1,027 square miles remained untouched. The report under notice now shows that 130 miles of boundaries were newly demarcated at an average cost of Rs. 6-13 per mile, and 1,464 miles were re-cleared at a cost of Rs. 6-7 per mile. It is understood that, with slight exceptions, all the boundaries of the forests under the management of the Department were cleared, and the boundary marks repaired where necessary during the year. The total expenditure debited during the year to "Demarcation" was Rs. 10,309 (the cost per mile varying from Rs. 21-4 in the Buxa Division to Rs. 1-11 and Rs. 1-14 in the Singbhoom and Khoorda sub-divisions). The Conservator is collecting information which will enable him to compile an accurate statement of the length of boundaries of all the forests under the management of the Department. When this is done, it will be convenient to show against each forest the progress made in surveys and re-clearances with respect to it.

4. In regard to working plans, that is, definite schemes of working to be adhered to over long periods of time, the Lieutenant-Governor had understood that such plans had been completed for the forests of the Darjeeling Division, and for some forests in the Buxa and Kurseong Divisions. It is, however, stated in the report that experiments are now being conducted "in a selected area of forest, with a view to obtaining the factors of conversion and other data necessary for the correct estimation of the growing stock on which the detailed working plan of the Darjeeling working circle will be based." This statement needs explanation.

5. Establishments.—At present there is a combined list of Forest Officers for Bengal and Assam—an arrangement which is not without its inconveniences. Several alterations in the strength of the staff occurred during the year, but the only change which need be noted here was the increase in the strength of the Sub-Assistant Conservator class. This increase was very necessary, but owing to the want of suitable candidates it has not yet been carried out in its entirety.

At the close of the year the subordinate establishment (excluding clerks, peons, and menials) consisted of 20 forest rangers (out of 27 sanctioned), 78 foresters, and 297 forest guards. A forest ranger had on an average 575 square miles of forest to supervise, a forester had 149 square miles, and a forest guard had 40 square miles to watch. These figures do not include the area of proposed reserves, and they indicate a probable cause of the small measure of success which in some forests have attended the efforts at fire prevention. The forest staff, to be effective, needs strengthening in its lower ranks.

The Conservator records a large increase in the number of prosecutions of members of the subordinate staff. Eleven officers were charged with criminal misconduct during the year, out of which number, however, five were acquitted or discharged, indicating, in the Lieutenant-Governor's opinion, the necessity for greater care in the institution of prosecutions, or in the method of conducting them. Other forest officers, besides those criminally prosecuted, were departmentally punished during the year, and it seems desirable that the Conservator's enquiries should be directed into the causes of the apparent inferiority of a portion of the subordinate forest staff compared with the corresponding ranks in other departments of the public service

6. Breaches of Forest Law.—During the year 443 cases of breach of the Forest Law were taken into court, and 800 cases were compounded. The total number of cases (1,243) is much below the corresponding number (2,229) for the preceding year, the falling off being due to the large decrease of compounded cases, which, in the Sunderbuns, were 602 only in number as against 1,698 in the preceding year. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to learn from the Conservator that the decrease is due to better supervision resulting in fewer breaches of the law The results of prosecutions, which have been most frequent in Darjeeling and Orissa, also show that cases are not brought into court without adequate reasons.

7. Forest Fires.—In this branch of work special measures were taken during the year to preserve from fire (806,209 acres) 1,259 square miles of forest. Of that area, nevertheless, 279 square miles were burned, while 488 square miles of forest, not the subject of special protective measures, were also injured. The failure of protective measures may be localized to the Singbhoom and Angul forests, where about 230 square miles, or nearly one-half of the protected area, was burnt. In these forests protection was first attempted during the year under report, and the Conservator reports that it is very difficult to bring the Kols to understand that they must not light fires indiscriminately in reserved forests.

Of the total area of the reserves, covering 4,882 square miles, including those in which special measures were not adopted, the only forests which entirely escaped fire during the year were those in the Sunderbuns and Chittagong Divisions, and in the Hazaribagh sub-division. The Darjeeling and Teesta forests suffered only to a trifling extent. In Kurseong 3,899 acres were burned; in Palamow 12,000 acres, or 10·2 per cent. of the reserves, were burned; in Julpigoree 15,556 acres, or over 13 per cent. of the reserves, were burned; in Buxa 59,780 acres, or nearly 35 per cent., were burned. With the record of these extensive losses before him, it is scarcely necessary for the Lieutenant-Governor to press upon the Conservator the early prosecution of special measures for the protection of all reserves against fire. Omitting the Angul and Singbhoom forests from calculation, the measure of success obtained in the reserves in which fire protection has been well established is 94·2 per cent Mr. Richardson, the Divisional Officer of Buxa, deserves credit for his activity and success in saving his forests from fire in a dangerous season.

The expenditure on fire protection during the year amounted to Rs. 16,122. Having regard to the great importance of this department of forest work, the amount seems to the Lieutenant-Governor to be quite inadequate, and he desires that in the next budget a more liberal allowance be provided. The fire protection rules, which were made in December 1881 for the Darjeeling and Julpigoree Divisions, are now in force in the Hazaribagh, Lohardugga, and Angul forests.

8. Grazing.—The revenue realized from grazing and the sale of grass and leaves for fodder was Rs. 6,237 against Rs. 6.692 in 1883-84, and the number of cattle admitted into the forests fell from 28,276 to 24,649. Grazing rules for the Darjeeling and Khoorda forests are now under the Lieutenant Governor's consideration. Should the rules as submitted not provide for the cases referred to in the Conservator's 63rd and 74th paragraphs, a special report in regard to these matters should be submitted to Government. The question of cattle-grazing in forest tracts is not one which can be decided with reference to considerations of forest conservancy alone, and this qualification is specially applicable to the case of Darjeeling.

9. Natural reproduction, Plantation, and Cultural operations.—The Conservator's remarks under these headings show that good work was done by the Department during the year. The experiment of opening out the soil in the Buxa Reserve by driving elephants through the forests with light logs attached to them has been a success, and where this has been done, followed by broadcast sowing of sâl seed to assist natural reproduction, seedlings have come up plentifully.

The record of plantations stands as follows:—

	Area in acres.
	At beginning of the year.	Added during the year.	At close of the year.
Regular plantations	1,740	261	2,001
Other cultural operations (i.e. chiefly filling up of blank spaces in the forests in assistance of natural reproduction)	823	111	934
Total ...	2,563	372	2,935

Of the area thus planted, hill trees, principally oak and tun, cover 982 acres; teak, plains tun, sâl and other plains trees cover 1,581 acres; bamboos 312 acres; and the 60 remaining acres include small plantations and nurseries of conifers, mango, jack, divi-divi (Cæsalpinia coriaria), India-rubber tree, rain-tree (Pithecolobium saman), paper mulberry (Broussonetia papyrifera). &c. The divi-divi seedlings in the Buxa Reserve were devastated during the year by field rats, which destroyed all but 561 plants in a block of 45 acres. The mahogany sowings appear to have been moderately successful in the Chittagong Division, but to have failed elsewhere. The expenditure under the head of Planting and cultural operation in the year was Rs. 10,500.

10. Communications and Buildings.—One hundred and five miles of new roads were opened during the year, and 320 miles were repaired, at a total cost of Rs. 12,588. Good progress was made in the Chota Nagpore Division, where there is much need for opening the forests for export.

11. Working and yield of the Forests.—The yield of the forests for the year is stated as follows:—

Grand Total of all Forests	5,654,481	16,349,408	21,710,126	39,28,870

Removal of timber and other produce of the forests of these Provinces is effected for the most part by private agency, and in the year under review the timber and fuel removed by the agency of the Department (which worked directly chiefly in the Buxa and Darjeeling forests) amounted only to 1·3 and 2 per cent. respectively of the total yield.

There was a falling off in the year under review in the operations of permit-holders under all the heads given in the above table, except under the head of "Bamboos," as compared with the total yield of the forests in the year 1883-84, which was shown as follows:—

Timber.	Fuel.	Bamboos.	Minor produce.
C. ft.	C. ft.	No.	Mds.

It will be seen that there was a decrease of 812,000 cubic feet in the removals of timber and of 2,684,000 cubic feet in the removals of fuel. The decrease in the removals of timber and fuel is especially noticeable for the Sunderbuns and Kurseong Divisions; the decrease in the case of fuel was great also in the Chittagong Division. From the reserved forests of the Sunderbuns Division (which yielded 70 per cent. of the whole outturn of wood brought out of the forests managed by the Department), 542,000 cubic feet of timber less than in the previous year, and 2,020,000 cubic feet of firewood less than in the previous year, were worked out during the year. The decreased working of the forests of this Division is attributed, as in the case of the previous year, to the fact that timber-dealers have been holding off in their operations on account of changes recently made in the permit system, whereby permits are given for shorter periods, and on account of better supervision which now prevents two or more cargoes of timber or fuel being exported on payment for a single load. Large stocks accumulated in and round Calcutta in previous years have enabled dealers to hold off in the last two years; but since the close of the year under review, an active demand has again set in. In the Kurseong Division the decrease of demand is due to the fact that large clearings have recently been made for tea cultivation, and the demand of dealers has been in great part met from the newly-cleared area, "the managers of the gardens being glad to get rid of the forest produce cut at merely nominal rates." The same cause has been at work in the Julpigoree Division. The decreased working of timber in the Chittagong Division is due to the local market having been overstocked from heavy fellings in the previous year. There was an increased outturn during the year from the Darjeeling and Teesta Divisions.

The important part played by fakirs in the working of the Sunderbuns forests deserves a word of passing notice. They accompany parties of wood-cutters in these forests to protect them by their religious observances from tigers. Notwithstanding the presence of these fakirs, it is reported that tigers made great havoc among the wood-cutters during the year, killing no less than 116 men. Among those killed were two fakirs in charge of paras or wood-cutters' stations. "Several paras were abandoned because of the number of men carried away from them by tigers, and in one case 17 wood-cutters were carried away from a single para on the Bhudder river, before the remainder lost faith in the fakir in charge."

12. Financial results.—The following table compares the financial results of the working of the Department during the last two years:—

YEAR.	Receipts.	Charges	Surplus.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
1884-85	5,71,152	4,11,915	1,59,237

The expenditure of the year under review was higher than it has been in any previous year; while the receipts were less than any of the preceding three years. The explanation given of the increase in expenditure would seem to indicate that the increase is not of a permanent character, and that, as far at all events as it has been incurred in the Chota Nagpore Division, it is of the nature of reproductive expenditure.

As in former years, the paying divisions are the Sunderbuns and Chittagong Divisions only. All the other Divisions show deficits on their working, ranging from Rs. 5,300 in the Teesta Division to Rs. 49,000 in Chota Nagpore.

13. Conclusion.—Notwithstanding the falling off in the receipts of the year, which are believed to be entirely due to temporary causes, the Lieutenant-Governor observes with satisfaction that the year has been one of substantial progress in forest administration. The policy of the Department has been steadily directed to increasing the permanent resources of the forests of these Provinces, and the annual surpluses have never been obtained, though they might often have been increased, by discounting the future. The only matter of importance which seems to have escaped attention during the year is the question of village fuel preserves. Much has been written regarding it, but nothing practical has yet been attempted. It is pre-eminently a question in which the Conservator should consult with the Director of the Agricultural Department.

The Lieutenant-Governor desires to repeat the commendation expressed on former occasions of Mr. Home's zealous and efficient management of the Department. Mr. Home makes favourable mention of all the controlling staff who were employed under him during the year, with one exception. His remarks will be noted in the Appointment Department.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

A. P. MACDONNELL,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

CALCUTTA, the 2nd November 1885.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 30TH OF OCTOBER 1885.

At the close of the previous week the weather over the whole of South Bengal and Orissa was in a slightly disturbed condition. This was owing to the advance over the west coast of the Bay of a diffused depression, which gave very heavy rain along certain parts of the west coast, and the disturbance spreading out in a northerly direction gave clouded skies, increased humidity and temperature and light rain over the whole of South Bengal and Orissa. On the Friday these conditions were slowly and gradually disappearing, but they continued to exist in a feeble form for the first two or three days of the present week. During this period, however, the southerly winds which were still blowing over a large part of the province were being gradually driven back by a dry westerly and north-westerly wind current, and in their gradual retreat the southerly winds gave rise to a few local, but in some cases rather heavy, showers, particularly at the stations near the coast line. By the 27th and 28th these dry winds had become fairly well established, and they continued to blow, becoming more northerly as the week advanced, up till the 30th. On the 29th and 30th heavy rain commenced to fall at the southern stations on the west coast, and this appeared to be the setting in of the Madras rains, for all the stations from Masulipatam down to Galle received amounts of rain varying from about three up to five inches on these two days. The indraught towards the coast accompanying this rainfall increased the steadiness and to a certain extent the strength of the northerly current in Bengal, and at the end of the week the conditions were clearly those of the north-east monsoon or cold weather; the sky had cleared rapidly, and had become almost cloudless, humidity had decreased with great rapidity, and temperature had fallen by many degrees. So rapid was the fall of the night temperatures that at two or three stations the differences between two consecutive nights was nearly 10°, and the average nightly reduction of temperature at the majority of stations during the last three or four days of the week was about 2° or 3°.

On the first day of the week rainfall was general in Orissa and East Bengal, and for the first two or three days showers continued to occur in the same districts, and also in South and North Bengal. Temperature, humidity, and cloud proportion were also high during this period over a large portion of the province, and thus the first half of the week was a complete contrast in every respect to that of the second half of the week.

The changes of pressure have been small and variable throughout the week, and the variations from the normal, though rather irregular at neighbouring stations, are unimportant. Thus at Cuttack there is a slight, but distinct, excess pressure amounting to 0·02″, while at Saugor Island and Calcutta pressure is distinctly below the normal. Generally speaking, pressure has been slightly below the normal, or normal over the whole of Behar, and West and South-West Bengal, while there has been a distinct excess pressure at the eastern stations and in Orissa. The average variation from normal pressure over the whole province has been an excess of only 0·002″, so that it has been almost absolutely normal.

As stated above, the temperature for the first half of the week was decidedly high, while in the second half it experienced a very rapid fall. For the whole week the average temperature of the province has been above the normal by rather less than 1°, but the excess temperature has been mainly confined to Chutia Nagpur, South Behar, Orissa and East Bengal In South-West Bengal temperature has been practically normal, and in North Behar it has been distinctly below it. The decrease of temperature which has taken place in the week has been principally in the night temperatures, and thus the mean minimum temperature for the whole week for the districts of North and South Behar is nearly 8° lower than during the previous week; in South-West and North Bengal the fall has averaged about 6°, while in Orissa and Chutia Nagpur the fall has averaged nearly 4° during the week.

The rainfall for the week has been practically confined to Orissa and East Bengal. South-West Bengal and North Bengal, except for a few local showers, have been rainless, and North and South Behar and Chutia Nagpur report absolutely no rain. In Orissa, which has received the largest amount, and where the rain has been fairly general, the average fall is only 0·63 inch. The normal fall for the week is 1·61 inches, so that the actual amount received is little more than a third of the normal. In East Bengal the average fall has been only equal to 0·22 inch, but the fall has not been evenly distributed, and the largest and most general rain has been received in the Chittagong and Tipperah districts, while other districts have been almost rainless. In South-West Bengal, as above stated, only local falls occurred, and those were principally in the Midnapore and 24-Pergunnahs districts.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 30th of October 1885 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

The 2nd November 1885.

B. LIDDERDALE, M.D., Deputy Surgeon-General,

Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal.

MEMORANDA.

THE table appended to this memoranda furnishes the following particulars in connection with the registration of births and deaths in the principal Municipalities in Bengal during the week ending 17th October 1885.

1. That the mean birth and death-rates stood at 23·4 and 33·8 per 1,000 of population, respectively, in opposition to 27·9 and 37·4 per 1,000, respectively, during the preceding week ending 10th October, indicating a noticeable diminution in the registration of both events.

2. That the following Municipalities furnished the highest proportions of births and deaths:—

Births.

	Ratio per mille.
Comillah	50·1
Purneah	48 5
Durbhanga	37·8
Chittagong	37 6
Gya	34·9
Mozufferpore	32·8

Deaths.

	Ratio per mille.
Purneah	62 3

Puri	52 5
Bhagulpore	48·9
Beauleah	42 0
Suburbs of Calcutta	39·3
Mozufferpore	32·8
Monghyr	32·5

3. That the mortality from the principal diseases exhibited below, contrasted with the death-rates from the same causes in the preceding week, stands as follows:—

	Ratio per mille during the weeks ending— 17th October 1885.	10th October 1885.
Cholera	1·3	2 0
Small-pox	·03	·1
Fever	17·0	17 5
Bowel-complaints	6·0	6·7
Injury	·5	·5
Other causes	8 8	10·5

The above figures indicate that there was a diminution of mortality from every death-cause, excepting injury, notably from the maladies recorded under the head of "Other causes."

4. That of the above-named diseases, while cholera proved noticeably fatal only in the Gya town, viz., at the rate of 6·1 per 1,000 of population, and the casualties from small-pox and injury were nowhere conspicuously large, fever, bowel-complaints, and "other causes" proved most fatal to life in the following Municipalities:—

Fever.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The natives remaining as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans here alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

INCREASE. Tons.

Edible grain 1,512

This increase is due to the high rate consequent on the floods on account of the breakage of Laltiakuri embankment.

Piece-goods 42

This increase is due to Eastern Bengal State Railway being flooded and the goods for Rampore Beauleah carried by this li[ne]

Sundries 65

This increase probably is due to high rates consequent on the floods.

Revenue stores 67

This is due to more stores carried during this month.

DECREASE.

Coal 349

This decrease is due to previous stock not exhausted.

Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTICE.

The 6th November 1885.—The following draft Rules, which it is proposed to issue under sections 21, 50 (clause 1) and 51 (clause 1) of Act VI of 1884, is published for general information. The Rules will be taken into consideration on the expiry of a month from the date of the first publication of the Rules in the Calcutta Gazette. The Lieutenant-Governor will receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the rules before the period specified above.

J. WARE EDGAR,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal

UNDER the powers conferred upon him by section 21 of Act VI of 1884 (the Inland Steam-vessels Act), and, with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following rules for the survey of Inland Steam vessels:—

Time and place of survey.

1. Surveys shall be made at the Ports of Calcutta, Chittagong, Patna, Cuttack, Goalundo, Kooshtea, Dehree, Khoolna, and at such other places, as may, from time to time, be declared by the Local Government to be places of survey upon due notice or application from the owner, on any day in the year, with the exception of Sundays and Government holidays, by the Surveyor or Surveyors appointed under the Act. The declarations of surveyors will be made and certificates of survey will be granted in the annexed forms on the payment of fees specified in the second Schedule annexed to the Act.

Surveyors' duties.

2. The Surveyors will be guided by the rules hereunto annexed in making their survey. In cases where two Surveyors are employed, the Engineer-Surveyor will survey the engines, boilers, and all the machinery required to be surveyed under the Act. The Ship-wright Surveyor will inspect the hull, equipments, and passenger accommodation; measure and determine the number of passengers the vessel is fit to carry, and see that the certificates of the master, mates, and engineers are such as is required by the Act; also that the lights and fog signals are in accordance with the regulations for the prevention of collisions at sea.

3. Owners of steam-vessels requiring survey are requested to give the Surveyor at least three days' notice in writing when a survey is required, and are warned that, should such notice fail to be given, the Surveyor is not responsible for any delay or inconvenience which may occur in consequence.

Particulars to be given in notice.

4. This notice (which is to be preserved by the Surveyor) must state explicitly the name of the steamer to be surveyed, and the time when, and place at which, she will be ready for inspection.

Surveyor to attend at appointed time.

5. In order to prevent inconvenience and delay to the owners, the Surveyors are to be careful to be in attendance at the appointed time and place. Should they be unable to attend as required, notice should be given to the owners to that effect.

Survey if delayed.

6. Should a steamer not be ready for inspection at the time arranged, the Surveyors may make such arrangements for the subsequent survey as may be convenient to the owner or his agent. All expenses arising out of this postponement will be charged against the owner when the certificate is issued.

SURVEYORS' DECLARATIONS.

Surveyors' declarations.

7. The Surveyor's declaration under section 9 of the Act shall be made in the form hereunto annexed. The particulars required to be given in the declaration for a certificate of survey are the following, which are treated of under separate heads:—

(1) That the hull of the vessel is sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition.

(2) That the boats, life-buoys, lights, signals, compasses, and shelter for deck passengers, and the certificates of the master, engineer or engineers, engine-driver or engine-drivers, are such and in such condition as required by these rules.

(3) The time (if less than 12 months) for which the said hull and equipments will be sufficient.

(4) The limits (if any) beyond which, as regards the hull and equipments, the vessel is, in the Surveyor's judgment, not fit to ply.

(5) The number of passengers (if any) which the ship is, in the Surveyor's judgment, fit to carry, distinguishing if necessary between the respective numbers to be carried on deck and in the cabins and in different parts of the deck and cabins: such numbers to be subject to such conditions and variations according to the time of the year, the nature of the voyage, the cargo carried, and other circumstances as the case requires.

The declaration of the Surveyor as to the boilers and machinery is to contain a statement of the following particulars:—

(1) That the machinery of the vessel is sufficient for the service intended, and is in good condition.

(2) The time (12 months or less) for which such machinery will be sufficient.

(3) That the safety valves and fire hose are such and in such condition as are required by these rules.

(4) The limits of the weight to be placed on the safety valves.

(5) The limits (if any) beyond which, as regards the machinery, the vessel is, in the Surveyor's judgment, not fit to ply.

When a Surveyor is, from any reason whatever, unable to complete his declaration, an incomplete declaration should be sent to those who applied for survey as soon as possible, stating in it the reasons for not being able to fill up all the particulars under the various headings. He must take care to obliterate all the items in this declaration that he is unable to certify to as being in accordance with the Acts and regulations.

Surveyors may go on board inland steam vessels.

8. Surveyors may go on board any vessel at any reasonable time for the purpose of inspecting either the certificates of the master, or engineer, or the vessel, the machinery, the boats, other equipments, or for any other purpose rendered necessary by the Act; and the owners, masters, and engineers of inland steam vessels are required by the Act to give to the Surveyors, on being requested so to do, all such information and assistance within their power as may be requisite for the purpose of making the returns required by the Act. In the performance of this part of their duties, Surveyors are to be careful to avoid impeding the duty of the vessel, or wilfully giving offence to any of the officers. If they should be hindered or obstructed by any person in the performance of their duties, they should communicate the facts without delay to the officer authorized to grant a certificate of survey for the vessel concerned.

Inspection to be made in the presence of owner, agent or responsible person.

9. Surveyors should, if possible, make their inspections when the agent, master or chief mate, and engineer of the vessel are present. Repairs can then be required, and defects can be pointed out to the proper persons without incurring the uncertainty and delay attendant upon messages delivered to the subordinate officers. If the owners do not instruct a responsible representative to be present, the Surveyors will of course make the survey in his absence.

Statement of repairs required to be given by Surveyors.

10. In order to prevent mistakes as to the nature and extent of repairs required by the Surveyors, whenever they cannot give a declaration until repairs are effected or alterations made, a written statement of the nature and extent of the defects to be remedied or alterations required should in all cases be given to the owner or agent, whether applied for by him or not. A copy of the above should always be taken in the office Press Letter Book.

If any difference of opinion arises between the Surveyors and the owners, manufacturers, or others, or any questions are raised, the facts should at once be reported to the officer authorized to grant a certificate of survey.

Declaration not to be given without great caution.

11. Surveyors are in no case to give a declaration either for the hull, machinery, boilers, or equipments of a steamer unless they are satisfied that all the requirements of the Act have been complied with.

It is the duty of the Surveyor to satisfy himself personally regarding every detail of the survey of a vessel, and not to trust to any certificate or other document given by any person not responsible to the Government.

Short declaration when to be granted.

12. In any case in which the Surveyor has reason to believe that the hull, machinery, boilers, or equipments are not fit for so long a time as the owner has applied for, he is to grant his declaration for such shorter period as he may deem expedient, informing the owners, if necessary, of his reasons for so doing. Unless it is the docking time only that limits his declaration, in accordance with the regulations, he is not to grant a declaration for an inland steamer for a shorter period than one month. In such cases, and also in cases in which the Surveyor refuses a declaration altogether, he is to give a statement in writing of the repairs he considers necessary to enable him to grant a declaration for the time asked. By this paragraph the Surveyor is to understand that an inland steamer that is not fit for a declaration for one month is not to be deemed by him as fit to hold a certificate at all.

Surveyor to complete survey where possible, but to sign only for details surveyed.

13. It is most desirable that a Surveyor should complete the survey of a vessel in every detail when he has commenced it, and if possible, arrangements should always be made to secure this. In exceptional cases, however, when this cannot be arranged, one or more Surveyors should complete the parts of the survey left unfinished. The Surveyor who commenced the survey should not sign a declaration for any details which he has not surveyed, and for which consequently he is not prepared to hold himself personally responsible. He can only relieve himself from entire responsibility for every detail by distinctly noting on his declaration that he has been unable to attend to certain details specified by him, and in respect only of the details so specified will his claim to irresponsibility be accepted.

The Surveyor or Surveyors who attend to the details of the survey which have been left unfinished should also give declarations for the particulars they have attended to. The supplementary declaration should be attached to the main declaration.

Refusal of declarations to be notified

14. A report should be made to the officer appointed to receive cancelled or suspended certificates of the name, port of registry, and official number of all vessels for which declarations are refused. This should be done as soon as possible after the vessel is withdrawn from survey, and full reasons for the refusal should be given.

A declaration for twelve months should not be granted whenever the Surveyor has any doubt whatever as to the efficiency of any part of the vessel, or her machinery, or equipments for such period.

EXAMINATION OF HULL, &c.

Hulls to be examined

15. Surveyors are to determine whether the hulls of inland steam-vessels are in good condition and fit for the service for which they are intended; and they are to examine the hulls of such vessels inside once at least in every year, at such time as is most convenient to the owners; and outside on a slip or in dry dock at least once every four years.

Owner should give notice when a vessel is in dry dock

16. Delays and inconvenience may to a great extent be prevented if notice is given by owners when a vessel, which requires a certificate, is undergoing repairs, or is in dry dock for any other purpose, as this notice might obviate the occasional necessity of re-docking a vessel at an inconvenient time. Surveyors should explain this to owners or their agents whenever an opportunity occurs.

New vessels to be surveyed before being painted or cemented

17. A survey made only after the hull is complete, and is cemented and painted, cannot be regarded as a satisfactory survey of a new steam vessel. Surveyors should therefore decline to grant declarations for any new steamer, unless they inspected her before she was painted or cemented. Any survey made while the vessel is being built is not to interfere with the complete inspection afterwards, but is to be made solely with a view of enabling the Surveyors to form an opinion of the workmanship, material, and construction.

The bottoms of new vessels need not be examined in dry dock after launching, if they have been examined by the Surveyor before launching, unless he has special reasons for considering it necessary.

Water-tight collision bulkheads
Other bulkheads

18. A collision water-tight bulkhead should be fitted in all steamers. As regards bulkheads, the Surveyors should not refuse to grant a declaration upon the ground that they are not fitted, or are defective, unless they are of opinion that the want of, or the defective state of, the bulkheads renders the vessel unsafe.

Examination of the bottom outside.

19. In no case should a Surveyor grant a declaration for a steamer, the outside of the bottom of which has not been examined either on a slip way or in a dry dock by a Surveyor during the four years preceding the date of survey.

20. For examining the internal parts of the vessel, they should have parts of the ceiling removed, in order that they may ascertain the condition of the hull; they should also carefully examine the cement to ascertain its condition, and where they find it cracked or doubtful, they should extend their examination, and cause such a portion of the cement to be removed as may, in their judgment, be necessary to enable them to form a correct opinion as to the state of the vessel covered by the cement. The roses for the deck pumps, also those for the bilge pumps, should be taken out of the bilges and cleaned, and the sluices and cocks on the bulkheads inspected and put in good working order.

Ceiling to be removed as Surveyor thinks necessary.

21. The Surveyors should examine very particularly the plating, stringers, frames, floors, &c., in the engine-room, boiler space, and coal bunkers, the bunkers of course being empty.

Examination of vessel in engine-room, coal bunkers, &c.

22. The date of the last outside inspection of the bottom is to be entered in the declaration, as it is from that date that the docking time is to count. If the hull is not passed at all, or not passed for the maximum time (12 months), the fact should be noted in the declaration for the vessel. The repairs which have been executed from time to time should be recorded in the office book.

BOATS AND LIFE-BUOYS.

23. It will be the duty of the Surveyor to take care that all steam vessels are provided with the boats required by these rules, both as to number and cubic contents, and to see that they are efficient and in good order and ready for service, subject to the rules contained in these instructions.

Dimensions of boats

Surveyors are not to insist upon the precise lengths, breadths, and depths inserted in the table, but are to approve of any efficient boats of sufficient strength, the cubic contents of which are respectively equal to, or greater than, the cubic contents of the boats specified in the table.

To ascertain the cubic capacity of a boat, measure the length and breadth outside and the depth inside. Multiply them together and by ·6: the product is the apacity of the boat in cubic feet.

Rule for ascertaining the capacity of boats.

24. The Surveyors should see that in all boats the full complement of oars, including steering oar and two spare oars at least, are provided (in large boats more than two spare oars ought to be provided); that each boat has two plugs for each plughole, attached with lanyards and chains, and one set and a half of thole pins or crutches attached to the boat by sound lanyards; a bailer, a rudder and tiller, or yoke and yoke lines; painter of sufficient length, and a boat hook, the rudder and bailer to be attached to the boat by sufficiently lon, lanyards, and kept ready for use.

Requisites for use in boats.

BOAT SCALE.

	Tons.	Tons.		Cubic capacity.
Vessels	of 100 and under	200	one boat of	120 ft.
,,	of 200 and upwards		two boats of	600 ,,

25. As regards life-buoys. No life-buoy stuffed with rushes or with cork shavings or other shavings, or granulated cork, or any loose material should be passed. All cork life-buoys should be built of solid cork and fitted with life-lines and loops securely seized to the life-buoy, and none should be passed that will not float for 24 hours in water with 32 lb. of iron suspended from them. If life-buoys are not made of solid cork, then any other strong life-buoy of an approved pattern

may be passed that is capable of floating in the water for 24 hours with 40 lb. of iron suspended from it. No contrivance is to be passed as a life-buoy that requires inflation before use. Life-buoys with lines attached should be secured by a toggle and becket, or any other similar method, so that they can be quickly released; they must not be lashed nor seized to the rail or any other part of the vessel but must be kept so as to be ready for use at a moment's notice in case of an emergency.

Steam-launches must carry two life-buoys: vessels other than steam-launches and carrying passengers should carry life-buoys in the ratio of three for every 100 passengers carried; the maximum number need not exceed 12.

Deck pumps to be fitted.

26. There must be for each compartment a pump of sufficient size which can be worked from the upper deck. A rose or perforated box of sufficient size should be fitted at the end of the suction pipe of each pump, and means provided for clearing the end of the suction pipe. A trunk-way leading from the upper deck to the suction of each pump, large enough for a man to go down to the end of the suction pipe, is the best arrangement for this purpose. If portable pumps only are supplied, there must be a trunk-way left in each hatchway leading to the bottom of each compartment.

Deck pumps, when not worked by machinery, should have handles at least long enough for two men to work at them.

Helm indicators.

27. In passing a helm indicator, the Surveyor should ascertain by actual trial that whenever the pointer moves to the word "port" on the dial or plate, wherever that word may be, it shows that the helm is ported, and, whenever the pointer points to the word "starboard," wherever that word may be, it means that the helm is starboarded.

Meaning of port helm.

28. In the foregoing directions, it is assumed that "port helm" means that the helm is so moved as to turn the ship's head to the right, and "starboard helm" means that the helm is so moved as to turn the ship's head to the left.

The man at the helm should be so placed in steamers that frequent crowded harbours or rivers that he has a clear look-out ahead.

Leads and lines.

29. Inland steam vessels plying to places beyond thirty miles from Port of Survey must have on board two hand lead-lines of 25 fathoms each with leads of at least 7 lb. in weight each.

Anchors, chains, cables, hawsers, warps, &c.

30. Surveyors must be very careful to see that each steam-vessel they survey is provided with chain cables and anchors duly certified under the Chain Cable Acts. When the stream and kedge anchors exceed 168 lb. in weight, they also must be tested in accordance with the same Acts. The Surveyors must also see that the chain cables and anchors on board are sufficient for the service and in good condition. The chain cables must be removed from the chain lockers at least once in 12 months, cleaned if necessary, and the pins knocked out of the shackles. The shackle pins should be secured by small pins of hard wood. The spare anchors should not be stowed below, but kept where they will be ready in case they are required. Proper hawsers and warps must also be supplied.

Compass to be fitted.

31. Inland steam-vessels plying to places beyond thirty miles from Port of Survey shall be supplied with a compass properly fixed and adjusted.

Rocket lockers.

32. The locker for keeping the rockets, blue lights, &c., should not be air-tight, but should have sufficient small safe openings to allow of the escape of any moisture generated: by this means the rockets, blue lights, &c., can be kept for a long period.

33. Vessels of 100 tons and upwards must be fitted with a steam fire pump; vessels of 200 tons and upwards must be supplied with a portable fire-engine in addition to the steam pump, suitable hose, and conductors, to be fitted; and in length sufficient to reach any part of the vessel. At least one fire-bucket to be carried for each of the crew. The fire-hoses should be connected stretched, to judge of their length, and thoroughly examined at every survey, and at least once a year (and at any other time that the Surveyor thinks it necessary) tested with the conductor in its place, by pumping water through them by the main or donkey engines at full speed. A proper conductor and metal bend or goose neck forms part of its equipment, and must be provided. Fire hose.

34. All decks and floors upon which passengers are carried must be caulked and properly secured. Sufficient light and ventilation must be provided. Proper and sufficient means of ingress and egress must be fitted. Deck to be caulked and have proper hatches. &c.

35. In steamers making short daily runs, the clear space on the main deck, below the main deck or cabin and the bridge deck may be measured. The divisors being for the different decks as follows:— Measurement for passengers.

Main deck	...	4·5 sq. ft. for each adult.
Below main deck or in cabin	...	9 " " "
Bridge deck	...	9 " " "

If the bridge deck be a continuous deck fore and aft and forms a permanent part of the structure of the vessel, and the vessel be sufficiently stable, it may be measured as the upper deck, in which case the decks below will be measured as below main decks at nine square feet for each adult.

For vessels making long voyages inland, and carrying coolies under the Inland Emigration Act, then the divisor will be nine square feet for each adult.

The upper or bridge deck is in no case to be measured, unless there be fitted a roof or sufficient protection from the sun, such as jaffery roof or awnings, that can be carried in all weathers.

36. All inland steam-vessels must be supplied with lights and fog signals in accordance with the rules for sea-going steam-ships. Small steam-launches may carry lights of a reduced size, but the Surveyor must satisfy himself as to their efficiency. A steam-whistle and a bell is be supplied in every case. In small steamers the mechanical fog horn may be dispensed with. Lights and fog signals.

BOILERS AND SUPERHEATERS.

37. In dealing with boilers that have been made in the United Kingdom, the Surveyor should accept the certificate of the Board of Trade as to pressure to be granted, provided the boilers have been made under the Board's inspection during construction and a test certificate granted by the Board of Trade is produced. In cases where no supervision or inspection has been made during construction the Surveyor should add the factor Y in the rule 44, and such other of the factors as may under the circumstances of the case appear necessary. Board of Trade test certificates.

38. The Surveyor is required by the Act to fix the limits of weight to be placed on the safety valves of inland steam-vessels. The Surveyor having himself fixed the limits of the weight is then required to declare that in his judgment the boiler and machinery are The Surveyor to fix pressure on safety valves.

sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition, and that they will be sufficient for twelve months or such other period as he may, in his judgment, determine. For his guidance the following directions are given.

Working pressure to be fixed by calculation.

39. The Surveyor should fix the working pressure for boilers by a series of calculations of the strength of the various parts and according to the workmanship and material. The Surveyors should therefore receive and report on any plans of boilers intended for inland steam-vessels that may be submitted in due course with the form of application and fees. They are not to report on any tracing or plan that is not accompanied by that form, or when they have reason to believe that the boilers, when finished, are not intended to be placed on board steamers that will require survey certificates. When the Surveyor has received plans and tracings of new boilers, or of alterations of boilers, and has approved of them, he will of course be careful in making his examinations from time to time to see that they are followed in construction. When he has not had the plans submitted, but is called in to survey a boiler, he will of course measure the parts, note the details of construction, and, if necessary, bore the plates to ascertain their thickness, &c., before he gives his declaration.

The Surveyor cannot declare a boiler to be safe unless he is fully informed as to its construction, material, and workmanship. He should therefore be very careful how he ventures to give a declaration for a boiler that he is not called in to survey until after it is completed and fixed in the ship.

Respecting stays.

40. In the case of new boilers the Surveyors may allow a stress not exceeding 7,000lb. per square inch of net section on solid iron screwed stays and supporting flat surfaces, but the stress should not exceed 5,000lb. when the stays have been welded or worked in the fire.

The areas of diagonal stays are found in the following way:—Find the area of a direct stay needed to support the surface; multiply this area by the length of the diagonal stay, and divide the product by the length of a line drawn at right angles to the surface supported to the end of the diagonal stay; the quotient will be the area of the diagonal stay required.

When gusset stays are used, their area should be in excess of that found in the above way.

Girders for flat surfaces.

41. When the tops of combustion boxes or other parts of a boiler are supported by solid rectangular girders, the following formula should be used for finding the working pressure to be allowed on the girders, assuming that they are not subjected to a greater temperature than the ordinary heat of steam; and in the case of combustion chambers, that the ends are fitted to the edges of the tube plate and the back plate of the combustion box:—

$$\frac{C \times d^2 \times T}{(W-P)\, D \times L} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

W = Width of combustion box in inches.
P = Pitch of supporting bolts in inches.
D = Distance between the girders from centre to centre in inches.
L = Length of girder in feet.
d = Depth of girder in inches.
T = Thickness of girder in inches.
C = 500 when the girder is fitted with one supporting bolt.
C = 750 when the girder is fitted with two or three supporting bolts.

C = 850 when the girder is fitted with four supporting bolts.

The working pressure for the supporting bolts and for the plate between them should be determined by the rule for ordinary stays.

42. The pressure on plates forming flat surfaces is found by the following formula :—

Flat surfaces of boilers.

$$\frac{C \times (T + 1)^2}{S - 6} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

T = Thickness of the plate in sixteenths of an inch.
S = Surface supported in square inches.
C = Constant according to the following circumstances.

C = 100 when the plates are not exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and the stays are fitted with nuts and washers, the latter being at least three times the diameter of the stay and two-thirds the thickness of the plates they cover.*

C = 90 when the plates are not exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and the stays are fitted with nuts only.

C = 60 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plates, and the stays fitted with nuts and washers, the latter being at least three times the diameter of the stay and two-thirds the thickness of the plate they cover.

C = 54 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plate, and the stays fitted with nuts only.

C = 80 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, with water in contact with the plates, and the stays screwed into the plate and fitted with nuts.

C = 60 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, with water in contact with the plate, and the stays screwed into the plate, having the ends riveted over to form a substantial head.

C = 36 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plates, with the stays screwed into the plate, and having the ends riveted over to form a substantial head.

When the riveted ends of screwed stays are much worn, or when the nuts are burned, the constants should be reduced; but the Surveyor must act according to the circumstances that present themselves at the time of survey; a .d it is expected that in cases where the riveted ends of screwed stays in the combustion boxes and furnaces are found in this state it will be often necessary to reduce the constant 60 to about 36.

The Surveyors should not in any case allow a greater compressive stress on the tube plates than is obtained by the following formula :—

Compressive stress on tube plates.

$$\frac{(D - d) \times 15000}{W \times D} = \text{Working pressure}$$

D = least horizontal distance between centres of tubes in inches.

d = inside diameter of ordinary tubes in inches.

T = thickness of tube plate in inches.

---

* If the diameter of riveted washers be at least $\frac{2}{3}$rds the pitch of the stays, and the thickness not less than the plates they cover, the constant may be increased to 150.

When doubling plates are fitted of the same thickness as the plates they cover, and not less in width than $\frac{2}{3}$rds of the pitch of the stays, the constant may be increased to 160.

When doubling plates cover the whole of the flat surface, the case should be submitted for the consideration of the Board.

W= extreme width of combustion box in inches from front of tube plate to back of fire box, or distance between combustion box tube plates when boiler is double ended and the box common to the furnaces at both ends.

Wet-bottomed boilers.

43. The Surveyors should take care that wet-bottomed boilers, the outside of the bottom of which cannot be seen, are lifted for inspection at least once in every four years, or oftener if the Surveyor considers it necessary. It will often be found necessary long before this to reduce the pressure, unless the boilers are lifted from their seats for the latter to judge of their efficiency. If the owners in any special case have any good reasons for not wishing to lift them when the Surveyor requires it, the Surveyor should submit the whole case to the officer authorised to grant certificates of survey. The Surveyor must recollect that he is not to certify as sufficient any boiler respecting which he cannot thoroughly satisfy himself. The Surveyor should record in the hydraulic test book the dates on which wet-bottomed boilers are inspected when lifted, and whether the boilers were out of the ship when examined, and if out of the ship where they were examined. Boilers which have been lifted should in all cases be subjected to the hydraulic test before they are re-set.

Cylindrical boilers.

44. When cylindrical boilers are made of the best material with all the rivet holes drilled in place and all the seams fitted with double butt straps, each of at least $\frac{5}{8}$ the thickness of the plates they cover, and all the seams at least double riveted with rivets having an allowance of not more than 75 per cent. over the single shear, and provided that the boilers have been open to inspection during the whole period of construction, then five may be used as a factor of safety. The tensile strength of the iron is to be taken as equal to 47,000lb. per square inch with the grain, and 40,000lb. across the grain But when the above conditions are not complied with, the additions in the following scale must be added to the factor 5, according to the circumstances of each case:—

A†	·15	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but drilled out of place after bending.
B†	·3	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but drilled out of place before bending.
C	·3	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but punched after bending instead of drilled.
D	·5	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but punched before bending.
E*	·75	To be added when all the holes are not fair and good in the longitudinal seams.
F	·1	To be added if the holes are all fair and good in the circumferential seams, but drilled out of place after bending.
G†	·15	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferential seams, but drilled before bending.
H	·15	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferential seams, but punched after bending.

I†	·2	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferential seams, but punched before bending.
J*	·2	To be added if the holes are not fair and good in the circumferential seams.
K	·2	To be added if double butt straps are not fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are lap and double riveted.
L	·1	To be added if double butt straps are not fitted to the longitudinal seam, and the said seams are lap and treble riveted.
M	·3	To be added if only single butt straps are fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are double riveted.
N	·15	To be added if only single butt straps are fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are treble riveted.
O	1·	To be added when any description of joint in the longitudinal seams is single riveted.
P	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with single butt straps and are double riveted
Q	·2	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with single butt straps and are single riveted.
R	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with double butt straps and are single riveted.
S††	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are lap joints and are double riveted.
T	·2	To be added if the circumferential seams are lap joints and are single riveted.
U	·25	To be added when the circumferential seams are lap and the streaks of plates are not entirely under or over.
V‡	·3	To be added when the boiler is of such a length as to fire from both ends, or is of unusual length, such as flue boilers, and the circumferential seams are fitted as described opposite P, R, and S, but of course when the circumferential seams are as described opposite Q and T, V ·3 will become V ·4.
W*	·4	To be added if the seams are not properly crossed.
X*	·4	To be added when the iron is in any way doubtful, and the Surveyor is not satisfied that it is of the best quality.
Y†††	1·65	To be added if the boiler is not open to inspection during the whole period of its construction.

Where marked * the allowance may be increased still further if the workmanship or material is very doubtful or very unsatisfactory.

† When the holes are to be rimered or bored out in place the case should be specially considered as to the reduction or omission of A, B, G, and I.

‡ When boilers are comparatively short the case should be specially considered as to the omission of V as heretofore.

†† When the circumferential seams are lapped and treble-riveted the case should be specially considered.

††† When surveying boilers that have not been open to inspection during construction, the case should be specially considered as to the factors to be used.

Then take iron as equal to 47,000lb. per square inch, and use the smaller of the two percentages as the strength of the joint, and adopt the factor of safety as found from the preceding scale—

In the case of zig-zag riveting, the strength through the plate diagonally between the rivets is equal to that horizontally between the rivets, when diagonal pitch $= \frac{6}{10}$ horizontal pitch $+ \frac{4}{10}$ diameter of rivet.

Plates that are drilled in place must be taken apart and the burr taken off, and the holes slightly countersunk from the outsides.

Butt straps. Butt straps must be cut from plates and not from bars, and must be of as good a quality as the shell plates, and for the longitudinal seams must be cut across the fibre. The rivet holes may be punched or drilled when the plates are punched or drilled OUT of place, but when drilled in place, must be taken apart and the burr taken off and slightly countersunk from the outside.

When single butt straps are used and the rivet holes in them punched they must be $\frac{1}{8}$th thicker than the plates they cover.

* If the rivets are exposed to double shear, multiply the percentage as found by 75.

The diameter of the rivets must not be less than the thickness of the plates of which the shell is made; but it will be found when the plates are thin, or when lap joints or single butt straps are adopted, that the diameter of the rivets should be in excess of the thickness of the plates.

Dished ends must be stayed as flat surfaces; but when they are theoretically equal to the pressure needed, when considered as portions of spheres, the stays, when solid, may have a stress of 14,000lb. per square inch of net section, but the stress should not exceed 10,000lb. when the stays have been welded or worked in the fire.

Truely hemispherical ends subjected to internal pressure may be allowed double the pressure that is suitable for cylinder of the same diameter and thickness.

All man-holes and openings must be stiffened with compensating rings of at least the same effective sectional area as the plates cut out, and in no case should the plate rings be less in thickness than the plates to which they are attached. The openings in the shells of cylindrical boilers should have their shorter axes placed longitudinally. It is very desirable that the compensating rings round openings in flat surfaces be made of L or T iron. Cast iron doors are not to be passed.

The neutral part of boiler shells under steam domes must be efficiently stiffened and stayed, as serious accidents have arisen from the want of such precautions. The boilers must be tested by hydraulic pressure to twice the working pressure in the presence and to the satisfaction of the Surveyors.

45. Circular furnaces with the longitudinal joints welded or made with a butt strap:— Circular furnaces

$$\frac{90{,}000 \times \text{the square of the thickness of the plate in inches.}}{(\text{Length in feet} + 1) \times \text{diameter in inches.}}$$

= working pressure per square inch, provided it does not exceed that found by the following formula:—

The second formula limits the crushing stress on the material to 4,000lb. per square inch.

The length is to be measured between the rings if the furnace is made with rings.

If the longitudinal joints instead of being butted are lap joined in the ordinary way, then 70,000 is to be used instead of 90,000, excepting only where the lap is bevelled and so made as to give the flues the form of a true circle, when 80,000 may be used.

When the material or the workmanship is not of the best quality, the constants given above must be reduced, that is to say, the 90,000 will become 80,000; the 80,000 will become 70,000; the 70,000 will become 60,000; and when neither the material nor the workmanship are of the best quality, such constants will require to be further reduced, according to circumstances and the judgment of the Surveyor. as in the case of old boilers. One of the conditions of best workmanship is that the joints are either double riveted with single butt straps, or single riveted with double butt straps, and the holes drilled after the bending is done and when in place, and after-

The working pressure for corrugated furnaces, practically circular and machine-made, provided the plane parts at the ends do not exceed six inches in length, and the plates are not less than $\frac{5}{16}$ inch thick, should not be greater than found by the following formula:—

When the furnaces are riveted in two or more lengths the case should be submitted for consideration, as it may be necessary to make a deduction.

Cylindrical superheaters.

46. The strength of the joints of cylindrical superheaters and the factor of safety are found in a similar manner as for cylindrical boilers and steam receivers, but instead of using 47,000lb. as the tensile strength of iron 30 000lb is adopted, unless where the heat or flame impinges at, or nearly at, right angles to the plate; then 22,400lb is substituted.

When a superheater is constructed with a tube subject to external pressure, the working pressure should be ascertained by the rules given for circular furnaces, but the constants should be reduced as 30 to 47.

In all cases the internal steam pipes should be so fitted that the steam in flowing to them will pass over all the plates exposed to the impact of heat or flame.

Superheaters should, as regards survey, be deemed to be the most important parts of the boilers, and must be inspected inside and outside; those that cannot be entered on account of their size or arrangement must have a sufficient number of doors through which a thorough inspection of the whole of the interior can be made.

Special attention should be paid to the survey of superheaters, as, with high pressure, the plates may become dangerously weak, and not give any sound to indicate their state when tested with a hammer; the plates should therefore be occasionally drilled.

Before commencing the survey, it is prudent to question the Engineer Officers as to the tendency of boilers to flame. If flaming is a frequent occurrence, extra care must be taken in the survey, and in fixing the pressure to be allowed as the tensile strength of the plate, when heated, is often reduced to about four tons per square inch. Drain pipes must in all cases be fitted to superheaters, in which a collection of water in the bottom is possible.

* The following examples will serve to shew the application of the constants for the different cases that may arise —

Furnaces with butt joints and drilled rivet holes.	90,000 when the longitudinal seams are welded.
	90,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and fitted with single butt straps
	80,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with single butt straps.
	90,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with double butt straps
Furnaces with butt joints and punched rivet holes	85,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and fitted with single butt straps.
	75,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with single butt straps.
	85,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with double butt straps
Furnaces with lapped joints and drilled rivet holes.	80,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and bevelled.
	75,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and not bevelled
	70,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and bevelled
	65,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and not bevelled
Furnaces with lapped joints and punched rivet holes.	75,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and bevelled.
	70,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and not bevelled.
	65 000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and bevelled
	60,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and not bevelled.

In the case of upright fire boxes of donkey or similar boilers, 10 per cent. should be deducted from the constant given above, applicable to the respective classes of work.

47. Superheaters that can be shut off from the main boilers must be fitted with parliamentary safety valve of sufficient size, but the least size passed should be 3 inches diameter.

Safety valve for superheaters.

The flat ends of all boilers, as far as the steam space extends, and the ends of superheaters, should be fitted with shield, or baffle plates, where exposed to the hot gases in the uptake; as all plates subjected to the direct impact of heat or flame are liable to get injured unless covered with water.

STEEL BOILERS.

48. As there is up to the present time a certain amount of uncertanity about the quality of steel no allowances can be given for steel over iron unless the plates, &c., have been tested and the conditions, as laid down in the following rules, be carried out. In cases where the boilers have been made in the United Kingdom, the Surveyors should accept the test certificate of the Board of Trade, if made under Board of Trade's supervision.

Owners cannot expect a Surveyor to give the full allowances for a steel boiler unless an opportunity has been afforded him of seeing that the material and workmanship are such as to warrant him in making such allowances.

49. The following should guide the Surveyors when the general quality of the steel has been found suitable for marine boilers.

The steel-makers or boiler-makers should test one or more strips cut from each plate for tensile strength and elongation, and stamp both results on a part of the plate, where they can be easily seen when the boiler is constructed.

Maker's test.

The Surveyor is not obliged to witness the foregoing tests, although it is very desirable that he should, when his other duties will allow him to do so, but he should, however, select at least one in four of these plates, either at the steel works or the boiler-maker's works, and witness the testing of at least one strip cut from each selected plate.

Surveyor's tests.

A few rivets of each size should be selected, and should be turned and tested for tensile stress. The tensile stress should be from 28 tons to 32 tons per square inch, with a contraction of area of about 60 per cent.

Rivet tests.

If for the plates from which the Surveyor selects the above proportions a greater stress is wished than is allowed for iron, tests for tensile stress and elongation should be made, and those for which no reduction of thickness is asked may be tested for resistance to bending if preferred.

Tensile and bending tests.

The breadth of tests trips for tensile stress should be about two inches, and the elongation, taken in a length of ten inches, should be about 25 per cent., and not less than 20 per cent. The test strips must be carefully prepared and measured, and they should be cut from the plate by a planing or shaping machine.

Test strips.

The bending tests for plates not exposed to flame should be made with strips in their normal condition; but strips cut from furnaces, combustion boxes, &c., should be heated to a cherry red, then plunged into water of about 80°, and kept there until of the same temperature as the water, and then bent. The bending strips should not be less than two inches broad and 10 inches long, and they should be bent until they break, or until the sides are parallel at the distance from each other of not less than (3) three times the thickness of plate.

Bending tests.

Tensile stress, &c.

The tensile stress of the plates not exposed to flame should be about 28 tons, and should not exceed 32 tons per square inch of section and 28 tons should be the stress used in the calculations for cylindrical shells if the plate comply with all the conditions as stated herein; but when the minimum tensile stress of shell plates exceeds 28 tons, and allowance is wished for the excess, the case should be specially submitted for the consideration of Government. The tensile stress of furnace flanging and combustion box plates should range from 26 tons to 30 tons per square inch.

Annealing.

All plates that are punched, flanged, or locally heated must be carefully annealed after being so treated.

Perforating and annealing.

The rivet holes in the furnaces and longitudinal seams of cylindrical shells should be drilled; but if it is wished to punch them, and afterwards bore or anneal the plates in a proper furnace, the proposed method of the punching and boring or annealing should be submitted for consideration before being done; but all punched holes should be made after bending.

In all cases where assent has been given for plates to be punched after bending and then annealed, the makers should stamp the plates with the words "punched after bending and then annealed," and in all cases where assent has been given for punching and afterwards boring plates, the words "punched and then bored" should be stamped on the plates.

Stress on stays.

Bars for stays should be tested. Solid steel screwed stays which have not been welded or otherwise worked after heating may be allowed a working stress of 9,000lb per square inch of net section, provided the tensile stress is from 28 to 32 tons per square inch, and the elongation in 10 inches about 25 per cent. and not less than 20 per cent. Steel stays which have been welded or worked in the fire have been found to be unreliable, therefore they should not be passed.

Constants for flat surfaces.

If the flanging plates and those exposed to flame comply with the foregoing conditions, the constant in the rules for iron boilers may be increased as follows:—

The constants for flat surfaces when they are supported by stays screwed into the plate and riveted 10 per cent.

The constants for flat surfaces when they are supported by stays screwed into the plate and nutted, or when the stays are nutted in the steam space, 25 per cent. This is also applicable to the constants for flat surfaces stiffened by riveted washers or doubling strips and supported by nutted stays.

The constants for combustion box girders 10 per cent.

Furnaces plane and corrugated.

The furnace constants about 10 per cent. when plane. When new corrugated and machine-made, and practically true circles, the working pressure is found by the following formula, provided that the plane parts at the ends do not exceed 6 inches in length, and the plates are not less than $\frac{5}{16}$ inch thick:—

$\frac{12500 \times T}{D}$ = working pressure.

T = thickness in inches.

D = mean diameter in inches.

(If the furnace is riveted in two or more lengths, the case should be submitted for consideration.)

Compressive stress on tube plates.

A greater compressive stress should not be allowed on tube plates that than found by the following formula:—

$$\frac{(D-d)\ T \times 20000}{W \times D} = \text{working pressure.}$$

D = least horizontal distances between centres of tubes in inches.

d = inside diameter of tubes in inches.

T = thickness of tube plate in inches.

W=extreme width of combustion box in inches from front of tube plate to back of fire box, or distance between combustion box tube plates when boiler is double-ended and the box common to the furnaces at both ends.

Plate and rivet section.

The rivet section, if of iron, in the longitudinal seams of cylindrical shells, where lapped and at least double riveted, should not be less than $\frac{13}{8}$ times the net plate section; but if steel rivets are used, their section should be at least $\frac{28}{23}$ of the net section of the plate, if the tensile stress of the rivets is not less than 28 tons and not more than 32 tons per square inch. Therefore in calculating the working pressure the percentage strength of the rivets may be found in the usual way by the foregoing rules, but in the case of iron rivets, the percentage found should be divided by $\frac{13}{8}$, and in the case of steel rivets by $\frac{28}{23}$, the result being the percentages required. If the percentage strength of the rivets by calculation is less than the calculated percentage strength of the plate, calculate the working pressure by both percentages. When using the percentage strength of the plate, use the nominal factor of safety suitable for the method of construction, as by the rules for iron boilers; but when using the percentage strength of rivets, use 5 as the factor of safety. The less of the two pressures so found is the working pressure to be allowed for the cylindrical portion of the shell.

Local heating to be avoided.

Local heating of the plates should be avoided, as many plates have failed from having been so treated.

Welding, &c.

Steel plates which have been welded should not be passed if subjected to a tensile stress, and those welded and subject to a compressive stress should be efficiently annealed.

In other respects the boilers should comply with the rules for iron boilers.

If the tests are to be made at the steel works, the boiler-makers should inform the Surveyors in their district when and where they will be made, so that the Surveyor from the nearest district to the steel works may be instructed to attend to them. The Surveyor should have due notice two or three days when the plates, &c., will be ready for the test pieces to be cut from them. (Surveyors should report all cases of failures of steel plates, &c., which may come to their knowledge).

Steel for superheaters &c.

When steel is used in superheaters, or in the uptakes of boilers, the parts where the flame impinges at or nearly at right angles to the plate must be protected with baffle plates; but in all cases steel should be discouraged for this purpose.

This applies to the unshielded uptakes of all boilers, including ordinary vertical donkey boilers.

Makers of steel.

50. When the steel is not to be made by any of the following makers, the case will receive the special consideration of the Government, and this should be specially noted by the Surveyors :—

Messrs. Beardmore.
" J. Brown & Co.
" C. Cammell & Co.
Mr. D. Colville.
The Landore Steel Company.
The Leeds Forge Company.
The Steel Company of Scotland.
The Weerdale Iron and Coal Company.
The West Cumberland Iron and Steel Company.

Boiler, tracings, &c.

51. Difficulty has been experienced with regard to the survey of steel boilers, owing to the fact that some makers were not aware, at the time the boilers were commenced, that a survey certificate would be necessary, and the makers have therefore omitted to submit tracings until the boilers have been nearly completed. Tracings of boilers may therefore be received for examination upon payment of the usual fee of Rs. 50, and the Surveyors may proceed as far as witnessing the hydraulic test before any further instalment of the survey fee is paid. Engineers and boiler-makers should be advised of this arrangement.

BOILERS, GENERAL.

Donkey boilers

52. Donkey boilers that are in any way attached to, or connected with, the main boilers, or with the machinery used for propelling the vessel, must be surveyed and be fitted the same way as the main boilers, and have a water and steam gauge, and all other fittings complete, and, as regards safety valves, must comply with the same regulations as the main boilers.

Stop valves.

53. No boiler or steam chamber is to be so constructed, fitted, or arranged so that the escape of steam from it through the safety valve required by these rules can be wholly or partially intercepted by the action of any other valve.

A stop valve must always be fitted between the boiler and the steam pipe, and, where two or more boilers are connected with a steam receiver or superheater, between each boiler and the superheater or steam receiver. The object of this is obvious, viz. to avoid the failure of all the boilers through the failure of one. The necks of stop valves should be as short as practicable.

Gauges, &c

54. Each boiler must be fitted with a glass water-gauge, at least two test cocks, and steam-gauge; that is to say, each boiler must be fitted with all fittings as complete as if there were only one boiler. Boilers that fire both ends, and those of unusual width, must have water-gauges and test cocks at each end or side, as the case may be. When a steamer has more than one boiler, and these boilers are fitted with stop valves each boiler must be treated as a separate one, and have all the requisite fittings.

Boilers to be tested when too small to enter.

55. When the boilers are not large enough for the Surveyors to get into, they should see them tested by hydraulic pressure at every annual survey at least The hydraulic test should also be applied at every intermediate survey if the Surveyor considers it necessary. In the case of old boilers the Surveyors must use their own judgment as to the necessary pressure to be applied. This is in no way to interfere with the instructions to test all new boilers to double their working pressure, nor with the proper internal examination of all boilers that are large enough for the Surveyors to get into.

Whenever it is only stays that prevent getting in he may order their removal, and he must see them properly replaced before granting his declaration.

Surveyors not to go into hot boilers.

56. If the boiler is too hot for the Surveyor to examine the inside efficiently, and with safety and convenience, he should decline to examine the boiler, and absolutely refuse to grant a declaration, until he can make an efficient internal examination.

Strength of boilers to be ascertained, and working pressure fixed by calculation.

57. Before testing a boiler, the Surveyor should examine it, take the necessary measurements, and calculate what the working pressure should be in accordance with the regulations, and only test to double the working pressure; if the test is not satisfactory the defects must be made good, and the boiler re-tested.

This instruction applies to superheaters and steam chests as well as to boilers

The Surveyor who grants the declaration must examine the boilers thoroughly, and will be held responsible for the pressure allowed.

Hydraulic test.

58. Surveyors should see all new boilers and boilers that have been taken out of the ship for a thorough repair, tested by hydraulic pressure up to at least double the working pressure that will be allowed previous to the boilers being placed in the vessel, to test the workmanship, &c.; but the working pressure is to be determined by the strength of stays, thickness of plates, and strength of riveting, &c., and not by the hydraulic test.

The hydraulic test should in no case exceed twice the calculated working pressure of the boiler, and it is never to be applied until the boiler has been examined in accordance with paragraph 57 and until the strength has been calculated from the necessary measurements taken from the boiler itself.

When the boilers are in the vessel the Surveyor may, at any time he thinks it necessary, before he gives a declaration, have them tested by hydraulic pressure to satisfy himself as to any doubtful part, or of places not easy of access, care being taken in the case of old boilers not to overstrain them; but the test must always exceed the working pressure.

Surveyors should pay particular attention to the examination and testing of steam pipes.

The hydraulic test should be applied to the boilers of all steamers that have not previously had a survey certificate before a declaration is granted for them.

The amount of the hydraulic pressure test and the date on which it was applied to the boilers should be inserted in the Surveyor's declaration and recorded in the office boiler book.

Cast iron in boilers and steam pipes.

59. In all boilers in which the Surveyors find that cast iron is employed in such a manner as to be subject to the pressure of steam or water, great care must be taken. Cast iron must not be used for stays, and Surveyors should also discourage the use of cast iron for chocks and saddles for boilers. Particular attention should be paid to the chocking of boilers, more especially when they are fired athwartships.

Pressure fixed by one Surveyor not to be increased by another.

60. A pressure once allowed on the boiler of an inland steam-vessel is not to be increased unless, in cases where a Surveyor is of opinion that an increased pressure may with safety be allowed, he has communicated with the Surveyor who last surveyed the vessel; and on learning the reasons why the existing pressure was formerly allowed, the Surveyor is of opinion that it may be increased.

60A. Before granting a declaration or certificate of survey for a steam-vessel where the boilers and machinery are in charge of a native driver, the surveyor should require the production of a certificate either from the Superintending Engineer or from some respectable engineering firm to the effect that the pressure gauges on the boiler or boilers have been overhauled and adjusted and are in proper order.

SAFETY VALVES.

Provisions of the Act as regards safety valves.

61. Every inland steam vessel shall be provided with a safety valve upon each boiler, so constructed as to be out of the control of the Engineer when the steam is up, and if such valve is in addition to the ordinary valve, it shall be so constructed as to have an area not less, and a pressure not greater, than the area of and pressure on that valve.

The Surveyors are instructed that in all new boilers, and whenever alterations can be easily made, the valve chest should be placed directly on the boiler; and the neck, or part between the chest and the flange which is bolted on to the boiler, should be as short as possible and be cast in one with the chest.

The Surveyors should note that it is not intended by this instruction that vessels with old boilers which have been previously passed with such an arrangement should be detained for the alterations to be carried out.

Of course in any case in which a Surveyor is of opinion that it is positively dangerous to have a length of pipe between the boilers and the safety valve chest, it is his duty at once to insist on the requisite alterations being made before granting a declaration.

If any person places an undue weight on the safety valve of any steam ship, or increases such weight beyond the limits fixed by the Engineer-Surveyor, he shall, in addition to any other liabilities he may incur by so doing incur a penalty not exceeding one thousand rupees.

The Engineer-Surveyor shall declare, amongst other things, the limits of the weight to be placed on the safety valves; that the safety valves are such, and in such condition as required by these rules, and that the machinery is sufficient for the service for the time he fixes, and is in good condition for that time.

Area of safety valves

62. The area of Government safety valves, or (when there is more than one) the combined area of the Government safety valves should be not less per square foot of fire grate surface than that given in the following table opposite the boiler pressure intended, provided the valve is not less than three inches in diameter, or where there are two valves the diameter is not less than two inches for each valve.

When, however, the valves are of the common description, and are made in accordance with the tables, it will be necessary to fit them with springs having great elasticity, or to provide other means to keep the accumulation within moderate limits.

If there is only one safety valve on a main boiler, the Surveyor should not grant a declaration without first referring the case to Government for special instructions.

In the case of small boilers, such as launch boilers, if it is wished to fit valves smaller than three inches diameter, the case should be submitted for the consideration of Government.

Examination of safety valve

63. The Surveyor in his examination of the machinery and boilers is particularly to direct his attention to the safety valves, and whenever he considers it necessary, he is to satisfy himself as to the pressure on the boiler by actual trial.

The Surveyor is to fix the limits of the weights to be placed on the safety valves, and the responsibility of not issuing a declaration before he is fully satisfied on the point is very grave. The law places on the Surveyors the responsibility of "declaring" that the boilers are in his judgment sufficient with the weights he states.

The Surveyor is to examine the whole of the valves, weights, and springs at every survey.

Surveyor see valves weighted.

64. When the Surveyor has determined the amount of pressure, he is to see the valves weighted accordingly, and the weights or springs fixed in such a manner as to preclude the possibility of their shifting or in any way increasing the pressure. The limits of the weight on the valves is to be inserted in the declaration, and should it at any time come to a Surveyor's knowledge that the weights or the loading of the valve have been shifted, or otherwise altered, or that the valve has been in any way interfered with, so as to increase the pressure, he is at once to report the facts to Government.

Spring safety-valves.

65. If the following conditions are complied with, the Surveyor need raise no question as to the substitution of spring loaded valves for dead weighted valves :—

(1) That at least two separate valves are fitted to each boiler, except in the case of donkey or other small boilers, in which the grate surface does not exceed 14 square feet, in which case a single safety valve may be passed, provided it is not less than three inches in diameter.

(2) That the valves are of the proper size.

(3) That the spring and valve be so cased in that it cannot be tampered with.

(4) That provision be made to prevent the valve flying off in case of the spring breaking.

(5) That the requisite safety valve area is cased in the usual manner of Government valves.

(6) That screw lifting gear be provided to ease all the valves as by paragraph .

(7) That the size of the steel of which the spring is made is to be found by the following formula :—

s=the load on the spring in ℔.

D=the diameter of the spring (from centre the centre of wire) in inches.

d=the diameter or side of square of the wire in inches.

c=8,000 for round steel.

c=11,000 for square steel.

(8) That the springs be protected from the steam and impurities issuing from the valves.

(9) That when valves are loaded by direct springs, that the compressing screw abuts against a metal stop or washer, when the load sanctioned by the Surveyor is on the valve.

In no case is the Surveyor to give a declartion for a spring loaded valve, unless he has examined it and is acquainted with the details of its construction, and unless he has tried it under full steam and full firing for at least 20 minutes with the feed-water and stop valve shut off. If the accumulation of pressure exceeds 10 per cent. of the loaded pressure, he should not give his declaration.

Owners, masters, and Engineers to see that valves are kept in proper order.

66. It is clearly the duty of the masters and engineers of vessels to see, in the intervals between the surveys, that the Government safety valve or valves, as well as the other safety valves and the rest of the machinery, are in proper working order There is no provision in the Inland Steam-vessels Act, exempting the owner of any vessel, on the ground that she has been surveyed, from any liability, civil or criminal, to which he would otherwise be subject. The Government safely valve is to be out of the control of the engineers when the steam is up; this enactment, far from implying that he is not to have access to it, and to see to its working at proper intervals when the vessel is in port, rather implies the contrary ; and the master should take care that the engineer has access to it for that purpose. A substantial lock, that cannot be easily tampered with, and as far as possible weather-proof, should be used for locking up the safety-valve boxes.

67. In witnessing the hydraulic tests of boilers, &c., and in witnessing all safety valve tests for accumulation of pressure, the Surveyors are to use the pressure gauges supplied to them for the purpose.

All tests for pressure and accumulation are to be made with proper gauges.

MACHINERY, &c.

68. The machinery to be surveyed comprises the engines and boilers used for propelling the vessel, and all the machinery connected therewith. The boilers of donkey engines are to be surveyed with the boilers and machinery of the vessel, when they are in any way connected with them.

What machinery is to be surveyed.

69. Surveyors should, before granting declarations for any period exceeding six months, be careful when examining the machinery—(1) to have the upper brasses of all bearings taken off; (2) the shaft turned round and carefully examined; (3) the cylinder covers and junk rings lifted for examination of the pistons and cylinders; (4) the slide covers or bonnets removed for examination of the slides, and if necessary, the slides taken out; (5) the air and circulating pump covers lifted for examination of the pump buckets and valves; (6) the covers of all feed and bilge pump valves removed for the examination of the valves; (7) all discharge valves and sea-cocks taken out for examination; (8) the propeller shaft to be drawn when necessary, and it and the screw to be examined, and in all cases in which the shaft is drawn, it is to be seen again after the screw is secured in its place; (9) the bridges and fire bars to be removed to permit of a thorough examination of the boilers and furnaces; (10) all cocks and valves on the boilers to be taken out and examined.

When to be taken to pieces for examination

When a Surveyor has seen the machinery of a new steamer in the shop before it was put together, and is satisfied with it, it will not be necessary to have it again opened up on board the ship on the first survey for examination, unless in the Surveyor's judgment it is necessary after the vessel has been tried under steam.

It will rest with owners to determine whether or not they will have a certificate for any period exceeding six months; but if they do so determine, then the above instructions are to be complied with before a declaration is granted.

The above instructions are also to apply at least once a year to the survey of all inland steam vessels, whatever may be the period for which the declarations are given. The examination of sea cocks and outside connections can be made when the vessel is in dry dock or beached.

After the examination of the parts has been made as above, the machinery must, when the Surveyors consider it necessary, be tried under steam at full pressure.

70. In the examination of the machinery and boilers the Surveyor should in no case give a declaration without thoroughly satisfying himself that both the boilers and the machinery are sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition.

Examination to be carefully made.

71. The boilers of all new sea-going vessels passenger tugs, and other small passenger vessels should be fitted with separate feeding arrangements in addition to, but unconnected with, the main feed pipes and valves. In very small vessels an efficient hand pump, instead of the donkey pump, may be passed if the Surveyor has satisfied himself as to its efficiency when steam is up, and provided there are

Separate feed arrangements to be fitted separate feed pipes and valves as directed above. This instruction is to apply also in the case of old vessels of the above description, when being fitted with new boilers.

The Surveyors should discourage the practice of using the same pump for the bilges and for feeding boilers.

Cocks, valves, and pipes.

72. All inlets or outlets in the bottom or side of a vessel near to, at, or below the deep load water-line other than the outlets of watercloset, soil, scupper, lavatory, and urinal pipes must have cocks or valves fitted between the pipes and the ship's side or bottom; such cocks or valves must be attached to the skin of the ship, and be so arranged that they can be easily and expeditiously opened or closed at any time; and the cocks, valves, and the whole length of the pipes should be accessible at all times.

Guards on blow-off cocks.

With a view to the prevention of accidents to boilers through the blow-off cocks being left open after the boiler is run up, and to prevent water getting accidentally or intentionally into the ship by cocks being left open, and also to prevent the donkey engine becoming useless when used for feeding the boilers, all blow-off cocks and sea connections are to be fitted with a guard over the plug, with a featherway in the same, and a key on the spanner, so that the spanner cannot be taken out unless the plug or cock is closed. One cock is to be fitted to the boiler, and another cock on the skin of the ship or on the side of the Kingston valve.

Non-return valves to pipes

73. In all cases where pipes are so led or placed that water can run from the boiler or the sea into the bilge, either by accidentally or intentionally leaving a cock or valve open, they should be fitted with a non-return valve and a screw not attached, but which will set the valve down in its seat when necessary; the only exception to this is the firemen's ash cock, which should have a cock or valve on the vessel's side, and be above the stock-hole plates.

Cocks or valves standing exceptional distances from the vessel's plating, that is, where the necks are longer than is necessary for making the joint, are to be discouraged, and if passed, they should be made of brass or gun-metal, and well bracketed.

Non-return valves on feed cocks

74. Where the feed cock or valve is so placed and arranged that more than one boiler can be fed at the same time through this cock or valve, a non-return valve must be fitted between each boiler and this cock or valve; but it is very desirable that all feed cocks or valves should have a non-return valve fitted between the boiler and the cock or valve.

ACCIDENTS AND DAMAGES.

Damage to be inspected

75. In all cases in which an inland steamer has sustained damage from any accident, or other cause, affecting her seaworthiness or efficiency in any part of her hull, equipments, or machinery, the Surveyors of the port, where the vessel may be, are to go on board and ascertain the extent of the damage. In doing so they will take care not to make any change in the position or condition of things on board, which would be at all likely to affect any legal evidence, should an enquiry into the case afterwards be considered necessary. It is extremely important that the vessel should be surveyed and a report forwarded as early as possible. In this report the Surveyors are to state whether the vessel is rendered inefficient or unsafe either in hull or machinery; and whether, in their opinion, the certificate should be cancelled or only temporarily withdrawn.

UNDER the powers conferred upon him by section 50, clause (1) of Act VI of 1884 (the Inland Steam-vessels Act), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to make the following rules for the protection of inland steam-vessels from danger by explosion or fire:—

I.—Every inland passenger steamer shall be provided with sufficient hose to reach from her engines to her stem and taffrail, and shall be supplied with fire-buckets in the proportion of one for each of the crew, which shall be kept in a place where they are at once available.

II.—Fire-engines shall be placed under the charge of an officer who should be held responsible that they are ready for immediate use.

III.—Inland steamers shall. before proceeding on a voyage, have all their cargo, and that of any flats they may be towing, safely stowed, and in the case of hay or other inflammable material, shall have the same properly covered with tarpaulins or other sufficient protection.

IV.—Before starting, passengers shall be called on to deliver up any gunpowder, or any inflammable articles.

V.—No naked lights shall be used in the hold or on the cargo-deck, or in the passengers' cabins or accommodation.

VI.—The officers and crew are to be divided into parties and assigned stations in case of fire.

VII.—Petroleum shall not be carried by inland passenger steamers in larger quantities than 100 cases, to be stowed apart from other cargo, and as far from the stoke-holds as possible.

VIII.—Fire shall only be permitted in galleys properly constructed for the purpose, and no gunpowder or other explosive shall be allowed to be carried unless in a suitably constructed magazine compartment. And no fire is to be permitted on board any flat or steamer while taking in or discharging gunpowder.

IX.—The tops of the boiler and galley funnels of all inland steamers must be fitted with spark-catchers.

X.—Any person committing a breach of these rules shall be punished with imprisonment or a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

UNDER the powers conferred upon him by section 51, clause (1) of Act VI of 1884 (the Inland Steam-vessels Act), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to make the following rules to regulate the carriage of passengers in inland steam-vessels:—

The master of any inland steam-vessel may refuse to receive on board thereof any person who, by reason of drunkenness or otherwise, is in such a state, or misconducts himself in such a manner, as to cause annoyance to other passengers on board, or, if such person is on board, may put him on shore at any convenient place; and no person so refused admittance or put on shore shall be entitled to the return of any fare he may have paid.

The following offenders, that is to say—

(1) Any person who, being drunken or disorderly, has been on that account refused admission into any duly surveyed inland steam-vessel by the owner or any person in his employ, and who, after having had the amount of his fare (if he has paid the same) returned or rendered to him, nevertheless persists in attempting to enter such steamer;

(2) Any person who, being drunken or disorderly on board any such steamer, is requested by the owner or any person in his employ to leave the same at any place at which he can conveniently so do, and who, having had the amount of his fare (if he has paid the same) returned or tendered to him, refuses to comply with such request;

(3) Any person on board any such steamer who, after warning by the master or any other officer of the steamer, molests or continues to molest any passenger;

(4) Any person who, after having been refused admission into any such steamer by the owner or any person in his employ on account of such steamer being full, and who after having had the full amount of his fare (if he has paid the same) returned or tendered to him, nevertheless persists in attempting to enter the same;

(5) Any person having got on board any such steamer, who upon being requested on the like account by the owner or any person in his employ to leave such steamer before the same has quitted the place at which such person got on board, and who, upon having the full amount of his fare (if he has paid the same) returned or tendered to him, refuses to comply with such request;

(6) Any person who travels or attempts to travel in any such steamer without having previously paid his fare, and with intent to avoid payment thereof;

(7) Any person who, having paid his fare for a certain distance, knowingly and wilfully proceeds in any such steamer beyond such distance without previously paying the additional fare for the additional distance, and with intent to avoid payment thereof;

(8) Any person who knowingly and wilfully refuses or neglects, on arriving at the point to which he has paid his fare, to quit any such steamer; and

(9) Any person on board any such steamer who does not, when required by the master or other officer of such steamer, either pay his fare or exhibit such ticket or other receipt (if any) showing the payment of his fare as is usually given to persons travelling by and paying their fare for such steamer shall, for every such offence, be liable on conviction before a Magistrate to a penalty not exceeding Rs. 20; but such liability shall not prejudice the recovery of any fare payable by him.

NOTICE.

The 6th November 1885.—The following draft of Rules, which it is proposed to issue under section 24 of Act VII of 1884, is published for general information. The Rules will be taken into consideration on the expiry of a month from the date of the first publication of the Rules in the Calcutta Gazette. The Lieutenant-Governor will receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the Rules before the period specified above.

J. WARE EDGAR,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal

UNDER the powers conferred upon him by section 24 of Act VII of 1884 (the Indian Steam-Ships Act), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following rules for the survey of steam-ships :—

Time and place of surveys.

1. Surveys shall be made at the Port of Calcutta upon due notice or application from the owner, on any day in the year, with the exception of Sundays and Government holidays, by the Surveyor to the Port Commissioners. Certificates of survey shall be given in the form hereunto annexed by the Vice-Chairman to the Port Commissioners, on payment of the fee specified in the schedule to the Act.

Surveyors' duties.

2. The Surveyors will be guided by the rules hereunto annexed in making their survey. In cases where two Surveyors are employed, the Engineer-Surveyor will survey the engines, boilers, and all the machinery required to be surveyed under the Act. The Ship-wright Surveyor will inspect the hull equipments and passenger accommodation, measure and determine the number of passengers the vessel is fit to carry, and see that the certificates of the master, mates, and engineers are such as is required by the Act, also that the lights and fog signals are in accordance with the regulations for the prevention of collisions at sea.

Notice of survey to be given.

3. Owners of steam vessels requiring survey are to give the Surveyor at least three days' notice in writing when a survey is required, and should such notice fail to be given, he (the Surveyor) is not responsible for any delay or inconvenience which may occur in consequence.

Particulars to be given in notice.

4. This notice (which is to be preserved by the Surveyor) must state explicitly the name of the steamer to be surveyed, and the time when, and place at which, she will be ready for inspection.

Surveyors to attend at appointed time.

5. In order to prevent inconvenience and delay to the owners, the Surveyors are to be careful to be in attendance at the appointed time and place. Should they be unable to attend as required, notice should be given to the owners to that effect

Survey if deferred.

6. Should a steamer not be ready for inspection at the time arranged, the Surveyors may make such arrangements for the subsequent survey as may be convenient to the owner or his agent. All expenses arising out of this postponement will be charged against the owner when the certificate is issued.

SURVEYORS' DECLARATIONS.

Surveyors' declarations.

7. The Surveyor's declaration under section 11 of the Act shall be made in the form hereunto annexed. The particulars required to be given in the declaration for a certificate of survey are the following, which are treated of under separate heads :—

(1.) That the hull of the ship is sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition.

(2.) That the boats, life-buoys, lights, signals, compasses, and shelter for deck passengers, and the certificates of the master, and mate or mates, engineer or engineers, or engine-driver are such and in such condition as required by any law for the time being in force.

(3.) The time (if less than 12 months) for which the said hull and equipments will be sufficient.

(4.) The limits (if any) beyond which, as regards the hull and equipments, the ship is in the Surveyor's judgment not fit to ply.

(5.) The number of passengers which the ship is, in the Surveyor's judgment, fit to carry, distinguishing if necessary between the respective numbers to be carried on deck, and in the cabins and in different parts of the deck and cabins, such numbers to be subject to such conditions and variations according to the time of the year, the nature of the voyage, the cargo carried, and other circumstances as the case requires.

The declarations of the Surveyor as to the boilers and machinery is to contain a statement of the following particulars:—

(1.) That the machinery of the ship is sufficient for the service intended, and is in good condition.

(2.) The time (12 months or less) for which such machinery will be sufficient.

(3.) That the safety valves and fire hose are such, and in such condition, as are required by the Act, and the rules framed thereunder.

(4.) The limits of the weight to be placed on the safety valves.

(5.) The limits (if any) beyond which as regards the machinery, the ship is, in the Surveyor's judgment, not fit to ply.

When a Surveyor is, from any reason whatever, unable to complete his declaration, an incomplete declaration should be sent to those who applied for survey as soon as possible, stating in it the reasons for not being able to fill up all the particulars under the various heading. He must take care to obliterate all the items in this declaration that he is unable to certify to as being in accordance with the Acts and regulations.

Surveyors may go on board ships.

8. Surveyors may go on board any ship at any reasonable time for the purpose of inspecting, either the certificates of the master, mates, or engineers, or the vessel, the machinery, the boats, other equipments, or for any other purpose rendered necessary by the Acts; and the owners, masters, mates, and engineers of steam-ships are required by the Act to give to the Surveyors, on being requested so to do, all such information and assistance within their power as may be requisite for the purpose of making the returns required by the Acts. In the performance of this part of their duties, Surveyors are to be careful to avoid impeding the duty of the vessel, or wilfully giving offence to any of the officers. If they should be hindered or vexatiously obstructed by any person in the performance of their duties, they should by no means mark it by personal resentment, but should communicate the facts without delay to the proper authorities, by whom the case will be taken up, if necessary.

Inspection to be made in the presence of owner, agent, or responsible person

9. Surveyors should, if possible, make their inspections when the agent, master, or chief mate, and engineer of the vessel are present. Repairs can then be required, and defects can be pointed out to the proper persons without incurring the uncertainty and delay attendant upon messages delivered to the subordinate officers. If the owners do not regard the survey as being of sufficient importance to instruct a responsible representative to be present, the Surveyors will of course make the survey in his absence.

Statement of repairs required to be given by Surveyors.

10. In order to prevent mistakes as to the nature and extent of repairs required by the Surveyors, whenever they cannot give a declaration until repairs are effected or alterations made, a written statement of the nature and extent of the defects to be remedied or alterations required should in all cases be given to the owner or agent, whether applied for by him or not. A copy of the above should always be taken in the office Press Letter Book. If any difference of opinion arises between the Surveyors and the owners, manufacturers, or others, or any questions are raised, the facts should at once be reported.

Declaration not to be given without great caution.

11. Surveyors are in no case to give a declaration either for the hull, machinery, boilers, or equipments of a steamer unless they are satisfied that all the requirements of the law have been complied with.

It is the duty of the Surveyor to satisfy himself personally regarding every detail of the survey of a vessel, and not to trust to any certificate or other document given by any person not responsible to the Government. This instruction does not of course apply to certificates of compass adjustment.

Short declaration when to be granted

12. In any case in which the Surveyor has reason to believe that the hull, machinery, boilers, or equipments are not fit for so long a time as the owner has applied for, he is to grant his declaration for such shorter period as he may deem expedient, informing the owners, if necessary, of his reasons for so doing. Unless it is the docking time only that limits his declaration, or the latest date for which an excursion certificate can be granted in accordance with the regulations, he is not to grant a declaration for sea-going steamers for less than a period of three months. In such cases, also in cases in which the Surveyor refuses a declaration altogether, he is to give a statement in writing of the repairs he considers necessary to enable him to grant a declaration for the time asked. By this paragraph the Surveyor is to understand that a sea going steam ship that is not fit for a declaration for three months is not to be deemed by him as fit to hold a certificate at all.

Surveyor to complete survey where possible, but to sign only for details surveyed Declarations to be in such form as the Government may direct.

13. It is most desirable that a Surveyor should complete the survey of a vessel in every detail when he has commenced it, and if possible, arrangements should always be made to secure this. In exceptional cases, however, when this cannot be arranged, one or more Surveyors should complete the parts of the survey left unfinished. The Surveyor who commenced the survey should not sign a declaration for any details which he has not surveyed, and for which consequently he is not prepared to hold himself personally responsible. He can only relieve himself from entire responsibility for every detail by distinctly noting on his declaration that he has been unable to attend to certain details specified by him, and in respect only of the details so specified will his claim to irresponsibility be accepted. The Surveyor or Surveyors who attend to the details of the survey which have been left unfinished should also give declarations for the particulars they have attended to. The supplementary declaration should be attached to the main declaration.

Refusal of declaration to be notified

14. A report should be made to the Local Government of the name, port of registry, and official number of all vessels for which declarations are refused. This should be done as soon as possible after the vessel is withdrawn from survey, and full reasons for the refusal should be given. A declaration for twelve months should not be granted whenever the Surveyor has any doubt whatever as to the efficiency of any part of the vessel, or her machinery, or equipments for such period.

The object of rule 14 is to enable the Local Government to communicate to other Local Governments notice that declarations have been refused to such vessels.

EXAMINATION OF HULL, &c.

Hulls to be examined.

15. Surveyors are to determine whether the hulls of sea-going vessels are in good condition and fit for the service for which they are intended; and they are to examine the hulls of such vessels outside and inside once at least in every year, at such time as is most convenient to the owners.

Owner should give notice when a vessel is in dry dock.

16. Delays and inconvenience may to a great extent be prevented if notice is given by owners when a vessel, which requires a certificate, is undergoing repairs, or is in dry dock for any other purpose, as this notice might obviate the occasional necessity of re-docking a vessel at an inconvenient time. Surveyors should explain this to owners or their agents whenever an opportunity occurs.

New ships to be surveyed before being painted or cemented.

17. The Government cannot regard as a satisfactory survey of a new steam ship a survey made only after the hull is complete, and is cemented and painted. Surveyors are therefore instructed to decline to grant declarations for any new steamer, unless they inspected her before she was painted or cemented. Any survey made while the vessel is being built is not to interfere with the complete inspection afterwards, but is to be made solely with a view of enabling the Surveyors to form an opinion of the workmanship, material, and construction.

The bottoms of new vessels need not be examined in dry dock after launching, if they have been examined by the Surveyor before launching, unless he has special reasons for considering it necessary.

Water tight collision bulkheads and water-tight compartment round stern tube of screw shaft. Other bulkheads.

18. A collision water-tight bulkhead, also an after water-tight compartment to cover the stern tube to the screw shaft, must be fitted in all sea-going steamers, both new and old. As regards other bulkheads, the Surveyors should not refuse to grant a declaration upon the ground that they are not fitted, or are defective, unless they are of opinion that the want of, or the defective state of, the bulkheads renders the ship unseaworthy.

As to screw tunnels.

19. It is necessary that the screw tunnels of all iron passenger steam vessels should be made of iron, and should be strongly constructed and water-tight, with a stuffing-box round the shaft at the forward end. If there are manholes or openings in the floor, care must be taken that all are efficiently fitted with covers or doors, so arranged that they can easily and rapidly be made water-tight. If means are provided for entering the tunnel by a separate opening abaft the engine-room bulkhead, the passage down from the upper deck must be strongly constructed of iron, perfectly secure, and water-tight. In some cases the inside of an iron mast serves for this purpose. Cocks, or valves, and pipes must be fitted to let the water off the floor of the tunnel, and must be made to open or shut from the upper or main deck. If there is an opening through the engine-room bulkhead into the tunnel, a properly constructed water-tight door should be fitted to it, arrangements being made that it can be easily opened or shut from the upper or main-deck. In vessels which have already received Surveyor's certificates, this regulation need not be enforced if there be an effective arrangement of water-tight bulkheads, decks, floors, and stuffing-boxes, which will so confine any water entering the ship from the aftermost stuffing-box as to prevent it from finding its way into the ship in such quantity as will interfere with her safety.

Examination of the bottom outside.

20. In no case should a Surveyor grant a declaration for a steamer the outside of the bottom of which has not been examined by a Surveyor during the twelve months preceding the date of survey, and in no case should a declaration be granted for a longer period than a period terminating within twelve months from the date of the last outside examination. For instance, if a steamer be examined outside on the 1st of January, she will (if the law be complied with) be entitled to a certificate for twelve months (i.e., until the 1st of January following). But supposing the survey is not completed until the 1st of February, the Surveyor is (if the vessel be fit) to grant his declaration for a period ending the 1st of January following and no longer, unless the vessel be re-docked for examination.

Examination of bottom to be made before painted. Cocks, &c., to be examined in dry dock

21. The Surveyors, before granting a declaration for twelve months, should be careful to make a thorough examination of the outside of the bottom of the ship in a dry dock, after it has been cleaned. They should examine the pintles and braces of the rudder, as well as the bearings of the screw shaft and the different openings, valves, bolt-heads, &c., in the ship's bottom. All bolts, connecting cocks, valves, or pipes to the skin of the ship should have the heads outside, and such heads should be either countersunk or capheaded. All discharge valves and sea-cocks should be taken out for examination while the vessel is in dry dock. Before Surveyors finally pass the hull of a vessel they are to see it fit to go into the water.

Ceiling to be removed as Surveyor thinks necessary

22. For examining the internal parts of the ship, they should have parts of the ceiling removed, in order that they may ascertain the condition of the ship; they should also carefully examine the cement to ascertain its condition, and where they find it cracked or doubtful, they should extend their examination, and cause such a portion of the cement to be removed as may, in their judgment, be necessary to enable them to form a correct opinion as to the state of the ship covered by the cement. The roses for the deck pumps, also those for the bilge pumps, should be taken out of the bilges and cleaned, and the sluices and cocks on the bulkheads inspected and put in good working order.

Examination of vessel in engine-room, coal bunkers, &c

23. The Surveyors should examine very particularly the plating, stringers, frames, floors, &c., in the engine-room, boiler space, and coal bunkers, the bunkers of course being empty.

Entries in office book

24. The date of the last outside inspection of the bottom is to be entered in the declaration, as it is from that date that the docking time is to count. If the hull is not passed at all, or not passed for the maximum time (twelve months), the fact should be noted in the declaration for the vessel. The repairs which have been executed from time to time should be recorded in the office book.

As to coamings skylights, scuppers, ports, gratings, &c

25. The height of the coamings round all openings in the main deck, and the means provided for securely protecting or fastening down all skylights, bunker openings, &c., as well as the sufficiency of the water, ports and scuppers for relieving the decks of water, are important items to be noted by the Surveyors in sea-going vessels coming under their survey. All side-lights should be fitted with deadlights, and all stern and other ports fitted in such a manner that they can be quickly and efficiently secured. All openings below the weather-deck in sea-going steam and sailing vessels carrying passengers or emigrants, whether such weather-deck be a poop, awning-deck, spar-deck, or forecastle, must be fitted with gratings or hatch covers, and tarpaulins, and also with means for effectually securing the tarpaulins down, and making the openings water-tight. Such gratings or hatch covers must be kept and secured in a suitable place, at all times accessible and near to the openings for which they are intended. Many casualties happen through the engine-room skylights, coamings, companions, &c., being of light construction and insufficiently secured, instead of being of sufficient strength to form permanent parts of the structure of the ship; casualties also arise through the fronts of poops and bridge-houses being weak and insufficiently secured. The fore and aft beams or "strong backs," in the hatchways and the hatches themselves are often too weak to bear the pressure of water which may find its way on to them in a heavy sea. The Surveyors should in granting declarations for passenger steamers look especially to these points, and should in like manner, in the case of ships other than passenger steamers, look to these amongst other points when reporting a ship for detention as unsafe.

BOATS AND LIFE-BUOYS.

Dimensions of boats

26. It will be the duty of the Surveyor to take care that all steam ships are provided with the boats or rafts required by the law for the time being in force, both as to number and cubic contents; and to see that they are efficient, and in good order and ready for service, subject to the rules contained in these instructions. Surveyors are not to insist upon the precise lengths, breadths, and depths inserted in the table, but are to approve of any efficient boats of sufficient strength, the cubic contents of which are respectively equal to, or greater than, the cubic contents of the boats specified in the table laid down in rule.

If the smaller number of boats required by the law for the time being in force is carried, one of them must be a launch of at least the capacity named in column 2 of the said table.

If the larger number of boats is carried, the cubic contents (equal in their aggregate to the cubic contents required by law) may be spread in any way over the whole number of boats.

Rule for ascertaining the capacity of boats

27. To ascertain the cubic capacity of a boat. Measure the length and breadth outside and the depth inside. Multiply them together and by ·6; the product is the capacity of the boat in cubic feet. Thus, a boat 28 feet long, 8 ft 6 ins. broad, and 3 ft. 6 ins. deep will be regarded as having a capacity of $28 \times 8{\cdot}5 \times 3{\cdot}5 \times {\cdot}6 = 499{\cdot}8$, or 500 cubic feet. If the oars are pulled in rowlocks the bottom of the rowlock is to be considered the gunwale of the boat for ascertaining her depth.

As to life-boats

28. A life-boat, fitted with efficient and substantial air casings, is deemed to be capable of carrying one adult for every 10 cubic feet of her capacity. Thus a life-boat measuring $28 \times 8{\cdot}5 \times 3{\cdot}5$, whose cubic contents by the present rule are 500 cubic feet, is deemed to be sufficient for 50 adult persons. The space in the boat must be sufficient for the seating of the persons carried in it, and for the proper use of the oars.

Air cases

29. No boat should be passed as a life-boat unless she has for every person she carries, or, what is the same thing, for every 10 cubic feet computed as above, at least one and a half cubic feet of strong and serviceable inclosed air-tight compartments, so constructed, fitted, and arranged that water cannot find its way into them. That is to say, the life-boat measuring $28 \times 8{\cdot}5 \times 3{\cdot}5$, whose whole cubic contents are 500 cubic feet, and which is deemed to be sufficient for 50 adults, is to have 75 cubic feet occupied by inclosed air cases.

Zinc is not permitted in the construction of a life-boat or her air cases, neither is copper to be used if the boat is built of iron.

If the boat is built of wood, copper of a good substance is of course a good material for the air cases, but the Surveyor should not insist upon it being employed; if used he should see that it is not too thin, as cases have occurred in which air cases have been made of sheet copper not much thicker than tin foil, and the fraud has escaped detection at the time.

If the air cases are made of galvanised iron, care should be taken that the galvanising is well done, as otherwise it is nearly as bad as zinc.

The air-tight compartments or cases must be so distributed as to give the boat good buoyancy and stability, whether a part of the air cases should be under thwarts, or whether they should be all in the ends, or along the sides, will, so long as an efficient life-boat is obtained, be left to the option of the owner. If air cases are in the bottom of the boat, the depth of the boat is to be measured from the top of the bottom air cases. It is desirable that the coverings in the boats over the air cases be secured with screws or otherwise so as to enable the cases to be removed without difficulty for examination.

Spaces filled with or containing any material are not to be deemed air spaces.

No boat fitted with a steam-engine is to be passed as a life-boat.

No life-boat other than a metal one should be passed if carried sufficiently near the funnel as to be injuriously affected by the heat therefrom.

Build

30. Life-boats should be built whale-boat fashion, both ends alike. They should have a sheer of about three-quarters of an inch to a foot, rising equally from the midships to the stem and stern, and they should be made buoyant in accordance with the preceding instructions. A square-sterned boat is not to be passed as a life-boat, and, excepting in small boats, the oars should be double-banked.

Compasses

31. In sea-going vessels a boat's compass must be supplied for each of the life-boats required.

Boats to be hung in davits. Requisites for use in boats

32. As regards requisites for use. All boats should be hung in davits and kept ready for service at any moment. The Surveyors should see that in all boats the full complement of oars, including steering oar and two spare oars at least, are provided (in large boats more than two spare oars ought to be provided); that each boat has two plugs for each plughole, attached with lanyards or chains, and one set and a half of thole pins or crutches attached to the boat by sound lanyards; a bailer, a rudder and tiller, or yoke and yoke lines; a painter of sufficient length, and a boat hook, the rudder and bailer to be attached to the boat by sufficiently long lanyards, and kept ready for use.

Lowering gear

Means for speedily detaching the boats from the lower blocks of the davit tackles should be insisted upon; an ordinary fixed hook in the lower block shipping into a fixed eye in the boat should not be allowed. Surveyors should also see that the davits are strong enough, that they are so spaced that the boats can be swung out without unnecessary labour, that the boats' chocks can be expeditiously removed, and that the boats will not foul the ship's side in lowering when the ship has no list, and that the whole of the tackling, including davits, falls, blocks, eye-bolts, and rings, &c., is of sufficient strength to lower the boat, with its full complement on board, into the water. The boat's falls must be long enough to lower the boat into the water when the vessel is light. Life-lines should be fitted to the davits long enough to reach the water, when the vessel is light, and allowance made for the extreme roll of the ship.

Surveyors are to refuse declarations in cases in which the foregoing instructions are not fully carried out, but it is to be left to shipowners themselves to provide such methods as they please for lowering the boats, so long as the intention of the Legislature is complied with.

All the boats should be seen lowered into the water at every survey

Equipments of life boats

33. In the case of life-boats, the Surveyor should see that the hatchet or tomahawk, which is to be kept in each end of each life-boat, is in good order, and attached with a lanyard, and that a mast or masts, with at least one good sail and proper gear for each, and a life-jacket or life-belt for each oarsman and one for the coxswain is also provided; a life-line in loops should run round the outside of the boat and be securely made fast.

Life-jackets standard of

34. No life-jacket or belt should be passed that is not capable of floating in the water for 24 hours with 23 lb of iron suspended from it; and to ensure this buoyancy a life-jacket, in which the cork must be exposed and have a canvas back and straps only, should weigh 5 lb when dry.

Life buoys, standard of

35. As regards life-buoys. No life-buoy stuffed with rushes or with cork shavings or other shavings, or granulated cork, or any loose material should be passed. All cork life-buoys should be built of solid cork and fitted with life-lines and loops securely seized to the life-buoy, and none should be passed that will not float for 24 hours in water with 32 lb of iron suspended from them. If life-buoys are not made of solid cork, then any other strong life-buoy of an approved pattern may be passed that is capable of floating in the water for 24 hours with 40 lb of iron suspended from it No contrivance is to be passed as a life-buoy that requires inflation before use. Life-buoys with lines attached should be secured by a toggle and becket, or any other similar method, so that they can be quickly released; they must not be lashed nor seized to the rail or any other part of the vessel, but must be kept so as to be ready for use at a moment's notice in case of an emergency.

Life-buoys should in all cases be carefully examined by the Surveyor, who will satisfy himself of the buoyancy, and see that the materials of which they are composed have not become sodden, and that the lines attached to them are sufficient Surveyors are to call the attention of owners and masters to the penalties imposed for not keeping the boats and efficient life-buoys in constant readiness for use.

Steam-launches

36. As regards steam-launches or boats fitted with steam power, the contents taken up in the boat by the engine and boiler are not to be deemed part of the clear contents of the boat. The boilers of steam-launches should, as regards fittings and strength, comply with the same regulations as the main boilers As regards the safety valves fitted to the boilers of steam-launches, and of other boats carried by sea-going steamers, the Surveyors should see that they are out of the control of the engineer when steam is up, and comply with the same rules as the safety valves on the main boilers. The lifting or easing gear for the valve should actually lift the valve and not merely the weight. The boilers should also have a steam-gauge, a glass water-gauge, and test cocks.

As to boats already passed.

37. In carrying these instructions into effect, Surveyors are to be careful not to interfere unduly with life-boats passed before April 1884, provided their buoyancy and efficiency are equal or nearly equal to that indicated above; but in the case of new boats coming under survey for the first time, as well as in all cases in which the fittings of the boats require renewal, the rules contained in these instructions are to be strictly adhered to, whilst the Surveyors are to be careful not to interfere so as to condemn apparatus that may have been already passed, and that still remains efficient.

Either: If the number of boats in this column are carried one of them must be a launch of at least the capacity named.

Or: If the number of boats in this column are carried, then cubic contents (equal in the aggregate to the cubic contents required) may be spread in any way over the whole number of boats. The life-boat or life-boats must be the largest boats.

38*a*. Before granting a declaration or certificate of survey for a steam vessel, where the boilers and machinery are in charge of a native driver, the Surveyor should require the production of a certificate either from the Superintending Engineer or from some respectable engineering firm, to the effect that the pressure guages on the boiler or boilers have been overhauled and adjusted and are in proper order.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Sail power.

39. As a general rule, if sea going steamers are fitted with sufficient sail power to enable them to work as sailing vessels in the event of their machinery becoming disabled, no question need be raised. They should of course be provided with sufficient spare sails to be kept on board. All the sails must be examined by the Surveyors, who must at every survey be perfectly satisfied with their efficiency, as also with that of the standing and running gear.

Compasses to be adjusted to Surveyor's satisfaction.

40. The compasses of every sea-going steam ship employed to carry passengers must be properly adjusted from time to time; such adjustment, in the case of ships surveyed as herein mentioned, to be made to the satisfaction of the Surveyor, and according to such regulations as may be issued by the Government.

The Surveyor should satisfy himself as to the proficiency of the person whose signature is attached to the adjustment certificate in question.

Standard compass.

41. Every foreign-going iron or composite built ship should have a standard compass fitted with the means of taking accurate bearings, and a table of errors for this compass should be furnished by the master.

Certificate of master and mate to be taken in certain cases.

42. In other cases the Surveyor should act as follows, viz.—

The Surveyor should, before he grants his declaration, receive a certificate from the owners to the following effect, viz.—"We the undersigned hereby certify that the compasses of the steamer (name of steamer) are in all respects to our satisfaction. We know the errors and can apply them."

this day of 18 .

______________ Master

______________ Mate.

"We hereby attest the above signatures and certify that the said (master's name) sailed as master and that the said (mate's name) sailed as mate of the said vessel on her last voyage, ending 18 .

______________ Owners.

This certificate, which must be attested by the owners, must be signed by the master and mate, one of whom at least must have made the previous, and is going to make the next voyage in the vessel.

Deck pump to be fitted

43. There must be for each compartment a pump of sufficient size, which can be worked from the upper deck. A rose or perforated box of sufficient size should be fitted at the end of the suction pipe of each pump, and means provided for clearing the end of the suction pipe. A trunk-way leading from the upper deck to the suction of each pump, large enough for a man to go down to the end of the suction pipe, is the best arrangement for this purpose.

It is very desirable that the steam winches (if any) be so fitted and arranged that the deck pumps can be worked by them as well as by hand.

Deck pumps, when not worked by machinery, should have handles at least long enough for two men to work at them.

Sounding pipes, &c

44. There must be fitted at the bottom of each bulkhead means for ascertaining the depth of water in each compartment.

Engine-room pumps

45 Pipes connected with pumps worked by the engines are to be carried through the bulkheads into the compartments fore and aft of the engine-room, so that each compartment can be pumped out separately by the engines as well as by the deck pump. The pipes should be well secured where they pass through the bulkheads, and it is very desirable that cocks or valves be fitted between these suction pipes and the bulkheads, to be capable of being opened or shut from the upper or main deck.

Pumps not necessary in fore peak, &c.

46. In all sea-going screw vessels there must be a strong water-tight deck over the cast-iron tube aft, so as to make a tank round the tube, and a properly fitted man-hole at the top or fore end. Collision bulkheads must also be fitted in sea-going vessels: if they are not fitted, the Surveyor should decline to grant a declaration. These compartments are generally small, and the Surveyor should not insist on a separate deck pump leading direct into them.

Steering gear.

47. A spare tiller, properly fitted to the rudder head, relieving tackle, &c., should, in all sea-going and home-trade steamers, be kept near the after-steering gear ready for immediate service. Rudder pendants should also be securely fastened to the back of the rudder, with their ends led up to a place accessible in all weathers. In any case where the Surveyor is not satisfied that the rudder pendants are made fast so as to have sufficient power over the rudder, he should see that an efficient bumpkin is securely fitted. to which the rudder pendants must be made fast. The steering gear should be thoroughly overhauled at every survey, and taken to pieces and thoroughly examined at least once a year. The chains and blocks that are liable to interfere with or endanger the passengers or crew should be guarded by portable but properly secured guards.

It is very desirable that the man at the helm should be so placed that he has a clear look-out ahead, more especially in steamers that frequent crowded harbours or rivers.

Helm indicators.

48. In passing a helm indicator, the Surveyor should ascertain by actual trial that whenever the pointer moves to the word "port" on the dial or plate, wherever that word may be, it shows that the helm is ported, and whenever the pointer points to the word "starboard," wherever that word may be, it means that the helm is starboarded.

Meaning of port helm.

49. In the foregoing directions, it is assumed that "port helm" means that the helm is so moved as to turn the ship's head to the right, and "starboard helm" means that the helm is so moved as to turn the ship's head to the left.

Lead-lines.

50. A deep-sea lead-line of at least 120 fathoms, a lead of at least 28 lb weight, and a suitable reel, together with at least two hand lead-lines of at least 25 fathoms, and leads of at least 7 lb should be supplied to all foreign-going steamers In short-voyage steamers two hand lead-lines of 25 fathoms each and leads of at least 7 lb must be demanded These are the minimum requirements. For a 1st class (i.e., twelve months) declaration double the number of lines and leads must be provided. The Surveyor should see that the lead-lines are properly marked. The following marks are those usually adopted:—

At 2 fathoms a piece of leather split in two strips.
,, 3 ,, ,, ,, ,, three strips.
,, 5 ,, ,, white bunting.
,, 7 ,, ,, red bunting.
,, 10 ,, ,, leather with a hole.
,, 13 ,, ,, blue bunting.
,, 15 ,, ,, white bunting.
,, 17 ,, ,, red bunting.
,, 20 ,, a strand with two knots tied in it.

It is always best to have the lines fitted with calico for white marks, bunting for red marks, and serge for blue marks, because a man can tell the difference by the feel in the dark.

Anchors, chains, cables, hawsers, warps, &c.

51. Surveyors must be very careful to see that each steam ship they survey is provided with chain cables and anchors duly certified under the Chain Cable Acts. (34 & 35 Victoria Chapter 101). When the stream and kedge anchors exceed 168 lb in weight they also must be tested in accordance with the same Acts. The Surveyors should upon each survey require the production of the test certificates of all the chain cables and anchors. When from any cause these cannot be produced, the Surveyors should require satisfactory proof that the provisions of the Acts have been complied with.

The Surveyors must also see that the chain cable and anchors on board are sufficient for the service and in good condition. The chain cables must be removed from the chain lockers at least once in twelve months, cleaned, if necessary, and the pins knocked out of the shackles. The shackle pins should be secured by small pins of hard wood.

The spare anchors should not be stowed below, but kept where they will be ready in case they are required.

Proper hawsers and warps must also be supplied.

Statutory distress signals. 52. The signals specified in the first schedule of the English Merchant Shipping Act of 1873 shall be deemed to be signals of distress.

In the daytime.—The following signals numbered 1, 2, and 3, when used or displayed together or separately, shall be deemed to be signals of distress in the daytime:—(1) a gun fired at intervals of about a minute; (2) the international code signal of distress indicated by N C; (3) the distant signal, consisting of a square flag having either above or below it a ball, or anything resembling a ball.

At night.—The following signals numbered 1, 2, 3, when used or displayed together or separately, shall be deemed to be signals of distress:—(1) a gun fired at intervals of about a minute; (2) flames on the ship (as from a burning tar barrel, oil barrel, &c.); (3) rockets or shells, of any colour or description, fired one at a time at short intervals.

To be examined 53. The means for making signals of distress are to be carefully examined by the Surveyors, to see that they are kept dry and in good order, and are protected from fire and accident; and that the cannon or mortar, which is to be of at least the size below specified, is in good condition and ready for use. The means for making flames should be lights that burn in water, or some other approved arrangement.

Description of sign is to be provided, size of gun, &c 54. The signals required are 12 blue lights, two of Holmes' storm or danger signal lights, and six of the smaller lights of the same description with means for attaching them to life-buoys; 12 rockets, each containing 16 ozs. of composition; one gun at least 3¼ inches in the bore, or one mortar at least 5½ inches in the bore, with 12 charges of ammunition. The Socket Distress Signals of the Cotton Powder Company may be passed as sufficient for signals of distress, and they may be passed in lieu of guns or in lieu of rockets, but not as equivalent to both in sea-going steam ships and emigrant ships. When a gun is carried, each charge must contain 16 ozs. of pebble or bean powder in a flannel bag. An air-tight copper magazine, rammers, sponges, wads, priming wires, friction tubes, powder flask with fine powder for priming, and means for firing and withdrawing charges should be provided and carefully examined. The Holmes' Patent Storm and Danger Signal Lights must be supplied to each sea-going steam ship.

Rocket lockers. 55. The locker for keeping the rockets, blue lights, &c., should not be air-tight, but should have sufficient small safe openings to allow of the escape of any moisture generated; by this means the rockets, blue lights, &c., can be kept for a long period. Red pyrotechnic lights are dangerous.

Distress signals. 56. Surveyors should in every case in which the regulation distress signals are not on board the passenger (emigrant) ships, and sea-going passenger steamers, which they may be called on to survey, decline to grant papers or declarations, unless a written guarantee is given to them that the signals shall be on board, and an opportunity given for inspecting them before the ship sails.

Fire hose 57. Passenger steamers going to sea are to be provided with a hose adapted for the purpose of extinguishing fire in any part of the ship, and capable of being connected with the engines of the ship or with the donkey engine if it can be worked from the main boiler. The Surveyor must take care that it answers the required purpose.

The fire-hoses should be connected, stretched to judge of their length, and thoroughly examined at every survey, and at least once a year (and at any other time that the Surveyor thinks it necessary) tested with the conductor in its place, by pumping water through them by the main or donkey engines at full speed. A proper conductor and metal bend or goose neck forms part of its equipment and must be provided. Generally leather hoses are the most durable, and should be supplied when a declaration for twelve months is required.

Deck to be caulked and have proper hatches, &c.

58. All decks and floors upon which passengers are carried, which are the main and lower decks only in sea-going steamers, must be caulked and properly secured. Sufficient light and ventilation must be provided. Scuttles and hatches are not considered as efficient means of ventilation. Proper and sufficient means of ingress and egress must be fitted. Companions or booby hatches must in all cases be fitted to the entrances to passenger spaces, and be so arranged as to open and shut easily. Surveyors should satisfy themselves that there are hatches to batten down in bad weather, or that otherwise the booby hatch is itself so strong, and so securely bolted as to be part and parcel of the ship, and so fitted that it can be securely closed.

Height, &c., of bulwarks.

59. All sea-going passenger steamers must have planked bulwarks of such a height as is, in the Surveyor's judgment, necessary for the proper shelter and protection of the passengers, or rails, stanchions and a weather cloth, to give the required protection.

BOILERS AND SUPERHEATERS.

Board of Trade test certificates to be accepted.

60. In the case of boilers built in the United Kingdom for steam ships applying for survey certificates under Act VII of 1884, the Surveyor is authorized to accept test certificates for such boilers duly signed by officers of the Board of Trade. If such a certificate cannot be produced, the addition (Y) in Rule 70 will be made to the factor of safety in computing the strength of the boiler.

The Surveyor to fix pressure on safety valves.

61. The Surveyor is required to fix the limits of weight to be placed on the safety-valves of sea-going steam ships. The Surveyor having himself fixed the limits of the weight, is then required to declare that in his judgment the boiler and machinery are sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition, and that they will be sufficient for twelve months, or such other period as he may, in his judgment, determine. For his guidance the following directions are given.

Working pressure to be fixed by calculation.

62. The Surveyor should fix the working pressure for boilers by a series of calculations of the strength of the various parts and according to the workmanship and material. The Surveyors should therefore receive and report on any plans of boilers intended for sea-going vessels that may be submitted in due course with the form of application and fees. They are not to report on any tracing or plan that is not accompanied by that form, or when they have reason to believe that the boilers, when finished, are not intended to be placed on board steamers that will require survey certificates. When the Surveyor has received plans and tracings of new boilers, or of alterations of boilers, and has approved of them, he will of course, be careful in making his examinations from time to time, to see that they are followed in construction. When he has not had the plans submitted, but is called in to survey a boiler, he will, of course measure the parts, note the details of construction, and, if necessary, bore the plates to ascertain their thickness, &c., before he gives his declaration.

The Surveyor cannot declare a boiler to be safe unless he is fully informed as to its construction, material, and workmanship. He should therefore be very careful how he ventures to give a declaration for a boiler that he is not called in to survey until after it is completed and fixed in the ship.

Respecting stays

63. In the case of new boilers the Surveyors may allow a stress not exceeding 7,000lb per square inch of net section on solid iron screwed stays and supporting flat surfaces, but the stress should not exceed 5,000lb when the stays have been welded or worked in the fire.

The areas of diagonal stays are found in the following way:—Find the area of a direct stay needed to support the surface; multiply this area by the length of the diagonal stay, and divide the product by the length of a line drawn at right angles to the surface supported to the end of the diagonal stay; the quotient will be the area of the diagonal stay required.

When gusset stays are used their area should be in excess of that found in the above way.

Girders for flat surfaces

64. When the tops of combustion boxes or other parts of a boiler are supported by solid rectangular girders the following formula should be used for finding the working pressure to be allowed on the girders, assuming that they are not subjected to a greater temperature than the ordinary heat of steam; and in the case of combustion chambers, that the ends are fitted to the edges of the tube plate and the back plate of the combustion box:—

$$\frac{C \times d^2 \times T}{(W-P)\, D \times L} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

W = Width of combustion box in inches.
P = Pitch of supporting bolts in inches.
D = Distance between the girders from centre to centre in inches.
L = Length of girder in feet.
d = Depth of girder in inches.
T = Thickness of girder in inches.
C = 500 when the girder is fitted with one supporting bolt.
C = 750 when the girder is fitted with two or three supporting bolts.
C = 850 when the girder is fitted with four supporting bolts.

The working pressure for the supporting bolts and for the plate between them should be determined by the rule for ordinary stays.

Flat surfaces of boilers

65. The pressure on plates forming flat surfaces is found by the following formula:—

$$\frac{C \times (T+1)^2}{S-6} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

T = Thickness of the plate in sixteenths of an inch.
S = Surface supported in square inches.
C = Constant according to the following circumstances.
C = 100 when the plates are not exposed to the impact of heat of flame, and the stays are fitted with nuts and washers, the latter being at least three times the diameter of the stay and two-thirds the thickness of the plates they cover.*
C = 90 when the plates are not exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and the stays are fitted with nuts only.

* If the diameter of riveted washers be at least ⅔rds the pitch of the stays, and the thickness not less than the plates they cover, the constant may be increased to 150.

When doubling plates are fitted of the same thickness as the plates they cover, and not less in width than ⅔rds of the pitch of the stays, the constant may be increased to 160.

When doubling plates cover the whole of the flat surface the case should be submitted for the consideration of the Board.

C = 60 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plates, and the stays fitted with nuts and washers, the latter being at least three times the diameter of the stay and two-thirds the thickness of the plate they cover.

C = 54 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plate, and the stays fitted with nuts only.

C = 80 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, with water in contact with the plates, and the stays screwed into the plate and fitted with nuts.

C = 60 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, with water in contact with the plate, and the stays screwed into the plate, having the ends riveted over to form a substantial head.

C = 36 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plates, with the stays screwed into the plate, and having the ends riveto dover to form a substantial head.

When the riveted ends of screwed stays are much worn, or when the nuts are burned, the constants should be reduced, but the Surveyor must act according to the circumstances that present themselves at the time of survey; and it is expected that in cases where the riveted ends of screwed stays in the combustion boxes and furnaces are found in this state it will be often necessary to reduce the constant 60 to about 36.

Compressive stress on tube plates.

66. The Surveyors should not in any case allow a greater compressive stress on the tube plates than is obtained by the following formula:—

$$\frac{(D-d) \times 15000}{W \times D} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

D = least horizontal distance between centres of tubes in inches.

d = inside diameter of ordinary tubes in inches.

T = thickness of tube plate in inches.

W = extreme width of combustion box in inches from front of tube plate to back of fire box, or distance between combustion box tube plates when boiler is double ended and the box common to the furnaces at both ends.

Wet bottomed boilers.

67. The Surveyors should take care that wet-bottomed boilers, the outside of the bottom of which cannot be seen, are lifted for inspection at least once in every four years, or oftener, if the Surveyor considers it necessary. It will often be found necessary long before this to reduce the pressure, unless the boilers are lifted from their seats, for the latter to judge of their efficie. cy. If the owners in any special case have any good reasons for not wishing to lift them when the Surveyor requires it, the Surveyor should submit the whole case in detail to the Government for consideration. The Surveyor must recollect that he is not to certify as sufficient any boiler respecting which he cannot thoroughly satisfy himself.

The Surveyor should record in the hydraulic test book the dates on which wet-bottomed boilers are inspected when lifted, and whether the boilers were out of the ship when examined, and if out of the ship where they were examined. Boilers which have been lifted should in all cases be subjected to the hydraulic test before they are re-set.

Cylindrical boilers.

68. When cylindrical boilers are made of the best material with all the rivet holes drilled in place and all the seams fitted with double butt straps each of at least ⅝ the thickness of the plates they cover, and all the seams at least double riveted with rivets having an allowance of not more than 75 per cent. over the single shear, and provided that the boilers have been open to inspection during the whole period of construction, then five may be used as a factor of safety. The tensile strength of the iron is to be taken as equal to 47,000lb per square inch with the grain, and 40,000lb across the grain. But when the above conditions are not complied with, the additions in the following scale must be added to the factor 5, according to the circumstances of each case :—

A†	·15	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but drilled out of place after bending.
B†	·3	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but drilled out of place before bending.
C	·3	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but punched after bending instead of drilled.
D	·5	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but punched before bending.
E*	·75	To be added when all the holes are not fair and good in the longitudinal seams.
F	·1	To be added if the holes are all fair and good in the circumferential seams, but drilled out of place after bending.
G†	·15	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferential seams, but drilled before bending.
H	·15	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferential seams, but punched after bending.
I†	·2	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferential seams, but punched before bending.
J*	·2	To be added if the holes are not fair and good in the circumferential seams.
K	·2	To be added if double butt straps are not fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are lap and double riveted.
L	·1	To be added if double butt straps are not fitted to the longitudinal seam, and the said seams are lap and treble riveted.
M	·3	To be added if only single butt straps are fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are double riveted.
N	·15	To be added if only single butt straps are fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are treble riveted.
O	1·	To be added when any description of joint in the longitudinal seams is single riveted.
P	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with single butt straps and are double riveted.
Q	·2	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with single butt straps and are single riveted.
R	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with double butt straps and are single riveted.
S††	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are lap joints and are double riveted.

T	·2	To be added if the circumferential seams are lap joints and are single riveted.
U	·25	To be added when the circumferential seams are lap and the strakes of plates are not entirely under or over.
V‡	·3	To be added when the boiler is of such a length as to fire from both ends, or is of unusual length, such as flue boilers; and the circumferential seams are fitted as described opposite P, R, and S, but of course when the circumferential seams are as described opposite Q and T, V ·3 will become V ·4.
W*	·4	To be added if the seams are not properly crossed.
X*	·4	To be added when the iron is in any way doubtful, and the Surveyor is not satisfied that it is of the best quality.
Y†††	1·65	To be added if the boiler is not open to inspection during the whole period of its construction.

Where marked * the allowance may be increased still further if the workmanship or material is very doubtful or very unsatisfactory.

† When the holes are to be rimered or bored out in place the case should be referred for orders as to the reduction or omission of A, B, G, and I as heretofore.

‡ When boilers are comparatively short the cases should be submitted for consideration as to the omission of V.

†† When the circumferential seams are lapped and treble-riveted the case should be submitted for orders.

††† When surveying boilers that have not been open to his inspection during construction, the Surveyor may accept test certificate granted by a Board of Trade Surveyor in the United Kingdom.

Then take iron as equal to 47,000lb per square inch and use the smaller of the two percentages as the strength of the joint, and adopt the factor of safety as found from the preceding scale—

* If the rivets are exposed to double shear multiply the percentage as found by 1·75.

$$\frac{(47,000 \times \text{percentage of strength of joint}) \times \text{twice the thickness of the plate in inches.}}{\text{Inside diameter of the boiler in inches} \times \text{factor of safety}}$$
$=$ { Pressure to be allowed per square inch on the safety valves.

In the case of zigzag riveting, the strength through the plate diagonally between the rivets is equal to that horizontally between the rivets, when diagonal pitch $= \frac{6}{10}$ horizontal pitch $+ \frac{4}{10}$ diameter of rivet.

Plates that are drilled in place must be taken apart and the burr taken off, and the holes slightly countersunk from the outsides.

Butt straps

69. Butt straps must be cut from plates and not from bars, and must be of as good a quality as the shell plates, and for the longitudinal seams must be cut across the fibre. The rivet holes may be punched or drilled when the plates are punched or drilled OUT of place, but when drilled in place, must be taken apart and the burr taken off and slightly countersunk from the outside.

When single butt straps are used and the rivet holes in them punched they must be one-eighth thicker than the plates they cover.

The diameter of the rivets must not be less than the thickness of the plates of which the shell is made; but it will be found when the plates are thin, or when lap joints or single butt straps are adopted, that the diameter of the rivets should be in excess of the thickness of the plates.

Dished ends must be stayed as flat surfaces; but when they are theoretically equal to the pressure needed, when considered as portions of spheres, the stays, when solid, may have a stress of 14,000lb. per square inch of net section, but the stress should not exceed 10,000lb. when the stays have been welded or worked in the fire.

Truly hemispherical ends subjected to internal pressure may be allowed double the pressure that is suitable for cylinder of the same diameter and thickness.

All man-holes and openings must be stiffened with compensating rings of at least the same effective sectional area as the plates cut out, and in no case should the plate rings be less in thickness than the plates to which they are attached. The openings in the shells of cylindrical boilers should have their shorter axes placed longitudinally. It is very desirable that the compensating rings round openings in flat surfaces be made of L or T iron. Cast iron doors are not to be passed.

The neutral part of boiler shells under steam domes must be efficiently stiffened and stayed, as serious accidents have arisen from the want of such precautions. The boilers must be tested by hydraulic pressure to twice the working pressure in the presence and to the satisfaction of the Surveyors.

Circular furnaces

70 Circular furnaces with the longitudinal joints welded or made with a butt strap :—

$$\frac{90,000 \times \text{the square of the thickness of the plate in inches.}}{(\text{Length in feet} + 1) \times \text{diameter in inches.}}$$
= working pressure per square inch, provided it does not exceed that found by the following formula :—

$$\frac{8,000 \times \text{thickness in inches}}{\text{diameter in inches}} = \left\{ \text{Working pressure per square inch.} \right.$$

The second formula limits the crushing stress on the material to 4,000lb per square inch.

The length is to be measured between the rings if the furnace is made with rings.

If the longitudinal joints instead of being butted are lap jointed in the ordinary way, then 70,000 is to be used instead of 90,000, excepting only where the lap is bevelled and so made as to give the flues the form of a true circle, when 80,000 may be used.

When the material or the workmanship is not of the best quality, the constants given above must be reduced, that is to say, the 90,000 will become 80,000; the 80,000 will become 70,000; the 70,000 will become 60,000; and when neither the material nor the workmanship are of the best quality, such constants will require to be further reduced, according to circumstances and the judgment of the Surveyor, as in the case of old boilers. One of the conditions of best workmanship is that the joints are either double riveted with single butt straps, or single riveted with double butt straps, and the holes drilled after the bending is done and when in place, and afterwards taken apart, the burr on the holes taken off, and the holes slightly countersunk from the outside.*

The working pressure for corrugated furnaces, practically circular and machine-made, provided the plane parts at the ends do not exceed six inches in length, and the plates are not less than $\frac{1}{16}$ inch thick, should not be greater than found by the following formula:—

$$\frac{9{,}000 \times \text{thickness in inches}}{\text{mean diameter in inches}} = \left\{ \text{Working pressure per square inch.} \right.$$

When the furnaces are riveted in two or more lengths the case should be submitted for consideration, as it may be necessary to make a deduction.

Cylindrical superheaters.

71. The strength of the joints of cylindrical superheaters and the factor of safety are found in a similar manner as for cylindrical boilers and steam receivers, but instead of using 47,000 lb as the tensile strength of iron 30,000 lb is adopted, unless where the heat or flame impinges at, or nearly at, right angles to the plate; then 22,400 lb is substituted.

When a superheater is constructed with a tube subject to external pressure the working pressure should be ascertained by the rules given for circular furnaces, but the constants should be reduced as 30 to 47.

In all cases the internal steam pipes should be so fitted that the steam in flowing to them will pass over all the plates exposed to the impact of heat or flame.

Superheaters should, as regards survey, be deemed to be the most important parts of the boilers, and must be inspected inside and outside; those that cannot be entered on account of their size or arrangement must have a sufficient number of doors through which a thorough inspection of the whole of the interior can be made.

Special attention should be paid to the survey of superheaters, as with high pressure the plates may become dangerously weak, and not give any sound to

---

* The following examples will serve to show the application of the constants for the different cases that may arise:—

Furnaces with butt joints and drilled rivet holes.
- 90,000 when the longitudinal seams are welded.
- 80,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and fitted with single butt straps.
- 80,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with single butt straps.
- 90,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with double butt straps.

Furnaces with butt joints and punched rivet holes.
- 85,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and fitted with single butt straps.
- 75,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with single butt straps.
- 85,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with double butt straps.

Furnaces with lapped joints and drilled rivet holes.
- 80,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and bevelled.
- 75,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and not bevelled.
- 70,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and bevelled.
- 65,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and not bevelled.

Furnaces with lapped joints and punched rivet holes.
- 75,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and bevelled.
- 70,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and not bevelled.
- 65,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and bevelled.
- 60,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and not bevelled.

In the case of upright fire boxes of donkey or similar boilers, 10 per cent. should be deducted from the constant given above, applicable to the respective classes of work.

indicate their state when tested with a hammer; the plates should therefore be occasionally drilled.

Before commencing the survey, it is prudent to question the engineer officers as to the tendency of boilers to flame; if flaming is a frequent occurrence, extra care must be taken in the survey, and in fixing the pressure to be allowed as the tensile strength of the plate, when heated, is often reduced to about four tons per square inch. Drain pipes must in all cases be fitted to superheaters in which a collection of water in the bottom is possible.

Safety valve for superheaters.

72. Superheaters that can be shut off from the main boilers must be fitted with parliamentary safety valve of sufficient size, but the least size passed should be 3 inches diameter.

The flat ends of all boilers, as far as the steam space extends, and the ends of superheaters, should be fitted with shield, or baffle-plates, where exposed to the hot gases in the uptake; as all plates subjected to the direct impact of heat or flame are liable to get injured unless covered with water.

STEEL BOILERS.

73. The following should guide the Surveyors when the general quality of the steel has been found suitable for marine boilers.

Maker's test.

74. The steel-makers or boiler-makers should test one or more strips cut from each plate for tensile strength and elongation, and stamp both results on a part of the plate, where they can be easily seen when the boiler is constructed.

Surveyor's tests.

75. The Surveyor is not obliged to witness the foregoing tests, although it is very desirable that he should, when his other duties will allow him to do so, but he should, however, select at least one in four of these plates, either at the steel works or the boiler-maker's works, and witness the testing of at least one strip cut from each selected plate.

Rivet tests.

76. A few rivets of each size should be selected, and should be turned and tested for tensile stress. The tensile stress should be from 28 tons to 32 tons per square inch, with a contraction of area of about 60 per cent.

Tensile and bending tests.

77. If for the plates from which the Surveyor selects the above proportions a greater stress is wished than is allowed for iron, tests for tensile stress and elongation should be made, and those for which no reduction of thickness is asked may be tested for resistance to bending if preferred

Test strips.

78. The breadth of test strips for tensile stress should be about two inches, and the elongation, taken in a length of ten inches, should be about 25 per cent., and not less than 20 per cent. The test strips must be carefully prepared and measured, and they should be cut from the plate by a planing or shaping machine.

Bending tests.

79. The bending tests for plates not exposed to flame should be made with strips in their normal condition, but strips cut from furnaces, combustion boxes, &c., should be heated to a cherry red, then plunged into water of about 80°, and kept there until of the same temperature as the water, and then bent. The bending strips should not be less than two inches broad and 10 inches long, and they should be bent until they break, or until the sides are parallel at the distance from each other of not less than (3) three times the thickness of plate.

Tensile stress, &c.

80. The tensile stress of the plates not exposed to flame should be about 28 tons, and should not exceed 32 tons per square inch of section, and 28 tons should be the stress used in the calculations for cylindrical shells if the plate comply with all the conditions as stated herein; but when the minimum tensile stress of shell plates exceeds 28 tons, and allowance is wished for the excess, the case should be specially submitted for the consideration of Government. The tensile stress of furnace flanging and combustion-box plates should range from 26 tons to 30 tons per square inch.

81. All plates that are punched, flanged, or locally heated must be carefully annealed after being so treated. Annealing.

82. The rivet holes in the furnaces and longitudinal seams of cylindrical shells should be drilled, but if it is wished to punch them and afterwards bore or anneal the plates in a proper furnace, the proposed method of the punching and boring or annealing should be submitted for consideration before being done; but all punched holes should be made after bending. Perforating and annealing.

In all cases where assent has been given to for plates to be punched after bending and then annealed, the makers should stamp the plates with the words "punched after bending and then annealed," and in all cases where assent has been given for punching and afterwards boring plates, the words "punched and then bored" should be stamped on the plates.

83. Bars for stays should be tested. Solid steel screwed stays which have not been welded or otherwise worked after heating may be allowed a working stress of 9,000 lb per square inch of net section, provided the tensile stress is from 28 to 30 tons per square inch and the elongation in 10 inches about 25 per cent. and not less than 20 per cent. Steel stays which have been welded or worked in the fire have been found to be unreliable, therefore they should not be passed. Stress on stays.

84. If the flanging plates and those exposed to flame comply with the foregoing conditions, the constant in the Board of Trade rules for iron boilers may be increased as follows:— Constants for flat surfaces.

The constants for flat surfaces when they are supported by stays screwed into the plate and riveted 10 per cent.

The constants for flat surfaces when they are supported by stays screwed into the plate and nutted, or when the stays are nutted in the steam space, 25 per cent. This is also applicable to the constants for flat surfaces stiffened by rivited washers or doubling strips and supported by nutted stays.

The constants for combustion-box girders 10 per cent.

85. The furnace constants about 10 per cent. when plane. When new corrugated and machine-made, and practically true circles, the working pressure is found by the following formula, provided that the plane parts at the ends do not exceed 6 inches in length, and the plates are not less than $\frac{5}{16}$ inch thick. Furnaces, plane and corrugated.

$$\frac{12{,}500 \times T}{D} = \text{working pressure.}$$

T = thickness in inches.

D = mean diameter in inches.

(If the furnace is riveted in two or more lengths, the case should be submitted for consideration.)

86. A greater compressive stress should not be allowed on tube plates than that found by the following formula:— Compressive stress on tube plates.

$$\frac{(D-d)\ T \times 20{,}000}{W \times D} = \text{working pressure.}$$

D = least horizontal distances between centres of tubes in inches.

d = inside diameter of tubes in inches.

T = thickness of tube plate in inches.

W = extreme width of combustion-box in inches from front of tube-plate to back of fire-box, or distance between combustion-box tube-plates when boiler is double-ended and the box common to the furnaces at both ends.

Plate and rivet section.

87. The rivet section, if of iron, in the longitudinal seams of cylindrical shells, where lapped and at least double riveted, should not be less than $\frac{13}{8}$ times the net plate section, but if steel rivets are used, their section should be at least $\frac{23}{28}$ of the net section, if the plate of the tensile stress of the rivets is not less than 28 tons and not more than 32 tons per square inch. Therefore in calculating the working pressure the percentage strength of the rivets may be found in the usual way by the foregoing rules, but in the case of iron rivets, the percentage found should be divided by $\frac{13}{8}$, and in the case of steel rivets by $\frac{23}{28}$, the result being the percentages required. If the percentage strength of the rivets by calculation is less than the calculated percentage strength of the plate, calculate the working pressure by both percentages. When using the percentage strength of the plate, use the nominal factor of safety suitable for the method of construction, as by the rules for iron boilers; but when using the percentage strength of rivets, use 5 as the factor of safety. The less of the two pressures so found is the working pressure to be allowed for the cylindrical portion of the shell.

Local heating to be avoided.

88. Local heating of the plates should be avoided, as many plates have failed from having been so treated.

Welding, &c.

Steel plates which have been welded should not be passed if subjected to a tensile stress, and those welded and subject to a compressive stress should be efficiently annealed.

In other respect the boilers should comply with the rules for iron boilers.

If the tests are to be made at the steel works, the boiler-makers should inform the Surveyors in their district when and where they will be made, so that the Surveyor from the nearest district to the steel works may be instructed to attend to them. The Surveyor should have due notice two or three days when the plates, &c., will be ready for the test pieces to be cut from them. (Surveyors should report all cases of failures of steel plates, &c., which may come to their knowledge.)

Steel for superheaters, &c.

89. If steel is proposed to be used in superheaters, the particulars should be submitted to the Government for consideration; but in all cases it should be discouraged for this purpose.

This applies to the unshielded uptakes of all boilers, including ordinary vertical donkey boilers.

Makers of steel.

90. When the steel is not to be made by any of the following makers, the case will receive the special consideration of the Government, and this should be specially noted by the Surveyors:—

Messrs. Beardmore.
,, J. Brown & Co.
,, C. Cammell & Co.
Mr. D. Colville.
The Landore Steel Company.
The Leeds Forge Company.
The Steel Company of Scotland.
The Weerdale Iron and Coal Company.
The West Cumberland Iron and Steel Company.

Boiler tracings, &c.

91. Difficulty has been experienced with regard to the survey of steel boilers, owing to the fact that some makers were not aware, at the time the boilers were commenced, that a Survey certificate would be necessary, and the makers have therefore omitted to submit tracings until the boilers have been nearly completed. Tracings of boilers may therefore be received for examination upon payment of the usual fee of Rs. 50, and the Surveyors may proceed as far as witnessing the hydraulic test before any further instalment of the survey fee is paid. Engineers and boiler makers should be advised of this arrangement.

BOILERS GENERAL.

92. Donkey boilers that are in any way attached to, or connected with, the main boilers, or with the machinery used for propelling the vessel, must be surveyed and be fitted the same way as the main boilers, and have a water and steam gauge, and all other fittings complete, and, as regards safety valves, must comply with the same regulations as the main boilers.

Donkey boilers.

93. No boiler or steam chamber is to be so constructed, fitted, or arranged so that the escape of steam from it through the safety valve required by the Act of Parliament can be wholly, or partially, intercepted by the action of any other valve.

Stop valves.

A stop valve must always be fitted between the boiler and the steam pipe, and, where two or more boilers are connected with a steam receiver or superheater, between each boiler and the superheater or steam receiver. The object of this is obvious, viz. to avoid the failure of all the boilers through the failure of one. The necks of stop valves should be as short as practicable.

94. Each boiler must be fitted with a glass water-gauge, at least two test cocks, and steam-gauge; that is to say, each boiler must be fitted with all fittings as complete as if there were only one boiler. Boilers that fire both ends, and those of unusual width, must have water-gauges and test cocks at each end or side, as the case may be. When a steamer has more than one boiler, and these boilers are fitted with stop-valves, each boiler must be treated as a separate one, and have all the requisite fittings.

Gauges, &c.

95. When the boilers are not large enough for the Surveyors to get into, they should see them tested by hydraulic pressure at every annual survey at least. The hydraulic test should also be applied at every intermediate survey if the Surveyor considers it necessary. In the case of old boilers the Surveyors must use their own judgment as to the necessary pressure to be applied. This is in no way to interfere with the instructions to test all new boilers to double their working pressure, nor with the proper internal examination of all boilers that are large enough for the Surveyors to get into.

Boilers to be tested when too small to enter.

Whenever it is only stays that prevent getting in, he may order their removal, and he must see them properly replaced before granting his declaration.

96. If the boiler is too hot for the Surveyor to examine the inside efficiently, and with safety and convenience, he should decline to examine the boiler, and absolutely refuse to grant a declaration, until he can make an efficient internal examination.

Surveyors not to go into hot boilers.

97. Before testing a boiler, the Surveyor should examine it, take the necessary measurements, and calculate what the working pressure should be in accordance with the regulations, and only test to double the working pressure; if the test is not satisfactory the defects must be made good, and the boiler re-tested.

Strength of boilers to be ascertained, and working pressure fixed by calculation.

This instruction applies to superheaters and steam chests as well as to boilers.

The Surveyor who grants the declaration must examine the boilers thoroughly, and will be held responsible for the pressure allowed.

98. Surveyors should see all new boilers, and boilers that have been taken out of the ship for a thorough repair, tested by hydraulic pressure up to at least double the working pressure that will be allowed previous to the boilers being placed in the vessel, to test the workmanship, &c.; but the working pressure is to be determined by the strength of stays, thickness of plates, and strength of riveting, &c., and not by the hydraulic test.

The hydraulic test should in no case exceed twice the calculated working pressure of the boiler, and it is never to be applied until the boiler has been examined in accordance with paragraph and until the strength has been calculated from the necessary measurements taken from the boiler itself.

When the boilers are in the vessel the Surveyor may, at any time he thinks it necessary, before he gives a declaration, have them tested by hydraulic pressure to satisfy himself as to any doubtful part, or of places not easy of access, care being taken in the case of old boilers not to overstrain them; but the test must always exceed the working pressure.

Surveyors should pay particular attention to the examination and testing of steam pipes.

The hydraulic test should be applied to the boilers of all steamers that have not previously had a survey certificate, before a declaration is granted for them. The amount of the hydraulic pressure test and the date on which it was last applied to the boilers should be inserted in the Surveyor's declaration and recorded in the office boiler book.

Cast iron in boilers and steam-pipes.

99. In all boilers in which the Surveyors find that cast iron is employed in such a manner as to be subject to the pressure of steam or water, great care must be taken. Cast iron must not be used for stays, and Surveyors should also discourage the use of cast iron for chocks and saddles for boilers. Particular attention should be paid to the chocking of boilers, more especially when they are fired athwartships.

Pressure fixed by one Surveyor not to be increased by another.

100. A pressure once allowed on the boiler of a sea-going steam ship is not to be increased unless, in cases where a Surveyor is of opinion that an increased pressure may with safety be allowed, he has communicated with the Surveyor who last surveyed the vessel; and on learning the reasons why the existing pressure was formerly allowed, the Surveyor is of opinion that it may be increased.

SAFETY VALVES.

Provisions of the Act as regards safety-valves.

101. Every steam ship shall be provided with a safety valve upon each boiler, so constructed as to be out of the control of the engineer when the steam is up, and if such valve is in addition to the ordinary valve, it shall be so constructed as to have an area not less, and a pressure not greater, than the area of and pressure on that valve.

The Surveyors are instructed that in all new boilers, and whenever alterations can be easily made, the valve chest should be placed directly on the boiler; and the neck, or part between the chest and the flange which is bolted on to the boiler, should be as short as possible and be cast in one with the chest.

The Surveyors should note that it is not intended by this instruction that vessels with old boilers which have been previously passed with such an arrangement should be detained for the alterations to be carried out.

Of course in any case in which a Surveyor is of opinion that it is positively dangerous to have a length of pipe between the boilers and the safety valve chest, it is his duty at once to insist on the requisite alterations being made before granting a declaration.

If any person places an undue weight on the safety valve of any steam ship, or increases such weight beyond the limits fixed by the Engineer-Surveyor, he shall, in addition to any other liabilities he may incur by so doing, incur a penalty not exceeding one thousand rupees.

The Engineer-Surveyor shall declare, amongst other things, the limits of the weight to be placed on the safety valves; that the safety valves are such, and in such condition as required by these rules, and that the machinery is sufficient for the service for the time he fixes, and is in good condition for that time.

102. The area of Government safety valves, or (when there is more than one) the combined area of the Government safety valves should be not less per square foot of fire-grate surface than that given in the following table opposite the boiler pressure intended, provided the valves are not less than three inches in diameter. This applies to new vessels or vessels which have not received survey certificate.

Area of safety-valves

When, however, the valves are of the common description, and are made in accordance with the tables, it will be necessary to fit them with springs having great elasticity, or to provide other means to keep the accumulation within moderate limits.

If there is only one safety valve on a main boiler, the Surveyor should not grant a declaration without first referring the case for special instructions.

In the case of small boilers, such as launch boilers, if it is wished to fit valves smaller than three inches diameter, the case should be submitted for orders.

Examination of safety-valves.

103. The Surveyor, in his examination of the machinery and boilers, is particularly to direct his attention to the safety-valves, and whenever he considers it necessary, he is to satisfy himself as to the pressure on the boiler by actual trial.

The Surveyor is to fix the limits of the weights to be placed on the safety-valves, and the responsibility of not issuing a declaration before he is fully satisfied on the point is very grave. The law places on the Surveyors the responsibility of "declaring" that the boilers are in his judgment sufficient with the weights he states.

The Surveyor is to examine the whole of the valves, weights, and springs at every survey.

Surveyor to see valves weighted

104. When the Surveyor has determined the amount of pressure, he is to see the valves weighted accordingly, and the weights or springs fixed in such a manner as to preclude the possibility of their shifting or in any way increasing the pressure. The limits of the weight on the valves is to be inserted in the declaration, and should it at any time come to a Surveyor's knowledge that the weights or the loading of the valve have been shifted, or otherwise altered, or that the valve has been in any way interfered with, so as to increase the pressure, he is at once to report the facts to Government.

Spring safety valves

105. If the following conditions are complied with, the Surveyor need raise no question as to the substitution of spring loaded valves for dead weighted valves:—

(1) That at least two separate valves are fitted to each boiler, except in the case of donkey or other small boilers, in which the grate surface does not exceed 14 square feet, in which case a single safety-valve may be passed, provided it is not less than three inches in diameter.

(2) That the valves are of the proper size.

(3) That the spring and valve be so cased in that it cannot be tampered with.

(4) That provision be made to prevent the valve flying off in case of the spring breaking.

(5) That the requisite safety-valve area is cased in the usual manner of Government valves.

(6) That screw lifting gear be provided to case all the valves.

(7) That the size of the steel of which the spring is made is to be found by the following formula:—

$$\sqrt[3]{\frac{s \times D}{c}} = d:$$

s = the load on the spring in lb.

D = the diameter of the spring (from centre to centre of wire) in inches.

d = the diameter, or side of square, of the wire in inches.

c = 8,000 for round steel.

c = 11,000 for square steel.

(8) That the springs be protected from the steam and impurities issuing from the valves.

(9) That when valves are loaded by direct springs, that the compressing screw abuts against a metal stop or washer, when the load sanctioned by the Surveyor is on the valve.

In no case is the Surveyor to give a declaration for a spring-loaded valve, unless he has examined it and is acquainted with the details of its construction, and unless he has tried it under full steam, and full firing, for at least 20 minutes with the feed-water and stop valve shut off. If the accumulation of pressure exceeds 10 per cent. of the loaded pressure, he should not give his declaration.

Owners, masters, and engineers to see that valves are kept in proper order.

106. It is clearly the duty of the masters and engineers of vessels to see, in the intervals between the surveys, that the Government safety-valve or valves, as well as the other safety-valves and the rest of the machinery, are in proper working order. There is no provision in the Indian Steam-Ships' Act, exempting the owner of any vessel, on the ground that she has been surveyed, from any liability, civil or criminal, to which he would otherwise be subject. The Government safety-valve is to be out of the control of the engineer when the steam is up; this enactment, far from implying that he is not to have access to it, and to see to its working at proper intervals when the vessel is in port, rather implies the contrary; and the master should take care that the engineer has access to it for that purpose. A substantial lock, that cannot be easily tampered with, and as far as possible weather-proof, should be used for locking up the safety-valve boxes.

All tests for pressure and accumulation are to be made with proper gauges.

107. In witnessing the hydraulic tests of boilers, &c., and in witnessing all safety-valve tests for accumulation of pressure, the Surveyors are to use the pressure gauges supplied to them for the purpose.

MACHINERY, &c.

What machinery is to be surveyed.

108. The machinery to be surveyed comprises the engines and boilers used for propelling the vessel, and all the machinery connected therewith. The boilers of donkey engines are to be surveyed with the boilers and machinery of the vessel, when they are in any way connected with them.

When to be taken to pieces for examination.

109. Surveyors should, before granting declarations for any period exceeding six months, be careful when examining the machinery; (1) to have the upper brasses of all bearings taken off; (2) the shaft turned round and carefully examined; (3) the cylinder covers and junk rings lifted for examination of the pistons and cylinders; (4) the slide covers or bonnets removed for examination of the slides, and if necessary, the slides taken out; (5) the air and circulating pump covers lifted for examination of the pump buckets and valves; (6) the covers of all feed and bilge pump valves removed for the examination of the valves; (7) all discharge valves and sea-cocks taken out for examination; (8) the propeller shaft to be drawn when necessary, and it and the screw to be examined, and in all cases in which the shaft is drawn, it is to be seen again after the screw is secured in its place; (9) the bridges and fire-bars to be removed to permit of a thorough examination of the boilers and furnaces; (10) all cocks and valves on the boilers to be taken out and examined.

When a Surveyor has seen the machinery of a new steamer in the shop before it was put together, and is satisfied with it, it will not be necessary to have it again opened up on board the ship on the first survey for examination, unless in the Surveyor's judgment it is necessary after the vessel has been tried under steam.

It will rest with owners to determine whether or not they will have a certificate for any period exceeding six months, but if they do so determine, then the above instructions are to be complied with before a declaration is granted.

The above instructions are also to apply at least once a year to the survey of all sea-going steamers, with the exception named in the next paragraph, whatever may be the period for which the declarations are given, and to carry out the whole of the above, it must be done when the vessel is in dry dock.

After the examination of the parts has been made as above, the machinery must be tried under steam at full pressure.

Examination to be carefully made.

110. In the examination of the machinery and boilers the Surveyor should in no case give a declaration without thoroughly satisfying himself that both the boilers and the machinery are sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition.

Separate feed arrangements to be fitted.

111. The boilers of all new sea-going vessels, passenger tugs, and other small passenger vessels, should be fitted with separate feeding arrangements in addition to, but unconnected with, the main feed pipes and valves. In very small vessels an efficient hand pump, instead of the donkey pump, may be passed if the Surveyor has satisfied himself as to its efficiency when steam is up, and provided there are separate feed pipes and valves as directed above. This instruction is to apply also in the case of old vessels of the above description, when being fitted with new boilers.

The Surveyors should discourage the practice of using the same pump for the bilges and for feeding boilers.

Cocks, valves and pipes communicating with ship's side.

112. All inlets or outlets in the bottom or side of a vessel near to, at, or below the deep-load water-line other than the outlets of watercloset, soil, scupper, lavatory, and urinal pipes, must have cocks or valves fitted between the pipes and the ship's side or bottom; such cocks or valves must be attached to the skin of the ship, and be so arranged that they can be easily and expeditiously opened or closed at any time; and the cocks, valves, and the whole length of the pipes should be accessible at all times.

Guards on blow off cocks.

113. With a view to the prevention of accidents to boilers through the blow-off cocks being left open after the boiler is run up, and to prevent water getting accidentally or intentionally into the ship by cocks being left open, and also to prevent the donkey engine becoming useless when used for feeding the boilers, all blow-off cocks and sea connexions are to be fitted with a guard over the plug, with a featherway in the same, and a key on the spanner, so that the spanner cannot be taken out unless the plug or cock is closed. One cock is to be fitted to the boiler, and another cock on the skin of the ship or on the side of the Kingston valve.

Non return valves to pipes.

114. In all cases where pipes are so led or placed that water can run from the boiler or the sea into the bilge, either by accidentally or intentionally leaving a cock or valve open, they should be fitted with a non-return valve and a screw not attached, but which will set the valve down in its seat when necessary; the only exception to this is the firemen's ash cock, which should have a cock or valve on the ship's side, and be above the stoke-hole plates.

Exhaust pipe of donkey engine not led through ship's side

115. The exhaust pipe for the donkey engine must not be led through the ship's side, but must be led on deck or into the main waste-steam pipe; and in all cases it should have a drain-cock on it. This will prevent water getting into the pipe when the ship is deeply laden or rolling.

Cocks or valves standing exceptional distances from the ship's plating, that is where the necks are longer than is necessary for making the joint, are to be discouraged, and if passed, they should be made of brass or gun-metal, and well bracketed.

Non-return valves on feed cocks.

116. Where the feed-cock or valve is so placed and arranged that more than one boiler can be fed at the same time through this cock or valve, a non-return valve must be fitted between each boiler and this cock or valve; but it is very desirable that all feed-cocks or valves should have a non-return valve fitted between the boiler and the cock or valve.

Cast-iron stand-pipes or cocks through which hot brine has to pass must never be passed.

117. In the case of the outlets of watercloset, soil, scupper, lavatory and urinal pipes which are below the weather deck, there should be an elbow of good substantial metal other than cast-iron or lead, and the pipe connected with this elbow should, if of lead, have a sufficient bend to provide for expansion in the pipe or any movement from the working of the ship. Pipes, no matter of what material they may be constructed, are never to be fitted in a direct line between the aparture in the ship's side and its connexion with the deck, or closet, or other fitting. Unless the watercloset and scupper pipes and their outlets are fitted in the way hereby required, or in a manner that will in the opinion of the Surveyor be more or equally efficient and safe, the Surveyor should refuse to grant a declaration. This paragraph applies only to sea-going vessels coming under survey for the first time.

Outlets of watercloset and scupper pipes

118. No question as to gear need be raised if the following spare gear and stores are supplied. The heavier portions of this gear must have been fitted and tried in its place, and must be kept on board where access can at all times be had to it:—

Spare gear and stores to be carried.

1 pair of connecting-rod brasses.
1 air-pump bucket, and rod, with guide.
1 circulating pump bucket and rod
1 air-pump head valve, seat, and guard.
1 set of india-rubber valves for air pumps.
1 circulating pump head valve, seat and guard.
1 set of india-rubber valves for circulating pumps.
2 main bearing bolts and nuts.
2 connecting-rod bolts and nuts.
2 piston-rod bolts and nuts.
8 screw shaft coupling bolts and nuts.
1 set of piston springs.
3 sets, if of india-rubber, or 1 set if of metal, of feed-pump valves and seats.
3 sets, if of india-rubber, or 1 set if of metal, of bilge pump valves and seats.
1 hydrometer.
Boiler tubes, 3 for each boiler.
100 iron assorted bolts, nuts, and washers, screwed, but need not be turned.
12 brass bolts and nuts, assorted, turned and fitted.
50 iron ,, ,, ,, ,,
50 condenser tubes.
100 sets of packing for condenser tube ends, or an equivalent.
At least one spare spring of each size for escape valves.
1 set of water gauge glasses.
$\frac{1}{10}$th of the total number of fire-bars necessary.
3 plates of iron, assorted.
6 bars of iron, assorted.
1 complete set of stocks, dies, and taps, suitable for the engines.
1 smith's anvil.
1 fitter's vice.
Ratchet-braces, and suitable drills.
1 copper or metal hammer.
Suitable blocks and tacking for lifting weights.
1 dozen files, assorted, and handles for the same.
1 set of drifts, or expanders for boiler tubes.
1 set of safety valve springs (if so fitted) for every four valves; if there are not four valves, then at least one set of springs must be carried.
1 screw jack.
And a set of engineer's tools suitable for the service, including hammers and chisels for vice and forge; solder and soldering iron; sheets of tin and copper; spelter; muriatic acid, or other equivalent, &c., &c.

119. Main, and tunnel, and propeller shafts must not be passed without reference to Government if found to be less in diameter than that found by the following rules :—

Size of shafting.

Surveyors should not grant a declaration for twelve months whenever they have any doubt whatever as to the efficiency of any portion of the vessel, or her machinery, for such period

Distilling apparatus for making fresh water

120. The distilling apparatus of emigrant ships must be taken to pieces every voyage, except in the cases of steamers holding passenger certificates, which must be taken to pieces at least once every six months, or oftener, if the Surveyor thinks it necessary, and the tubes or coils tested to at least twice the highest working pressure of the boiler from which the apparatus can be worked, and the machinery and boilers thoroughly examined. After the distilling apparatus is put together again, it must be tested as to the quantity and quality of the water made.

How to be examined, and what is to be capable of doing

The water must be perfectly cool, pure, and fit to drink immediately it is drawn off from the filter. No distilling apparatus is to be passed, unless fitted with a suitable sized filter, charged with animal charcoal, the charcoal must be taken out, cleansed, or renewed every voyage, except in cases of steamers holding passenger certificates, in which case it need not be taken out, unless the Surveyor think it necessary, oftener than every six months. In such cases (where sea-going steamers are coming frequently in for survey under the Emigration Acts, and such complete examination is not made previous to each voyage,) the Surveyor will be held wholly responsible for the efficiency of the apparatus; but the quantity and quality of the water must be tried previous to every voyage. It therefore rests with him whether he orders the distilling apparatus to be taken to pieces every voyage or not. The boilers must be at least equal in strength to the boilers of passenger steamers, and must have the same fittings as is necessary for them, in accordance with the Regulations. The Surveyor must satisfy himself as to the capability of the man who is to have charge of the apparatus.

The steam for working the apparatus is not to be taken from the main boilers. No exhaust steam must be permitted to go into the condenser if appliances for the introduction of lubricants be fitted to the steam pipes, or steam cylinder of the pumping engine. The boiler of the apparatus must not be filled or fed with water from the surface condensers of the main engines, and must not be fitted with cocks, &c., for the introduction of tallow or oil.

When the water is pumped into the condenser, there should be an escape valve fitted to it, which cannot be readily tampered with; and if the condensing portion of the apparatus or the cooler and filter be unfit to bear the pressure on the boiler, an efficient safety-valve, that cannot be readily overloaded, should be fitted between the steam-pipe and the apparatus.

Pump for distilling apparatus to be fitted as fire-engine

121. It is advisable that the donkey-engine for pumping water through the condenser be so fitted that it can be available in case of emergency for extinguishing fire in any part of the ship; a leather hose, with suitable bends and conductors, are to be supplied for this purpose.

Stores to be carried with distilling apparatus

122. The following list of tools and materials must be provided for distilling apparatus.—

1 set of stoking tools.
1 scaling tool.
1 spanner for boiler doors.
1 set of fire-bars, suitable for boiler.
1 14-inch flat bastard file.
1 14-inch half-round file.
1 10-inch round file.
3 file handles.
2 hand cold-chisels.
1 chipping hammer.
1 pair patent gas-tongs.
1 soldering iron.
10 lbs. of solder.
2 „ of rosin.
6 gauge-glasses.
24 india-rubber gauge-glass washers.
30 bolts and nuts, assorted.
1 slide-rod for donkey-pump.
5 lbs. spun-yarn.
10 „ cotton-waste.
1 deal box, with lock complete.
2 gallons machinery oil.
Animal charcoal sufficient to charge the filter at least twice.
1 can for machinery oil.
1 oil-feeder.
1 small bench vice.
1 ratchet-brace.
4 drills, assorted.
1 set dies and taps, suitable for the bolts.
2 glass salinometers.
1 hydrometer and pot.
1 shifting spanner.
1 lamp for engineer.

And other articles that the particular distiller and boiler supplied may, in the Surveyor's judgment, require.

List of distilling apparatus that have been approved by the :—

1. Normandy's patent.
2. Winchester and Graveley's patent.
3. Chaptin & Co.'s patent.
4. Brown & Co.'s patent.
5. Fraser's patent.
6. Hocking & Co.'s patent.
7. Kirkaldy's patent.
8. Siddeley & Co.'s patent.
9. Rayner's patent.
10. Union S. S. Co.'s patent.
11. Willoughby & Co.'s patent.

ACCIDENTS AND DAMAGES.

Damage to be inspected.

123. In all cases in which a steam-ship has sustained damage from any accident, or other cause, affecting her seaworthiness or efficiency in any part of her hull, equipments, or machinery, the surveyors of the port where the vessel may be, are to go on board and ascertain the extent of the damage. In doing so they will take care not to make any change in the position or condition of things on board, which would be at all likely to affect any legal evidence, should an enquiry into the case afterwards be considered necessary.

It is extremely important that the vessel should be surveyed and a report forwarded as early as possible.

Report to be sent to Government

124. They are forthwith to send a report, together with a rough figured sketch, showing the position of all the bulkheads, and distinguishing the compartments that may have been injured, to the Government, in order that the certificate may be cancelled, if necessary. In this report they are to state whether the vessel is rendered inefficient or unseaworthy either in hull or machinery; and whether, in their opinion, the certificate should be cancelled or only temporarily withdrawn.

Lights to be examined

125. The Surveyor should at the same time examine the lights and screens of the vessel, and if the vessel with which she has been in collision is in port, he should examine the lights of that vessel also, and should forward to the Government, in a separate report, a statement respecting the size, condition, and place of her lamps and screens, and whether, in his opinion, they comply with the requirements of the regulations, and if not, in what respects they are deficient.

The Surveyors shall be very careful in wording their reports as to lights and screens, as they may be used in evidence in cases taken into court.

Surveyor may order vessel to be docked.

126. If, in consequence of any accident to a steam-ship, or for any other reason, the Surveyor considers it necessary to require the vessel to be taken into dock for the purpose of surveying the hull thereof, he may do so, but he is to be cautious never to exercise this power unless the circumstances of the case actually require it.

Certificate to be held during repairs

127. Unless directions to the contrary are given, the Surveyor is to hold the certificate of the vessel during the time she is under repair, and for this purpose he is to require it of the master, unless the damage is such that in the Surveyor's judgment the certificate should be cancelled, in which case he should forward it to the officer authorized to grant certificates of survey under the Act, who will obtain the orders of Government on the subject. In all cases of serious damage the certificates should be cancelled.

Certificate may be endorsed if it has not been cancelled.

128. When the vessel is in every respect rendered sea-worthy and efficient, both in hull and machinery, to the entire satisfaction of the Surveyor, he is to put an endorsement on the back of the certificate and duplicate, if they have not previously been cancelled to the effect that the damage has been made good so as to last for the period for which the certificate was granted, and return the certificate to the master or owner, or his agent, and allow the vessel to proceed.

CERTIFICATES OF MASTERS, MATES, AND ENGINEERS.

129. It will be the duty of the Surveyor to report in his declaration that the certificates of the Master, Mates, Engineers, and Engine-drivers of the vessel under survey are such as are required by the Act.

Surveyors inspect certificates.

The Surveyors are to state on their declarations, in the appropriate place, the number and description of these certificates.

The details of the officers' certificates should be taken from the certificates themselves at every survey, the Surveyors carefully noting that by their certificates the officers are qualified for the positions they occupy.

PASSENGER ACCOMMODATION.*

130. The upper weather deck and the upper surface of the poop, forecastle, and spar deck being exposed to the weather are not to be included in the measurements for passengers in sea-going steamers, during the foul season as defined by Government notification No. 1366, dated Simla, 26th May 1882, nor on voyages extending to 120 hours and upwards; nor are the poop, round-house, or deck-house to be measured for passengers, unless they form part of the permanent structure of the vessel. They should in all cases be railed round at the top to prevent passengers from falling overboard.

Passenger in sea-going steam-ships

Care should be taken that the means provided for ventilation are sufficient to allow of a good supply of air in the event of the hatches being closed in bad weather. Places ventilated by hatches only, or in which provision is not made for a sufficient supply of air and light under ALL circumstances, should not be measured for passengers.

131. Sea-going steam-ships carrying more than 12 passengers, and not coming within the operation of the Passengers Act, 1876, are to be measured as follows:—

Divisors for space check.

Saloon or 1st class.—The number of properly constructed fixed berths or sofas that are fitted determine the number of passengers to be allowed, if sufficient light and ventilation is provided and a reasonable amount of floor space—2nd class.—The number is found in the same way as the 1st class. The number of 3rd-class passengers may be determined in like manner, if berths are fitted; if not, the number of passengers for each deck shall be determined according to the following scale:—

	Fair season, square feet.	Foul season, square feet.	Long voyage.
Hurricane deck, bridge or poop	6	0	0
Main or upper deck ...	6	9	0
Upper 'tween decks ...	9	9	9
Lower " " ...	12	15	15

When 'tween deck passengers are carried, for each person so carried a space of 4 square feet is to be allowed on the upper deck or hurricane deck, bridge or poop.

The height of between decks to be in no case less than 6 feet from deck to deck when 'tween deck passengers are carried.

The breadth of the deck is taken inside the waterway, or at the greatest tumble home, if the sides do tumble home.

* Detailed instructions as to the proper mode of ascertaining the maximum number of passengers to be carried under the different classes of passenger certificates will be found in the appendix. (See Appendix A.)

Deduction when stores are carried in passenger space

132. When cargo or stores are carried in the space measured for passengers, the area in superficial feet of deck space so occupied is to be deducted.

In the following rules the words "deck passengers" are intended to include all passengers, whether carried on deck or in the cabins, except passengers entered as 2nd class or saloon passengers in the way bill.

Water-closets in sea-going ships

133. In addition to, and exclusive of, closets for cabin and saloon passengers, closets are to be provided for the exclusive use of deck passengers in the ratio of three for every two hundred deck passengers allowed by the survey certificate, and a fair proportion are to be allotted to the sole use of women and children, and so marked outside. Clear passages to these closets must always be maintained. In no case is a less number than two to be provided. These closets should be clean, well lighted, and well drained, and must be of sufficient height and size, and effectually protected from weather and sea.

Arrangement necessary when cattle are carried

134. If cattle are carried under cover on the same level deck as passengers, they are to be separated from the passenger space by a moveable close bulkhead running athwartships across the deck, and extending from the deck to the covering above, or must be otherwise efficiently separated.

When the cattle are not under cover, the space occupied by the cattle shall be effectually shut off from the passenger space by bulk-heads, wooden partitions, or otherwise. The partitions need not be close; but efficient wash-boards must be fitted to prevent the dung or urine of the cattle from getting on to the passenger space.

If cattle are carried either in the 'tween decks or holds, then the passenger space must be effectually shut off from the cattle space, and separately ventilated, so that no effluvia from the cattle space can escape into the passenger space.

135. The Surveyors should measure the ship in sections or parts, as set forth in the applications for survey, taking care that some definite limits, or some mark, or conspicuous object, indicates the boundary of each space which is measured separately.

The deck space set apart for deck or third class passengers is always to be measured from abaft the windlass (as at present), to a mark which, in paddle steamers, shall be placed over the shafts, and in other vessels shall be an arbitrary line marked vertically on the house or bulwarks amidships, or as near thereto as convenient. From this mark aft the deck space is to be measured as far as the deck or third class passengers accommodation extends, whether to a break or raised quarter-deck; to a poop or the entire after length of the deck, to the wheel, as the case may be. The breadth of measurement shall be to a point which affords good and convenient foot-room.

Spaces on deck for first class passengers, and for all passengers other than those included in the category of deck or third class passengers, are to be measured in a similar manner.

The breadths are taken from inside the gutter waterway, or the inside edge of the raised covering board, or inside edge of the rail, if the bulwarks tumble home further than the inside edge of water-way or covering board. Clear area means the space after all incumbrances, such as hatchways, skylights, companions, steam-chest casings, funnel casings, wheel, windlass, binnacles, masts, dunnage for luggage, boats carried inboard, and fittings for cattle, &c., are deducted, and in no case is the crew space to be included.

Where cargo, cattle, &c., are carried in the space measured for passengers in sea-going passenger

NOTICE.

The 6th November 1885.—The following draft of Rules, which it is proposed to issue under section 29 of Act VI of 1884 and section 36 of Act VII of 1884, is published for general information. The Rules will be taken into consideration on the expiry of a month from the date of the first publication of the Rules in the Calcutta Gazette. The Lieutenant-Governor will receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the rules before the period specified above.

J. WARE EDGAR,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Rules for the examination of, and grant of Certificates to, Masters of Inland Steam Vessels under section 29, Act VI of 1884.

1. Candidates for certificates as first class Masters of Inland Steam vessels must be not less than twenty-one years of age and must have served either three years at sea and three years as Mate of a river steamer or Master of a flat, or six years as Mate of a river steamer or Master of a river flat.

2. Every such Candidate shall apply for permission to appear for examination in a printed form* to be filled up by him and forwarded to the Port Officer, Calcutta, together with such documentary evidence as shall satisfy the Port Officer that the Candidate has complied with the conditions of Rule 66 above, and that he is of sober habits and of good character. Each Candidate shall forward with his application a fee of Rs. 16, which will not be returned in case of failure.

* Copies will be supplied to intending Candidates by the Port Officer, Calcutta, on application.

3. The Port Officer shall notify to accepted Candidates the date and hour of examination, in fixing which he shall have due regard to the convenience of their employers. The fees of any Candidate who is not accepted shall be returned to him.

4. The examination of Candidates shall ordinarily be conducted by the Committee which sits quarterly for the examination of Pilots, assisted by two persons selected in each case by the Port Officer, holding certificates as first class Masters of Inland Steam Vessels, duly in force under these rules. But the Port Officer may at any time convene a Special Committee for the examination of Candidates under these rules.

5. Before proceeding to examine any Candidate in the manner provided in the rule next following, the Committee shall carefully test his ability to distinguish the following colours which enter largely into the combinations of signals by day and night, viz. black, white, red, green, yellow, and blue. In the event of any Candidate failing to satisfy completely the usual tests for colour-blindness in respect of all of these colours, the Committee will decline to proceed with his examination, and will report the case through the Port Officer for the information of the local Government.

6. The Committee will examine each Candidate apart, and vivâ voce, in each and all of the following subjects:—

(1).—The names and courses of the river reaches from Calcutta to Mud Point, and the extent of the sands in such reaches.

(2).—The sets of the tides within the said limits.

(3).—The names of all points in the river within the said limits.

(4).—The candidate's general knowledge of soundings in the channels and over the sands within the said limits.

(5).—The tracks over the Moyapore and Royapore flats, the Fultah tracks, and the Eastern and Western Guts.

(6).—The marks for fair channels or hauling in to reaches where such exist.

(7).—The marks for the limits of sands where such exist.

(8).—The rules of the road.

(9).—The management of river steamers under all contingencies of meeting, overtaking, and passing vessels in all possible positions within the limits described in No. 1.

(10).—The Tide Table.

(11).—The rules of the Port of Calcutta including the prescribed Storm Signals.

(12).—The provisions of Act VI of 1884, and the rules framed under it.

7. If the Candidate satisfy the Committee as to his knowledge of the subjects set forth in the foregoing rule, and generally as to his competency to command an inland river steamer, they shall certify the same to the Port Officer, who will then grant a certificate of such competency in the form appended to these rules.

8. Every certificate of competency shall be made in duplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the person entitled to the certificate and the other shall be kept and recorded by the Port Office.

9 No Candidate who fails to satisfy the Committee shall be at liberty to submit a fresh application for examination until six months have passed from the date of such failure.

10. A candidate for a certificate as second class Master of an Inland Steam vessel must produce satisfactory certificates of sobriety and intelligence, and that he has served four years as mate of a small steam vessel or helmsman of a large steam vessel, and shall be examined by the examining body defined in rule 69 vivâ voce as to his knowledge in the following subjects:—Colours, rule of the road and lights, management of small river steamers, rules of the Port of Calcutta and storm signals.

11. A fee of Rs. 6 will be charged, which will not be returned in case of failure.

Government of Bengal.

By the Honourable the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

REGULATIONS

RELATING TO THE

EXAMINATIONS OF ENGINEERS AND ENGINE-DRIVERS.

UNDER SECTION 29, ACT VI OF 1884, AND SECTION 36, ACT VII OF 1884.

EXAMINATION OF ENGINEERS FOR CERTIFICATES OF COMPETENCY.

Preliminary.

The penalties incurred by persons proceeding to sea in the capacity of Engineers or Engine-drivers without possessing the necessary certificate are laid down in the Indian Steam Ships Act, VII of 1884, and the Inland Steam Vessels Act, VI of 1884.

Certificates of competency granted to persons who pass requisite examinations.

1. CERTIFICATES of competency will be granted to those persons who pass the requisite examinations, and otherwise comply with the requisite conditions.

2. Examinations will be held once every two months by the Chief Engineer of the Dockyard, and two Engineers who will be appointed by the local Government under section 22 of Act VI of 1884, and section 26 of Act VII of 1884. The Chief Engineer will be the permanent President of the Examining Committee, and the other members will usually be selected from the Superintending Engineers of the different Steam Companies in the port. Each examiner will receive a fee of Rs. 32 for the examination.

3. Every certificate of competency shall be made in duplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the person entitled to the certificate and the other shall be kept and recorded by the Port Officer.

Examinations continued till all the candidates are examined.

4. The examinations will commence early in the forenoon and will be continued from day to day until all the candidates whose names appear upon the Port Officer's list on the day of examination are examined.

Application how to be made.

5. The application for examination is to be made on Form Exn. 3, which may be obtained at the Port Office. The Exn. 3 properly filled in, together with the Candidate's testimonials, must be lodged with the Port Officer not later than the day before the day of examination.

Testimonials required.

6. Applicants will be required to produce, in addition to the usual Forms of Discharge, satisfactory testimonials as to sobriety, experience, ability, and general good conduct for at least the 12 months immediately preceding the date of application to be examined, and without producing them no person will be examined. If the service has been on shore the testimonial must be signed by an Employer, if at sea by the Master Managing Owner, and Chief or Superintending Engineer.

7. As such testimonials and discharges have to be verified before the candidates can be examined, it is desirable that they should be handed in, together with the Form Exn. 3, as early as possible.

Testimonials of Foreigners.

8. The testimonials of servitude of Foreigners and of British Seamen serving in foreign vessels which cannot be verified by the Port Officer must be confirmed either by the Consul of the country to which the ship in which the candidate served belonged, or by some other recognized official authority of that country; or by the testimony of some credible person on the spot having personal knowledge of the facts required to be established. The production, however, of such proofs will not of necessity be deemed sufficient. Each case must be decided on its own merits; and if the sufficiency of the proofs given appears to be at all doubtful, the point must be referred to the Local Government.

9. Should any doubt exist as to the age of a Candidate he will be required to produce a Certificate of Birth or Baptism. Certificate as to age.

10. Foreigners must prove to the satisfaction of the Examiners that they can speak and write the English language sufficiently well to perform the duties required of them on board a British vessel. Foreigners to know English.

11. Services which cannot be verified by proper entries in the Articles of the Ships in which the Candidates have served cannot be counted. Verification of services, &c., by Articles.

12. Service performed on rivers, or within smooth or partially smooth water limits, cannot be accepted, except for inland steamers.

13. Service entered upon a Ship's Articles as having been performed in the capacity of Assistant Engineer must be supported by proof of the Candidate having acted as 2nd, 3rd, 4th, &c., Engineer, as the case may be. Assistant Engineer.

14 The service required by the Regulations to qualify a candidate for examination is to be regarded as referring to service in the Foreign Trade only. Service in the Home or Coasting Trade must amount to at least half as much again as that required by the Regulations to make up for the time spent in Port, e.g., for every twelve months' service under the Regulations, eighteen months' service in Home Trade or Coasting Vessels will be required. Service in Home or Coasting Trade.

15. Service in the engine-room (afterwards referred to) for qualifying a candidate to be examined for a Second-class Engineer's Certificate must be only in those capacities which afford opportunities of obtaining practical experience as an engineer; and service in the capacity of fireman stoker, donkeyman, greaser, winchman, labourer, engineer's steward, or any other capacity than that of engineer taking watch will not be accepted Service as Engineer only accepted as qualifying service.

16. Service as a Third Engineer in Steamers, where more than three Engineers are carried, their names being entered on the Articles in their respective ratings on board, may be accepted as equivalent to service as Second Engineer for qualifying a candidate for examination for a First-class Engineer's Certificate, provided the candidate has been in possession of a Second-class Engineer's Certificate (Imperial or under an Order in Council) during the performance of such service, and his name has been entered on the Articles as Third Engineer. Service as Third Engineer

17. If a candidate has served in the Engine-Room with a Second-class Certificate in the capacity of a Second Engineer in Foreign-going Steam Ships under 100 horse-power or in Home Trade Passenger Steam Ships, which are not required by law to carry a certificated Second Engineer, his service may be accepted without reference to the vessel's horse-power, provided he has been on the ship's articles as Second Engineer, and produces certificates of discharge as Second Engineer, for the required period. Service as Second Engineer where Certificate not required

18. The Port Officer may see fit to allow an applicant who, in consequence of service abroad, has been unable to obtain a Second class Certificate, to be examined for a First-class Certificate, without first obtaining a Certificate of the lower grade, provided he is able to satisfy him as to the satisfactory character of his services. First-class Certificates without Second.

19. In such cases (para. 17) or in cases where the candidate is already in possession of a Certificate of Service, should he fail to pass the examination for the higher grade, but passes the examination for the lower grade, he may receive a Certificate accordingly, but no part of the fee will be returned. Unsuccessful candidates may in certain cases receive Certificates for inferior grade.

20. A candidate who under the above regulation (para. 17) has been permitted to be examined for a First-class Certificate without first obtaining a Second-class Certificate of Competency, and who fails in his vivâ voce examination, may not be re examined for a Certificate of the higher grade until he has served 12 months as Second Engineer with a Second-class Engineer's Certificate of Competency as required by the Regulations. Consequence of failure in such cases.

21. If the candidate fails altogether, i.e., both in the examination for the lower as well as for the higher grade of Certificate (para. 17) he may be re-examined for a Second-class Certificate only, subject to the usual regulations relating to failure.

Inaccurate statements of service.

22. Every person who makes, or procures to be made, or assists in making, any false representation for the purpose of obtaining for himself or for any other person a Certificate of Competency, shall for each offence be liable to punishment under chapters V and XI of the Indian Penal Code.

23. These provisions will be strictly enforced by the Local Government, and any candidate for a Certificate of Competency as First or Second Engineer who shall, for the purpose of obtaining any such Certificate, present to the Examiner any "application to be examined for a Certificate of Competency" (Exn. 3.), or statutory declaration containing any false or inaccurate statement of service, and any other person who shall make or prepare, or assist in making or preparing, any such false or inaccurate statement will be prosecuted.

If after passing examination services are found to have been insufficient.

24. If after a candidate has passed his examination it is discovered on further investigation, e.g., by verification on the part of the Port Officer that his services are insufficient to entitle him to receive a Certificate of the grade for which he has passed, it will not be granted to him; but if the Local Government are satisfied that the error in the calculation of his services did not occur through any fault or wilful misrepresentation on his part, the Certificate may be issued to him, or he may be allowed to go up for re-examination without payment of further fee, when he has performed the amount of service in which he was deficient as the Local Government may direct.

Certificate of lower grade may be granted on certain conditions.

25. If, in such a case, the applicant's services are sufficient to entitle him to receive a Certificate of a lower grade, provided as aforesaid he has not wilfully misrepresented the amount of his services, an Inferior Certificate may be granted to him, and the difference between the fee paid by him for the Superior Certificate and the fee payable for the Inferior Certificate may be placed to his credit.

Must be re-examined for certificate of higher grade.

26. In such a case when the applicant has by further service made up the time in which he was found to be short, he may be required, before he can receive the higher Certificate, to be re-examined in all the subjects.

Qualifications for Certificates of Competency

27. AS ENGINE-DRIVERS.

a. Such certificates of competency will be granted only to those persons who possess the qualifications hereinafter detailed and otherwise comply with the requisite conditions.

b. Applications for such certificates of competency are to be made to the Port Officer, on whose recommendation examiners will be appointed to test the qualifications of candidates under the following rules.

c. A candidate for a certificate of competency under these rules must have attained the age of twenty-two years.

d. He must have the testimonial shown in one of the appendices to this code of rules filled up by the engineer with whom he has last served, or his other testimonials must contain all the particulars therein required.

e. The fee for examination under these rules will be ten rupees, and the amount must be remitted with the application to the Port Officer. If a candidate fails, no part of the fee he has paid will be returned to him.

f. Such certificates will be granted by the Port Officer in the form prescribed in one of the appendices to this code.

g. In case of failure, candidates may be re-examined de novo after a lapse of six months, if the past examination showed that they might reasonably be expected to qualify.

FOR INLAND STEAMERS UNDER ACT VI OF 1884.

a. He must have been three years principal serang or tindal in the engine-room of a steamer, or have been three years in charges of the engine of a factory or mill under a European manager or engineer, as well as one year principal serang or tindal or assistant engineer in the engine-room of a steamer under a certificated engineer, or he must prove that he has been employed for not less than five years in the making and repairing of engines, and has been employed as assistant in the engine-room of a steamer or in charge of a steam launch for a period of not less than twelve months.

b. He must pass a vivâ voce examination before the Board of Examiners as to the working of an engine and the use of its different parts.

c. He must be able to show his practical qualifications by one week's trial in a Government steamer after fulfilling the other tests to which he will be subjected.

FOR SEA-GOING STEAMERS UNDER ACT VII OF 1884.

A candidate will be required to have served three years as principal serang or as tindal in the engine-room of a sea-going steamer under a certificated Enginer, and to show, in addition to the qualifications required of a candidate for a certificate of competency as engine-driver of an inland steamer under Act VI of 1884, a knowledge of the use of brine cocks and blowing off of the salinometer, and of the care of the boiler in salt-water.

FOR INLAND STEAMERS UNDER ACT VI OF 1884.

Qualification of Candidate for Inland Engineer's Certificate.

28. A candidate for a certificate as Engineer for Inland Steamers must have served an apprenticeship to an Engineer, of three years in England or five years in India, and must prove that during the period of his apprenticeship he has been employed on the making and repairing of engines. Or, if he has not served an apprenticeship, he must prove that for not less than three years in England or five years in India he has been employed as a journeyman or master-hand in some factory or workshop on the making or repairing of engines. In either case he must also have served two years thereafter as an engine-driver or Engineer afloat. Any one who has passed as a Second class Engineer under Act VII of 1884 will be considered to be qualified as an Engineer for inland steamers.

FOR SEA-GOING STEAMERS.

Qualification of candidate for Second class Engineer's Certificate.

29. SECOND-CLASS ENGINEER — A candidate for a Second-class Engineer's Certificate must be 21 years of age;

He must have served an apprenticeship to an Engineer for three years in England or five in India at least, and prove that during the period of his apprenticeship he has been employed on the making and repairing of engines. Or if he has not served an apprenticeship, he must prove that for not less than three years in England or five in India he has been employed as a journeyman mechanic in some factory or workshop on the making or repairing of engines.* In either case he must also have served one year at sea in the engine-room as an Engineer on the Watch in the Foreign, or eighteen months in the Home or Coasting Trade; or

He must have served at least four years at sea in the engine-room as an Engineer on the Watch in the Foreign, or six years in the Home, or Coasting Trade.

* These may be either land or marine engines.

For both Classes of Candidates.

(a) He must be able to give a description of boilers and the methods of staying them, together with the use and management of the different valves, cocks, pipes, and connections.

(b) He must understand how to correct defects from accident, decay, &c., and the means of repairing such defects.

(c) He must understand the use of the barometer, thermometer, and salinometer, and the principles on which they are constructed.

(d) He must state the causes, effects, and usual remedies for incrustation and corrosion.

(e) He must be able to state how a temporary or permanent repair could be effected in case of derangement of a part of the machinery, or total break down.

(f) He must write a legible hand, and understand the first five rules of arithmetic, and decimals, and their application to questions about consumption of stores, and full capacities of tanks and bunkers, the duty of pumps, and the direct strains in engines and boilers.

(g) He must be able to pass a creditable examination as to the various constructions of paddle and screw engines in general use; as to the details of the different working parts, external and internal, and the use of each part.

For Sea-going Steamers.

Qualification of candidate for First-class Engineer's Certificate.

30. First-class Engineer.—A candidate for a First-class Engineer's Certificate must be 22 years of age.

31. In addition to the qualification required for a Second-class Engineer;

(a) He must have served for one year at sea as Second Engineer with a Second-class Engineer's Certificate of Competency (See also para. 15 as regards service as Third Engineer).

(b) The Examiner should therefore be satisfied that an applicant for a First-class Engineer's Certificate has not only been in possession of a Second class Certificate for the periods above stated, but that he has actually served for such periods in the engine-room, at sea with a Second-class Certificate, in the capacities referred to, and that his name has been entered in the articles of agreement accordingly. (See also para. 17)

32. (a) He will be required to make an intelligible hand sketch, or a working drawing of some one or more of the principal parts of a steam-engine; and to mark in, without a copy, all the necessary dimensions in figures, so that the sketch or drawing could be worked from.*

(b) He must also be able to take off and calculate indicator diagrams

(c) He must be able to calculate safety-valve pressures and the strength of the boiler, shell, stay, and rivetting.

(d) He must be able to state the general proportions borne by the principal parts of the machinery to each other, and to calculate the direct strain, the twisting strain, and the bending strain in rectangular bars, and in round bars with given loads.

(e) He must be able to explain the method of testing and altering the setting of the slide valves, and to sketch about what difference any alteration in the slide valve will make in the indicator diagram, and of testing the fairness of the paddle and screw shafts and of adjusting them.

(f) He must be conversant with surface condensation, superheating, and the working of steam expansively.

(g.) His knowledge of arithmetic must include the mensuration of superficies and solids and the extraction of the square root, and the application of these rules to questions relating to the power, duty and economy of engines and boilers, and to the strains in rods, shafts, and levers of the engine.

Service in the Royal Navy or Indian Marine.

33. Retired Engineers of the Royal Navy or Indian Marine are qualified to be examined for First-class Engineer's Certificates in the Mercantile Marine, provided that their character and ability have been satisfactory.

Engineers.

34. Retired First-class Assistant or Assistant Engineers of the Royal Navy or Indian Marine may be examined for Second-class Engineer's Certificates in the Mercantile Marine under similar conditions.

Assistants Engineers.

35. Temporary service in the Royal Navy or Indian Marine does not count.

Temporary service.

36. Service performed on shore in the capacity of Engineer Artificer may count as workshop service to qualify a candidate for examination for a Second-class Engineer's Certificate of Competency in the Mercantile Marine.

Engineer Artificer.

37. Application for permission to be examined must be made to the Port Officer.

Fees

38. Candidates for examination, in making their application on Form Exn. 3, will be required to pay the examination fees before any step is taken, whether by inquiring into their services or testing their qualifications, &c.

39. The fee for examination must be paid to the Port Officer.

Fees to be paid by applicants for examination (S 133, Exn 17.)

40. If a candidate fails in his examination, no part of the fee he has paid will be returned to him.

41. The fees are as follow:—

Engine-driver's Certificate - -	Rs.	10
Inland Engineer's Certificate - -	,,	12
Second-class Engineer's Certificate -	,,	12
First-class Engineer's Certificate -	,,	24
First-class Engineer's Certificate if candidate is already in possession of a Second-class Certificate of competency granted by the Board of Trade or by the Government of a British Possession under Section 8 of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869 - - - - -	,,	12
Renewal of any certificate - -	,,	5

General Rules as to Examinations.

42. All books necessary for the use of candidates under examination will be provided by the Local Government, and applicants will not be permitted to take into the examination room any book, paper, document, or memoranda of any description whatever, and subject to the provisions referred to hereafter. They will also not be allowed to work out their problems on a slate or on waste paper.

Candidates not to take books, &c., into examination room.

43. Candidates will be allowed in the time allotted to cancel any part of their work, and when required additional papers will be supplied by the examiners. These additional sheets must be attached to and form part of the examination papers.

44. Candidates for First-class Certificates have to pass an examination in Rough Working Drawing, which may be either hand sketches clearly dimensioned and complete in the necessary views and sections, or drawings to a scale. Drawing boards and T squares will be provided by the Local Government, but the applicants will have to bring with them any drawing instruments they may require.*

Punishment for breaking rules.

45. In the event of any candidate being discovered copying from another, or affording any assistance or giving any information to another, or communicating in any way with another during the time of examination, he will be regarded as having failed in his examination, and will be turned back for three months, in the same manner as if he had failed in the practical part of the examination; and no part of the fees he may have paid for examination will be returned to him.

Leaving examination room

46. If a candidate leaves the room before answering any question which has been given to him, he cannot afterwards be permitted to answer it, but the Examiners may substitute other data or another question.

Questions from Form Exn 15a

47 All applicants presenting themselves for examination will be required to give written answers to eight out of a list of ten questions selected from Form Exn. 15*a*,† "Elementary "Questions for the first examinations of Engineers for certificates of competency." Those questions are intended to furnish a record to some extent of the candidate's knowledge at the time of his examination, and also to induce the candidates to pay more attention to their handwriting and spelling.

48. The Form Exn. 15*b*.,† on which these answers will be written, contains also some questions as to the experience of the applicant, to be answered by him in writing.

49. Examiners may add to their vivâ voce questions on the practical management of steam engines and boilers any of those contained in Exn. 15*a*.

50. If at the expiration of the time allowed the Candidate has worked out correctly the whole of the questions set to him, and given satisfactory answers in the vivâ voce examination, he will be declared to have passed.

51. If at the expiration of the time allowed he has not worked out the whole of the questions set to him, but if the result of the vivâ voce examination taken in connection with the answers to such of the questions as he has worked out is sufficient to satisfy the Examiner that the applicant is competent to take charge of engines, he will be declared to have passed

52. In other cases he will be declared to have failed.

(Exn 15)

53. A report of the examination, and the examination papers, will be forwarded to the Port Officer on the Form Exn. 15).

Notification of having passed will be given to successful candidates. (Exn 16.)

54. If the candidate passes he will receive the Form Exn. 16, which authorises the Port Officer to issue the Certificate to the candidate, whose testimonials, &c., will be returned at the same time. It is therefore important that the port of destination of the certificate should be the same on both the Form Exn. 16 and the Form Exn. 2. If circumstances should make any alteration necessary, the examiners should see that it is made in both forms, otherwise delay in the issue of the certificate may be caused.

Failure.

55. If the applicant fails in the vivâ voce or practical part of the examination he may not present himself for re-examination until he can produce proofs of THREE MONTHS' further service at sea as Engineer from the date of failure. If he fails in arithmetic or drawing only, he may come up again at any time. Engine-drivers may be examined de novo after six months, if the past examination shewed that they might reasonably be expected to qualify.

Orders and Notifications by the Government of India, &c.

[Reprinted from the Gazette of India.]

The following notifications, issued by the Government of India, Home Department, are republished for general information.

F. B. PEACOCK,
Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATIONS.—EXAMINATIONS.

Simla, the 29th October 1885.

No. 96.—The following Regulations respecting the Examination of Candidates for the Civil Service of India, to be held in June 1886, are published for general information :—

EXAMINATIONS FOR THE CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.

REGULATIONS FOR THE OPEN COMPETITION OF JUNE 1886.

N.B.—The regulations are liable to be altered in future years.

1. On the 1st June 1886, and following days, an examination open to all qualified persons, will be held in London (a). Not fewer than   persons will be selected, if so many shall be found duly qualified ;—viz.,   for the Lower Provinces of Bengal (including Assam) ;   for the Upper Provinces of Bengal (including the Punjab and Oudh) ;   for Burma ;   for Madras ; and   for Bombay (b).

2. No person will be deemed qualified who shall not satisfy the Civil Service Commissioners—

   (i) That he is a natural-born subject of Her Majesty.

   (ii) That his age will be above seventeen years and under nineteen years on the 1st January 1886. [N.B.—In the case of Natives of India, this must be certified by the Government of India, or of the Presidency or Province in which the candidate may have resided.]

   (iii) That he has no disease, constitutional affection, or bodily infirmity unfitting him, or likely to unfit him, for the Civil Service of India.

   (iv) That he is of good moral character.

3. Should the evidence upon the above points be primâ facie satisfactory to the Civil Service Commissioners, the candidate, on payment of the prescribed fee (c), will be admitted to the examination. The Commissioners may, however, in their discretion, at any time prior to the grant of the certificate of qualification hereinafter referred to, institute such further inquiries as they may deem necessary ; and if the result of such inquiries, in the case of any candidate, should be unsatisfactory to them in any of the above respects, he will be ineligible for admission to the Civil Service of India ; and, if already selected, will be removed from the position of a Probationer.

(a) An order for admission to the Examination will be sent to each candidate on the 18th of May.
(b) The numbers will be announced hereafter.
(c) The fee (£5) will be payable by means of a special stamp according to instructions which will be communicated to candidates.

4. The examination will take place only in the following branches of knowledge :—

		Marks.
	English composition	300
(d)	History of England—including a period selected by the candidate	300
(d)	English Literature—including books selected by the candidate	300
	Greek	600
	Latin	800
	French	500
	German	500
	Italian	400
(e)	Mathematics (pure and mixed)	1,000
	Natural Science; that is, the elements of any two of the following Sciences, viz. :— Chemistry, 500; Electricity and Magnetism, 300; Experimental Laws of Heat and Light 300; Mechanical Philosophy, with outlines of Astronomy, 300.
	Logic	300
	Elements of Political Economy	300
(f)	Sanskrit	500
(f)	Arabic	500

Candidates are at liberty to name any or all of these branches of knowledge. No subjects are obligatory.

5. The merit of the persons examined will be estimated by marks; and the number set opposite to each branch in the preceding regulation denotes the greatest number of marks that can be obtained in respect of it.

6. The marks assigned to Candidates in each branch will be subject to such deduction as the Civil Service Commissioners may deem necessary (g), in order to secure that "a Candidate be allowed no credit at all for taking up a subject in which he is a mere smatterer."

7. The examination will be conducted on paper and vivâ voce, as may be deemed necessary.

8. The marks obtained by each Candidate in respect of each of the subjects in which he shall have been examined, will be added up, and the names of the several Candidates who shall have obtained after the deduction abovementioned, a greater aggregate number of marks than any of the remaining Candidates, will be set forth in order of merit, and such Candidates shall be deemed to be Selected Candidates for the Civil Service of India, provided they appear to be in other respects duly qualified. Should any of the Selected Candidates become disqualified, the Secretary of State for India will determine whether the vacancy thus created shall be filled up or not. In the former case, the candidate next in order of merit, and in other respects duly qualified, shall be deemed to be a Selected Candidate. A Selected Candidate declining to accept the appointment which may be offered to him will be disqualified for any subsequent competition.

9. Selected Candidates, before proceeding to India, will be on probation for two years, during which time they will be examined periodically, with a view of testing their progress in the following subjects (h) :—

		Marks.
1.	Law	1,250
2.	Classical Languages of India—
	Sanskrit	500
	Arabic	400
	Persian	400
3.	Vernacular Languages of India (each)	400
4.	The History and Geography of India	350
5.	Political Economy	350

In these examinations, as in the open competition, the merit of the candidates examined will be estimated by marks, and the number set opposite to each subject denotes the greatest number of marks that can be obtained in respect of it at any one examination. The examination will be conducted on paper and vivâ voce, as may be deemed necessary. The last of these examinations will be held at the close of the second year of probation, and will be called the "Final Examination," at which it will be decided whether a selected candidate is qualified for the Civil Service of India. At this Examination Candidates

(d) A considerable portion of the marks for English History and Literature will be allotted to the work selected by the candidate (See Notice on p. 4). In awarding marks for this, regard will be had partly to the extent and importance of the periods or books selected, but chiefly to the thoroughness with which they have been studied.

(e) The Examination will range from Arithmetic, Algebra and Elementary Geometry, up to the elements of the differential and integral calculus, including the lower portions of applied Mathematics.

(f) The standard of marking in Sanskrit and Arabic will be determined with reference to a high degree of proficiency, such as may be expected to be reached by a Native of good education.

(g) Marks assigned in English Composition and Mathematics will be subject to no deduction. Each science will, for the purpose of deduction, be treated as a separate subject.

(h) Full instructions as to the course of study to be pursued will be issued to the successful candidates as soon as possible after the result of the open competition is declared.

will be permitted to take up any one of the following branches of Natural Science, viz.—Agricultural Chemistry, Botany, Geology, or Zoology, for which 350 marks will be allowed.

10. Candidates will be tested during their probation as to their ability to perform journeys on horseback; and no candidate will be deemed qualified for the Civil Service of India who fails to satisfy the Civil Service Commissioners of his competence in this respect.

11. Any candidate who, at any of the periodical examinations, shall appear to have wilfully neglected his studies, or to be physically incapacitated for pursuing the prescribed course of training, will be liable to have his name removed from the list of selected candidates.

12. The Selected Candidates who, at the final examination, shall be found to have a competent knowledge of the subjects specified in Regulation 9, and who shall have satisfied the Civil Service Commissioners of their eligibility in respect of nationality, age, health, character, and ability to ride, shall be certified by the said Commissioners to be entitled to be appointed to the Civil Service of India, provided they shall comply with the regulations in force, at the time, for that service.

13. Persons desirous to be admitted as candidates must apply on forms,* which may be obtained from "The Secretary, Civil Service Commission, London, S. W.," at any time after the 1st December 1885. The forms must be returned so as to be received at the office of the Civil Service Commissioners on or before 31st March 1886 (i).

The Civil Service Commissioners are authorised by the Secretary of State for India in Council to make the following announcements :—

(1) Selected Candidates will be permitted to choose, according to the order in which they stand in the list resulting from the open competition, so long as a choice remains, the Presidency (and in Bengal the Division of the Presidency) to which they shall be appointed; but this choice will be subject to a different arrangement, should the Secretary of State, or the Government of India, deem it necessary (k).

(2) The probationers, having passed the necessary examinations, will be required to report their arrival in India within such period after the grant of their certificate of qualification as the Secretary of State may in each case direct.

(3) The seniority in the Civil Service of India of the Selected Candidates shall be determined according to the order in which they stand on the list resulting from the Final Examination.

(4) An allowance amounting to £300 will be given to all Candidates who pass their probation at one of the Universities or Colleges which have been approved by the Secretary of State, viz., the Universities of Oxford Cambridge, Dublin, Glasgow, Edinburgh, St. Andrew's, and Aberdeen; University College, London; and King's College, London; provided such Candidates shall have passed the required Examinations to the satisfaction of the Civil Service Commissioners, and shall have complied with such rules as may be laid down for the guidance of Selected Candidates.

Candidates are not permitted to migrate from the University originally chosen by them to another University without first applying to the India Office for the permission, and receiving the sanction, of the Secretary of State, who will not entertain such applications unless good and sufficient reasons are assigned.

(5) Selected Candidates desiring to remain in this country an additional year after the completion of their two years' probation for the purpose of taking a degree at one of the Universities abovementioned, should apply to the Secretary of State for India for permission to do so. Besides the allowances abovementioned, a bonus of £150 will, as a temporary and experimental measure, be paid to any Candidate who, having obtained permission to remain an additional year, passes an examination qualifying for a degree in Honours at Oxford or Cambridge, or, being a student of University College, London, passes with credit an Honour Examination of the University of London. This privilege will be hereafter extended to any other of the Universities above referred to, at which an academical distinction is obtainable which, in the opinion of the Secretary of State, corresponds to a degree in Honours at Oxford or Cambridge, and to obtain which the additional year's residence in this country is necessary.

(6) All Selected Candidates will be required, after having passed the first periodical Examination, and before receiving the first instalment of their allowance, to attend at the India Office for the purpose of entering into an agreement binding themselves, amongst other things, to refund in certain cases the amount of their allowance in the event of their failing to proceed to India. A surety will be required.

(i) These forms should be accompanied by evidence on the points mentioned in Regulation 2, and by a list of the subjects in which the candidate desires to be examined. Evidence of health and character must bear date not earlier than 1st March 1886. Applications for leave to alter or add to the list of subjects named will not be entertained unless received on or before the 4th of May.

(k) This choice must be exercised immediately after the result of the open competition is announced, on such day as may be fixed by the Civil Service Commissioners.

* Copies of these Regulations and of the form of application may be obtained on application to the Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department.

(7) After passing the Final Examination, each Candidate will be required to attend again at the India Office, with the view of entering into covenants, by which, amongst other things, they will bind themselves to agree to such Regulations for the provision of pensions for their families as may be approved by the Secretary of State for India in Council. The stamps payable on these covenants amounts to £1

(8) Candidates rejected at the Final Examination of 1888 will in no cases be allowed to present themselves for re-examination.

NOTICE RESPECTING THE EXAMINATION IN THE HISTORY OF ENGLAND AND ENGLISH LITERATURE.

HISTORY OF ENGLAND.

For the guidance of Candidates who may have a difficulty in making their selections for special study under this head, the following list is given as indicating the character and amount of reading that would be regarded as satisfactory.

Any one of the following periods, to be studied generally in "Bright's History," or (for the two first periods) Green's "History of the English People"; and more particularly in portions selected by the candidate of the text-books named :—

1. A D. 1066-1307.—Stubbs' Select Charters; Stubbs' Constitutional History of England; Freeman's Norman Conquest Vol. V.
2. A D. 1461-1588 —Hallam's Constitutional History of England; Froude's History of England; Brewer's Henry VIII.
3. A.D. 1603-1715.—Hallam's Constitutional History of England; Macaulay's History of England; Gardiner's History of England; Wyon's Reign of Queen Anne.
4. A.D. 1715-1805.—Lord Stanhope's History; Sir T. E. May's Constitutional History; Seeley's Expansion of England; Massey's Reign of George III.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

Under this head there will be (besides the general paper) a special paper on the following books :—

1. CHAUCER.—Prologue and Knighte's Tale.
2. SHAKESPEARE.—King Lear, Merchant of Venice.
3. BACON.—Essays, I XXX, inclusive,
4. BYRON.—Childe Harold
5. BURKE.—Thoughts on present Discontents; Speeches on American Taxation, and Conciliation with America.

The oral examination in English Literature will have reference chiefly to such works, not included in the foregoing list, as the Candidate may offer for the purpose.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION,
September 1st, 1885.

EVIDENCE OF AGE TO BE REQUIRED FROM CANDIDATES FOR THE CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.

I. Every Candidate born in the United Kingdom should produce a certificate from the Registrar-General of Births, Marriages, and Deaths, or from one of his Provincial Officers. This certificate may be obtained from the Registrar-General in London, Dublin, or Edinburgh, or from the Superintendent Registrar of the District in which the birth took place.

II. A Candidate born of European parents in India may produce a Certificate of Baptism from the District in which he was baptised. When such Certificates are not in the possession of the Candidates, an extract from the registers kept at the India Office will probably be obtainable.

III. A Candidate, who is a native of India, must have his age certified by the Government of India, or of the Presidency or Province in which he may have resided.

Except as noted in paragraphs II and III, every Candidate is expected to produce a Certificate of Birth. The Civil Service Commissioners will not in ordinary cases accept a Certificate of Baptism, or other testimony, unless they are first satisfied that a Certificate of Birth cannot be procured.

Official Certificates of Birth may generally be obtained as follows :—

(a) For persons born in England or Wales since 30th June 1837.—From the Registrar-General, Somerset House, London, or from the Superintendent Registrar of the District in which the birth took place.

(b) For persons born in Scotland since 31st December 1854.—From the General Register Office, Edinburgh; or from the Registrar of the Parish or District in which the birth took place.

(c) For persons born in Ireland since 31st December 1863.—From the General Register Office, Dublin; or from the Superintendent Registrar of the District in which the birth took place.

(d) For persons of English, Scottish or Irish parentage born on board British ships since the dates mentioned in (a), (b), and (c) respectively.—From the General Register Office, London, Edinburgh, or Dublin, according to parentage.

(e) For persons born in India of European parents.—From the India Office, London.

Any Candidate who cannot produce a Certificate of Birth from one of the authorities named should, if possible, procure a Certificate of Baptism, and should then apply to the Secretary, Civil Service Commission, for further instructions.

CIVIL SERVICE OF INDIA.

FORM OF APPLICATION; TO BE FILLED UP BY CANDIDATES.

Berhampore, the 9th November 1885.

The following revised advertisement is published in substitution of that which appeared at page 1084, Part II of the Calcutta Gazette of the 9th July 1884 :—

The Indian Law Reports.

Published under Authority.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor-General in Council, appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and comprise four series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat; the copies for subscribers registered by Messrs Thacker, Spink & Co. are distributed by that firm, and the Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad respectively.

In supersession of the previous advertisements, on and from the 1st January 1885, the terms of subscription and sale will be as follows :—

Terms of subscription payable annually in advance.

For the complete series, including postage, Rs. 22-8.

Acts of the Governor General's Council assented to by the Governor General.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th October, 1885, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XVIII OF 1885.

THE LAND ACQUISITION (MINES) ACT, 1885.

CONTENTS.

SECTIONS.

An Act to provide for cases in which Mines or Minerals are situate under land which it is desired to acquire under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for cases in which mines or minerals are situate under land which it is desired to acquire under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870; It is hereby enacted as follows:— X of 1870.

Short title, commencement and local extent.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Land Acquisition (Mines) Act, 1885; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

(3) It extends in the first instance to the territories administered by the Governor of Madras in Council and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, but any other Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend this Act to the whole or any specified part of the territories under its administration.

Saving for mineral rights of the Government.

2. Except as expressly provided by this Act, nothing in this Act shall affect the right of the Government to any mines or minerals.

Declaration that mines are not needed

3. (1) When the Local Government makes a declaration under section 6 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, that land is needed for a public purpose or for a Company, it may, if it thinks fit, insert in the declaration a statement that the mines of coal, iron-stone, slate or other minerals lying under the land or any particular portion of the land, except only such parts of the mines or minerals as it may be necessary to dig or carry away or use in the construction of the work for the purpose of which the land is being acquired, are not needed. X of 1870.

(2) When a statement as aforesaid has not been inserted in the declaration made in respect of any land under section 6 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, and the Collector is of opinion that the provisions of this Act ought to be applied to the land, he may abstain from tendering compensation under section 11 of the said Land Acquisition Act in respect of the mines, and may— X of 1870.

(a) when he makes an award under section 11 of that Act, insert such a statement in his award;

(b) when he makes a reference to the Court under section 15 of that Act, insert such a statement in his reference; or

The Land Acquisition (Mines) Act, 1885.—(Sections 4-10.)

(c) when he takes possession of the land under section 17 of that Act, publish such a statement in such manner as the Governor-General in Council may, from time to time, prescribe.

(3) If any such statement is inserted in the declaration, award or reference, or published as aforesaid, the mines of coal, iron-stone, slate or other minerals under the land or portion of the land specified in the statement, except as aforesaid, shall not vest in the Government when the land so vests under the said Act.

Notice to be given before working mines lying under land.

4. If the person for the time being immediately entitled to work or get any mines or minerals lying under any land so acquired is desirous of working or getting the same, he shall give the Local Government notice in writing of his intention so to do sixty days before the commencement of working.

Power to prevent or restrict working.

5. (1) At any time or times after the receipt of a notice under the last foregoing section, and whether before or after the expiration of the said period of sixty days, the Local Government may cause the mines or minerals to be inspected by a person appointed by it for the purpose; and

(2) If it appears to the Local Government that the working or getting of the mines or minerals, or any part thereof, is likely to cause damage to the surface of the land or any works thereon, the Local Government may publish, in such manner as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, direct, a declaration of its willingness either—

(a) to pay compensation for the mines or minerals still unworked or ungotten, or that part thereof, to all persons having an interest in the same; or

(b) to pay compensation to all such persons in consideration of those mines or minerals, or that part thereof, being worked or gotten in such manner and subject to such restrictions as the Local Government may in its declaration specify.

(3) If the declaration mentioned in case (a) is made, then those mines or minerals, or that part thereof, shall not thereafter be worked or gotten by any person.

(4) If the declaration mentioned in case (b) is made, then those mines or minerals, or that part thereof, shall not thereafter be worked or gotten by any person save in the manner and subject to the restrictions specified by the Local Government.

Mode of determining persons interested and amount of compensation.

6. When the working or getting of any mines or minerals has been prevented or restricted under section 5, the persons interested in those mines or minerals and the amounts of compensation payable to them respectively shall, subject to all necessary modifications, be ascertained in the manner provided by the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, for ascertaining the persons interested in the land to be acquired under that Act, and the amounts of compensation payable to them, respectively.

If Local Government does not offer to pay compensation, mines may be worked in a proper manner.

7. (1) If before the expiration of the said sixty days the Local Government does not publish a declaration as provided in section 5, the owner, lessee or occupier of [illegible] until such a declaration is subsequently made, work the mines or any part thereof in a manner proper and necessary for the beneficial working thereof, and according to the usual manner of working such mines in the local area where the same are situate.

(2) If any damage or obstruction is caused to the surface of the land or any works thereon by improper working of the mines, the owner, lessee or occupier of the mines shall at once, at his own expense, repair the damage or remove the obstruction, as the case may require.

(3) If the repair or removal is not at once effected, or, if the Local Government so thinks fit, without waiting for the same to be effected by the owner, lessee or occupier, the Local Government may execute the same and recover from the owner, lessee or occupier the expense occasioned thereby.

Mining communications.

8. If the working of any mines is prevented or restricted under section 5, the respective owners, lessees and occupiers of the mines, if their mines extend so as to lie on both sides of the mines the working of which is prevented or restricted, may cut and make such and so many airways, headways, gateways or water-levels through the mines, measures or strata, the working whereof is prevented or restricted, as may be requisite to enable them to ventilate, drain and work their said mines; but no such airway, headway, gateway or water-level shall be of greater dimensions or section than may be prescribed by the Governor General in Council in this behalf, and, where no dimensions are so prescribed, not greater than eight feet wide and eight feet high, nor shall the same be cut or made upon any part of the surface or works, or so as to injure the same, or to interfere with the use thereof.

Local Government to pay compensation for injury done to mines.

9. The Local Government shall, from time to time, pay to the owner, lessee or occupier of any such mines extending so as to lie on both sides of the mines, the working of which is prevented or restricted, all such additional expenses and losses as may be incurred by him by reason of the severance of the lands lying over those mines or of the continuous working of those mines being interrupted as aforesaid, or by reason of the same being worked in such manner and under such restrictions as not to prejudice or injure the surface or works, and for any minerals not acquired by the Local Government which cannot be obtained by reason of the action taken under the foregoing sections; and if any dispute or question arises between the Local Government and the owner, lessee or occupier as aforesaid, touching the amount of those losses or expenses, the same shall be settled as nearly as may be in the manner provided for the settlement of questions touching the amount of compensation payable under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870. X of 1870.

And also for injury arising from any airway or other work.

10. If any loss or damage is sustained by the owner or occupier of the lands lying over any such mines, the working whereof has been so prevented or restricted as aforesaid (and not being the owner, lessee or occupier of those mines), by reason of the making of any such airway or other works as aforesaid, which or any like work it would not have been necessary to make but for the working of the mines having been so prevented or restricted as aforesaid, the Local Government shall pay full compensation to that owner or occupier of the surface

The Land Acquisition (Mines) Act, 1885.—(Sections 11-17.)

Power to officer of Local Government to enter and inspect the working of mines.

11. For better ascertaining whether any mines lying under land acquired in accordance with the provisions of this Act are being worked, or have been worked, or are likely to be worked so as to damage the land or the works thereon, an officer appointed for this purpose by the Local Government may, after giving twenty-four hours' notice in writing, enter into and return from any such mines or the works connected therewith; and for that purpose the officer so appointed may make use of any apparatus or machinery belonging to the owner, lessee or occupier of the mines, and use all necessary means for discovering the distance from any part of the land acquired to the parts of the mines which have been, are being, or are about to be worked.

Penalty for refusal to allow inspection.

12. If any owner, lessee or occupier of any such mines or works refuses to allow any officer appointed by the Local Government for that purpose to enter into and inspect any such mines or works in manner aforesaid, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

If mines worked contrary to provisions of this Act, Local Government may require means to be adopted for safety of land acquired.

13. If it appears that any such mines have been worked contrary to the provisions of this Act, the Local Government may, if it thinks fit, give notice to the owner, lessee or occupier thereof to construct such works and to adopt such means as may be necessary or proper for making safe the land acquired, and the works thereon, and preventing injury thereto; and, if after such notice, any such owner, lessee or occupier does not forthwith proceed to construct the works necessary for making safe the land acquired and the works thereon, the Local Government may itself construct the works and recover the expense thereof from the owner, lessee or occupier.

Construction of Act when land acquired has been transferred to a local authority or Company.

14. When a statement under section 3 has been made regarding any land, and the land has been acquired by the Government, and has been transferred to or has vested by operation of law in a local authority or Company, then sections 4 to 13, both inclusive, shall be read as if for the words "the Local Government" wherever they occur in those sections the words "the local authority or Company, as the case may be, which has acquired the land" were substituted.

Pending cases.

15. (1) This Act shall apply to any land for the acquisition whereof proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, are pending at the time when this Act comes into force, unless before that time the Collector has made, in respect of the land, an award under section 14 or a reference to the Court under section 15 of that Act, or has taken possession of the land under section 17 of the same. X of 1870.

(2) When the Collector has before the said time made an award or reference in respect of any such land or taken possession thereof as aforesaid, and all the persons interested in the land, or entitled under the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, to act for persons so interested, who have attended or may attend in the course of the proceedings under sections 11 to 15, both inclusive, of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, consent in writing to the application of this Act to the land, the Collector may by an order in writing direct that it shall apply, and thereupon it shall be deemed to have applied from the commencement of the proceedings; and the Collector shall be deemed, as the case may be, to have inserted in his award or reference, or to have published in the prescribed manner, when he took possession, the statement mentioned in section 3 of this Act. X of 1870. X of 1870.

Definition of local authority and Company.

16. In this Act—

(a) "local authority" means any municipal committee, district board, body of port commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of any municipal or local fund; and

(b) "Company" means a Company registered under any of the enactments relating to Companies from time to time in force in British India, or formed in pursuance of an Act of Parliament or by Royal Charter or Letters Patent.

This Act to be read with Land Acquisition Act, 1870.

17. This Act shall, for the purposes of all enactments for the time being in force, be read with and taken as part of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870. X of 1870.

2. Some of the Local Governments have objected to the Bill being applied to the provinces under their administration on the ground that, having regard to the manner in which the right to minerals is regulated in those provinces, it is unnecessary there, and that, if unnecessary, it would only prove an encumbrance and complication in the acquisition of lands. To meet these objections we have made the measure applicable by its own vigour only to the territories under the administration of the Governor of Madras in Council and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, but have empowered the remaining Local Governments to extend it to the whole or any part of the territories administered by them if they think fit.

3. An apprehension has been expressed in some of the opinions received that the Bill might by implication affect the rights which the Crown has to all minerals throughout a very large portion of this country. Such an apprehension is, we believe, unfounded, but by way of greater precaution and to prevent misapprehension we have inserted a section (2) saving the rights of the Crown.

4. Section 2 of the Bill as introduced required the Government to determine, before it issued its declaration under section 6 of the Land Acquisition Act, whether the land should be acquired simply under that Act, that is to say, including the minerals, or whether the special provisions of this Bill should be put in force with a view to excluding the minerals from the acquisition.

It has been represented that it is not for the interest of any of those concerned that an irrevocable determination should necessarily be come to on so important a point at a stage of the proceedings when the circumstances of the case would in all probability be imperfectly known. The Government, it will be observed on reference to the Land Acquisition Act, has a discretion to withdraw from a proposed acquisition of land up to a considerably later stage, and it seems but reasonable that it should have a discretion to exclude the minerals from the acquisition at any time up to the same stage if it turns out that their acquisition is not essential to the undertaking, and that either the owners are unwilling to part with them or the Government or the local authority or Company concerned is unwilling to pay their full value. We have accordingly (in section 3) empowered the Collector, who in such a matter would, of course, act under the control of the Government, to exclude the minerals from the acquisition at any time up to the stage of the proceedings at which the land vests, and it is no longer in the discretion of the Government to recede from the transaction.

5. It has been urged that the notice of thirty days to be given to the Government, under section 3 of the Bill as introduced, by a mine-owner desiring to work his mines is too short having regard to the delays in communication in this country. We think the objection is reasonable, and we have accordingly (in section 4 of the amended Bill) extended the period to sixty days.

6. It has been held by the House of Lords in an important case (Dixon v. The Caledonian Railway Co., 5 App. Ca. 820) that when a mine-owner gives notice under section 78 of the Railways Clauses Act, 1845, of his intention to work minerals, the Railway Company is not, for the purpose of giving its counter-notice to stop or control the working, limited to the thirty days for which the mine-owner's notice runs, that the period of thirty days is merely prescribed as a period until the expiration of which the mine-owner is debarred from working, and that the Company can at any time give its counter-notice, though of course if given at any time after the thirty days had expired and the workings had been commenced it would have no effect except as regards the further progress of the workings. The opposite view, as was pointed out by their Lordships, would involve somewhat serious consequences, and it is obviously necessary that there should be no mistake as to the effect of the Bill in this respect. It would doubtless have been sufficient, so far as regards the ultimate result, if we followed the exact wording of the English Act, on the main lines of which we are proceeding throughout. The highest Courts in this country would, as a matter of course, follow the decision of the House of Lords, but it is to be apprehended that inferior authorities might in many cases be ignorant of that decision, and might mistake the effect of the wording of the English Act, which it must be admitted is by no means clear. We have therefore thought it safer to amend the sections concerned in such a manner that they will in a clear and unmistakeable way express the effect of the English Act as construed by the House of Lords.

7. Another important English decision which points to an amendment of the Bill is that in Smith v. Great Western Railway Co. (2 Ch. D. 235, and in appeal before the House of Lords, 3 App. Ca. 165). We may have, under a Bill of this sort, a state of things to deal with, of which that case affords an illustration, where one person holding under a terminable lease has an immediate right to work the minerals, and another person is entitled to the reversion on the expiration of the lease and perhaps to a rent or royalty during its continuance. The lease may or may not be of such a length as to admit of all the minerals being worked out during its continuance, and it may or may not be liable to be put an end to by forfeiture or otherwise before the expiration of its term. The provisions of the English Act, which deal specially with the subject now before us, and which have been incorporated in this Bill, were found inadequate to provide for the exigencies of such a state of things as that referred to. They probably contemplate a settlement only with the person immediately entitled to work the mines, and, in order to provide for the case of a reversioner or other person interested, it was found necessary to call in the aid of a general provision of the law which would be out of place in a Bill like this.

It appears to us that the simplest mode of dealing with the various interests that may co-exist in the mines is to require, in accordance with the scheme of the Land Acquisition Act, that they should all, whether present or future, be considered and compensated for simultaneously, whenever the owner of the surface has occasion to exercise his power of stopping or controlling the working.

We have accordingly provided in effect that where the person immediately entitled to work the mines intimates to the owner of the surface his intention to work them, and the latter after that determines to stop or control the working, the settlement of compensation must extend to all persons interested in the mines, and the stoppage or control will be binding in perpetuity on all alike.

8. We have introduced three new sections (8, 9 and 10), corresponding to sections 80, 81 and 82 of the Railways Clauses Act, 1845. We question whether the object of these sections would not have been otherwise attained through the medium of the Land Acquisition Act, the provisions of which were made applicable by section 6 of the Bill as introduced; but as importance appeared to be attached to them in the memorial of the Coal Companies, we have thought it better to remove all doubt by including them. They will doubtless overlap section 6 of the Bill, but no practical harm will result from this.

9. An objection has been taken in some quarters to section 11 of the Bill as introduced (now section 14), which in effect gives to certain Companies the powers conferred on the Local Government by some of the foregoing provisions of the Bill. It appears to be overlooked that the section in question can apply only to Companies established for such purposes and occupying such a position from a public point of view as would warrant the Government in acquiring land on their behalf. In particular it is provided, by sections 48 and 49 of the Land Acquisition Act, that land shall not be acquired for a Company under that Act unless it is needed for a work likely to prove useful to the public, and the Company enters into an agreement with the Government settling, among other matters, the time within which and the conditions on which the work shall be executed and maintained and the terms on which the public shall be entitled to use it.

10. We may further observe that there appears from some of the papers considered by us to be a certain amount of misapprehension as to the nature of the powers referred to.

If the Local Government or the Company exercising the powers of the Local Government neglects to come to terms with the mine-owner on his giving notice of his intention to work, it does so at the risk of its property. If, considering that the mine-owner is working improperly, it takes steps under section 7 (new numbering) to remedy the mischief with a view to charging the mine-owner with the cost, it does so at the risk of losing its money and of incurring serious legal consequences if the Court before which the case may ultimately come takes a different view of the matter. Similarly, if it considers that the mines are being worked contrary to the provisions of the Act and proceeds to take steps under section 13 (new numbering), it still acts at its own risk, for it is by no means certain that it will appear to the Court that the mines were being so worked.

Thus the powers in question are very far from being so formidable as has been supposed, and we may add that they are framed as closely as possible on the lines of those conferred by Parliament on Railway Companies in England, the substance of which seems generally to have met with approval.

11. We have placed "local authorities" on a footing similar to that of Companies, as in many recent Acts the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act have been made applicable for the purpose of acquiring land for such authorities.

12. We are informed that there are certain land acquisition cases pending at this moment in Bengal, which have already proceeded beyond the stage at which the provisions of this measure would in its ordinary course be applicable to them, but in which it may nevertheless be thought desirable to have the benefit of it. To meet this, we have inserted a clause (15 (2)) which will admit of the Bill being applied in such cases if those concerned unanimously desire that it should.

[Third publication.]

The following Act of the Governor General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th October, 1885, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XIX OF 1885.

An Act to amend the law relating to Government Securities.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to Government securities in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Securities Act, 1885; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Definitions.

2. In this Act—

The expression "Government security" includes promissory notes, debentures, stock certificates, and all other securities issued by the Government of India or by any Local Government in respect of any loan issued under notification in the official Gazette, whether before or after the passing of this Act, but does not include a stock note or a currency note: and

"prescribed" means prescribed by rules made from time to time by the Governor General in Council in this behalf.

Right of survivors of joint payees of Government securities.

3. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Indian Contract Act, section 45, when a Government security issued before the first day of April, 1886, is payable to two or more persons jointly and any of them dies, the security shall be payable to the survivor or survivors of those persons.

(2) Nothing herein contained shall affect any claim which the representative of the deceased person may have against the survivor or survivors in respect of the security jointly payable to them and the deceased.

(3) This section shall apply whether the death of the person to whom the security was jointly payable occurred or occurs before or after this Act comes into force.

Issue of renewed securities.

4. A person claiming to be entitled to a Government security as payable to him under an endorsement may, on satisfying the prescribed officer of the justice of his claim and paying the prescribed fee and delivering the security duly receipted to the prescribed officer, obtain from the officer a renewed security issued payable to himself.

Issue of duplicate securities.

5. (1) When a Government security is alleged to have been wholly or partly lost or destroyed, and a person claims to be the person to whom but for such loss or destruction it would be payable, he may, on application to the prescribed officer, and on producing proof to his satisfaction of the loss or destruction and of the justice of the claim, obtain from him an order for—

(a) the payment of interest in respect of the security said to be lost or destroyed pending the issue of a duplicate security; and

(b) the issue of a duplicate security payable to the applicant.

(2) An order shall not be passed under sub-section (1) until after the issue of the prescribed notification of the loss or destruction and after the expiration of the prescribed period, nor until the applicant has given the prescribed indemnity against the claims of all persons deriving title under the security lost or destroyed.

(3) A list of the securities in respect of which an order is passed under sub-section (1) shall be published in the Gazette of India at such times as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, direct.

Period after which Government is released from liability in respect of original security.

6. When a renewed security has been issued under section 4, or a duplicate security has been issued under section 5, the Government shall be discharged of all liability in respect of the original security of which such renewed or duplicate security has been issued—

(a) in the case of a renewed security, after the lapse of six years from the date of the issue of the renewed security;

(b) in the case of a duplicate security, after the lapse of six years from the date of the publication under section 5, sub-section (3), of the list in which the security is first mentioned, or from the date of the last payment of interest on the original security, whichever date is latest.

Power of Governor-General in Council to make rules.

7. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules to prescribe—

(a) the fees to be paid for applications under sections 4 and 5;

(b) the form in which securities delivered for renewal are to be receipted;

(c) the officer who is to exercise all or any of the powers and perform all or any of the duties prescribed by sections 4 and 5;

(d) the proof which is to be produced by persons applying for duplicate securities;

(e) the form and mode of publication of the notification mentioned in section 5, and the period after which interest may be paid or a duplicate security may be issued under that section;

(f) the nature and amount of the indemnity to be given by a person applying under section 5 for the payment of interest or the issue of a duplicate security; and

(g) generally all matters connected with the grant of renewed and duplicate securities.

Publication of drafts and rules.

8. (1) The Governor General in Council shall, before making rules under the last foregoing section, publish a draft of the proposed rules in such manner as may, in his opinion, be sufficient for the information of the public.

(2) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(3) The Governor General in Council shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(4) Every rule made under the last foregoing section shall be published in the Gazette of India, and the publication in the Gazette of India of a rule purporting to be made under that section shall be conclusive evidence that it has been duly made

2. The only substantive alteration we have made in the Bill is in section 3, which, in cases in which one of a number of joint-holders of a Government security dies, applies what we may term the rule of survivorship as opposed to the rule of representation laid down by section 45 of the Indian Contract Act. The reasons which led to the insertion of this provision are fully set forth in the Statement of Objects and Reasons: but we find that a considerable difference of opinion exists regarding it.

3. On the one hand, it is urged, among others, by so high an authority as the Advocate General of Bengal, that this provision should be generalized and extended to other classes of obligations besides those arising on Government securities.

On the other hand, it is argued in several of the papers that the rule of survivorship as applied to instruments of the description in question is one that does not fit in with the habits and ideas of certain classes of the Native population, and might, if extended to those classes as an absolutely binding rule, open a door to the perpetration of frauds.

The question thus raised is of considerable importance and difficulty. We do not think that we should be justified in entering fully upon it here in the absence of those members of the Council most competent to advise on legal and commercial matters, and we accordingly propose, with a view to avoiding it as far as possible, to confine the section to Government securities already issued, or which may be issued before the 1st of April next.

4. As regards securities already issued, the law must be settled without any further delay, the delay which has taken place in obtaining opinions on the Bill having already led to considerable public inconvenience. Moreover, as it is impracticable to make any distinctions among those securities, one and the same rule must be laid down for all, and it is clear that that rule must be the rule of survivorship. The rule of survivorship has hitherto been applied to them, as well after the passing of the Contract Act as before, subject at most to rare exceptions or qualifications. It is the rule that is most suitable to the great majority of those who hold those securities, and if in exceptional cases it should be found to be less suitable it must be remembered that those securities have been issued under a system which contemplated its application.

5. On the other hand, there is no necessity to settle the question at this moment as regards securities to be issued for all time to come, especially as a simple mode of providing, without the aid of the legislature, for securities to be hereafter issued has been proposed.

It has been suggested that it could be so arranged in the Loan Department of the Government that it should be in the option of persons, in whose favour securities are first issued or to whom they are subsequently transferred by endorsement, either to take them simply in their several names, that is to say, in favour, e.g., of "A, B & C," without qualification, in which case the rule of the Contract Act would apply, or to take them under words giving a right of survivorship, as, e.g., in favour of "A, B & C, and the survivor or survivors of them," in which case we are advised the rule of the Contract Act would be excluded and the rule of survivorship would apply. This, it has been argued, would be likely to afford a more satisfactory solution of the difficulty as regards securities to be hereafter issued than any enactment establishing either the rule of survivorship or that of representation in a hard-and-fast manner, as it would leave it open to all concerned to adopt for themselves the rule best adapted to their requirements.

It is urged, on the other hand, that the requirements of the new system would be likely for some time to be overlooked, and that considerable hardship and inconvenience would thus result, but this danger might perhaps be averted by some device such as that of a warning enfaced on the security in such a way as to attract attention.

We do not, however, recommend that any determination should be arrived at on this matter until it has undergone the fullest discussion. It will doubtless be settled during the course of the Calcutta Session, and we think that we are acting most in accord with the balance of convenience, and so as to occasion the least amount of disturbance in existing relations, by recommending that as regards securities issued meantime, i.e., say up to the 1st of April next, the law should be placed on the same footing as for securities already issued, that is to say, that the rule of survivorship should apply.

6. The remaining changes which we have made in the Bill, being confined to matters of form or drafting, do not call for special notice. We may, however, mention that we have introduced words in the definition of "Government security" to make it clear that the Bill does not apply to stock notes or currency notes—classes of securities to which, as they are otherwise provided for, it was never intended to apply.

[Third publication.]

The following Act of the Governor-General of India in Council received the assent of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 16th October, 1885, and is hereby promulgated for general information :—

ACT No. XX OF 1885.

An Act to postpone for a limited time the operation of certain provisions of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885.

WHEREAS it is provided by the Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885, that that Act shall come into force on such date as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, may, by notification in the local official Gazette, appoint in this behalf;

VIII of 1885.

And whereas, in exercise of the power thus conferred, the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, has, by a notification in the local official Gazette, appointed the first day of November, 1885, as the date on which the said Act is to come into force;

And whereas it is convenient that certain portions of the said Act relating to deposits of rent and distraint should not come into force until a later date;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Postponement of operation of deposit and distraint provisions.

1. Notwithstanding anything contained in the said notification—

(a) the provisions of sections 61 to 64, both inclusive, and of Chapter XII, of the said Act, except such of those provisions as confer powers to make rules, shall come into force on such date, not later than the first day of February, 1886, as the Local Government, after the passing of this Act, may, by notification in the local official Gazette, appoint in this behalf, or, if no date is so appointed, on the first day of February, 1886, and not before;

(b) until those provisions come into force, the enactments specified in Schedule I annexed to the said Act shall, in so far as they relate to deposits of rent and distraint, continue in force, and all references to those provisions in other portions of the said Act shall, so far as may be, be read as if they were made to the corresponding provisions of the said enactments.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has, for reasons which have been approved of by the Government of India and in exercise of the power conferred by the Bengal Tenancy Act, directed that that Act shall come into force on the 1st of November next. A reference to section 190 of the Act will show that an interval of at least a month must elapse between the date on which the Act comes into force and the date on which rules made under it can be brought into force. There is no reason to believe that any practical inconvenience will result from this, except possibly as regards the matters of deposits of rent by tenants and distraint; but it is apprehended that inconvenience might be felt in regard to these matters if the provisions of the Act relating to them were for any time in force without the rules by which it is intended that they should be supplemented, and the Lieutenant-Governor has suggested, as the simplest mode of obviating this, that the date on which the provisions of the Act relating to deposits and distraint are to come into force should be postponed for a month or two, and that the existing law relating to these subjects should meantime be retained in force.

The Governor-General in Council, being anxious to minimize the inconvenience incidental to the transition from the old law to the new, has approved of this proposal, and the present Bill has been prepared to give effect to it.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th October, 1885 :—

No. 17 of 1885.

A Bill rendering it permissive to the members of the Maimon Community to declare themselves subject to Muhammadan Law.

Whereas there is in the Presidency of Bombay and elsewhere a class of persons known as Maimons, and questions have from time to time arisen in the case of some of those persons as to the law by which in certain particulars they are governed, and whereas some of those persons consider that they are governed or desire to be governed in those particulars by the Muhammadan law as established in the Hanafi School;

And whereas it is expedient that a procedure should be provided whereby the applicability of that law to them in those particulars could be placed beyond dispute;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Maimons Act, 1886.

Declaration to be made by Maimons. 2. (1) When any Maimon who has attained his majority has declared in manner next hereinafter provided that he desires to be governed by the Muhammadan law as established in the Hanafi School, that law shall thereafter, notwithstanding any custom to the contrary, apply to him in each part of British India in the same particulars and to the same extent as it applies to other persons in that part of British India who are governed by it.

(2) A declaration to take effect under sub-section (1) must be made by a written instrument under the hand of the person making the same, in the form given in the schedule to this Act or in a form to the like effect, and must—

(a) if made in a part of British India in which the Indian Registration Act, 1877, is for the time being in force, be registered during his lifetime under that Act; and [Act III 1877, s. III of 1877.]

(b) if made elsewhere, be executed before, and authenticated by, a notary public or a Court, Judge, Magistrate, British Consul or Vice-Consul or representative of Her Majesty or of the Government of India.

(3) Nothing in this Act shall prevent any person being or becoming subject to any form of Muhammadan law in any other manner than that provided by this Act.

THE SCHEDULE.

FORM OF DECLARATION.

I hereby declare that I wish to be governed to the extent provided by the Maimons Act, 18-6, by the Muhammadan law as established in the Hanafi School.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The Maimons, like the Khojás, were originally Hindus, and have been converted to Muhammadanism, but though they are said, as a rule, to be Muhammadans in a fuller sense than the great body of the Khojás, it has been held by the Courts that certain sections of them are in some particulars still governed by Hindu customs instead of by Muhammadan law.

2. From a petition lately received by the Government, it appears that to a large number of the Maimons in question this position is not satisfactory. They hold that they should be governed, or they wish to be governed, by the Muhammadan law of the Hanafi School, and they ask that it may be declared by the legislature that they are so governed.

3. It is not to be expected that any such declaration would be made by the legislature unless it were shown that it was desired by the entire community to which it would apply, and it must be admitted that there is a want of unanimity among them on this subject.

It seems but reasonable, however, that some simple procedure should be provided by which the petitioners and other members of the Maimon class, who may be of their way of thinking, would be enabled to secure the application to themselves of those portions of the Muhammadan law which are applied by our Courts to ordinary Muhammadans, and to avoid all risk of being held to be governed by customs which are distasteful to them, and which it is to be apprehended are far from being well settled.

4. Such a procedure is to be found in the clause which it has been proposed to insert in the Khojá Succession Bill now under consideration, and which provides that a Khojá of full age may by a registered declaration withdraw himself from the peculiar law of succession by which Khojás are to be governed and place himself under the Muhammadan law of succession.

The present Bill has been prepared with a view to providing a similar procedure for Maimons. It is, however, not restricted to the matter of succession, as the difficulty which it is intended to meet is not confined to that branch of the law; and as, from all that has appeared up to this, the Hanafi form of the Muhammadan law is the only one to which Maimons would desire to be subject, it provides for the application to them only of that form of the law.

5. As it is obviously undesirable that any doubt should be thrown on the legal position of Maimons who may be already fully subject to the Muhammadan law, or that it should be suggested that a Maimon could not after the passing of the Bill become fully subject to that law in any way in which he, in common with Hindus and others, might become subject to it at present, a clause has been inserted in the Bill, providing that nothing therein contained shall prevent any person from being or becoming subject to any form of Muhammadan law in any other manner than that provided by the Bill.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd October, 1885 :—

No. 18 of 1885.

THE INDIAN TRAMWAYS BILL, 1885.

CONTENTS.

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 1-4.

Supplemental Provisions.

A Bill to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of Tramways.

WHEREAS it is expedient to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of tramways; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Tramways Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Local extent.

2. (1) It extends in the first instance to the whole of British India, except the territories administered by the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, the Governor of Bombay in Council, and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

(2) But the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, the Governor of Bombay in Council or the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may, by notification in the official Gazette, extend this Act to the whole or any part of the territories under his administration.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

[Act XIII, 1885, s. 3, clause (7).]

(1) "local authority" means a municipal committee, district board, body of port commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of a municipal or local fund:

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 2.]

(2) "road" means the way of a road, street, thoroughfare, passage or place along or across which a tramway authorised under this Act is, or is intended to be, laid, and includes the surface soil and sub-soil of a road, and the footway and drains of a road, and any bridge, culvert or causeway forming part of a road:

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 3.]

(3) "road-authority", in relation to a road, means—

(a) if a local authority maintains and repairs the road, then that authority:

(b) if a local authority does not maintain and repair the road, and the road is neither vested in Her Majesty nor maintained and repaired by the Government, then the person in whom the road is vested; and

(c) if a local authority does not maintain and repair the road, and the road is vested in Her Majesty or maintained and repaired by the Government, then the Local Government:

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 3.]

(4) "circle", in relation to a local authority or road-authority, means the area within the control of that authority:

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 2.]

(5) "tramway" means a tramway, or any part of a tramway, or any siding, turnout, connection, line or track belonging to a tramway:

(6) "order" means an order authorising the construction of a tramway under this Act, and includes a further order substituted for, or amending, extending or varying, that order:

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 4, 24, 43 & 44; and Act XXII, 1883, Schedule, Articles 1 and 26.]

(7) "promoter" means a local authority or person in whose favour an order has been made, and includes a local authority or person on whom the rights and liabilities conferred and imposed on the promoter by this Act and the order and any rules made under the Act, as to the construction, maintenance and use of the tramway, have devolved:

(8) "undertaking" includes all moveable and immoveable property of the promoter suitable to and used by him for the purposes of the tramway:

(9) "carriage", in the case of a tramway on which steam-power or any other mechanical power is used, includes an engine worked on the tramway for the purpose of producing that power

(10) "toll" includes any charge leviable in respect of the use of a tramway:

(11) "lessee" means a person to whom a lease has been granted of the right of user of a tramway and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls:

(12) "District Magistrate" includes an officer empowered by the Local Government by name or by virtue of his office to discharge within any local area all or any of the functions of a District Magistrate under this Act:

(13) "Collector" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue-administration of a district, and includes an officer empowered by the Local Government by name or by virtue of his office to discharge within any local area the functions of a Collector under this Act; and

(14) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made by the Local Government under this Act.

Orders authorising the Construction of Tramways.

Application for and consent necessary to making of order.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 4.]

4. (1) The Local Government may make an order authorising the construction of a tramway in a circle on the application of—

(a) the local authority of the circle, with, where that authority is not the road-authority of a road or part of a road to be traversed by the tramway, the consent of the road-authority in respect of that road or part; or

(b) any person with the consent of the local authority and, where that authority is not the road-authority of a road or part of a road to be traversed by the tramway, of the road-authority in respect of that road or part:

Provided that, if any part of the proposed tramway is to traverse land which is not included within the limits of a municipality or of a cantonment, the Local Government shall not make the order without the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council.

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 5-7.

(2) A local authority shall not make an application for an order, or be deemed to consent to an application being made by any person for an order, unless the making of the application or the giving of the consent has been approved by the local authority in manner prescribed.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 5.]

Consent of local or road authority not necessary in certain cases.

5. When it is proposed to lay a tramway in two or more circles, and a local authority or road-authority having control in either or any of the circles does not consent thereto, the Local Government may, nevertheless, make an order authorising the construction of the tramway in the circle, if, after considering the objections of the dissenting authority, and the benefit which the public is likely to derive from the tramway being laid in the circle of that authority, it is satisfied that the construction of the tramway therein is expedient.

[33 & 34 Vic., c 78, ss. 7 & 8; & Act XV, 1873, s 68.]

Procedure for making order.

6. (1) The Local Government on receiving an application shall consider it, and, if satisfied as to the propriety of proceeding thereon, publish in the official Gazette, and in such other manner as it deems sufficient for giving information to persons interested, a draft of a proposed order authorising the construction of the tramway.

(2) A notice shall be published with the draft stating that any objection or suggestion which any person may desire to make with respect to the proposed order will, if submitted to the Local Government on or before a date to be specified in the notice, be received and considered.

(3) If, after considering any objections or suggestions which may have been made with respect to the draft on or before the date so specified, the Local Government is of opinion that the application should be granted, with or without addition or modification, or subject or not to any restriction or condition, it may settle and make an order accordingly.

(4) Every order authorising the construction of a tramway shall be published in the official Gazette in English, and in the other prescribed language or languages, if any, and that publication shall be conclusive proof that the order has been made as required by this section.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 8]

Contents of order.

7. (1) An order made under section 6 shall empower the promoter therein specified to construct and maintain the tramway therein described in the manner therein provided, and shall specify the time within which the tramway shall be commenced and the time within which it shall be completed and opened for public traffic.

[See 33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 18, and s. 10 of this Bill]

(2) The order may also provide, in manner consistent with this Act, for all or any of the following, among other matters, that is to say:—

[Provisional Order Clause 21.]

(a) a period before the expiration of which the tramway shall not be commenced, and the conditions subject to which the local authority, when it is not itself the promoter, may, within that period, elect to be substituted in the place of the promoter in respect of the undertaking or of so much thereof as is within its circle; and the limits of time within which, and the terms upon which, the local authority may, after the tramway has been constructed, require the promoter to sell to it the undertaking or so much thereof as is within its circle;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 43.]

(b) the acquisition by the promoter of land for the purposes of the tramway, and the disposal by him of land which has been acquired but is no longer required for those purposes;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 8 & 15; Provisional Order Clauses 2 and 5; and Report of House of Lords Committee, 1879, paragraph 11.]

(c) the conditions subject to which roads may be opened and broken up for the purposes of the construction or maintenance of the tramway or any part thereof, and the method of, and materials to be used in, the re-instating of the roads, and the approval of the method and materials by the Local Government or the road-authority before the commencement of the work;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 26 & 27, and Provisional Order Clause 9.]

(d) the conditions on which the tramway may be constructed over a bridge or across a railway or tramway when the carriageway over the bridge is to form part of the tramway or when the tramway is to cross a railway or another tramway on the level;

[33 & 34 Vic. c. 78, s. 26.]

(e) the space which shall ordinarily intervene between the outside of the carriageway on either side of a road whereon the tramway is to be constructed and the nearest rail of the tramway, and the conditions on which a smaller space may be permitted;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s 9, and Provisional Order Clause 13.]

(f) the gauge of the tramway; the rails to be used, and the mode in which, and the level at which, they shall be laid and maintained; and the adoption and application by the promoter of such improvements in the rails, and in their situation, and in the sub-structure upon which they rest, as the Local Government may require;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 25, and Provisional Order Clauses 8 and 10.]

(g) the portion of the road or roads traversed by the tramway to be kept in repair by the promoter, the maintenance by the promoter to the satisfaction of the Local Government or the road-authority, or both, of that portion of the road or roads, and the liability of the promoter, on the requisition of the Local Government, from time to time to adopt and apply such improvements in the tramway as the Local Government may consider necessary or desirable for the safety and convenience of the public, and to alter the position or level of the tramway to suit future alterations in the road or roads;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s 28, and Provisional Order Clauses 8, 11 & 12]

(h) the application of material excavated by the promoter in the construction or maintenance of the tramway;

[32 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 27, and Provisional Order Clause 17.]

(i) the provision of such crossings, passing-places, sidings, junctions and other works, in addition to those specified in or authorised by the order, as may from time to time be necessary or convenient to the efficient working of the tramway;

[Provisional Order Clause 15.]

(j) the powers which may from time to time be exercised by the Local Government, the local authority, the road-authority or any person in respect of sewers, drains, telegraph-lines, gas-pipes or water-pipes in or

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 32, and Provisional Order Clause 18.]

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 8-10.

on land occupied by the tramway; the notice (if any) to be given of the intended exercise of those powers; the manner in which the powers shall be exercised; and the extent to which the tramway and the traffic thereon may be interfered with in the exercise thereof;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 30 & 31.]

(k) the conditions subject to which the promoter may from time to time interfere with, or alter or require the alteration of the position of, drains (not being sewers or main drains), telegraph-lines, gas-pipes or water-pipes;

[Provisional Order Clause 16.]

(l) the provision of a temporary tramway in place of a part of a tramway which has been removed, or of which the use has been discontinued, by reason of the execution of any work affecting a road along which the part of the tramway was laid;

[33 & 34 Vic., c 78, s 34; and Provisional Order Clauses 25, 26 & 27.]

(m) the motive power to be used on the tramway, and the conditions on which steam-power or any other mechanical power may be used;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 34; Schedule A to form of Provisional Order; and Regulations and Bye-laws of the Board of Trade with respect to the use of steam-power on tramways.]

(n) the nature, dimensions, fittings, appliances and apparatus of the carriages to be used on the tramway, and the inspection and examination thereof by officers of the Local Government or the local authority, and the liability of the promoter or lessee, on the requisition of the L cal Government, from time to time, to adopt and apply such improvements in the carriages, and in the fittings, appliances and apparatus, as the Local Government may consider necessary or desirable for the safety and convenience of the public;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s 10, and Provisional Order Clauses 33 to 36 and 38 to 43.]

(o) the traffic which may be carried on the tramway, the traffic which the promoter or lessee shall be bound to carry, and the traffic which he may refuse to carry; the tolls to be leviable by the promoter or lessee, and the periodical revision thereof by the Local Government; and the regulation of the traffic and of the levy of the tolls;

[Provisional Order Clause 37.]

(p) the use of the tramway free of toll by the local authority, with its own carriages, for specified purposes, during specified hours, with power to the local authority to make such sidings and other works as may be necessary for communication between its premises and the tramway;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 44, and Provisional Order Clause 48.]

(q) the conditions subject to which the promoter may transfer the undertaking, or any part thereof, by sale, mortgage, lease, exchange or otherwise; and the conditions subject to which the local authority may be the transferee;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 28, proviso.]

(r) the performance by the Local Government or by the local authority or road-authority of any work required by the Act or the order to be done by the promoter; and

[Provisional Order Clauses 10, 11, 26, 27 and 40.]

(s) the penalty to be incurred by the promoter or lessee for failure to observe any condition or direction contained in the order, and the application of the penalty when recovered.

[Report of House of Lords Committee, 1879, para. 11.]

(3) The Local Government may, in providing in the order for the acquisition of land for the purposes of a tramway of which the promoter is not a company, direct that land may be acquired for the promoter under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, in the same manner and on the same conditions as it might be acquired for the purposes of the tramway if a company were the promoter.

X of 1870.

(4) The order shall imply the condition—

(a) in the case of a tramway of which a local authority is the promoter, that a lease thereof shall be granted only in manner by this Act provided, and

(b) in the case of a tramway of which a local authority is not the promoter, that a lease thereof shall be only of the right of user and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls, and shall not confer or impose on the lessee any of the powers or duties of the promoter in respect of the construction or maintenance of the tramway.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 16.]

8. Further orders. (1) The Local Government may, on the application of the promoter, revoke, amend, extend or vary the order by a further order.

(2) An application for a further order shall be made in the same manner and subject to the same conditions as an application for an order.

(3) The Local Government may, in its discretion, either grant or reject the application.

(4) If it grants the application, it shall make the further order in the same manner as an order, except that no addition to, or modification of, the rights, powers and authorities asked for in the application, or restriction or condition with respect thereto, shall be made or imposed by the further order without the consent in writing of the promoter.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 17.]

9. Power to authorise joint work by local authorities. (1) Subject to, and in accordance with, the provisions of this Act, the Local Government may, on a joint application, or on two or more separate applications, settle and make an order empowering two or more local authorities, respectively, jointly to construct the whole, or separately to construct parts, of a tramway, and jointly or separately to own the whole or parts thereof.

(2) All the provisions of this Act which relate to the construction of tramways shall extend and apply to the construction of the whole and the separate parts of the tramway, and the form of the order may be adapted to the circumstances of the case.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 18.]

10. Cesser of powers given by an order. (1) If a promoter authorised by an order to construct a tramway—

(a) does not within the time specified in the order substantially commence the construction of the tramway, or

(b) having commenced the construction, suspends it without a reason sufficient in the opinion of the Local Government to warrant the suspension, or

(c) does not within the time specified in the order complete the tramway and open it for public traffic,—

the following consequences shall ensue:—

(i) the powers given by the order to the promoter for constructing the tramway and otherwise in relation thereto shall, unless

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 11-17.

the Local Government, by special direction in writing, prolongs the time or condones the suspension, cease to be exercised except as to so much of the tramway as is then completed;

(ii) as to so much of the tramway as is then completed, the Local Government may either permit, or refuse to permit, the powers given by the order to continue;

(iii) if the Local Government refuses to permit the powers to continue, then so much of the tramway as is then completed may be dealt with, under the provisions of this Act relating to the discontinuance of tramways, as a tramway of which the discontinuance has been proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government. [Sections 19 & 20 of this Bill.]

(2) A notification published by the Local Government in the official Gazette to the effect that on a date specified in the notification the construction of a tramway had not been substantially commenced or a tramway had not been completed and opened for public traffic, or that the construction of a tramway had been suspended without sufficient reason, shall, for the purposes of this section, be conclusive proof of the matter stated therein.

Construction and Maintenance of Tramways.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 25.]

Mode of formation of tramway.

11. A tramway shall be constructed and maintained in the manner provided by the order.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 25, & Act IV, 1879, s. 5.]

Inspection of tramway before opening.

12. A tramway, or portion or extension of, or addition to, a tramway, shall not be opened for public traffic until an engineer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government has inspected it and certified it to be fit for such traffic.

[33 & 34 Vic, c. 78, s. 29.]

Agreement between road-authority and promoter as to repair of roadway.

13. The road-authority and the promoter may from time to time enter into agreements with respect to the keeping in repair of the whole or a part of a road traversed by a tramway, and with respect to the proportion to be paid by either of them of the expense of keeping the road or part in repair.

Traffic on Tramways.

[33 & 34 Vic, c. 78, ss. 34 & 62, and Act XXII, 1883, s. 8.]

Rights of promoters and the public over tramways.

14. (1) The promoter of a tramway shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (2) and to the other provisions of this Act and of the order, have the exclusive use of the tramway for carriages with flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail described in the order as the rail to be used on the tramway:

Provided that nothing in this Act or the order or in any rule made under the Act shall affect the right of any person authorised to use a tramway or railway to pass across a tramway constructed under this Act with carriages having wheels suitable to run on the rail thereof.

(2) The public shall have a right to pass along or across any part of a road along or across which a tramway is constructed, whether on or off the tramway, with carriages not having flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail of the tramway: provided—

(a) that this sub-section shall not apply where the tramway is constructed on land the right to the exclusive possession of which has been acquired by the promoter, and

(b) that the Local Government may by an order authorise the construction of a tramway on any part of a road with rails raised above the surface of the road, if it is satisfied that the convenience of the public will not be injuriously affected thereby.

[33 & 34 Vic, c. 78, s. 45.]

Tolls leviable by promoter or lessee.

15. (1) The promoter or lessee may demand and take, in respect of the tramway, tolls not exceeding the limits specified in or determinable under the order, or if the order contains no provision in this behalf, then such sums as may from time to time be fixed by the promoter or lessee with the previous sanction of the Local Government.

(2) A list of all the tolls authorised to be levied shall be exhibited, in such languages as the District Magistrate may direct, in a conspicuous place inside and outside each of the carriages used upon the tramway. [33 & 34 Vic, c. 78, s. 53 and Act XXII 1883, s. 13.]

Carriage of dangerous or offensive goods.

16. (1) A person shall not be entitled to carry, or to require to be carried, on a tramway constructed under this Act, any goods of a dangerous or offensive nature.

(2) A person taking such goods with him on the tramway shall, before entering the carriage, give notice of their nature to the servant of the promoter or lessee in charge of the carriage.

(3) A person sending such goods by the tramway shall distinctly mark their nature on the outside of the package containing them, or otherwise give notice thereof in writing to the servant of the promoter or lessee with whom he leaves them for the purpose of their being sent by the tramway.

(4) Any servant of the promoter or lessee may refuse to carry upon the tramway a parcel which he suspects to contain goods of a dangerous or offensive nature, and, if any such parcel has been received for the purpose of being carried upon the tramway, may stop the transit thereof until he is satisfied as to the nature of its contents.

Licenses to use Tramways.

[33 & 34 Vic, c. 78, s. 35.]

Grant to third parties of licenses to use tramway in certain events.

17. If, at any time after a tramway or part of a tramway has been for three years opened for public traffic in a circle, the local authority of the circle represents in writing to the Local Government that the public is deprived of the full benefit of the tramway or of the part thereof, the Local Government may, if after such enquiry as it deems necessary it is satisfied as to the truth of the representation, grant a license to any person to use the tramway conformably to this Act and the order and to the rules made under the Act, subject to the following provisions, namely:—

(a) the license shall be for a period not less than one year or more than three years from the date of the license, but the Local Government may in its discretion renew it;

(b) the license shall be to use the whole of the tramway for the time being opened for public traffic, or such part or parts of the tramway as the Local Government, having regard to the cause for granting the license, thinks fit;

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 18-22.)

(c) the license shall specify the number of carriages which the licensee shall run upon the tramway, the mode in which, and times at which, the carriages shall be run, the tolls to be paid to the promoter or lessee by the licensee for the use of the tramway, and the tolls, being those for the time being leviable by the promoter or lessee, which the licensee may demand and take for the use of his carriages;

(d) the licensee and his officers and servants shall permit one person, duly authorised for that purpose by the promoter or lessee, to travel free of toll in or upon each carriage of the licensee run upon the tramway for the whole or any part of a journey; and

(e) the Local Government may revoke, alter or modify the license for any cause sufficient in its opinion to warrant the revocation, alteration or modification thereof.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 37.]

Licensee to give to promoter or lessee an account of traffic.

18. A licensee shall, on demand, give to an officer or servant authorised in that behalf by the promoter or lessee an exact account in writing, signed by the licensee, of the number of passengers, or number or quantity of goods, conveyed by any and every carriage used by him on the tramway.

Discontinuance of Tramways.

Cesser of powers of promoter and lessee on discontinuance of tramway.

19. If it is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government, at any time after the opening of a tramway for public traffic, that the working of the tramway, or any part thereof, has been discontinued, for the space of three months, without a reason sufficient, in the opinion of the Local Government, to warrant the discontinuance, the Local Government, if it thinks fit, may, by notification in the official Gazette, declare that the powers of the promoter and of the lessee, if any, in respect of the tramway or the part thereof so discontinued, shall, from the date of the notification, be at an end, and thereupon the said powers shall cease and determine, except in so far as they may be purchased by a local authority in manner by this Act provided.

[Section 22 of this Bill.]

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 41.]

Powers of road-authority on cesser of powers of promoter.

20. (1) Where a notification has been published under section 19, the road-authority may, at any time after the expiration of two months from the date of the notification, remove the tramway or part of the tramway so discontinued, and use the materials thereof in re-instating the road.

(2) The promoter shall pay to the road-authority the cost incurred by that authority in removing the tramway or the part thereof and in re-instating the road.

(3) The cost shall be certified by an officer of the road-authority, and his certificate, countersigned by the District Magistrate, shall be conclusive proof as to the cost incurred.

(4) If the promoter does not pay the amount so certified within one month after the delivery to him of the certificate or of a copy thereof, the road-authority may, without any previous notice to the promoter and without prejudice to any other remedy which it may have for the recovery of the amount, sell and dispose of such materials of the tramway or part thereof removed as it has not used in re-instating the road, either by public auction or by private sale, and for such sum or sums, and to such person or persons, as it thinks fit, and may, out of the proceeds of the sale, pay and reimburse itself the amount of the cost aforesaid and of the expenses of the sale, and shall pay over the residue (if any) of the proceeds of the sale to the promoter.

[Section 38 of this Bill.]

Insolvency of Promoter.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 42.]

Proceedings in case of insolvency of promoter.

21. (1) If, at any time after the opening of a tramway in a circle for public traffic, it appears to the road-authority or local authority of the circle that the promoter of the tramway is insolvent, so that he is unable to maintain the tramway, or work it with advantage to the public, and either of those authorities makes a representation to that effect to the Local Government, the Local Government may, if after such enquiry as it deems necessary it is satisfied as to the truth of the representation, declare, by notification in the official Gazette, that the powers of the promoter shall, at the expiration of six months from the publication of the notification, be at an end; and the powers of the promoter shall cease and determine at the expiration of that period, except in so far as they may be purchased by a local authority in manner by this Act provided.

[Section 22 of this Bill.]

(2) Where a notification has been published under sub-section (1), the road-authority may, at any time after the expiration of six months from the date thereof, remove the tramway in the same manner, and subject to the same provisions as to the payment of the cost of the removal, and to the same remedy for recovery of the cost, in every respect as in cases of removal under section 20.

Purchase of Tramways.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 43.]

Future purchase of undertaking by local authority.

22. (1) Where the promoter of a tramway in a circle is not the local authority, the local authority, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, may—

(a) within such limits of time as may be specified in this behalf in the order, or

(b) if a time was not specified in the order, then within six months after the expiration of a period of twenty-one years from the date of the order, and within six months after the expiration of every subsequent period of seven years, or

(c) within two months after the publication of a notification under section 19 or within six months after the publication of a notification under section 21,—

by notice in writing, require the promoter to sell to the local authority his undertaking or the part thereof which is within the circle of the local authority; and thereupon the promoter shall sell the same upon the terms specified in the order, or, if the terms were not specified in the order, then upon the terms of paying the then value of the undertaking or of the part thereof, exclusive of any allowance for past or future profits of the undertaking or any compensation for compulsory sale or other consideration whatsoever.

(2) A requisition shall not be made under sub-section (1) unless the making thereof has been approved by the local authority in manner prescribed.

(3) When a sale has been made under this section, all the rights, powers and authorities of the promoter in respect of the undertaking or part thereof sold, or, where a notification has been published under section 19 or section 21, all the rights, powers and authorities of the promoter previous to the publication of the notification in respect of the undertaking or part thereof sold, shall be transferred to the authority to whom the undertaking or part has been sold, and shall vest in, and may be exercised by, that authority in the same manner as if the tramway had been constructed by it under an order made under this Act.

(4) Subject to, and in accordance with, the preceding provisions of this section, two or more local authorities may jointly purchase an undertaking or so much thereof as is within their circles.

Working of Tramways owned by Local Authorities.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 19.]

23. (1) When a local authority has under the authority of an order completed a tramway, or has under the provisions of this Act or of an order acquired possession of a tramway, it may, by a lease to be approved by the Local Government, let to any person the right of user of the tramway and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls.

Lease of, or working of, tramway by local authority.

(2) On the determination of a lease, the local authority may from time to time let the right for such further term and on such conditions as the Local Government may approve.

(3) Every lease made under this section shall imply a condition of re-entry if at any time after the making thereof it is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government that the lessee has discontinued the working of the tramway leased, or of any part thereof, for the space of three months, without a reason sufficient, in the opinion of the Local Government, to warrant the discontinuance.

(4) Notice of the intention of the local authority to make a lease shall be given in manner prescribed.

(5) If the local authority cannot by means of a lease obtain what it deems to be a fair rent for the tramway, it may itself, with the previous sanction of the Local Government and for such term as the Local Government directs, place and run carriages upon the tramway, and demand and take the authorised tolls in respect of the use of the carriages.

Rules.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 46 & 64; and Act XXII, 1883, s. 20.]

24. (1) In addition to any other power to make rules expressly or by implication conferred by this Act, the Local Government may make rules consistent with this Act—

Power to make rules.

(a) as to the form in which an application for an order shall be made;

(b) as to the costs to be paid by an applicant in respect of an order, and the time when, and the place where, those costs shall be paid;

(c) as to the payment of money or lodgment of securities, by way of deposit, by the applicant for an order before the order is published under section 6, sub-section (4), or a further order is made under section 8; the investment of money so paid; the disposal of interest or dividends from time to time accruing due on money or securities so paid, lodged or invested; the application of the money or securities or the produce thereof to the discharge of any liability incurred by the promoter, and the forfeiture, repayment or return of the money or securities;

(d) as to the plans and sections of any works to be deposited by applicants for orders or by promoters;

(e) for regulating the use of steam-power or any other mechanical power on a tramway;

(f) as to any matter specified in section 7, sub-section (2), clauses (c), (d), (e), (j) and (k), as a matter which may be provided for in an order, when that matter has not been so provided for, or has not, in the opinion of the Local Government, been effectually so provided for;

(g) as to any matter respecting which rules may be made under this section by a local authority or a promoter or lessee; and,

(h) generally, as to any other matter or thing in respect of which it may seem to the Local Government to be expedient to make rules for the purpose of carrying this Act into execution.

(2) A local authority may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules, consistent with this Act and the order and any rules made by the Local Government under the Act, for regulating—

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, 46; and XXII, 1883, 20.]

(a) the rate of speed to be observed in travelling upon a tramway within the circle of the local authority;

(b) the use of animal power on the tramway;

(c) the distances at which carriages using the tramway shall be allowed to follow one after the other;

(d) the stopping of carriages using the tramway;

(e) the traffic on roads along or across which the tramway is laid;

(f) the number of passengers which may be carried in any carriage;

(g) the licensing and control of drivers, conductors and other persons having charge of the carriages of the promoter or lessee or a licensee; and,

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 48.]

(h) generally, the mode of use of the tramway.

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 20.]

(3) The promoter or lessee of a tramway may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules consistent with this Act and the order and any rules made under the Act—

[33 & 34 Vic., c.78, s. 46; and Act XXII, 1883, s. 20.]

(a) for preventing the commission of any nuisance in or upon any carriage, or in or against any premises belonging to him; and

(b) for regulating the travelling in any carriage belonging to him.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 47.]

25. The authority making any rule under section 24 may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend—

Power to impose penalty by rule.

(a) if the authority making the rule is the Local Government, to two hundred rupees, and

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 14.]

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 26-31.

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 20, sub-section (3).] (b) if that authority is a local authority or a promoter or lessee, to twenty rupees;

and, when the breach is a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend—

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 14] (c) if the authority making the rule is the Local Government, to fifty rupees, and

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 47.] (d) if that authority is a local authority or a promoter or lessee, to five rupees, for every day after the first during which the breach continues.

Procedure for making and publication of rules.

26. (1) Every authority having power to make rules under any section of this Act shall, before making the rules, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

(2) The publication shall be made, in the case of rules made by the Local Government, in such manner as may in its opinion be sufficient for giving information to persons interested, and, in the case of rules made by a local authority or by a promoter or lessee, in manner prescribed.

(3) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date, not earlier than the expiration of one month after the date of publication, at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(4) The authority shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(5) The publication in the official Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

(6) The Local Government may cancel any rule made by a local authority or by a promoter or lessee under section 24.

Offences.

Penalty for failure of promoter, lessee or licensee to comply with Act or order.

27. If a promoter—

(a) constructs or maintains a tramway otherwise than in accordance with the order;

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 14.] (b) opens the tramway for traffic, or permits it to be so opened, before it has been inspected and certified in manner required by section 12; or

(c) fails to observe any requirement or condition of the order for neglect or breach whereof no penalty has been expressly provided in the order;

or if a promoter, lessee or licensee runs a carriage on a tramway otherwise than in accordance with the order;—

he shall (without prejudice to the enforcement of specific performance of the requirements of this Act or of the order, or to any other remedy which may be obtained against him in a Court of Civil Judicature), on the complaint of the Local Government or of the local authority or road-authority or of any person injuriously affected thereby, be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, and in the case of a continuing offence to a further fine which may extend to fifty rupees for every day after the first during which the offence continues to be committed.

Penalty for obstructing promoter in exercise of his powers.

28. If any person without lawful excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, wilfully obstructs any person acting under the authority of the promoter in the lawful exercise of his powers in constructing or maintaining a tramway, or injures or destroys any mark made for the purpose of setting out the line of the tramway, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees. [33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 49, and Act XXII, 1883, s. 15.]

Penalty for interfering with tramway.

29. If any person without lawful excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, wilfully does any of the following things, namely:— [33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 50, and Act XXII, 1883, s. 16.]

(a) interferes with, removes or alters any part of a tramway constructed under this Act, or of the works connected therewith;

(b) places or throws upon or across any such tramway any wood, stone, refuse or other thing;

(c) does anything in such a manner as to obstruct any carriage using any such tramway; or

(d) abets within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code the doing of, or attempts to do, anything mentioned in clause (a), clause (b) or clause (c), [XLV of 1860.]

he shall (without prejudice to any other remedy which may be obtained against him in a Court of Civil Judicature) be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Penalty for using tramway with carriage having flange-wheels.

30. If any person, except under a lease from, or by agreement with, the promoter, or under license from the Local Government granted under this Act, uses on a tramway, otherwise than as permitted by section 14, a carriage having flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail of the tramway, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees. [33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 54.]

Penalty for evading payment of proper toll.

31. (1) If any person travelling or having travelled in a carriage of the promoter or lessee or a licensee evades or attempts to evade payment of toll, or if any person having paid toll for a certain distance wilfully proceeds in any such carriage beyond that distance and does not pay the additional toll for the additional distance or attempts to evade payment thereof, or if any person wilfully refuses or neglects on arriving at the point to which he has paid toll to quit the carriage, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to ten rupees. [33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 51, and Act XXII, 1883, s. 18.]

(2) When a person commits an offence under this section and refuses, on demand of a servant of the promoter, lessee or licensee, to give his name and residence, or gives a name or residence which the servant has reason to believe to be false, he may be arrested and taken to the nearest police-station by the servant or any person whom the servant may call in for his assistance. [33 & 34 Vic. c. 78, s. 52 Act XXII, 1883, s. 19, and Act X, 1882, s. 57.]

(3) When the person is taken to the police-station, he shall with the least possible delay be forwarded to the nearest Magistrate unless his true name and residence are ascertained, in which case he shall be released on his executing a bond for his appearance before a Magistrate if so required.

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 32-39.

[3 & 34 Vic., 78 s. 53, and Act XXII, 83, s. 17.]

Penalty for taking or sending dangerous or offensive goods without giving notice.

32. If any person takes or sends by a tramway any goods of a dangerous or offensive nature without giving the notice required by section 16, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

[3 & 34 Vic., 78, s. 38.]

Penalty for licensee not giving to promoter or lessee an account of traffic or giving false account.

33. (1) If a licensee fails on demand to give the account mentioned in section 18, or, with intent to evade the payment of tolls, gives a false account when he is called upon to give an account under that section, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

(2) The fine shall be in addition to any tolls payable by the licensee to the promoter or lessee in respect of the passengers or goods conveyed by the carriage or carriages used by the licensee on the tramway.

[Act XIII, 84, s. 158.]

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

34. Nothing in this Act shall prevent a person from being prosecuted under any other law for an act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act or the rules made under it, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by this Act or the rules made under it: Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

Settlement of Differences.

[3 & 34 Vic., 78, s. 33.]

Differences between promoters or lessees and authorities.

35. (1) If any difference arises between the promoter or lessee on the one hand and the Local Government, or the local authority, or the road-authority, or a person having the charge of any sewers, drains, telegraph lines, gas-pipes or water-pipes, on the other hand, with respect to any interference or control exercised or claimed to be exercised by, or on behalf of, either party by virtue of this or any other Act, or of the order, or of rules made under this Act, or with respect to the propriety of, or the mode of, the execution of any work, or with respect to any compensation to be made by or to the promoter or lessee, or on the question whether any work is such as ought reasonably to satisfy the Local Government or the road-authority or both, or with respect to any other subject or thing regulated by, or comprised in, this Act or the order or rules made under the Act, and not otherwise expressly provided for therein, the matter in difference shall, on the application of either party, be settled by a referee.

(2) Where the difference is between the promoter or lessee on the one hand and the Local Government, either as such or as the road-authority, on the other, the referee shall be the District Court within the jurisdiction of which the tramway is situate, or, where the tramway is within the jurisdiction of more than one District Court, the District Court within the jurisdiction of which the greater part of the tramway is situate.

(3) In other cases, the referee shall be appointed by the Local Government.

(4) The powers and procedure of the referee may be prescribed.

(5) The decision of the referee shall be binding and conclusive on both parties.

Recovery of Tolls.

Recovery of moneys due from promoters and, in certain cases, from lessees.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 56, & Act XIII, 1884, s. 61.]

36. Any of the following moneys, namely, any rent due to a local authority from a lessee, any penalty recoverable from a promoter or lessee under an order, any sum payable by a promoter or lessee under an award of a referee, the cost of the performance under this Act by the Local Government or by a local authority or road-authority of any work required by this Act or an order to be done by a promoter, and the cost incurred by a road-authority in removing a tramway and reinstating a road under this Act, may, without prejudice to any other remedy the authority to which the money is due may have by suit or otherwise, be recovered by that authority, on application made in this behalf to the Collector, as if the sum due were an arrear of land-revenue due by the promoter or lessee or his surety (if any):

Provided that nothing in this section shall authorise the arrest of the promoter or lessee or his surety in execution of any process issued by the Collector.

Recovery of tolls from licensees.

37. (1) If a licensee fails to pay on demand the tolls due for the use of a tramway, the promoter or lessee to whom the tolls are due may, without prejudice to the remedy which he may have by suit, apply to a Magistrate to recover the amount of the tolls, and the Magistrate may, after giving notice to the licensee if possible and allowing him an opportunity of being heard, proceed to recover the amount by distress and sale of any carriages or other moveable property of the licensee which may be found on the tramway or on premises connected therewith.

(2) When a licensee has failed to pay on demand the tolls due from him, the promoter or lessee to whom the tolls are due may seize any carriage or other moveable property of the licensee on the tramway or on premises connected therewith, and detain the same for forty-eight hours unless the tolls are sooner paid.

(3) When application is made to a Magistrate under sub-section (1), he may make an interim order of distraint pending his final decision.

Recovery of tolls from passengers.

[Act XIII, 1884, s. 172.]

38. Any toll due to a promoter, lessee or licensee from a passenger may be recovered either by suit or, on application to a Magistrate having jurisdiction within any local area in which any part of the tramway is laid, by distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the passenger within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate.

Savings.

Promoter to have right of user only.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 57; and Act XXII, 1883, s. 9.]

39. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, or in an order, a promoter shall not acquire any right other than that of user only over a road along or across which he lays a tramway, nor shall anything contained in this Act or in an order exempt the promoter of a tramway, or any other person using the tramway, from the payment of such charges as may lawfully be levied in respect of the use of a road or bridge along or across which the tramway is laid.

[Act VIII, 1851.]

[Act XVII, 1878, s. 19.]

(2) The Local Government may, if it thinks fit, fix rates at which a promoter, lessee or licensee may compound for the charges payable in respect of the use of a road or bridge.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 32 & 60.]

Saving of power over roads traversed by tramways.

40. (1) Nothing in this Act or in an order shall take away or abridge any power which a road-authority, local authority or other person has by law to break up, widen, alter, divert or improve a road, railroad or tramway along or across which a tramway is laid.

(2) The road-authority, local authority or other person executing any work referred to in sub-section (1) shall not be liable to pay to a promoter, lessee or licensee any compensation for injury done to a tramway by the execution of the work or for loss of traffic occasioned by the reasonable use of any power lawfully exercised for the execution thereof.

Saving of power of local authority and police to regulate traffic on roads.

41. Nothing in this Act or in an order shall affect the powers of a local authority or of a magistrate or police-officer to regulate the passage of traffic along or across a road along or across which a tramway is laid; and the authority, magistrate or officer aforesaid may exercise its or his powers as well on as off the tramway and with respect as well to the traffic of a promoter, lessee or licensee as to the traffic of other persons.

Supplemental Provisions.

33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 40 & 55.]

Promoters, lessees and licensees to be responsible for all injuries.

42. A promoter, lessee or licensee shall be answerable for all injuries happening through his act or default, or through the act or default of any person in his employment, by reason or in consequence of any of his carriages or works, and shall save harmless all authorities and persons collectively and individually, and their officers and servants, from all damages and costs in respect of injuries so happening.

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 21.]

Want of funds not a sufficient reason for default.

43. For the purposes of this Act, want of funds shall not be deemed to be a sufficient reason for the suspension of the construction, or the discontinuance of the working, of a tramway by a promoter or lessee.

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 22.]

Power to exempt from municipal taxation.

44. When a tramway is constructed under this Act within the limits of a municipality, the Local Government may exempt the animals, plant, rolling-stock, yards, workshops, engine-sheds and depôts of the promoter or lessee, for such period as it thinks fit, from all or any municipal taxes leviable within those limits.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 20.]

Application by local authorities of local funds to tramways.

45. The fund to or with the control or management of which the local authority of a municipality, cantonment or district is entitled or entrusted shall, notwithstanding anything in any Act respecting the purposes to which that fund may be applied, be applicable, subject to the control of the Local Government, to the payment of expenses incidental to the exercise of the powers and functions which may be vested in or exercised by a local authority under this Act.

Extension of Act to existing tramways.

46. The Local Government may, with the consent of the local authority and road-authority and of the promoter, extend any part of this Act or of any rules made thereunder, either with or without modification, to the whole or any part of a tramway constructed, or authorised to be constructed, before the passing of this Act, and to any extension of, or addition to, any such tramway, and may withdraw any part of the Act so extended.

IV of 1879.

Meaning of "tramway" in Railway Act.

47. In section 54 of the Indian Railway Act, 1879, the word "tramway" shall have the meaning assigned to it by section 3 of this Act.

[Act XIII, 1884, s. 173.]

Powers of Local Government exercisable from time to time.

48. All powers conferred by this Act on a Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE introduction of this Bill has been rendered necessary by the projected construction of tramways in parts of India beyond the reach of a local legislature. In 1883 a special Act was passed by the Governor General in Council to authorise the making, and regulate the working, of tramways in Rangoon. Since that year application has been made for special Acts for tramways in Lahore and Amritsar, and legislation would probably be found to be necessary to regulate the use of tramways in other large towns in which their construction has been approved by, or is under the consideration of, the local authorities.

2. The Bill has been drawn on the lines of the Tramways Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vic., c. 78), and of the provisional orders and rules made by the Board of Trade under that statute. These orders and rules, and the fullest discussion on almost all points connected with the subject of tramways, will be found in Mr. Sutton's "Tramway Acts of the United Kingdom."

3. The Bill extends in the first instance to the whole of British India except the territories comprised within the sphere of a local legislature, and is extendible to those territories by the Local Government.

4. "Orders" take the place of the "provisional orders" of the English statute, but differ from those orders in not being "provisional" and not being confirmed by a subsequent Act of the Legislature. They also differ from provisional orders in that they must be consistent with the Act and cannot vary or except any part of it.

5. Sections 4 to 6 of the Bill prescribe the conditions on which, and the manner in which, an order may be made; and section 7 specifies the matters for which provision may be made in an order. A reference to the authorities cited against the several clauses of that section will show how those matters are now provided for in the United Kingdom. If an order is found on experience to be defective, it can be supplemented by a further order on the application of the person in whose favour the original order was made (section 8), or, in certain particulars, by rules (section 24).

6. When the order has been made, the tramway must be constructed, maintained and worked in the manner provided by the order (sections 11 and 27). If the tramway is constructed by a local authority, it will ordinarily be worked by a lessee (section 23). If it is constructed by a private speculator, it may be worked by him or by a lessee to whom he has let the right of user and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls (section 7, sub-section (4)). If the owner of the tramway or his lessee so works the tramway that the public is deprived of the full benefit of it, the Local Government may grant a license to any person to use the tramway on the payment of tolls to the owner or the lessee (section 1[illegible]). If the owner discontinues the working of the tramway (section 19) or through want of funds is unable to maintain the tramway or work it with advantage to the public (section 21), the Local Government may revoke his powers. When the powers of the owner are so revoked, the tramway may either be removed by the authority which has charge of the road on which the tramway is laid (section 20 and section 21, sub-section (2)), or it may be purchased by the local authority (section 22).

7. Section 22 provides for tramways which have been constructed by companies and private persons being purchased by local authorities on the expiration of the periods, and upon the terms, specified in the order, or, if the periods and terms were not specified in the order, then on the expiration of the periods, and upon the terms, prescribed in the English statute.

8. When a tramway is purchased by a local authority, it will ordinarily be worked by a lessee. There may, however, be cases in which the authority would be unable to let a tramway for an adequate consideration. It has been provided, therefore (section 23), that in those cases the Local Government may authorise the local authority itself to engage in the business of running carriages.

9. Differences between owners or lessees of tramways and the Local Government or local authorities are to be settled by a referee (section 35), who, if the Local Government is directly interested, is to be the District Judge. The decision of the referee will be final.

10. Sections 36 to 38 provide for the recovery by suit or summary process of moneys due to and from owners, lessees and licensees of tramways.

11. Sections 39 to 41 contain the savings usually found in enactments and agreements relating to the construction of tramways, and section 44 enables the Local Government to exempt from local taxation the animals, plant, rolling-stock and premises of owners and lessees of tramways constructed within the limits of municipalities.

12. Section 46 enables the Local Government, with the consent of the owner and the local authorities, to extend any part of the Act, with or without modification, to a tramway or any part of a tramway constructed, or authorised to be constructed, before the passing of the Act.

The Report on the operations under the Mahomedan Marriage Registration Act during the year 1884-85.

During the past year there was again an increase in the number of registrations, amounting to 87,378, or 14·53 per cent. as compared with an increase of 45,861, or 8·26 per cent. in the previous year. The increase in the number of compulsory registrations affecting immoveable property exceeded considerably the increase in the number of optional registrations affecting property of the same kind; the precentage of the latter was, however, much higher than that of the former, the increase in compulsory registrations amounting to 43,024, or 12·97 per cent., while the increase in optional registrations amounted to 29,847, or 18·20 per cent. The receipts rose from

Rs. 9,74,711 to Rs. 1,074,501, an increase of 10·23 per cent., while the expenditure increased from Rs. 5,04,755 to Rs. 5,54,110, or 9·77 per cent.; the net surplus being Rs. 5,20,391, or 10·73 per cent. higher than the net surplus for 1883-84.

2. The following table shows the number of operations and the receipts and expenditure during each of the years since 1869-70. It also shows the number of registration offices open during each year. In former reports the figures given for the years preceding 1874-75 included the figures for Assam, as the Chief Commissionership formed, during those years, a part of Bengal. In his present Report, however, the Inspector-General has excluded the figures for Assam, so that the table now relates purely to Lower Bengal:—

4. Under every head in the statement there has been an increase in the number of operations, with the exception of the number of written authorities registered, and under this head, which is a very small one, there was a slight decrease. The largest number of operations under any of the heads was under the head of term leases, of which 175,045 were registered as against 154,571 registered during 1883-84. The number of perpetual leases registered rose from 75,552 in 1883-84 to 85,519 during the past year. The number of instruments of sale, &c., of immoveable property of Rs. 100 and upwards in value was 47,027, showing an increase of 9·49 per cent. on the number registered during the preceding year, while the number of similar instruments relating to property below Rs. 100 in value registered was 55,253 as compared with 48,295 registered in 1883-84, showing an increase of 6,958 registrations, or 14·40 per cent. Under the optional registrations affecting immoveable property, the number of instruments of sale, &c., relating to property worth Rs. 100 and upwards rose from 100,618 in 1883-84 to 115,540 during the past year, while the same class of documents relating to immoveable property of less than Rs. 100 in value increased from 52,207 to 66,416, an increase of 27·21 per cent. The number of obligations for the payment of money, or money-bonds registered, shows an increase of 17·09 per cent. as compared with the number registered during the preceding year, the number having risen from 72,985 to 85,459. Including Calcutta and Howrah as registration districts, an increase of the number of registrations as compared with the figures for 1883-84 took place in 40 districts, while there was a decrease in five only. The largest decrease was in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, where the number of registrations fell from 6,884 in 1883-84 to 4,283 during the past year. In Bhagulpore also the number fell from 13,508 to 11,967. The number of districts in which over 20,000 registrations took place was 11, as compared with 9 in 1883-84 and 8 in the year which preceded it. Jessore, as usual, headed the list with 69,345 registrations as against 61,442 in the preceding year. The other districts were Backergunge (47,948), 24-Pergunnahs (46,439), Chittagong (40,253), Noakholly (31,787), Midnapore (31,333), Tipperah (29,198), Furreedpore (26,959), Khulna (24,602), Burdwan (21,542) and Dacca (21,124). In 6 districts over 30,000 documents were registered, as compared with 4 districts in 1883-84 and 3 districts in 1882-83. In 20 districts less than 10,000 documents were registered. Darjeeling and Singbhoom, in each of which there was a falling off as compared with 1883-84, are again much below any other district, the number of registrations in them being only 445 and 239 respectively.

5. The total number of leases, perpetual, term, and for periods of one year and under, which were registered during the last four years, were—

	1881-82.	1882-83.	1883-84.	1884-85.
Perpetual leases	74,639	70,764	75,552	85,519
Term leases	140,287	141,156	154,571	175,045
Leases for one year and under...	3,890	4,534	4,952	5,363
Total ...	218,816	216,454	235,075	265,927

Out of 85,519 perpetual leases registered, 82,787 were registered in Bengal Proper, only 1,402 being registered in Behar, 1,245 in Chota Nagpore and 85 in Orissa, and of the large number registered in Bengal Proper, 69,543 were registered in seven districts—Chittagong, Backergunge, Jessore, Noakholly, Furreedpore, 24-Pergunnahs and Khulna; the numbers registered in Chittagong, Backergunge and Jessore being 22,010, 12,069 and 11,315 respectively. The increase of perpetual leases in Eastern Bengal is attributed to the "growing prosperity of the ryot, especially those who lease lands which require much labour or expenditure of money to reclaim," as the latter are unwilling to incur expense in improvements until they have secured "some certainty of tenure." On the other hand, these leases are frequently given by zemindars who are in pecuniary difficulties, because they are enabled by giving them to raise a considerable sum of ready money. These leases are also a convenience to landholders whose property is scattered, and who, by giving a perpetual lease, can relieve themselves of the trouble and expense of looking after outlying portions of their property.

6. The number of term leases registered in Bengal Proper also far exceeds the number registered in the other three divisions, 127,607 out of 175,045 being registered in Bengal. Behar is not, however, so far behind in respect of term leases, as it is in the case of perpetual leases, 40,360 leases of the former kind having been registered in it during the past year. In four districts more than 10,000 term leases were registered, viz Jessore (16,126), Furreedpore (11,968), Backergunge (10,641) and Tipperah (10,020.) The 24-Pergunnahs and Mymensingh come next with 9,767 and 9,106 term leases respectively. In Chittagong, in which district 22,010 perpetual leases were registered, the number of term leases registered only amounted to 1,212. Various reasons are given for the increase in Eastern Bengal, where it is most noticeable: in Furreedpore the increase is said to be due to the settlement of three large estates, and in Khulna to a large reclamation of marsh land; while the increase in Mymensingh marks, it is said, "the amicable close of a long-standing quarrel between the landlords and their tenants." The total number of leases for one year and less, registered during the past year, was 5,363 as compared with 4,952 in 1883-84. Of these, 4,529 were registered in Bengal Proper, 571 in Behar, 186 in Chota Nagpore and 77 in Orissa. The total value of leases of all kinds registered during the year was Rs. 1,00,86,412, the value of those registered in Bengal being Rs. 48 04,023, or an average of Rs 43 per lease; while in Behar the value was Rs 48,39,082, or an average of Rs. 134 per lease. Even in Orissa and Chota Nagpore the average per lease is much higher than in Bengal, being Rs. 87 and Rs. 53 respectively.

7. The returns show a decrease in the proportion of leases to counterparts registered. as compared with the preceding year, the percentage of leases being only 26·83 as compared with 28·16 in 1883-84. The best results were again obtained in Chota Nagpore (59·31 per cent.) and Behar (48·08 per cent.) and the worst in Orissa (23·02 per cent.) and Bengal Proper (19·12 per cent.) In the case of leases, the registration of which is compulsory, the proportion amounted to 27 32 per cent, while in the case of those, the registration of which is optional, it only amounted to 11·2 per cent. The highest percentage was in Chumparun, where the leases registered amounted to 91·16 per cent.; while in Lohardugga and Mozufferpore the percentages were 83·05 and 82·81 respectively. In Purneah and Mymensingh the percentages were only 8·23 and 4·7.

8. There was a marked increase in the number of instruments of sale of immoveable property of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards, 47,027 being registered as compared with 42,951 registered during 1883-84, an increase of 9·49 per cent. In nine districts there was a decrease in the number, but it was slight; in one district the numbers in the two years were the same; in all the remaining districts there was an increase. Instruments of mortgage of immoveable property of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards showed an increase of 14·40 per cent., the number having risen from 48,295 in 1883-84 to 55,253 in 1884-85 The increase was general throughout the country, with the exception of two districts, the Sonthal Pergunnahs and Balasore, in which the decrease was 203 and 20 respectively. The number of instruments of gift of property of the same value was 4,272, which represented property of the value of Rs. 21,40,502. These deeds, as in 1883-84, were most numerous in Mymensingh, where 448 were registered; in Dacca and Beerbhoom the numbers were 323 and 239, while the 24-Pergunnahs and Midnapore had 238 each. The largest amount of property transferred was in Sarun, where land to the value of Rs. 2,95,619 was transferred by only 78 deeds.

9. The number of instruments of sale of immoveable property of less than Rs. 100 in value, which was registered, rose from 89,269 in 1882-83 and 100,618 in 1883 84 to 115,540 during the past year. The Inspector-General remarks: "The increased execution of deeds of this class is not a matter for unqualified congratulation, since it shows that a large number of petty holdings and small parcels of land are changing hands, presumably owing to the necessities of their proprietors; but, granted the necessity for carrying out these sales, their presentation at a registration office is undoubtedly to be desired." Looking to the fact that the number of such registrations rose in every district of Bengal, with the exception of Darjeeling, the Sonthal Pergunnahs, Balasore and Singbhoom, the Lieutenant-Governor is disposed to consider that the increase should not be attributed so much to necessity on the part of persons occupying petty holdings as to the more general appreciation of the benefits of registration which is now evinced by persons throughout the country. The mere fact that optional registrations of instruments affecting immoveable property increased from 132,475 in 1881-82 and 146,021 in 1882-83 to 163,964 in 883-84 and 193,811 in 1884-85, shows that the feeling that there is a certain amount of security to be obtained by registration is spreading among the mass of the population of these Provinces. Instruments of mortgage of immoveable property of less value than Rs. 100 increased from 52,207 registered during 1883-84 to 66,416 registered during 1884-85. This increase, not in itself large, was pretty generally distributed throughout Bengal, though Chittagong and Durbhunga each show an advance of nearly 100 per cent. on the figures of the previous year, and the Sonthal Pergunnahs an almost equal decrease. In Durbhunga one of the causes of the increase is said to have been the loans which a number of the poorer pundits of Tirhoot raised by mortgaging their properties in order to procure the money necessary to enable them to attend sobha held by the Maharajah of Durbhunga at Benares, the pundits being desirous of being present both from the wish to obtain the rewards and dresses of honour which were promised, and from the fear that their absence would prejudicially affect their reputation.

10. The following statement shows the number of estates and tenures transferred by registered deeds during the past two years, the amount for which they were disposed of and the classes of persons by whom they were purchased :—

From this statement it appears that zemindars were again the principal purchasers in the case of entire revenue-paying estates and shares in such estates; ryots and "others" in the case of revenue free properties; and principally tenure-holders, but also to a large extent ryots, in the case of intermediate tenures. The results are satisfactory from the point of view that the agricultural classes cling to the soil, and that the intervention of money lenders in such purchases is not so general as is commonly supposed. With regard to purchasers coming under the heading "others," the Inspector-General remarks in the case of entire revenue paying estates: "The question naturally arises who are these 'others'? They are clearly not zemindars or tenure holders, mahajans or cultivators, since these are specified in the statement. They are most probably members of the rising class of native advocates, pleaders judges, magistrates, doctors, &c., who, it is believed, have a great predilection for this class of property as a medium of safe investment for their savings." It would seem that the members of the same classes also look upon revenue-free tenures as a safe means of investment; for in the case of the sale of such tenures, "others" is next to "ryots" in number as a class, and far exceeds the number under any other class. When the question was raised by Mr. Paul, who was then Officiating as Inspector General, regarding the necessity for a detailed classification of purchasers, to which he objected on account of the difficulty of making an accurate one, the Lieutenant-Governor decided that no alteration should then be made in the form of the statements, and the Inspector-General was so informed. Mr. Bourdillon remarks that no further communication has been received by him on the subject. The question involves some difficulties, and, pending the disposal of the rules to be framed under the Tenancy Act, has not been finally settled. The determination arrived at will be communicated in due course to the Inspector-General. There can be no doubt that, as a matter of revenue administration, the fullest information on the subject would be of value.

11. In the following statement are shown the details regarding the purchasers of ryoti holdings at fixed rates, and ryoti holdings with right of occupancy during the last two years:—

	Ryoti holdings at fixed rates.		Ryoti holdings with right of occupancy.
	1883-84.	1884-85.	1883-84.	1884-85.

5. Others	5,071	5,931	6,504	7,515
Total purchasers ...	22,277	26,014	48,602	57,542

The ryots have again been by far the most numerous purchasers, no less than 13,012 out of a total of 26,014 buyers of holdings of the former denomination, and 39,436 out of a total of 57,542 buyers of holdings of the latter kind belonging to that class. The return also indicates the rapid growth of such transfers, regarding which considerable discussion passed in the debates upon the Bengal Tenancy Bill. The total purchase-money in the case of ryoti holdings at a fixed rate was Rs. 22,83,331, as compared with Rs. 18,78,375 in 1883-84; while the average area per holding rose from 2·2 to 2·9 acres. The annual rental of the holdings was Rs. 2,02,481, as compared with Rs. 1,97,914, the annual rental of similar holdings transferred in 1883-84. In the case of ryoti holdings with right of occupancy, the annual rental of the holdings transferred during the past year was Rs. 3,53,727, as compared with a rental of Rs. 3,26,195 of those transferred in the preceding year: the total purchase money rose from Rs. 32,00,555 to Rs. 35,30,008. The average area per holding remained the same as in the previous year, viz. 2·2 acres, which was less than the average area in 1882-83, when it amounted to 2·6 acres. The number of years purchase fetched by holdings of the former class ranged between 47·6 in the Sonthal Pergunnahs and 4·2 in Jessore. The number of years purchase of holdings of the latter class varied from 93·8, the highest in Lohardugga, to 3·6, the lowest in Nuddea.

12. During the past year the total number of registrations, other than those affecting immoveable property, and excluding wills and written authorities, was 118,015 as compared with 103,543 in 1883-84. Of these, 85,459, as compared with 72,985 in the preceding year, were bonds for the payment of money. With the exception of eight districts, of which six are in Behar, there has been an increase in the number of bonds registered in every district. As remarked in the Resolution on the Report for 1883-84, there was in that year, for the first time since 1879-80, a rise instead of a fall in the number of bonds registered. The increase during the past year was much more marked, for while the increase in 1883-84, as compared with 1882-83, was only 3,640, the returns for the past year show an increase of 12,474 as compared with 1883-84. Of this very large increase, 5,111 were due to Jessore, the number of bonds registered in that district being 30,658. In 1883-84 and 1882-83 the numbers registered in this district were only 25,547 and 25,927 respectively, but the returns for the past year are not so great as those for 1881-82, when the number of bonds registered was 34,829, or for 1880-81, when 39,245 bonds were registered in that district; but even this number was exceeded in 1879-80, when 49,878 deeds of this description passed through the registration offices in the Jessore district. Various reasons for the recent increased registration of bonds in Jessore are given. The Registrar of Jessore, whose remarks on the subject the Inspector-General quotes, says—

The increase is attributed by the Sub-Registrars of Gadkhali, Jhenida, Magura, and Narail to the high price of food-grains. The Sub-Registrar of Gadkhali further reports that the completion of the railway works, which used to provide employment for the poor class of people, has compelled many of this class to borrow money. Registrations in book IV have increased twofold in the offices of the Sub-Registrars of Jhenida and Gadkhali. The cause of increase in the former is partly attributable to the introduction of the rural sub-registry system, and the consequent appointment of an officer who would give all his time to the work. At Gadkhali the increase is said to be due to the facility which this station offers for registration, being as it is at a railway station.

As was the case in 1883-84, by far the largest number of the bonds were for small amounts, there being only 2,097 for sums exceeding Rs. 500, and only 17,747 for sums exceeding Rs. 100 It is quite possible that, taking the above facts into consideration, the high price of food-grains may to a great extent be looked upon as the cause of the increase in the number of bonds registered; still it is very remarkable that the extraordinarily large number should be confined to a single district. In Behar, Chota Nagpore, and Orissa, the largest number of bonds registered were those of the fourth class, viz. bonds for amounts varying from Rs. 101 to Rs. 500. In Bengal Proper, in which 74,149 bonds out of the total 85,458 were registered, 19,294 were for sums not exceeding Rs. 25; 25,077 for sums between Rs. 26 and Rs. 50, and 17,774 for sums between Rs. 51 and Rs. 100. The Inspector-General considers that the explanation of this difference is "the same as that offered in the case of leases, viz. that, except in Bengal Proper, bonds of small value are not usually registered, while the advantages of registration are nevertheless so well appreciated that those of large value are very largely brought to the registrars' offices" There was an increase of 39 in the number of wills registered, 1,783 being registered in 1884-85 as compared with 1,744 in the preceding year; while written authorities decreased from 45 to 41. The number of powers-of-attorney registered was 6,722 as compared with 6,602 registered in 1883-84.

13. The Inspector-General draws attention to the fact that, though leases and counterparts can, when presented at the same time, be registered for a single fee, advantage is seldom taken of the concession. In Jessore, out of 27,586 leases and counterparts registered, in only 776 cases were the leases and counterparts presented at the same time. In Tipperah the proportion was higher, both documents being presented at the same time in 1,999 instances out of 12,664 leases registered. In Gya, he remarks, there was not a single instance in which the two were presented at the same time, notwithstanding the fact that in Gya the proportion of leases registered to counterparts amounted to 66·98 per cent. The returns seem to indicate an absence of knowledge of the provisions of the law in some districts, and an imperfect understanding of them in others. The attention of registering officers should, as proposed, be drawn to the subject.

14. As there was apparently a want of uniformity in interpreting the sections of the Act relating to the time from the date of execution within which documents must be presented, and the further time within which execution must be admitted, a circular was issued on the subject in January last by Mr. Bolton, who was at that time officiating as Inspector-General of Registration. Mr. Bourdillon remarks that the circular "gives expression to what may be called the more severe view of the law, and will, no doubt, result in an increase of fines" levied on documents submitted after the expiration of the ordinary time allowed. The circular was issued after the approval of the Advocate-General had been accorded to Mr. Bolton's proposals, and it seems to remove all possibility of any misinterpretation of the law. The next annual report will show whether Mr. Bourdillon's anticipation regarding the increase in the number of fines will prove to be correct.

15. The number of commissions issued and visits paid during 1884-85 was 6,163 as compared with 5,938 in 1883-84. In 3,391 cases, as against 3,086 in 1884-85, registration was refused, but was subsequently ordered in 158 cases out of 317 appeals made against the order of refusal. The number of prosecutions under sections 81 and 82 of the Registration Act was 54 as compared with 57 in the preceding year. Of these, six took place in Midnapore and nine in Mozufferpore. Of the latter, convictions followed in seven cases, and two cases were still pending at the close of the year. In Mymensingh, in which district in 1883-84, there were 13 prosecutions, there was not a single prosecution during the past year. Of 84 persons concerned in the 54 cases in which prosecutions were instituted, and in four cases pending from the preceding year, 54 were convicted, 26 acquitted, and four were awaiting trial at the close of the year. Of the 54 cases, 32 were for false personation, 13 for making a false statement, 8 for forgery, and one for disobedience of summons.

16. The total number of applications for searches or copies was 56,976, as compared with 52,218 in 1883-84. The searches are of three kinds—(1) those in Books III and IV and their indexes, made by the registering officer himself; (2) searches made under the rules of the High Court; and (3) searches made by applicants for their own information. The Inspector-General still expresses disapprobation of the results obtained in connection with the searches made under the rules of the High Court, and proposes to address Government separately on the subject. The Lieutenant-Governor's views on the matter have been expressed in the Resolutions on the Reports for 1882-83 and 1883-84, and none of the facts at present before him seem to the Lieutenant-Governor to warrant a departure from the conclusion which has, in the Resolutions referred to, been already communicated to the Inspector-General. Under these circumstances, the Lieutenant-Governor does not deem it advisable to advert further to this matter at present, but he will await the receipt of the letter embodying in full Mr. Bourdillon's views on the subject, and his reasons for still adhering to them. The number of such searches made during 1884-85 was 35,3^0, and the fees realized Rs. 66,320; while the number of ordinary searches was 21,596 and the fees received on account of them Rs. 24,706. The fees realized for the registration at the sudder office of documents which might have been registered at sub-registry offices amounted to Rs. 26,191 as compared with Rs. 24,900 in 1883-84. The reasons assigned for the preference shown for registration at the sudder office are, the Inspector-General remarks, those which have been given before, viz. that better legal advice can be obtained at the head-quarters of a district: that better lodgings can also be obtained there: and, lastly, that the parties have frequent occasion to go to the sudder station on other business. These reasons seem to be sufficient

17. During 1884-85, 2,225 documents were impounded for deficiency of stamp duty as compared with 2,098 during the preceding year. In 1,696 cases the Collector upheld the action of the registering officers, in 345 the documents were held to be correctly stamped, and 184 documents were pending adjudication at the close of the year. It is satisfactory to observe that the decision of the registering officer was reversed in only 17 per cent of the cases. In 102 cases prosecutions for fraudulent evasion of the stamp duty were instituted.

18. The civil courts during the past year discredited 70 deeds as against 33 during the preceding year. The Inspector-General is inclined, looking to the fact that the number of districts in which deeds have been discredited is so much larger than it formerly was, to attribute the increase to "the greater vigilance and care in bringing these cases to the notice of the officers concerned, rather than to any absolute increase." In 11 only of the deeds discredited was the cause an error of law or procedure in registration.

19. In 1883-84, as compared with 1882-83, there was an increase in the number of operations under the Act in 34 districts, and a decrease in 11. During the past year, as has been above remarked, there was an increase in 40 districts and a decrease in 5 districts only. Of the latter, the decrease was considerable only in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, where it amounted to 37·78 per cent., and in Bhagulpore, where it amounted to 11·4 per cent In Singbhoom the decrease was 11·8 per cent., but the total number of registrations in this district are so small that a difference of even a few registrations produced a large percentage. With regard to the Sonthal Pergunnahs, the Inspector-General explains that this falling off "is said to be due to a general uncertainty prevailing among that timorous and suspicious people as to the power of cultivators to transfer their holdings by sale or mortgage." It is further added that "the cause of this mistrust is that it is yet undecided whether money-lenders can foreclose mortgages of the 'Sud Bandaki' class executed by Sonthals; and until this question is settled, the mahajans decline to lend money to the Sonthals" Mr. Bourdillon adds: "No explanation of it (the decrease) is given by the Registrar of Bhagulpore, but if the suggestion made for the Sonthal Pergunnahs is corret, it no doubt has an effect on the registration of the neighbouring district of Bhagulpore, which has a considerable Sonthal population." In 18 districts the increase in the number of operations exceeded 2,000, while in 26 districts it exceeded 1,000.

20. The total receipts for the past year were Rs. 10,74,501 as compared with Rs. 9,74,711 in 1883-84; while the total expenditure was Rs. 5,54,110 as compared with Rs. 5,04,755 in the preceding year, the surplus being Rs. 4,69,956 and Rs. 5,20,391 in 1883-84 and 1884-85 respectively. In addition to the expenditure above stated, there were certain items, payment for which is made by transfer, and which have not been shown in the total expenditure, which, in accordance with the usual practice, only shows actual cash expenditure. These items are—

		Rs.
Cost of stationery	... ...	5,026
Do of printing and registers	... ...	56,751
Do. of new buildings by the Public Works Department	...	4,334
Do. of cast-iron record-racks	... ...	5,180
	Total ...	71,291

Deducting this amount from the amount of surplus shown, the net balance of Rs. 4,49,100 is obtained on the operations for the year.

21. The number of registration offices open at the close of the year was 290 as compared with 284. The increase was caused by six new rural offices being opened, one in the district of Bankoora, one in Hooghly, one in Chittagong, one in Mymensingh, and two in Noakhally. During 1883-84, eighteen sub-divisional ex-officio offices were converted into rural offices, and with satisfactory results, both as regards the number of presentations and the fees realized. During the past year eight other sub-divisional offices were converted into rural offices, and the Inspector-General anticipates other similar changes, as well as the opening of more rural offices during the current year. The Lieutenant-Governor will await the submission of any proposals the Inspector-General may from time to time wish to make regarding either the conversion of sub-divisional offices, or the opening of new rural ones. The extension of the facilities of registration is under the Lieutenant-Governor's consideration with a view to the requirements of the new Rent Law.

22. The following table shows the operations under the Mahomedan Marriage Registration Act since it came into force:—

YEAR.	Number of districts in which the Act was in force.	Number of offices open on the 31st March.	Number of marriages registered.	Number of divorces other than khulas registered	Number of khulas registered.	Total number of ceremonies registered.
1876-77	14	77	2,555	402	161	3,118
1877-78	14	104	7,391	1,404	595	9,390
1878-79	14	103	8,161	1,705	771	10,637
1879-80	14	107	7,227	2,007	623	9,857
1880-81	14	106	5,777	1,874	779	8,430
1881-82	14	107	4,951	2,239	667	7,857
1882-83	14	112	5,158	2,217	706	8,081
1883-84	14	112	4,273	2,315	895	7,483
1884-85	14	112	3,913	2,540	957	7,410

There has been no change in the number of districts in which the Act is in force, and the number of offices open was the same as in the two years preceding 1884-85. There was an increase of 225 in the number of divorces, other than khulas, registered, and of khulas there was an increase of 62. The number of marriages registered was, however, less by 360 than the number registered during 1883-84, the total number of operations being only 7,410 as compared with 7,483 in the preceding year. The decrease is not large, but the total result is unsatisfactory as being below that of any year except 1876-77. The number of marriages registered increased in 8 out of the 14 districts, but the decrease of the number of marriages registered in Rungpore from 789 in 1883-84 to 358 in 1884-85 has of course had its effect on the returns for the past year. The decrease is owing, the Registrar of the district explains, as stated by Mr. Bourdillon, to "a thorough understanding by the parties that the registration does not carry any weight in courts of law, and that non-registration does not make the defaulters liable to any penalty or forfeiture. It is added that the zemindars also levy the marriage impost as before, and when the parties once pay the landlord, they refuse to pay the Marriage Registrar unless compelled by law to do so. Lastly, the registration of deeds-of-dower and divorce in the ordinary registration offices is considered as more conclusive evidence of marriage than a resort to the office of the Mahomedan Marriage Registrar." There may be, and is no doubt, considerable weight in these reasons; but as all these causes for non-registration existed in 1883-84 as well as in 1884-85, the Lieutenant-Governor cannot accept them as at all fully explaining the decrease of 54·62 in the number of registration in one year, more especially when looking to the fact that in the adjoining districts of Dinagepore and Bogra there was an actual increase in the number of marriages registered as compared with the preceding year. The greatest number of ceremonies was registered in Chittagong, viz. 2,550, Dacca comes next with 858 and Rajshahye with 844. No other district registered as many as 600 ceremonies. Of offices, 598 ceremonies were registered in the office of Satkania in Chittagong, which has considerably more than double the number of registrations in any other office, except that of Patiya in the same district, in which they amounted to 371. The Inspector-General remarks that "the Act is falling more and more into desuetude in the districts to which it has been extended. Notwithstanding the recent revision of the rules and procedure under Act I (B.C.) of 1876, the total number of ceremonies registered has fallen off compared with the previous year; but it should be remarked that there has hardly yet been sufficient time to judge whether the changes carried out will cause an increase in the number of ceremonies registered or not." The next report will be awaited when Government will be in a better position to ascertain the effect of the alterations in the rules and procedure under the Act, to which reference was made in the Resolution on the Report of the working of the Act for the year 1883-84. Most of the Mahomedan registration offices were inspected during the year. It is reported that those inspected were found in good order, and that the conduct of the Registrars was satisfactory.

23. During 1884-85 only 838 inspections of registration offices were made as compared with 884 during the preceding year. As in 1883-84, the decrease has again been due to the falling off in the number of inspections made by District Registrars, which decreased from 200 to 192, in the number made by Sudder Sub-Registrars, which fell from 92 to 64, and in the number of those made by Sub-Divisional Officers which fell from 110 to 107. On the other hand, there has been an increase of 20 in the inspections by Special Sub-Registrars, and Mr. Bourdillon considers that the more searching nature of their enquiries more than compensates for a falling off in the number of inspections by District Registrars, who have not leisure as a rule for long and elaborate inspections. Mr. Bourdillon draws special attention, however, to the falling off in the inspections made by Sudder Sub-Registrars. This point calls for serious notice, and the Inspector-General should at once direct the attention of District Registrars to the omission. The number of stamp inspections made during the year was 428 as compared with 465 made during the preceding year.

24. Mr. Handley was in charge of the office of Inspector-General of Registration from the commencement of the year till the 7th May 1884, when Mr. Paul succeeded him and remained in charge till he went on leave on the 1st November, between which time and Mr. Bourdillon's return on the 16th February, Mr. Bolton was in charge of the office. The Lieutenant-Governor notes the favourable remarks made concerning the manner in which Mr. J. F. Harrison and Baboo Hari Chaitanya Ghose performed their duties as First and Second Inspectors. Credit is also given to Mr. Handley for diligence in the discharge of his duties during the short time that he reverted to his substantive appointment as First Inspector, but as that period is not stated, and Mr. Handley is shown to have made only 18 inspections in that capacity, the Lieutenant-Governor can only take it for granted that the Inspector-General's commendation was deserved. The names of the officers referred to, with an extract from the Report, will be forwarded to the Appointment Department for information. Mr. Bourdillon remarks that, where so many registering officers have done well, it is impossible to select any for special mention without doing injustice to others equally efficient. The Lieutenant-Governor would have thought that in so large a department some officers must have singled themselves out of the crowd by exceptionally good work. On the other hand, the failure of those who have not given satisfaction in the discharge of their duties should always be noticed. There is no department of the public service in which especial care in supervising the work of individual officers is more urgent than in the Registration Department.

25. From a review of the year's operations, the Lieutenant-Governor is satisfied with the general efficiency of the Registration Department. The proposal for opening a large number of rural offices in anticipation of the expansion of the department by the coming into operation of the Bengal Tenancy Act will be dealt with separately.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Registration for information and guidance.

Ordered also that extract paragraph 24 of this Resolution, and extract paragraph 131 of the Report, be forwarded to the Appointment Department of this Office for information and guidance.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

F. B. PEACOCK,

Chief Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE LICENCE-TAX FOR 1884-85.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.—LICENCE-TAX.

Darjeeling, the 4th November 1885.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Report on the Administration of the License-tax for 1884-85.

Read also—

The Report for 1883-84 and the Resolution recorded on it.

As in previous years, the license-tax in Bengal was levied under Act II (B.C.) of 1880. The number of special assessors employed was the same as in the preceding year, namely 46; three assessors being employed for Calcutta, one for the Suburban Municipality, and one for each district, except Darjeeling and Singbhoom, where the number of assessees was not sufficiently large to warrant the expense of appointing an assessor. Of the 46 assessors, two were of the rank of Sub-Deputy Collector, the remainder being of lower status. The collection of the tax was as usual commenced in the majority of districts soon after the period allowed by sections 16 and 17 of the Act, the assessment lists of the preceding year, as they stood after the disposal of objections and appeals, being adopted as the basis of operations; while in a few districts, where the assessment had been hurriedly made, the issue of notices was postponed until the assessors had finished their enquiries and submitted revised lists.

2. The total number of villages visited by the assessing officers was 25,619, including 617 streets in Calcutta, against 27,067 in the previous year. It is observed that, in the majority of cases, proper attention was paid by district officers to the direction of the assessors' movements, though in a few districts, which the Board enumerate, greater activity might have been displayed with advantage. A considerable number of villages also were visited for purposes of assessment by officers other than assessors. The district most conspicuous for activity in this respect was Durbhunga, where as many as 456 villages were visited by officers on the regular staff. A very creditable out-turn of work is also noticeable in the districts of Tipperah, Midnapore, Bhagulpore, Dacca, Furreedpore, Backergunge, Monghyr, Hooghly, and Mymensingh.

3. The gross number of assessments, after eliminating double centres and allowing for the revision of the lists by Collectors, amounted to 76,250. Of these 5,681 were exempted on objection and 310 on appeal, leaving 70,259 persons on the list of assessees on the 30th June, as compared with 71,293 in 1883-84. The outstanding balance on the 30th June 1884 was Rs. 10,022, and of this the greater part had to be remitted, the number of persons finally assessed in 1883-84 being reduced to 70,552. The following table compares the number of assessees in each class in the final lists of 1883-84 with those of the year under review:—

	Rs.	Number of assessees: On the final lists in 1883-84.	Number of assessees: On the lists of 30th June 1885.
Class I	500	387	389
„ II	200	725	696
„ III	100	1,443	1,413
„ IV	50	3,613	3,587
„ V	20	14,836	14,714
„ VI	10	49,548	49,460
Total		70,552	70,259

The figures show that there was a falling off of 293 assessees, and there will be a still further decrease when the enquiries in regard to the outstanding balance on the 30th June 1885, amounting to Rs. 10,223, have been completed. As the figures now stand, there was a falling off, as compared with 1883-84, of 29 assessees in Class II, of 30 in Class III, of 26 in Class IV, of 122 in Class V, and 88 in Class VI, while there was an increase of only 2 assessees in Class I.

4. The following table shows the incidence of the license-tax in each of the divisions of the province:—

Bhagulpore	... ...	50 persons to Re. 1.
Rajshahye	... ...	51 ditto.
Dacca	... ...	58 ditto.
Presidency (omitting Calcutta)	... ...	61 ditto.
Chittagong	... ...	65 ditto.
Burdwan	... ...	69 ditto.
Patna	... ...	75 ditto.
Chota Nagpore	... ...	82 ditto.
Orissa	... ...	100 ditto.

Taking the population of Bengal at 66½ millions, one person in every 916 paid the tax, the average incidence being Re. 1 to every 46 persons; but if Calcutta be excluded, the general incidence was Re. 1 to every 64 inhabitants. The incidence was highest in Calcutta, Darjeeling, Howrah, 24-Pergunnahs, Maldah, Bhagulpore, Bogra, Monghyr, Dinagepore, and Dacca; and lowest in Singbhoom, Khoolna, Sonthal Pergunnahs, Bankoora, Cuttack, Shahabad, Pooree, Chumparun, Nuddea and Burdwan.

5. The number of objections filed during the year was 19,412 or 25·4 of the total number of persons originally assessed, the corresponding percentage in 1883-84 being 26·2. In 11,852 cases the assessments were upheld, in 1,877 they were modified by the transfer of the objector to a lower class, and in 5,681 cases the assessments were cancelled. The successful objections thus amounted to 7,558 or 39 per cent. of the total number of petitions filed, against 39 per cent. in the previous year. The proportion of all objections to assessments was highest in—

Pooree	58·03
Durbhunga	41·2
Moorshedabad	39·2
Cuttack	39·06
Gya	37·5
Bulasore and Hazareebagh	36·4
Monghyr	35·4

And the proportion of successful objections to assessments was highest in the following districts:—

Pooree	31·5
Hazareebagh	18·8
Moorshedabad	18·2
24-Pergunnahs	17·2
Durbhunga	17·
Nuddea	16·5
Khulna } Gya }	15·8
Balasore	15·

These results are most unsatisfactory; and the Lieutenant Governor regrets to find that after the considerable experience of many years assessments are still very loosely and carelessly made in many districts. The work appears to have been particularly badly done in Pooree, and a special explanation will be called for from the officers concerned.

The number of appeals against the orders passed on objections was 1,545, against 1,747 in 1883-84. Of this number, the assessment was upheld in 969 cases and reduced in 197 cases, while in 310 cases the assessees were exempted altogether. The districts in which the right of appeal was most largely exercised are Calcutta, Cuttack, Durbhunga, Chittagong, Sarun and Monghyr. In the entire province, out of 76,250 assessments, 5,991 or 7·8 per cent. were cancelled on objection or appeal, and 2,074 or 2·7 were modified. This result, though showing some improvement on that of the previous year, when out of 77,613 persons assessed, 6,320 or 8·1 per cent. were entirely exempted, and 2,333 or 3 per cent were assessed on objection in lower grades, is still unsatisfactory. The number of appeals pending on the 30th June was 69, against 31 in the previous year. The number of applications to Commissioners under section 21 of the Act was 70, exclusive of those in Calcutta. Of these, 48 were rejected, 6 were granted in part; and in 10 cases the assessments were cancelled. Six cases were pending at the close of the year. The majority of the references were made in the divisions of Patna, Orissa and Bhagulpore.

6. The following table shows the demand, remissions, collections, and balances up to the end of June for each of the last two years:—

The figures show a reduction of Rs. 33,815 in the gross demand as compared with 1883-84. Remissions and refunds together amounted to Rs. 2,57.370. Of this sum, however, Rs. 1,03.910 were re-assessed by the transfer of the assessees to some other class, the actual remissions and refunds amounting to Rs. 1,53 460. Of this amount Rs. 1,27,640 were remitted before realization, and Rs. 25,820 refunded after realization. The amount remitted or refunded under the operation of the rule by which a person is liable to be taxed in only one place in British India was Rs 18,260 The net remissions and refunds, therefore, amounted to Rs. 1,35,200 or 8·4 of the gross demand of Rs 15,96.690 There was a falling off in the total receipts from the tax, up to the 30th June 1385, of Rs. 21,646 or 1·4 per cent. The decrease is attributed partly to the general depression in trade, and partly to the further revision of the assessments of the previous year.

7. There was a falling off in the net receipts in 31 districts, and an increase in 14. The percentage of decrease was highest in the divisions of Orissa (7·9), Burdwan (3·9), and Chota Nagpore (3 3). In the following 16 districts there was a falling off of over 3 per cent:—

The falling off in Pooree and Cuttack is attributed to the rectification of the over-assessment of previous years; but from the proportion of successful objections to assessments in these districts (31·5 in Pooree, and 14 9 in Cuttack), it appears that they were again over-assessed in the year under report. The Board remark: "It is almost every year the case that the assessment lists first submitted by the special officers appointed for revising the tax show a considerable increase over the demand finally determined at the close of the preceding year, but when further scrutinized on objection and appeal. they come to show a figure even less than that demand. This might to a great extent be avoided, if the instructions issued to the assessors were sufficiently clear to indicate the mode of revision expected from them." The Board have very properly drawn the attention of the Collectors to the importance of giving such instructions to the assessors before they begin their work of revision. The Lieutenant-Governor has no doubt that much of the unpopularity of the tax is due to the injudicious proceedings of assessors, who imagine that the only means open to them of earning credit in their temporary appointments is to show a large increase in assessments, and he trusts that district officers will do their best, by clear instructions to the assessors, and careful supervision of their work, to counteract this tendency wherever it appears. The decrease in Pubna is attributed partly to the large number of exemptions caused by fluctuation in the circumstances of the trading class and the general failure of crops, and partly to the careful revision of the assessments of previous years. The explanation offered in respect of the decrease in Hazareebagh and Gya is somewhat similar to that given for Pubna. In Hooghly the Collector attributes the decrease to dulness of trade, though the Commissioner is of opinion that the result would have been less unsatisfactory if the assessor had not, in spite of express instructions, attempted to revise the assessments in the whole district within the short period of four months for which his services were entertained. Naturally the work was performed in a perfunctory way. The falling off in Bankoora is due to remissions granted to several persons dealing in money, grain, and lac, whose business has suffered considerably in consequence of continued droughts and dulness in the lac trade. The exemption of petty traders whose income had fallen owing to slackness in the grain and sugar trades, and the transfer of some assessees to other districts which were declared by them as the principal place of their business, are assigned as causes of the decrease in Shahabad, while the decrease in Maldah is attributed in a general way "to the reduced circumstances of the assessees and the altered condition of trade." The causes given for the decrease in Moorshedabad are the dulness of trade in silk and the partial failure of crops. In Singbhoom the decrease is attributed to revision of assessments. This was also the case in Bhagulpore, where the depression of trade, owing to bad harvests, was an additional factor. In Chumparun the decrease is ascribed to the falling off of profits of several assessees, and in Howrah to the transfer of several assessments to Calcutta and other districts, and to the slackness of trade. The chief cause of the decrease in Jessore and Rungpore was the depression of trade caused in the former district by the heavy fall in the price of sugar, and in the latter by the fall in the prices of the principal articles of local merchandize.

In the Resolution on the Report for 1883-84, it was remarked that the incidence of the tax was suspiciously low in Rajshahye as compared with the incidence for the whole division, and the Lieutenant Governor desired that the assessment work of the district should be carefully watched by the Collector. The matter is fully dealt with in the present report, and the Lieutenant-Governor is disposed to agree with the Board that the district is poorer than has been hitherto supposed.

In Calcutta the collections up to 30th June 1885 amounted to Rs. 4,04,570, against Rs 4,1·,670 in the previous year. There was a decrease of 45 in the total number of assessees with a corresponding decrease of Rs 9,100 in receipts. The decrease occurred in all the classes except Class VI, and is ascribed to the licenses having been taken out in other districts or provinces, and to the general depression in trade.

8. An increase occurred in the receipts in 14 districts, ranging from ·6 per cent. in Mozufferpore to 14·6 in Noakholly. The districts which show an increase of over 3 per cent. are—

Districts.		Collections in 1883-84.	Collections in 1884 85.	Increase in 1884 85.	Percentage of increase
		Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Noakholly	...	10,000	11,460	1,460	14·6
Chittagong	...	16 610	18,860	2,250	13 5
Dinagepore	...	31,945	34,290	2,345	7·3
Lohardugga	...	16,234	17,234	1 000	6·1
Sarun	...	36,212	38,135	1,923	5·3
Mymensingh	...	46 111	48 244	2,133	4·6
Purneah	...	32 110	33,430	1,320	4·1

The reason advanced for the increase in Noakholly is that the past year was one of great prosperity for the bulk of the population, and this had the effect of increasing the number of assessees and the amount of collections The Collector of Chittagong attributes the increase in his district to the "due attention paid by the assessing staff to their duty." The increase in Dinagepore was chiefly derived from new assessments and enhancements made in the second and the last three classes, and in Sarun from a number of new assessments made under the two lowest classes. In Lohardugga the increase was due to careful enquiry and consequent revision of assessments in parts of the district, while the enhancement in Purneah was the result of a thorough revision of assessments in the Kishengunge sub-division. The administration of the tax in Mymensingh was the subject of unfavourable comment in the Resolution on the last report, and an explanation was called for of the circumstances under which it was necessary to grant a large number of remissions and reductions in the Attia sub-division. The explanation given is that "the assessment was originally much too high, and there were in consequence large reductions in 1882-83. The remedial measures then adopted, however, do not seem to have gone far enough, for during 1883-84 there were further petitions of objection which the then sub-divisional officers, Baboos Atul Chandra Chatterjee and Kasi Kinkar Sen, after due enquiry allowed. Whether the objections were really well founded or not it is impossible now to discover. The Collector is of opinion that every possible allowance was made, though why, if the original assessment was too high, the petitioners did not come forward sooner to object, does not appear. The sub-divisional officer at any rate showed carelessness in not making enquiries with a view to discovering fresh assessees. Many persons appear to have been reduced owing to separation of business: this may have been a legitimate cause of reduction, but it also afforded good ground for enquiry whether the person who had set up separately was not liable. A large number of remissions in the two preceding years was also due to the low prices of salt and jute—two of the principal articles of trade—and to causes such as accidental loss, closure of business and transfer of assessments to other districts" Since then the assessments have undergone a revision which has led to an increase in receipts of Rs. 2,133 or 4·6 per cent.

9. The percentage borne by remissions and refunds was below that of the previous year, the highest percentage being 26 6 in Pooree. It exceeded 15 per cent. in seven districts, in thirteen it ranged from 10 to 15, in twenty from 5 to 10, while in the remaining five districts it ranged from ·6 to 4 6. The balance on 30th June 1885, appertaining only to some seven districts, amounted to Rs. 10,223, the bulk of which is irrecoverable, and will have to be written off. There was again a decrease in the year of Rs. 5,962 in the amount of penalties and costs realized, which shows that assessees have been more punctual in the payment of the tax. The cost of collection was also considerably reduced, the percentage of charges to receipts having fallen from 6 1 in 1883-84 to 5·9 in the year under review. The total amount expended on the license-tax operations of the year, up to the 30th June 1885, was Rs. 87,159, against Rs. 91,249 in 1883-84.

10. There is little to add to the remarks recorded in previous years with regard to the popular feeling on the subject of the tax. It affects only a small section of the population, and while it can never be more popular than any other form of direct taxation, it is now quietly accepted as inevitable by the majority of those who are called upon to pay it. The absence of any complaint of harassment or extortion shows that the Act, on the whole, worked smoothly during the year under review.

11. The names of the officers who are reported to have given special attention to this branch of their duties will be noted in the Appointment Department. The Lieutenant-Governor again desires to thank the Board for their careful administration of this branch of the revenue during the year.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution, together with a copy of the Board's Report, be submitted to the Government of India, Finance and Commerce Department, for information, and that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Board of Revenue.

Ordered further that extract paragraph 11 of the Resolution, together with extract paragraph 39 of the Report, be forwarded to the Appointment Department for information.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT ON THE CHARITABLE DISPENSARIES IN BENGAL FOR 1884.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—MEDICAL.

Calcutta, the 4th November 1885.

RESOLUTION.

Report on the Charitable Dispensaries in Bengal for the year 1884.

The Report for 1883, and the Resolution recorded upon it.

In the Resolution of the Government of India, Home Department, No. 3—163-74, dated the 7th May 1883, instructions were given that in preparing Statement I, appended to the Annual Dispensary Report, dispensaries should be divided into three classes with reference to their financial constitution and relations; class I comprising all hospitals and dispensaries chiefly supported by the State, class II all institutions supported by local funds, and class III all private institutions. Class III was further sub-divided into—

(A)—Institutions entirely maintained at the cost of private individuals or associations, and

(B)—Institutions supported by private subscriptions or guarantee, but receiving aid from Government or local funds.

Local Governments were left free to adopt any other form of classification which might be considered most convenient for administrative purposes. In view of the advantages of a uniform and complete system of classification, the Lieutenant-Governor has adopted and prescribed for general use the form suggested by the Government of India.

On the 31st December 1883 there were 230 dispensaries. During 1884 four dispensaries were established and four were abolished. Under the new classification five of the institutions were in class I, 86 in class II, 81 in class III (A), and 58 in class III (B).

2. The system under which Government had undertaken to provide employment to all candidates passing the Licentiate's examination came to an end in 1883, and during that year no Assistant Surgeons were admitted to the service. In 1884, it is reported 21 Assistant Surgeons were received by transfer from the Imperial list. Twenty-nine civil hospital assistants were appointed, of whom 20 came from the Campbell Medical School, five from Dacca, two from Patna, and two from Cuttack. The report for 1883 contained some unfavourable comments on the qualifications of the civil hospital assistants recruited from the Patna Medical School. The Inspector-General has devoted special attention to the question during the year, and now reports that, as far as professional ability is concerned, the Patna men are up to the standard. He adds, however, that "their general want of knowledge of English, and inability to converse in Bengali, are drawbacks to their employment in the southern and eastern districts of the Province;" and he quotes certain extracts from the report of the Civil Surgeon, the late Dr. Shaw, which prove that the standard of general education among the Patna students is very low. Dr. Shaw contemplated raising the standard of entrance examination, and encouraging the study of English by the offer of scholarships, and if the matter is to be taken up, it will be necessary to refer it to Government through the Educational Department.

There was not much change in the disposition of officers in 1884; but in several cases local bodies declined to pay the higher salaries earned by their medical officers on passing the departmental examination, and applied for the services of men of lower grades. The question of the precise limits of the liability of local bodies in such cases is now under the consideration of Government. During the year the Secretary of State granted an important concession to supernumerary Assistant Surgeons by ruling that supernumerary service would count towards leave and pension.

3. Returns have been received from 229 out of the 230 dispensaries of the Province, and the following table compares the amount of work done in them during 1884 and 1883:—

The total number of dispensaries which received in-door patients was 132 against 130 in the previous year.

4. Of the 229 dispensaries, 50 were visited by the Civil Surgeons daily or frequently, four more than four times during the year, eleven four times, thirty-two three times, seventy-two twice, forty-one once only, seventeen were not inspected at all, and no information was furnished of the remaining two dispensaries Of the seventeen not inspected at all, the Lieutenant-Governor regrets to notice that eleven were in the district of the 24-Pergunnahs, and the omission requires the attention of the Head of the Department. The Inspector-General observes:—"The inspection reports have been carefully drawn up, and are closely searching in their interrogations. They show, on the whole, a fairly satisfactory state of things. I observe a considerable interest evoked in sanitary matters, which is a healthy sign, and one which it is to be hoped Civil Surgeons will continue to encourage."

5. The following table shows the number of patients treated in 1884 and the previous seven years, and the ratio of mortality among in patients:—

	In-patients treated.	Out-patients treated	Total.	Mortality among in-patients per cent.
1877	23,9[illegible]4	875,651	899,[illegible]	17·34
1878	28,473	927,781	956,256	20·01
1879	21,847	86[illegible]	89[illegible],812	17·[illegible]8
1880	23,507	888,095	911,602	16·17
1881	23,111	94[illegible]	970,[illegible]8	15·8
1882	23,468	934,155	957,623	15·75
1883	22,108	[illegible]	938,[illegible]	14·13
1884	2[illegible],077	966,575	990,632	14·7[illegible]

The total number of sick attending the dispensaries, as recorded during the year, was larger than that of any previous year in the list. There was an increase of 52,411 patients, as compared with the number treated in 1883. The Inspector-General attributes this mainly to greater care in recording entries, in consequence of more attentive inspections, and does not think it probable that the attendance of patients was actually larger, owing to the increasing competition of private practitioners. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to learn that duly qualified medical men are establishing themselves in private practice throughout the country, and that "the majority may be said to be gaining a fair and honourable livelihood by the exercise of their profession." This is no doubt, as the Inspector-General calls it, "a healthful outcome of our medical educational system." The object of that system was not merely to secure a constant supply of subordinate medical officers for the Government service, but also to raise the standard of medical knowledge and encourage the practice of medicine and surgery on established scientific principles. That private practitioners, possessing the necessary qualifications, should be able to compete successfully with public medical charities, is a satisfactory result; and the Lieutenant-Governor will gladly welcome any diminution in the number of patients treated at these charities, which can be unmistakeably proved to be caused by such competition.

6. The total income and expenditure of the dispensaries during the year are shown in the following table :—

Cash balance on 31st December 1884	51,636	15	4

The opening balance on 1st January 1884, as shown above, is less by Rs. 2,514 than the closing balance of the previous year, as given in that year's report. The difference is explained to be due to the closure of four dispensaries, to deficits found in the funds of three dispensaries, and to the readjustment of the accounts of one dispensary.

7. The total receipts from Government amounted to Rs. 18,651 in 1884, against Rs 39,511 in 1883, Rs 41,269 in 1882, and Rs. 1,06,384 in 1881. Out of the Rs. 18,651, the sum of Rs. 5,761 was contributed to municipal dispensaries After deduction, however, of the cost of registers and forms, and of diet in police cases, the contribution towards municipal dispensaries amounted to Rs. 3,106 against Rs. 22,834 in 1883. Of this, Rs. 3,032 represents salaries of medical officers, and Rs. 74 two small grants for repairs. The Government contribution towards dispensaries that are not municipal institutions amounted to Rs. 12,890, against Rs. 14,494 in 1883, thus showing a decrease of Rs. 1,604.

8. The receipts from local sources other than municipalities amounted to Rs. 35,906 against Rs. 44,672 in the previous year. Of this, municipal dispensaries received Rs. 9,340. The amount of subscriptions collected from Europeans was Rs 16,483 and from natives Rs. 1,11,086 Of these subscriptions, Rs. 47,436 were paid in aid of municipal dispensaries, and Rs. 80,133 in aid of other institutions The corresponding figures for 1883 were Rs. 55,742 and Rs. 80,480 As compared with the preceding year, there was thus a falling off in the amount of subscriptions given to municipal dispensaries to the extent of Rs. 8,306. This decrease is probably attributable partly to subscriptions being withdrawn by individuals under the impression that the dispensaries should be supported by municipal funds, and partly to the crediting of subscriptions to the general municipal revenues instead of keeping them separate in the accounts. The amount received by the sale of securities and withdrawal of deposits was Rs. 15,769, against Rs. 15,623 in 1883. Government securities belonging to dispensaries, vested in municipalities, were sold to the extent of Rs. 4,800. The question whether such sales can be effected by municipalities without the sanction of Government was under consideration during the year; and it was decided that the sanction of Government is necessary in each case. The interest on investments amounted to Rs. 27,914 against Rs. 27,911 in 1883. The amount contributed by municipalities was Rs 1,16,766 against Rs. 1,23,057 in 1883, showing a decrease of Rs. 6,291 attributable to a better adjustment of accounts.

The gross expenditure on dispensaries, exclusive of the amounts invested, was Rs. 3,49,712 against Rs. 3,60,347 in 1883, thus showing a decrease of Rs. 10,635. Medical stores were obtained from the Government Store Department and from private druggists. Of the 227 dispensaries whose accounts were received, 170 obtained their supplies from private sources. The cost of diet was Rs. 38,893 against Rs. 33,608 in the previous year, and this increase is attributable to the increase in the daily average number of in-patients. The average cost of each diet varied from two annas nine pies to seven pies.

RESOLUTION ON THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE EXCISE DEPARTMENT FOR THE YEAR 1884-85.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT—EXCISE.

Darjeeling, the 9th November 1885.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Board's Report on the Administration of the Excise Department for 1884-85.

THE Report of the Commission appointed to enquire into the system of excise on country spirits, to which reference was made in the Resolution recorded last year, engaged the attention of Government during the year under review. It has been pointed out by the Commission that a great deal of the increase which has taken place in the consumption of spirit is due to the operation of social, moral, and religious changes among the people, and to the increase in the purchasing power of the consuming classes, but that drinking has also been much encouraged by the cheapening of liquor and the facilities which have been afforded for procuring it. The report shows that the preventible causes of increase have resulted, not from any inherent defect in the outstill system as applicable to the province at large, but from errors in administration which can be corrected; that the central distillery system is unsuited to rural tracts; that during the prevalence of this system there was illicit distillation outside, and fraud and peculation inside, the sudder distilleries; and that, while there was demoralization among those concerned in the liquor traffic and those employed to supervise them, innocent persons suffered grievous hardship and annoyance at the hands of the preventive establishment. For the province at large the Commission recommend the maintenance of the outstill system with certain modifications, and the re-establishment of central distilleries where there is a large drinking population in a comparatively small and well-defined area, and where there is a reasonable probability of an effective supervision by a supervising agency which can itself be supervised. They find that these conditions are only satisfied in the cites of Patna, Gya, Arrah, Chupra, Bettiah, Mozufferpore, Durbhunga, Monghyr with Jamalpore, Bhagulpore, Moorshedabad with Berhampore, Burdwan and Dacca; and the sudder distillery system has therefore, with the sanction of the Lieutenant-Governor, been already introduced into these towns, with the exception of Patna, Arrah and Mozufferpore, where, owing to the want of suitable buildings, the introduction of the system has been deferred till 1886-87. As regards other towns, the Commission are in favour of the maintenance of the outstill system, being of opinion that in these places the evils of monopoly can be guarded against, while it would not be possible to secure the agency required to guard against the dangers and evils inherent in the central distillery system. They propose, however, that manufacture should not be permitted within the limits of the towns, but that a site should in each case be acquired and enclosed for the manufacture of spirit outside the inhabited part of the town, and that no still should be allowed to work except in this enclosure. With regard to shops, they suggest that the Collector should be required to notify to the Municipal Commissioners the sites selected by him; that should the Commissioners object to any, the Collector should carefully consider their objections; and if he should not agree with them, should refer the matter to the Commissioner of the Division for decision, pending which he should not allow the proposed shops to be opened on the sites objected to. The report also embraces inter alia proposals for the limitation of the aggregate capacity of the outstills in each district, and of the aggregate capacity of the fermenting vessels used in each outstill, the fixing of rates of duty for each district, the regulation of the number of stills, the selection of sites, and the establishment of a system of standard metal stills, registered and stamped, when the capacity exceeds ten seers.

These proposals have been generally approved by the Lieutenant-Governor, and the Board have been asked to submit a detailed report on the several recommendations of the Commission, after consulting selected local officers and inviting the opinion of public bodies and Associations throughout Bengal. This report has not yet been received, but some of the recommendations of the Commission have already been carried out, and the Lieutenant-Governor has sanctioned the establishments which the Board considered necessary for the work of initiating the proposed change.

As the Lieutenant-Governor intends to deal with the whole question on the receipt of the Board's views, he will confine himself in the present Resolution to an examination of the Board's annual report.

2. The following statement shows the total excise revenue and charges for the province during 1884-85 :—

Judging from the results shown in the two foregoing tables it would appear that there was a falling off of Rs. 3,74,203 in the receipts during the year under review as compared with the previous year. This decrease is not, however, real, as appears from the following passage in the report :—

"On financial grounds, and for purposes of accounts, it has been the practice to show, as the excise revenue for the year, all sums actually realized and credited to Government between the 1st April and 31st March. The figures so obtained do not and cannot correctly represent the actual results of the excise administration. Leaving arrears out of the question, the figures frequently include advance payments which do not strictly belong to the year to which the report refers, the inclusion of which may entirely alter, from an administrative point of view, the aspect of the excise operations for the year. It seldom happens that the advance fees of one year counterbalance those of another. Even if this were the case, it is possible by late settlements one year that the advances both of the current year and of the subsequent year may be credited to the current year's receipts, thus swelling the receipts of that year by one-third of the revenue derivable, say, from country spirits. Between this extreme and that of the year which, by a similar mishap, is deprived of advance credits altogether, the results may oscillate. What is wanted for administrative purposes is a comparison between the revenue derived from the operations of one year and that of another year. To arrive at these results under the present system of accounts it is necessary to add to the actual realizations the advance, when that advance has already been paid and credited prior to 31st March, taking care to deduct as much of the following year's advance as may similarly have been credited to the year under examination."

The Commissioners of Divisions were accordingly requested by the Board to furnish "revised figures for the general table showing the total excise revenue, as well as the revenue obtained from country spirits," on the principle above described. The Board explain that, "owing to want of time, it was not possible in dealing with the reports for 1884-85 to apply similar corrections to the remaining tables." Corrected figures have been furnished by the Commissioners, and the results are embodied in the following table supplied by the Board:—

Divisions.	1883-84.	1884-85.	Increase.	Decrease.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Burdwan	10,50,044	10,53,602	3,558	....
Presidency	25,92,717	27,92,558	1,99,841
Rajshahye	6,47,130	6,31,994	......	15,136
Dacca	7,01,038	7,36,109	35,071	.....
Chittagong	3,00,687	2,98,313	... ..	2,374
Patna	27,64,548	25,67,027	... ..	1,97,521
Bhagulpore	11,81,432	11,58,151	..	23,281
Orissa	4,97,224	5,10,593	13,369	...
Chota Nagpore	6,28,979	5,90,851	... .	38,128
Total ...	1,03,63,799	1,03,39,198	... ..	24,601

These figures show that there has been a net decrease of only Rs. 24,601 instead of the very large decrease of Rs. 3,74,203, as shown in the two preceding tables. The districts which show considerable decrease are Gya (Rs. 1,55,120), 24-Pergunnahs (Rs. 23,705), Hazareebagh (Rs. 22,084), Sarun (Rs. 17,486), Lohardugga (Rs. 13,313), Chumparun (Rs. 11,176), Burdwan (Rs. 10,487), and Moorshedabad (Rs. 9,906); while the most marked improvement occurred in Calcutta (Rs. 2,23,862), Durbhunga (Rs. 15,192), Dacca (Rs. 14,477), Midnapore (Rs. 13,531), Pooree (Rs. 13,003), Backergunge (Rs. 11,531), Nuddea (Rs. 9,797), and Mymensingh (Rs. 9,206). The incidence of revenue per 100 of population was highest in the Presidency (Rs. 33), Patna (Rs. 17), Burdwan (Rs. 14), Bhagulpore (Rs. 14), Orissa (Rs. 13), and Chota Nagpore (Rs. 13) Divisions; and lowest in the Rajshahye, Dacca, and Chittagong Divisions, where it amounted to Rs. 8.

3. The total number of shops licensed for the sale of Country Spirits was 4,424 against 4,614 in 1883-84: 479 were licensed under the sudder distillery system, and 3,945 were licensed under the outstill system, against 481 and 4,133 respectively in the previous year. The revenue according to actual realizations, as exhibited in the second table in the preceding paragraph, shows a decrease of Rs. 3,67,520, but, as already explained, these figures do not correctly represent the results of the excise administration. If the advance payments are adjusted, the proper amount of decrease is only Rs. 1,12,991 compared with the actuals of the previous year. The heaviest falling off occurred in Gya (Rs. 1,52,058), Patna (Rs. 31,645), Sarun (Rs. 30,635), Hazaribagh (Rs. 21,299), and 24-Pergunnahs (Rs. 23,237); and the largest increases in Calcutta (Rs. 1,28,114), Durbhunga (Rs. 19,920), Mozufferpore (Rs. 12,281), and Nuddea (Rs. 9,672). The Board attribute the large decrease in Gya, Patna, and Sarun to "inconsiderate measures taken for reducing the number of shops." In Hazaribagh the decrease is ascribed to poor crops and high prices of food-grains, and in the 24-Pergunnahs to the abolition of all country spirit shops within the cantonment limits of Barrackpore and Dum-Dum The large increase in Calcutta is not real. Fresh settlements for the three years 1884-85 to 1886-87 were made in March 1884, and the two months advance fees have been credited to the year 1884-85; whereas the advance fees paid in March 1881 at the last triennial settlements were credited to the year 1880-81. The increase in Nuddea is attributed to the improved condition of the lower classes of the people, who are the principal consumers of spirits, while the increase in Mozufferpore and Durbhunga is unexplained.

4. The receipts under the head of Rum fell from Rs. 1,14,576 in 1883-84 to Rs. 98,707 in the year under review, the number of wholesale licenses being 23 against 24, and of retail licenses being 93 against 103 in the previous year. The total quantity of rum of local manufacture passed for consumption was 10,314 against 13,882 gallons. The falling off in receipts is due to the displacement of this liquor. not only by the Shahjehanpore rum, but by rum from coast ports— Hong-Kong, Perang, and Singapore—as well as to importations of cheap brandies from foreign countries.

5. The revenue from imported Spirits and Wines, which is represented by license fees, rose from Rs. 2,00,795 to Rs. 2,28,218, notwithstanding the fact that there was a decrease of 35 in the number of licenses granted during the year. The more extensive use of imported liquor by the higher classes of natives is said to be the cause of the increase in the receipts.

6. There was a decrease of 320 and 227 in the number of licenses for the sale of fermented and unfermented Tari respectively. The revenue, however, shows a net increase of Rs. 10,672, which occurred chiefly in Hooghly and the 24-Pergunnahs. The increase in Hooghly is said to be due to the settlement of shops in groups, and in the 24-Pergunnahs to high prices which led the lower classes to have resort to tari instead of country spirits.

7. Puchwai was sold in 28 districts against 26 in the previous year. The number of licenses fell from 2,259 to 2,168, the revenue realized being Rs. 1,58,820 against Rs. 1,83,054. By far the largest decrease occurred in Burdwan (Rs. 10,722), and is ascribed to failure of crops, which raised the price of rice, the raw material of puchwai.

8. The extent of Ganja cultivation depends chiefly on the profit which the crop yields from year to year. Thus the crop of 1883-84 yielded a good outturn, which caused a fall in the prices, and this led to a decrease in the area under cultivation during the year under review. The crop was, moreover, injuriously affected by deficient rainfall in November and December, the outturn being 7,076 maunds against 8,982 maunds in the previous year. The wholesale price of flat ganja ranged between Rs. 6 and Rs. 35 against Rs. 10 and Rs. 25, and that of round ganja between Rs. 8 and Rs. 40 against Rs. 12 and Rs. 35. There was a decrease in the number of shops from 3,298 to 3,196, in the quantity consumed from 5,881 maunds to 5,798 maunds, and in the revenue from duty from Rs 11,28,937 to Rs. 11,25,183; while the receipts from license fees rose from Rs. 8,14,773 to Rs. 8,62,417.

9. The number of licenses issued for the sale of excise Opium shows a decrease of 83 as compared with the figures of the previous year. There was likewise a decrease of 42 maunds in consumption, and a decrease of Rs. 21,549 in the revenue realized. The receipts from license fees increased by Rs. 10,606; while the receipts from the sale proceeds of opium decreased by Rs. 32,155. By far the largest decrease in revenue occurred in Calcutta (Rs. 14,566), Rungpore (Rs. 7,324), and Hooghly (Rs. 4,581). The stoppage of the surreptitious export of Chundu, which is a preparation of opium, contributed to the decrease in revenue under the head of duty in Calcutta; while the decrease in Rungpore is ascribed to the reduced number of shops and the non-settlement of some shops proposed for the current year. In Hooghly the decrease in revenue followed an apparent diminution in consumption; but a large quantity of contraband opium is believed to have been consumed in the district, where smuggling is carried on to a considerable extent. There is also reason to believe that the activity shown last year for the suppression of the use of contraband opium in the Patna Division was not maintained in the year under review. The Lieutenant-Governor must beg the special attention of the Board to this subject.

10. An important seizure was made by the police in Serampore, in which over 12 seers of contraband opium were confiscated. The smuggler was an old offender, who had been punished in 1882. He has again been convicted and punished with imprisonment and fine. Another seizure was also made by the police in Calcutta, in which about two maunds of opium have been confiscated. The smugglers have been arrested and punished.

11. The number of arrests made under the penal provisions of the Excise laws during the year was 4,228 against 4,092 in 1883-84. Of the persons arrested, 3,721 were other than licensed vendors, and 507 were vendors who had committed breaches of licenses. The number of convictions was 3,576 or 84 per cent., against 3,386 or 82 per cent. in the previous year, and of these the police are credited with 2,597 against 2,187, and excise officers with 979 against 821. On the whole, the returns show increased activity on the part of both police and excise officers in the detection of breaches of the law. The failure of the police in detecting excise cases in Tipperah is prominently brought to notice by the Board, and the attention of the District Superintendent has been drawn to this matter. The fines imposed during the year amounted to Rs. 44,288, of which only Rs. 35,406 were realized. Of this amount Rs. 30,736 were distributed as ordinary, and Rs. 1,862 as special, rewards. The rewards do not appear everywhere to have been promptly distributed, and this was notably the case in Gya, Mozufferpore, Chumparun, Pooree, Hazareebagh, Lohardugga, and Manbhoom. No reason has been assigned for the non-payment of the rewards in these districts, and the Lieutenant-Governor must request the Board to call for an explanation from the local officers on the subject. A reward in such cases loses its efficacy if it is long delayed.

12. The names of the officers selected by the Board for special mention will be noted in the Appointment Department. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are again due to the Board for their successful administration of the Excise Department during the year.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

J. WARE EDGAR,

Offg. Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

Rainfall, Weather, and State and Prospects of the Crops.

METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL SUMMARY OF THE PROVINCE OF BENGAL FOR THE MONTH OF OCTOBER 1885.

OCTOBER is the month in which the south-west monsoon, which has been blowing since the commencement of June, practically ceases, and its place is taken by the north-east monsoon, which slowly and very gradually establishes itself over the province. The greater part of the month thus shows distinct transition conditions, and in normal years, while at the commencement of the month a feeble south-west monsoon may be blowing over the province, during the middle of the month, these winds gradually retreat, and by the end of the month usually a feeble north-east monsoon establishes itself over the province.

The change of the one monsoon to the other is sometimes represented as a kind of struggle between the two opposing wind currents, and with the final triumph of the stronger of the two. This, however, appears to be an incorrect way of viewing the action, and it is clear that on the one hand by the gradual and steady effacement of the conditions which brought about the south-west monsoon, or in fact it might almost be said with the tendency to the reversal of these conditions which manifests itself in October, the south-west monsoon current necessarily becomes more and more feeble, or is subject to a kind of decay.

On the other hand, temperature usually commences to fall rather rapidly in Northern India, and the main effect of the decreasing temperature appears to be to produce a considerable amount of descending air motion and a rising barometer, which is followed by the setting in of northerly winds. As therefore the south-west monsoon winds gradually retreat southwards, they are followed up by the northerly wind current, but over the area of interaction between the two currents light variable winds and calms will prevail. The point of interaction retreats southwards in front of the southerly winds, and as Bengal is the area over which this interaction takes place during a great part of October, for a very considerable part of the month light airs and calms prevail.

The time and character of the retreat of the south-west monsoon current will almost certainly depend on the strength with which it has been blowing, and with a weak current it will probably retreat early and quickly, while with a comparatively strong current the monsoon will influence Bengal for a longer time, and rain will continue later than usual, and the retreat of the current will be slow over the Bay, and thus the north-east monsoon conditions will be rather later than usual in establishing themselves over the province. The rainfall due to the continuance of the south-west monsoon conditions over Bengal probably, in normal years, ceases about the end of the first week or ten days of October, though, even after this time, local rainfall may occur, particularly near the sea coast, probably due to local sea winds or irregular local action. After this period any rainfall which may occur is almost always due to the action of cyclonic storms, which may be either small or of great magnitude. Such storms are apparently formed during the gradual retreat of the south-west monsoon, all the conditions in October being usually very favourable to the production of such storms, as pressure becomes nearly uniform round the Bay, winds are feeble, and rainfall is to a great extent absent from the land area. These storms when formed sometimes move in a northerly direction and pass over certain parts of Bengal while on the other hand such storms frequently move in a westerly direction and cross the Coromandel or Madras coast. The storms formed in October are generally considerably larger, more violent and generally more influential than the storms of the rainy season proper, and the conditions are more favourable to the formation of large rather than small storms, inasmuch as the storms have a longer time to generate and to intensify. It is of course in October that conditions are occasionally favourable to the formation of the extremely large and intense cyclones which only occur at intervals of several years. In the event of one of these cyclonic storms passing over a part of Bengal, then the districts in its path will receive excessive rainfall, and those which are simply affected by it only will receive correspondingly smaller amounts of rain. When also these cyclonic storms cross the west coast, they generally cause slightly disturbed weather conditions over a considerable part of Bengal, and these are frequently followed by light rain.

The rainfall of October is then due to two distinct causes, and as the second cause is from its nature an extremely variable and uncertain one, it will be seen that the average distribution of the rainfall in October must be more irregular than in the previous monsoon months, and also that in particular years the actual distribution of the rainfall may be of extremely capricious character. In the case too of the rainfall which is brought up by the continuance of the south-west monsoon conditions, as the period at which these conditions cease varies very considerably from year to year, so also not only will the distribution of the rainfall be irregular, but also the total amount received will be very variable. The normal distribution of the rainfall is so irregular that it can only be briefly described with very approximate accuracy. It was thus described in the report for October 1884:—"The average rainfall in Behar (with the exception of the Purneah and North Bhagulpore districts) and Chutia Nagpur (excluding the districts bordering on South-West Bengal) varies from two and a half to four inches. The amount is least in the Gya district. It varies between four and six inches in the case of the previously excepted districts, the western districts of Orissa and the whole of Bengal, excluding the Julpigoree district and a narrow strip extending along the coast, and bounded on the north by a curved line running through Cuttack, Jajpore, Diamond Harbour, Port Canning, Chandpore and Chittagong. Over this long narrow area, the width of which varies from 20 to 60 miles, the average rainfall exceeds 6 inches. It is absolutely greatest at False Point, for which it is 11·4 inches."

Meteorological summary of the month.—The meterological conditions which obtained over the province at the close of September were very nearly normal for the period. As is usually the case at the close of September and beginning of October, the south-west monsoon current blowing over Bengal commenced to slacken rapidly, rainfall began largely to diminish in quantity, while the area over which the rain was falling considerably decreased. On the 1st of October, however, pressure had fallen for two days in succession, and there were indications of the formation of a very feeble area of low pressure over parts of South Bengal, and these indications were rather more pronounced on the following day. Winds also showed a tendency to circulate cyclonically round the area of low pressure, and as the result of these slightly disturbed conditions, rain became decidedly general in all districts except Chutia Nagpur and parts of South Behar, the rain being heaviest in South-West Bengal. This slightly disturbed condition shortly disappeared, and for the next period of about eight or ten days the meteorological conditions were again those of the transition period above referred to. Winds were light and rather variable in direction, pressure was high, temperature began to fall, and the night temperatures in particular decreased rapidly. Humidity and cloud proportion became much smaller, and rain was practically absent in all the districts in the plains, except on the 9th instant, when owing to slightly disturbed conditions a few general showers again fell.

These transition conditions continued over Bengal up till about the 13th, when the weather in the southern districts became decidedly affected by the formation of a small cyclonic storm in the Bay, and its subsequent advance in a northerly direction. The small storm can be traced back probably as far as the 10th, when pressure was falling somewhat rapidly off Madras, and the wind directions along this coast showed a tendency to cyclonic circulation. The small depression was probably forming on this day, and its existence was shown by a fairly strong indraught at the entrance of the Bay, but at this time, and throughout the whole of its existence, the storm remained comparatively feeble. The disturbed conditions continued almost unaltered off Madras on the 11th, and then the storm apparently moved in a northerly direction almost parallel to the coast line, and on the 12th the centre was off Vizagapatam. The depression on this day had distinctly deepened, but the winds at the coast stations continued comparatively feeble. On the 13th, the small storm was nearly opposite to Gopalpore, and on this day it slightly intensified, and by the following morning (the 14th) it was to the east of False Point, and was still advancing in a north-easterly direction. As the storm was thus advancing near the Sandheads, at daylight on the 14th orders were issued to the stations in the Hooghly to hoist storm signal No. 7, indicating the probable passage of a small cyclonic storm in a northerly direction to the east of Saugor Island and to the west of Chittagong, and from reports subsequently received, it would appear that very bad weather prevailed at the Sandheads on this day, but the wind velocities at the coast stations continued comparatively small. The small storm continued its north-easterly advance, but pressure commenced to rise rapidly, and in its approach towards the land the depression began to fill up, and by the 15th it had become a shallow depression only, attended with light winds, and it was passing over the land area between Saugor Island and Chittagong. On this day, therefore, at about midday, the storm signals were lowered.

Winds, however, still continued to circulate cyclonically round the head of the Bay, even after the barometric depression over the land had disappeared. A peculiar feature of this storm was the extreme slowness of its movement, and the comparative lightness of the winds at the coast stations. Over the sea area, however, probably winds were strong, and, judging from the movements of the upper strata of the atmosphere, the indraught towards the centre of the storm was rather intense. Another point in connection with the storm was the comparative absence of heavy rain, and it would appear from theory that this is precisely what might be expected in a storm like that above described. On the 16th instant, these disturbed conditions had almost entirely passed away, and weather was fine all over Bengal, and also apparently over the whole Bay.

During the continuance of the above conditions and the advance of the storm, weather in Orissa, South-West and East Bengal also became disturbed, and light rain showers become comparatively frequent in these districts; but in Chutia Nagpur, North and South Behar and North Bengal, which were practically not under the influence of these disturbed conditions, weather was fine and rainfall was practically absent.

On the 17th instant, however, pressure began to fall rapidly near the Pegu coast, and strong winds commenced to blow at the stations in the south of the Bay. At the same time winds at the stations round the Bengal coast showed distinct indraught towards the Bay. On the following day pressure commenced to rise at the eastern stations of the Bay and to fall at the western stations, and strong winds continued to blow at Diamond Island and in the south of the Bay. On the 19th, pressure again rose at the stations in the north and east of the Bay, and it was falling at the central stations on the west coast; strong winds were still blowing in the east and south, and there was a distinct cyclonic circulation over a large part of the Bay, so that on this day the indications clearly pointed either to the formation of a small cyclonic storm in the centre of the Bay, or to the first advance of the monsoon towards the west coast. During the whole of this period, weather in Bengal was almost uniformly fine, and with the exception of light showers in Orissa and in the hills of North Bengal, the province was rainless. Winds were light and variable, and temperature was high in all districts.

On the 20th instant the conditions as above described, which existed in the centre of the Bay, became further developed, and it was clear that it was not a cyclonic storm, but simply a diffused depression, and that a burst of rainfall was advancing towards the coast of the Circars, and on the 20th and following two days rather heavy rain was reported on this and on the Ganjam coast, while lighter rain fell in connection with this disturbance over the whole of Orissa, Chutia Nagpur and South-West Bengal. At the same time the disturbed conditions advanced apparently in a northerly direction, and in addition to giving general rain in the last-named districts, they became more diffused and gave light rain over East Bengal and North Bengal and over parts of South Behar.

With the gradual advance of this diffused depression over Bengal skies of course clouded over, humidity increased very rapidly, temperature, and particularly the night or minimum temperature, increased quickly, and the south-west monsoon conditions in a feeble form again established themselves temporarily over a large part of the province. The burst of rainfall along the west coast can scarcely be considered a true commencement of the Madras rains, but rather as a feeble, diffused and preliminary action, which might under other circumstances have generated a rather severe storm. As it was, there were decidedly disturbed conditions which existed along the whole west coast and extended far into Bengal, the centre of greatest barometric depression, (which was, however, particularly shallow,) being about Vizagapatam, while the centre of heaviest rainfall was at Coconada, which received nearly eleven inches of rain in two days, while Gopalpore also received nearly five inches, and on the 21st alone Vizagapatam registered 2·50 inches. During the formation of the depression, and owing to the indraught towards it, up to the 20th, rainfall was practically absent over Bengal, but from that date up till the 24th or 25th rainfall was fairly general in all districts except Behar, though a few showers penetrated even as far as this district. The rainfall due to this depression of course was most general and heaviest and lasted over the largest period in Orissa, though East Bengal also received some heavy showers

From the 25th up to the close of the month conditions became almost wholly those of the north-east monsoon, skies became almost cloudless, winds were northerly and north-westerly, humidity rapidly decreased and became very low, temperature reduced very rapidly, and so rapid was the reduction of the night temperatures that at some station a difference of nearly 10° was recorded between two consecutive nights, and lastly rainfall was almost entirely absent, the only rain reported during the last four days of the month being a slight shower at Darjeeling. At the close of the month, too, the cold weather conditions in Bengal were being strengthened and intensified by the setting in of the Madras rains, the indraught towards which of course caused a steady northerly current to flow over Bengal.

The variations of pressure from the normal during the month have not been of any great importance, and except where the conditions were influenced by the formation of the two depressions above alluded to, the variations were only of slight oscillatory character. The variation of the mean pressure of the month from the normal is comparatively small, being an excess of only 0·024″. Except at Gya, where pressure has been in very slight defect, and at Saugor Island, where the excess pressure is less than one-hundredth of an inch the distribution of the excess pressure is fairly regular, though the district which shows the largest excess is East Bengal, where it amounts to 0·04″.

Temperature variations usually in October are very considerable, and generally there is a steady decrease throughout the month. This year, however, the temperature instead of steadily falling during the whole month has presented two periods in which it fell with extreme rapidity, and two other periods in which temperature, instead of falling in most cases, increased perceptibly. The beginning of the month, as described under the meteorological summary, was a period of rapid reduction of temperature. This was followed by the formation of the cyclonic storm off the Madras coast, and its advance in a northerly direction up to the head of the Bay. Owing to the cloudy, rainy weather, and the setting in of moist winds which followed, the reduction of the temperature entirely ceased. After the disappearance of this storm, which was followed by a few days fine weather, night temperatures again began to fall, but with the setting in of moist sea winds which accompanied the westward advance of the second diffused depression, again the fall of temperature ceased. During the last five or six days of the month, as described under the meteorological summary, the fall of temperature was again very rapid. For the whole month temperature has been in all districts above the normal, the average excess temperature over the whole province has been about 1·2°, but the excess has been mainly confined to Behar, Chutia Nagpur and Orissa, where the excess approached 2°, while in East and South-West Bengal the mean temperature has been nearly normal.

The south-west monsoon current, as above stated, became extremely feeble from the very commencement of October, and thus the rainfall from this cause was smaller than usual. The two depressions which have been formed in the Bay also have not travelled into Bengal, but have only generally influenced the weather in the province, and have therefore only brought up comparatively small amounts of rain. The rainfall for the month has consequently been in defect in all districts, and as neither of the above unsettled conditions reached as far as Behar, the rainfall in this district in particular has been excessively scanty. The district which has received the largest amount of rain has been East Bengal, where the average fall has been 5·14 inches, while the normal for the month is 5 71 inches. The actual fall is therefore about 90 per cent. of the normal. South-West Bengal reports an average fall of 3 30 inches against a normal fall of 4·56 inches, and has thus received 72 per cent. of the normal. In Chutia Nagpur an average fall of 1·95 inches is reported against the normal 2·82 inches, which represents 69 per cent of the normal, and in Orissa the actual fall has averaged 4 02 inches, while the normal is 6·52 inches, and the percentage received becomes 62. In the case of the other three districts very deficient falls have been recorded: thus North Bengal reports an average fall of 2·18 inches, while the normal fall is 5·30 inches, and thus the actual is only 41 per cent. of the normal. In South Behar 0·66 inch of rain is reported, the normal being 3·27 inches, and thus the actual is only 20 per cent. of the normal; and finally North Behar, during the whole month, has averaged only 0·45 inch of rain, while the normal fall is 3 63 inches, and therefore this district has received the extremely small proportion of 12 per cent. of the normal, or less than one-eighth of the normal quantity.

The distribution of rainfall in October is, however, as previously stated, decidedly irregular, and this year has been no exception to the rule. In the Orissa Division it is the Balasore district which is most largely in defect, and such stations as Bhuddruck and Jellasore have received less than one inch of rain during the month, while the normal at these stations is nearly five inches. In South-West Bengal which, as before stated, has on the whole received a decidedly defective fall, the district of Nuddea has received a fall in excess of the normal, and the districts of Midnapur, Howrah, and Khoolna have only received about half the usual quantity. In the Baukoora district to, Anda, Gangajalghati and Sonamukhi have received almost no rain. In East Bengal, Noakholly has received a fall largely in excess of the normal, and Furreedpore and Mymensingh falls slightly in excess. In North Bengal the district of Julpigoree has received a fall in slight excess of the normal, but on the other hand Maldah and Dinagepore districts report falls less than a tenth of the normal, while in the former district Chanchal, Gajol and Sibgunge report absolutely no rain for the month. In North Behar all the districts are so largely in defect that it is scarcely possible to single out any one in preference to others; but in the Purneah district Gandwara reported no rain, in the Durbhunga district Bahera received no rain, again Mozufferpore recorded no rain, while Gopalgunge in the Sarun district also received no rain. In South Behar the defective rainfall was least marked in the Southal Pergunnahs district while in the Shahabad and Gya districts most of the stations were rainless, and in South Behar generally the following stations reported no rain:—Barrh, Jamui, Bhagulpore, Kolgong and Simra. In Chutia Nagpur, while the Lohardugga and Singbhoom districts have generally received good rain, and in some cases falls above the normal, in Manbhoom the fall is defective, but in this division the distribution is fairly regular, as every station has reported more or less rain.

The following table gives full data for the comparison of the actual and the normal rainfall of the month of October in all districts of the Province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance or weight being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the weekly and monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past 15 years. The second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district. The third column expresses the ratio of the actual district rainfall of the past month to the normal rainfall as a percentage. The fourth column gives the same information as the third column in a slightly different form. It states as a percentage how much the district rainfall of the month varied in excess or defect from the normal rainfall, and is hence the difference between the numbers in the third column and 100.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of former years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 0°8 lower; and, finally, the thermometer, which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards, is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

ALEXANDER PEDLER,
For Meteorological Reporter to the Govt. of India.

N.B.—In the monthly abstract for September 1885 in the last line but 3 read 'equal' for "about ·6 higher."

CALCUTTA, the 9th November 1885.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 6TH OF NOVEMBER 1885.

At the close of the previous week tho conditions in Bengal were typical of the north-east monsoon. Skies were practically cloudless, temperature was falling rapidly, humidity was low, and a steady northerly current was blowing over the greater part of the province. This northerly wind current had been rather intensified by the apparent setting in of the rains along the west coast of the Bay, all stations from Masulipatam down to Galle having received fairly heavy rain. The heavy rainfall along the Madras coast suddenly ceased at the commencement of the week under review. At the same time very strong winds continued to blow at Galle, showing that weather was unsettled in the south of the Bay, and on Monday, the 2nd of November, it became evident that a cyclonic storm was approaching the west coast, and that it would cross the Coromandel coast between Masulipatam and Madras Pressure fell rapidly with the approach of the storm, the fall at Madras being about 0·2″ in the 24 hours from tho 1st to the 2nd of November. The small cyclonic storm apparently crossed the coast about midway between the above-named stations during the evening of the 2nd of November, and from the telegraphic reports received from Simla, it would appear that the storm marched across the entire peninsula without breaking up.

The storm was a large though not an intense one, and it affected the whole of the stations on the west coast, giving heavy rain to the central stations, and lighter rain to the others. Strong winds amounting to a fresh gale were also reported on the evening of the 2nd from the central stations.

Rain, therefore, was received at almost all stations in Orissa on the 3rd and 4th instant, the southern stations receiving heavy rain and the northern stations light rain. With the advance of this very large disturbance across the west coast, weather in Bengal also became unsettled ; skies clouded over rapidly, and in the southern districts they became almost practically overcast for some days. Considerable amounts of moisture also drifted over the province, and humidity and temperature rapidly rose. The northerly winds rapidly fell off in force, and winds became very light and variable. These conditions continued over the southern districts of the province, and particularly in Orissa and South-West Bengal up to the close of the week, but skies had cleared and humidity and temperature were falling in Behar, and at the northern and eastern stations in Bengal. During the continuance of these disturbed conditions a few very light showers were reported in Chutia Nagpur, and also at two or three stations in South-West Bengal and at the stations in the Darjeeling Hills, but they were of no practical importance.

The pressure changes over the province have been generally small and unimportant during the week, and usually they have been more or less of an oscillatory character. The mean pressure for the week has been distinctly above the normal, the average variation over the whole province being an excess of about 0·05″. The excess above the normal appears to have been smallest in Chutia Nagpur and South Behar, where it has been between 0·02″ and 0·03″. In Orissa the excess has been 0·04″, in East and South-West Bengal it has been 0;05″, and in North Behar about 0·07″.

Temperature was, as stated previously, comparatively low at the commencement of the week, but with the advance of the disturbed conditions over the province, night or minimum temperatures rose rapidly The day or maximum temperatures have been decidedly low during this period owing to the clouded skies which prevailed over a large part of the province, and this has very sensibly reduced the mean temperatures recorded during the week. Compared with normal temperature, all divisions, except Chutia Nagpur, have showed temperatures in defect, and in South-West Bengal and Orissa the mean defect was more than 2°.

Rainfall, as has before been stated, has been practically absent from all districts except Orissa. Behar, North and East Bengal have been absolutely rainless for the week; South-West Bengal has received an average fall of one-hundredth of an inch only, and Chutia Nagpur one of five-hundredths of an inch. Orissa, on the other hand, has received an average fall of 1·24 inches, but here the rainfall has been unevenly distributed, and thus while the Pooree district received 2·83 inches, the Cuttack district has received 1·04 inches and the Balasore district 0·31 inches.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the Province for the week ending Friday, the 6th of November 1885 :—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

MEMORANDA.

During the week ending 24th October 1885, births and deaths were registered in the principal Municipalities in Bengal, at the rates, respectively, of 24·5 and 34·0 per 1,000 of population, against 23·4 and 33·8 per 1,000, respectively, during the preceding week ending 17th October, showing an improvement in the registration of births.

2. The highest birth and death-rates were returned by the following Municipalities:—

Births.

	Ratio per mille
Darjiling	39·1
Bhagulpore	37·1
Gya	36·9
Naraingunge	33·2

Puri	33·6
Serampore	33·4
Monghyr	33·4
Chupra	30·3

3. The casualty rates from the principal diseases mentioned in the table appended to this memoranda exhibit no noticeable differences in comparison with the results of the preceding week, thus:

	Ratio per mille during the weeks ending— 24th October 1885	17th October 1885
Cholera	1·6	1·3
Small-pox	·1	·03
Fever	16·2	17·0
Bowel-complaints	6·8	6·0
Injury	·4	·5
Other causes	8·9	8·8

4. Excluding small-pox and injury, the casualties from which were high nowhere, and cholera, which proved noticeably fatal only in the Arrah town, viz. at 16·8 per 1,000 of its population, the rest of the diseases caused the highest mortality in the following Municipalities:—

Fever.

	Ratio per mille.
Purneah	38·1

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, 9th November 1885.

No. 4247.—Under instructions from the Government of India so much of the notification of the Government of Bombay, No. 1719, dated 9th May 1885, as imposed quarantine at Aden and Perim on arrivals from Calcutta, has been withdrawn

By order of His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor in Council,

J. NUGENT,
Secretary to Government.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

Bombay Castle, 9th November 1885.

No. 4248 —In exercise of the power conferred by Act I of 1870, the following Rules for quarantine against cholera have been made by the Government of Bombay, with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council: they will take effect from the 4th instant in the Port of Aden and at Perim as a temporary measure :—

I.—The Commander of every vessel, including buggalows or other native craft, arriving from Tonquin shall, before entering the harbour, indicate by signal the port from which such vessel has come.

II.—Such Commander shall not, except as hereinafter provided, allow any communication, either with the pilot boat, except orally, or with the shore, or with any other vessel or boat in the harbour.

III.—Immediately on arrival the Commander shall cause the letter R of the Commercial Signal Code to be hoisted, and shall keep the said flag flying during his stay in port or until authorized by the Health Officer to haul it down. If communication with the shore is not desired, the vessel shall anchor at such place as may be pointed out by the Port authorities, having regard to the season of the year. If communication with the shore is desired, the Health Officer shall go alongside the vessel, and, after all necessary enquiries, shall direct the Commander to take the vessel to the quarantine anchorage duly appointed and notified in that behalf by the Resident, there to remain for a period of seven days from the date of arrival, or for the shorter period prescribed in Rule IV, and undergo disinfection, which should apply as well to crew, passengers, effects, and suspectible goods.

IV.—If the Health Officer of the Port has sufficient evidence that no cases of a suspicious nature have taken place on board during the voyage, and if the vessel is besides in good hygienic condition, the duration of the quarantine will be diminished according to the following scale.—

After eight days of voyage		...	...	Six days of quarantine.
Do. nine	do.	..	...	Five do.
Do. ten	do.	...	...	Four do.
Do. eleven	do	...	...	Three do.
Do. twelve	do.	..		Two do.
Do. thirteen	do.	and upwards	...	Twenty-four hours of quarantine.

V.—If during the period a vessel is at the quarantine anchorage aforesaid any case or cases of cholera should occur on board, the said vessel shall remain in quarantine for a period of seven days from the date of the last case occurring, and be subject to all the prohibitions provided for in Rule III.

VI.—When any vessel has been placed in quarantine as aforesaid the Health Officer may direct the removal of so many of the passengers and crew as may not be suffering from illness, and whose services may not be required on board the vessel, to such particular spots as may from time to time be selected by the Resident as places of quarantine, there to remain for a period of seven days. If a case of cholera occurs among such passengers and crew during any such period, they shall remain in a place of quarantine for a period of fifteen days from the date of the occurrence of the last case of such illness.

VII.—Any mails or cargo which may be brought by any vessel so arriving shall be landed under such precautions as the Health Officer may deem necessary to prevent the spread of the disease.

VIII.—It will be the duty of the Port Officer to facilitate the conveyance to all vessels in quarantine of such supplies of provisions, stores, and other articles as may be required by those on board. Such supplies will be placed on the boats of the vessels in quarantine to be subsequently removed by members of their crews.

IX.—All vessels arriving at Aden and Perim which may have communicated with vessels coming from Tonquin shall be subjected to the same quarantine as vessels arriving at Aden and Perim from that port.

X.—All vessels which have undergone quarantine in the manner above prescribed should have the fact clearly stated on their bills of health

By order of His Excellency the Right Hon'ble the Governor in Council,

J. NUGENT,
Secretary to Government.

NOTIFICATION.

The 11th November 1885.—In modification of the notification, dated the 24th June 1884, published at page 707 of Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 25th idem, regarding the supply, within the territories under the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, of lime or lemon juice or other antiscorbutics for the use of ships in accordance with the provisions of section 6 of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1867, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to direct that the words "or by Shama Churn Datta & Co" be inserted in paragraph 2 of the notification after the words "No. 5, Beadon Street, Calcutta."

NOTICE.

The 6th November 1885.—The following draft of Rules, which it is proposed to issue under sections 21, 50 (clause 1) and 51 (clause 1) of Act VI of 1884, is published for general information. These rules will be taken into consideration on the expiry of a month from the date of their first publication in the Calcutta Gazette; and the Lieutenant-Governor will receive and give due attention to any objections or suggestions which may be made by any person within that period.

J. WARE EDGAR,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal

UNDER the powers conferred upon him by section 21 of Act VI of 1884 (the Inland Steam-vessels Act). and, with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following rules for the survey of Inland Steam-vessels:—

Time and place of survey

1. Surveys shall be made at the Ports of Calcutta, Chittagong, Patna, Cuttack, Goalundo, Kooshtea, Dehree, Khoolna, and at such other places, as may, from time to time, be declared by the Local Government to be places of survey upon due notice or application from the owner, on any day in the year, with the exception of Sundays and Government holidays, by the Surveyor or Surveyors appointed under the Act. The declarations of surveyors will be made and certificates of survey will be granted in the annexed forms on the payment of fees specified in the second Schedule annexed to the Act.

Surveyors' duties.

2. The Surveyors will be guided by the rules hereunto annexed in making their survey. In cases where two Surveyors are employed, the Engineer-Surveyor will survey the engines, boilers, and all the machinery required to be surveyed under the Act. The Ship-wright Surveyor will inspect the hull, equipments, and passenger accommodation; measure and determine the number of passengers the vessel is fit to carry, and see that the certificates of the master, mates, and engineers are such as is required by the Act; also that the lights and fog signals are in accordance with the regulations for the prevention of collisions at sea.

Notice of survey to be given.

3. Owners of steam-vessels requiring survey are requested to give the Surveyor at least three days' notice in writing when a survey is required, and are warned that, should such notice fail to be given, the Surveyor is not responsible for any delay or inconvenience which may occur in consequence.

Particulars to be given in notice.

4. This notice (which is to be preserved by the Surveyor) must state explicitly the name of the steamer to be surveyed, and the time when, and place at which, she will be ready for inspection.

Surveyors to attend at appointed time.

5. In order to prevent inconvenience and delay to the owners, the Surveyors are to be careful to be in attendance at the appointed time and place. Should they be unable to attend as required, notice should be given to the owners to that effect.

Survey if deferred.

6. Should a steamer not be ready for inspection at the time arranged, the Surveyors may make such arrangements for the subsequent survey as may be convenient to the owner or his agent. All expenses arising out of this postponement will be charged against the owner when the certificate is issued.

SURVEYORS' DECLARATIONS.

Surveyors' declarations.

7. The Surveyor's declaration under section 9 of the Act shall be made in the form hereunto annexed. The particulars required to be given in the declaration for a certificate of survey are the following, which are treated of under separate heads:—

(1) That the hull of the vessel is sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition.

(2) That the boats, life-buoys, lights, signals, compasses, and shelter for deck passengers, and the certificates of the master, engineer or engineers, engine-driver or engine-drivers, are such and in such condition as required by these rules.

(3) The time (if less than 12 months) for which the said hull and equipments will be sufficient.

(4) The limits (if any) beyond which, as regards the hull and equipments, the vessel is, in the Surveyor's judgment, not fit to ply.

(5) The number of passengers (if any) which the ship is, in the Surveyor's judgment, fit to carry, distinguishing if necessary between the respective numbers to be carried on deck and in the cabins and in different parts of the deck and cabins: such numbers to be subject to such conditions and variations according to the time of the year, the nature of the voyage, the cargo carried, and other circumstances as the case requires.

The declaration of the Surveyor as to the boilers and machinery is to contain a statement of the following particulars:—

(1) That the machinery of the vessel is sufficient for the service intended, and is in good condition.

(2) The time (12 months or less) for which such machinery will be sufficient.

(3) That the safety valves and fire hose are such and in such condition as are required by these rules.

(4) The limits of the weight to be placed on the safety valves.

(5) The limits (if any) beyond which, as regards the machinery, the vessel is, in the Surveyor's judgment, not fit to ply.

When a Surveyor is, from any reason whatever, unable to complete his declaration, an incomplete declaration should be sent to those who applied for survey as soon as possible, stating in it the reasons for not being able to fill up all the particulars under the various headings. He must take care to obliterate all the items in this declaration that he is unable to certify to as being in accordance with the Acts and regulations.

Surveyors may go on board inland steam vessels

8. Surveyors may go on board any vessel at any reasonable time for the purpose of inspecting either the certificates of the master, or engineer, or the vessel, the machinery, the boats, other equipments, or for any other purpose rendered necessary by the Act; and the owners, masters, and engineers of inland steam vessels are required by the Act to give to the Surveyors, on being requested so to do, all such information and assistance within their power as may be requisite for the purpose of making the returns required by the Act. In the performance of this part of their duties, Surveyors are to be careful to avoid impeding the duty of the vessel, or wilfully giving offence to any of the officers. If they should be hindered or obstructed by any person in the performance of their duties, they should communicate the facts without delay to the officer authorized to grant a certificate of survey for the vessel concerned.

Inspection to be made in the presence of owner, agent, or responsible person.

9. Surveyors should, if possible, make their inspections when the agent, master or chief mate, and engineer of the vessel are present. Repairs can then be required, and defects can be pointed out to the proper persons without incurring the uncertainty and delay attendant upon messages delivered to the subordinate officers. If the owners do not instruct a responsible representative to be present, the Surveyors will of course make the survey in his absence.

Statement of repairs required to be given by Surveyors.

10. In order to prevent mistakes as to the nature and extent of repairs required by the Surveyors, whenever they cannot give a declaration until repairs are effected or alterations made, a written statement of the nature and extent of the defects to be remedied or alterations required should in all cases be given to the owner or agent, whether applied for by him or not. A copy of the above should always be taken in the office Press Letter Book.

If any difference of opinion arises between the Surveyors and the owners, manufacturers, or others, or any questions are raised, the facts should at once be reported to the officer authorized to grant a certificate of survey.

Declaration not to be given without great caution.

11. Surveyors are in no case to give a declaration either for the hull, machinery, boilers, or equipments of a steamer unless they are satisfied that all the requirements of the Act have been complied with.

It is the duty of the Surveyor to satisfy himself personally regarding every detail of the survey of a vessel, and not to trust to any certificate or other document given by any person not responsible to the Government.

Short declaration when to be granted.

12. In any case in which the Surveyor has reason to believe that the hull, machinery, boilers, or equipments are not fit for so long a time as the owner has applied for, he is to grant his declaration for such shorter period as he may deem expedient, informing the owners, if necessary, of his reasons for so doing. Unless it is the docking time only that limits his declaration, in accordance with the regulations, he is not to grant a declaration for an inland steamer for a shorter period than one month. In such cases, and also in cases in which the Surveyor refuses a declaration altogether, he is to give a statement in writing of the repairs he considers necessary to enable him to grant a declaration for the time asked. By this paragraph the Surveyor is to understand that an inland steamer that is not fit for a declaration for one month is not to be deemed by him as fit to hold a certificate at all.

Surveyor to complete survey where possible, but to sign only for details surveyed.

13. It is most desirable that a Surveyor should complete the survey of a vessel in every detail when he has commenced it, and if possible, arrangements should always be made to secure this. In exceptional cases, however, when this cannot be arranged, one or more Surveyors should complete the parts of the survey left unfinished. The Surveyor who commenced the survey should not sign a declaration for any details which he has not surveyed, and for which consequently he is not prepared to hold himself personally responsible. He can only relieve himself from entire responsibility for every detail by distinctly noting on his declaration that he has been unable to attend to certain details specified by him, and in respect only of the details so specified will his claim to irresponsibility be accepted.

The Surveyor or Surveyors who attend to the details of the survey which have been left unfinished should also give declarations for the particulars they have attended to. The supplementary declaration should be attached to the main declaration.

Refusal of declarations to be notified.

14. A report should be made to the officer appointed to receive cancelled or suspended certificates of the name, port of registry, and official number of all vessels for which declarations are refused. This should be done as soon as possible after the vessel is withdrawn from survey, and full reasons for the refusal should be given.

A declaration for twelve months should not be granted whenever the Surveyor has any doubt whatever as to the efficiency of any part of the vessel, or her machinery, or equipments for such period.

EXAMINATION OF HULL, &c.

Hulls to be examined.

15. Surveyors are to determine whether the hulls of inland steam-vessels are in good condition and fit for the service for which they are intended; and they are to examine the hulls of such vessels inside once at least in every year, at such time as is most convenient to the owners; and outside on a slip or in dry dock at least once every four years.

Owner should give notice when a vessel is in dry dock.

16. Delays and inconvenience may to a great extent be prevented if notice is given by owners when a vessel, which requires a certificate, is undergoing repairs, or is in dry dock for any other purpose, as this notice might obviate the occasional necessity of re-docking a vessel at an inconvenient time. Surveyors should explain this to owners or their agents whenever an opportunity occurs.

New vessels to be surveyed before being painted or cemented.

17. A survey made only after the hull is complete, and is cemented and painted, cannot be regarded as a satisfactory survey of a new steam vessel. Surveyors should therefore decline to grant declarations for any new steamer, unless they inspected her before she was painted or cemented. Any survey made while the vessel is being built is not to interfere with the complete inspection afterwards, but is to be made solely with a view of enabling the Surveyors to form an opinion of the workmanship, material, and construction.

The bottoms of new vessels need not be examined in dry dock after launching, if they have been examined by the Surveyor before launching, unless he has special reasons for considering it necessary.

Water-tight collision bulkheads. Other bulkheads.

18. A collision water-tight bulkhead should be fitted in all steamers. As regards bulkheads, the Surveyors should not refuse to grant a declaration upon the ground that they are not fitted, or are defective, unless they are of opinion that the want of, or the defective state of, the bulkheads renders the vessel unsafe.

Examination of the bottom outside.

19. In no case should a Surveyor grant a declaration for a steamer, the outside of the bottom of which has not been examined either on a slip way or in a dry dock by a Surveyor during the four years preceding the date of survey.

20. For examining the internal parts of the vessel, they should have parts of the ceiling removed, in order that they may ascertain the condition of the hull; they should also carefully examine the cement to ascertain its condition, and where they find it cracked or doubtful, they should extend their examination, and cause such a portion of the cement to be removed as may, in their judgment, be necessary to enable them to form a correct opinion as to the state of the vessel covered by the cement. The roses for the deck pumps, also those for the bilge pumps, should be taken out of the bilges and cleaned, and the sluices and cocks on the bulkheads inspected and put in good working order.

Ceiling to be removed as Surveyor thinks necessary.

21. The Surveyors should examine very particularly the plating, stringers, frames, floors, &c., in the engine-room, boiler space, and coal bunkers, the bunkers of course being empty.

Examination of vessel in engine-room, coal bunkers, &c.

22. The date of the last outside inspection of the bottom is to be entered in the declaration, as it is from that date that the docking time is to count. If the hull is not passed at all, or not passed for the maximum time (12 months), the fact should be noted in the declaration for the vessel. The repairs which have been executed from time to time should be recorded in the office book.

Entries in book.

BOATS AND LIFE-BUOYS.

23. It will be the duty of the Surveyor to take care that all steam vessels are provided with the boats required by these rules, both as to number and cubic contents, and to see that they are efficient and in good order and ready for service, subject to the rules contained in these instructions.

Dimensions of boats.

Surveyors are not to insist upon the precise lengths, breadths, and depths inserted in the table, but are to approve of any efficient boats of sufficient strength, the cubic contents of which are respectively equal to, or greater than, the cubic contents of the boats specified in the table.

To ascertain the cubic capacity of a boat, measure the length and breadth outside and the depth inside. Multiply them together and by ·6: the product is the capacity of the boat in cubic feet.

Rule for ascertaining the capacity of boats.

24. The Surveyors should see that in all boats the full complement of oars, including steering oar and two spare oars at least, are provided (in large boats more than two spare oars ought to be provided); that each boat has two plugs for each plughole, attached with lanyards and chains, and one set and a half of thole pins or crutches attached to the boat by sound lanyards; a bailer, a rudder and tiller, or yoke and yoke lines; painter of sufficient length, and a boat hook, the rudder and tiller to be attached to the boat by sufficiently long lanyards, and kept ready for use.

Requisites for use in boats.

BOAT SCALE.

	Tons.		Tons.		Cubic capacity.
Vessels	of 100	and under	200	one boat of	120 ft.
,,	of 200	and upwards		two boats of	600 ,,

25. As regards life-buoys. No life-buoy stuffed with rushes or with cork shavings or other shavings, or granulated cork, or any loose material should be passed. All cork life-buoys should be built of solid cork and fitted with life-lines and loops securely seized to the life-buoy, and none should be passed that will not float for 24 hours in water with 32 lb. of iron suspended from them. If life-buoys are not made of solid cork, then any other strong life-buoy of an approved pattern

Life-buoys, standard of.

may be passed that is capable of floating in the water for 24 hours with 40 lb. of iron suspended from it. No contrivance is to be passed as a life-buoy that requires inflation before use. Life-buoys with lines attached should be secured by a toggle and becket, or any other similar method, so that they can be quickly released; they must not be lashed nor seized to the rail or any other part of the vessel, but must be kept so as to be ready for use at a moment's notice in case of an emergency.

Steam-launches must carry two life-buoys: vessels other than steam-launches and carrying passengers should carry life-buoys in the ratio of three for every 100 passengers carried; the maximum number need not exceed 12.

Deck pumps to be fitted.

26. There must be for each compartment a pump of sufficient size which can be worked from the upper deck. A rose or perforated box of sufficient size should be fitted at the end of the suction pipe of each pump, and means provided for clearing the end of the suction pipe. A trunk-way leading from the upper deck to the suction of each pump, large enough for a man to go down to the end of the suction pipe, is the best arrangement for this purpose. If portable pumps only are supplied, there must be a trunk-way left in each hatchway leading to the bottom of each compartment.

Deck pumps, when not worked by machinery, should have handles at least long enough for two men to work at them.

Helm indicators.

27. In passing a helm indicator, the Surveyor should ascertain by actual trial that whenever the pointer moves to the word "port" on the dial or plate, wherever that word may be, it shows that the helm is ported, and, whenever the pointer points to the word "starboard," wherever that word may be, it means that the helm is starboarded.

Meaning of port helm.

28. In the foregoing directions, it is assumed that "port helm" means that the helm is so moved as to turn the ship's head to the right, and "starboard helm" means that the helm is so moved as to turn the ship's head to the left.

The man at the helm should be so placed in steamers that frequent crowded harbours or rivers that he has a clear look-out ahead.

Lead and lines.

29. Inland steam vessels plying to places beyond thirty miles from Port of Survey must have on board two hand lead-lines of 25 fathoms each with leads of at least 7 lb. in weight each.

Anchors, chains, cables, hawsers warps, &c.

30. Surveyors must be very careful to see that each steam-vessel they survey is provided with chain cables and anchors duly certified under the Chain Cable Acts. When the stream and kedge anchors exceed 168 lb. in weight, they also must be tested in accordance with the same Acts. The Surveyors must also see that the chain cables and anchors on board are sufficient for the service and in good condition. The chain cables must be removed from the chain lockers at least once in 12 months, cleaned if necessary, and the pins knocked out of the shackles. The shackle pins should be secured by small pins of hard wood. The spare anchors should not be stowed below, but kept where they will be ready in case they are required. Proper hawsers and warps must also be supplied.

Compass to be fitted.

31. Inland steam-vessels plying to places beyond thirty miles from Port of Survey shall be supplied with a compass properly fixed and adjusted.

Rocket lockers.

32. The locker for keeping the rockets, blue lights, &c., should not be air-tight, but should have sufficient small safe openings to allow of the escape of any moisture generated: by this means the rockets, blue lights, &c., can be kept for a long period.

33. Vessels of 100 tons and upwards must be fitted with a steam fire pump; vessels of 200 tons and upwards must be supplied with a portable fire-engine in addition to the steam pump, suitable hose, and conductors, to be fitted; and in length sufficient to reach any part of the vessel. At least one fire-bucket to be carried for each of the crew. The fire-hoses should be connected stretched, to judge of their length, and thoroughly examined at every survey, and at least once a year (and at any other time that the Surveyor thinks it necessary) tested with the conductor in its place, by pumping water through them by the main or donkey engines at full speed. A proper conductor and metal bend or goose neck forms part of its equipment, and must be provided.

Fire hose.

34. All decks and floors upon which passengers are carried must be caulked and properly secured. Sufficient light and ventilation must be provided. Proper and sufficient means of ingress and egress must be fitted.

Deck to be caulked and have proper hatches, &c.

35. In steamers making short daily runs, the clear space on the main deck, below the main deck or cabin and the bridge deck may be measured. The divisors being for the different decks as follows:—

Measurement for passengers.

Main deck	...	4·5 sq. ft. for each adult.
Below main deck or in cabin	...	9	„	„ „
Bridge deck	...	9	„	„ „

If the bridge deck be a continuous deck fore and aft and forms a permanent part of the structure of the vessel, and the vessel be sufficiently stable, it may be measured as the upper deck, in which case the decks below will be measured as below main decks at nine square feet for each adult.

For vessels making long voyages inland, and carrying coolies under the Inland Emigration Act, then the divisor will be nine square feet for each adult.

The upper or bridge deck is in no case to be measured, unless there be fitted a roof or sufficient protection from the sun, such as jaffery roof or awnings, that can be carried in all weathers.

36. All inland steam-vessels must be supplied with lights and fog signals in accordance with the rules for sea-going steam-ships. Small steam-launches may carry lights of a reduced size, but the Surveyor must satisfy himself as to their efficiency. A steam-whistle and a bell is be supplied in every case. In small steamers the mechanical fog horn may be dispensed with.

Lights and fog signals.

BOILERS AND SUPERHEATERS.

37. In dealing with boilers that have been made in the United Kingdom, the Surveyor should accept the certificate of the Board of Trade as to pressure to be granted, provided the boilers have been made under the Board's inspection during construction and a test certificate granted by the Board of Trade is produced. In cases where no supervision or inspection has been made during construction the Surveyor should add the factor Y in the rule 44, and such other of the factors as may under the circumstances of the case appear necessary.

Board of Trade test certificates.

38. The Surveyor is required by the Act to fix the limits of weight to be placed on the safety valves of inland steam-vessels. The Surveyor having himself fixed the limits of the weight is then required to declare that in his judgment the boiler and machinery are sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition, and that they will be sufficient for twelve months or such other period as he may, in his judgment, determine. For his guidance the following directions are given.

The Surveyor to fix pressure on safety valves.

Working pressure to be fixed by calculation.

39. The Surveyor should fix the working pressure for boilers by a series of calculations of the strength of the various parts and according to the workmanship and material. The Surveyors should therefore receive and report on any plans of boilers intended for inland steam-vessels that may be submitted in due course with the form of application and fees. They are not to report on any tracing or plan that is not accompanied by that form, or when they have reason to believe that the boilers, when finished, are not intended to be placed on board steamers that will require survey certificates. When the Surveyor has received plans and tracings of new boilers, or of alterations of boilers, and has approved of them, he will of course be careful in making his examinations from time to time to see that they are followed in construction. When he has not had the plans submitted, but is called in to survey a boiler, he will of course measure the parts, note the details of construction, and, if necessary, bore the plates to ascertain their thickness, &c., before he gives his declaration.

The Surveyor cannot declare a boiler to be safe unless he is fully informed as to its construction, material, and workmanship. He should therefore be very careful how he ventures to give a declaration for a boiler that he is not called in to survey until after it is completed and fixed in the ship.

Respecting stays

40. In the case of new boilers the Surveyors may allow a stress not exceeding 7,000lb. per square inch of net section on solid iron screwed stays and supporting flat surfaces, but the stress should not exceed 5,000lb. when the stays have been welded or worked in the fire.

The areas of diagonal stays are found in the following way:—Find the area of a direct stay needed to support the surface; multiply this area by the length of the diagonal stay, and divide the product by the length of a line drawn at right angles to the surface supported to the end of the diagonal stay; the quotient will be the area of the diagonal stay required.

When gusset stays are used, their area should be in excess of that found in the above way.

Girders for flat surfaces

41. When the tops of combustion boxes or other parts of a boiler are supported by solid rectangular girders, the following formula should be used for finding the working pressure to be allowed on the girders, assuming that they are not subjected to a greater temperature than the ordinary heat of steam; and in the case of combustion chambers, that the ends are fitted to the edges of the tube plate and the back plate of the combustion box:—

$$\frac{C \times d^2 \times T}{(W - P)\, D \times L} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

W = Width of combustion box in inches.
P = Pitch of supporting bolts in inches.
D = Distance between the girders from centre to centre in inches.
L = Length of girder in feet.
d = Depth of girder in inches.
T = Thickness of girder in inches.
C = 500 when the girder is fitted with one supporting bolt.
C = 750 when the girder is fitted with two or three supporting bolts.

C = 850 when the girder is fitted with four supporting bolts.

The working pressure for the supporting bolts and for the plate between them should be determined by the rule for ordinary stays.

Flat surfaces of boilers

42. The pressure on plates forming flat surfaces is found by the following formula :—

$$\frac{C \times (T+1)^2}{S-6} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

T = Thickness of the plate in sixteenths of an inch.

S = Surface supported in square inches.

C = Constant according to the following circumstances.

C = 100 when the plates are not exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and the stays are fitted with nuts and washers, the latter being at least three times the diameter of the stay and two-thirds the thickness of the plates they cover.*

C = 90 when the plates are not exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and the stays are fitted with nuts only.

C = 60 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plates, and the stays fitted with nuts and washers, the latter being at least three times the diameter of the stay and two-thirds the thickness of the plate they cover.

C = 54 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plate, and the stays fitted with nuts only.

C = 80 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, with water in contact with the plates, and the stays screwed into the plate and fitted with nuts.

C = 60 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, with water in contact with the plate, and the stays screwed into the plate, having the ends riveted over to form a substantial head.

C = 36 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plates, with the stays screwed into the plate, and having the ends riveted over to form a substantial head.

When the riveted ends of screwed stays are much worn, or when the nuts are burned, the constants should be reduced; but the Surveyor must act according to the circumstances that present themselves at the time of survey; and it is expected that in cases where the riveted ends of screwed stays in the combustion boxes and furnaces are found in this state it will be often necessary to reduce the constant 60 to about 36.

Compressive stress on tube plates

The Surveyors should not in any case allow a greater compressive stress on the tube plates than is obtained by the following formula:—

$$\frac{(D-d) \times 15000}{W \times D} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

D = least horizontal distance between centres of tubes in inches.

d = inside diameter of ordinary tubes in inches.

T = thickness of tube plate in inches.

---

* If the diameter of riveted washers be at least ⅔rds the pitch of the stays, and the thickness not less than the plates they cover, the constant may be increased to 150.

When doubling plates are fitted of the same thickness as the plates they cover, and not less in width than ⅔rds of the pitch of the stays, the constant may be increased to 160.

When doubling plates cover the whole of the flat surface, the case should be submitted for the consideration of the Board.

W= extreme width of combustion box in inches from front of tube plate to back of fire box, or distance between combustion box tube plates when boiler is double ended and the box common to the furnaces at both ends.

Wet-bottomed boilers

43. The Surveyors should take care that wet-bottomed boilers, the outside of the bottom of which cannot be seen, are lifted for inspection at least once in every four years, or oftener if the Surveyor considers it necessary. It will often be found necessary long before this to reduce the pressure, unless the boilers are lifted from their seats for the latter to judge of their efficiency. If the owners in any special case have any good reasons for not wishing to lift them when the Surveyor requires it, the Surveyor should submit the whole case to the officer authorised to grant certificates of survey. The Surveyor must recollect that he is not to certify as sufficient any boiler respecting which he cannot thoroughly satisfy himself The Surveyor should record in the hydraulic test book the dates on which wet-bottomed boilers are inspected when lifted, and whether the boilers were out of the ship when examined, and if out of the ship where they were examined. Boilers which have been lifted should in all cases be subjected to the hydraulic test before they are re-set.

Cylindrical boilers

44. When cylindrical boilers are made of the best material with all the rivet holes drilled in place and all the seams fitted with double butt straps, each of at least ⅝ the thickness of the plates they cover, and all the seams at least double riveted with rivets having an allowance of not more than 75 per cent. over the single shear, and provided that the boilers have been open to inspection during the whole period of construction, then five may be used as a factor of safety. The tensile strength of the iron is to be taken as equal to 47,000lb. per square inch with the grain, and 40,000lb. across the grain But when the above conditions are not complied with, the additions in the following scale must be added to the factor 5, according to the circumstances of each case:—

A†	·15	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but drilled out of place after bending.
B†	·3	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but drilled out of place before bending.
C	3	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams. but punched after bending instead of drilled.
D	·5	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but punched before bending.
E*	·75	To be added when all the holes are not fair and good in the longitudinal seams.
F	·1	To be added if the holes are all fair and good in the circumferential seams, but drilled out of place after bending.
G†	·15	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferential seams, but drilled before bending.
H	·15	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferential seams, but punched after bending.

I†	·2	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferential seams, but punched before bending.
J*	·2	To be added if the holes are not fair and good in the circumferential seams.
K	·2	To be added if double butt straps are not fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are lap and double riveted.
L	·1	To be added if double butt straps are not fitted to the longitudinal seam, and the said seams are lap and treble riveted.
M	·3	To be added if only single butt straps are fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are double riveted.
N	·15	To be added if only single butt straps are fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are treble riveted.
O	1·	To be added when any description of joint in the longitudinal seams is single riveted.
P	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with single butt straps and are double riveted.
Q	·2	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with single butt straps and are single riveted.
R	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with double butt straps and are single riveted.
S††	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are lap joints and are double riveted.
T	·2	To be added if the circumferential seams are lap joints and are single riveted.
U	·25	To be added when the circumferential seams are lap and the streaks of plates are not entirely under or over.
V‡	·3	To be added when the boiler is of such a length as to fire from both ends, or is of unusual length, such as flue boilers, and the circumferential seams are fitted as described opposite P, R, and S, but of course when the circumferential seams are as described opposite Q and T, V ·3 will become V ·4.
W*	·4	To be added if the seams are not properly crossed.
X*	·4	To be added when the iron is in any way doubtful, and the Surveyor is not satisfied that it is of the best quality.
Y†††	1·65	To be added if the boiler is not open to inspection during the whole period of its construction.

Where marked * the allowance may be increased still further if the workmanship or material is very doubtful or very unsatisfactory.

† When the holes are to be rimered or bored out in place the case should be specially considered as to the reduction or omission of A, B, G, and I.

‡ When boilers are comparatively short the case should be specially considered as to the omission of V as heretofore.

†† When the circumferential seams are lapped and treble-riveted the case should be specially considered.

††† When surveying boilers that have not been open to inspection during construction, the case should be specially considered as to the factors to be used.

Then take iron as equal to 47,000lb. per square inch, and use the smaller of the two percentages as the strength of the joint, and adopt the factor of safety as found from the preceding scale—

In the case of zig-zag riveting, the strength through the plate diagonally between the rivets is equal to that horizontally between the rivets, when diagonal pitch $= \frac{6}{10}$ horizontal pitch $+ \frac{4}{10}$ diameter of rivet.

Plates that are drilled in place must be taken apart and the burr taken off, and the holes slightly countersunk from the outsides.

Butt straps. Butt straps must be cut from plates and not from bars, and must be of as good a quality as the shell plates, and for the longitudinal seams must be cut across the fibre. The rivet holes may be punched or drilled when the plates are punched or drilled OUT of place, but when drilled in place, must be taken apart and the burr taken off and slightly countersunk from the outside.

When single butt straps are used and the rivet holes in them punched they must be $\frac{1}{8}$th thicker than the plates they cover.

* If the rivets are exposed to double shear, multiply the percentage as found by 75.

The diameter of the rivets must not be less than the thickness of the plates of which the shell is made; but it will be found when the plates are thin, or when lap joints or single butt straps are adopted, that the diameter of the rivets should be in excess of the thickness of the plates.

Dished ends must be stayed as flat surfaces; but when they are theoretically equal to the pressure needed, when considered as portions of spheres, the stays, when solid, may have a stress of 14,000lb. per square inch of net section, but the stress should not exceed 10,000lb. when the stays have been welded or worked in the fire.

Truely hemispherical ends subjected to internal pressure may be allowed double the pressure that is suitable for cylinder of the same diameter and thickness.

All man-holes and openings must be stiffened with compensating rings of at least the same effective sectional area as the plates cut out, and in no case should the plate rings be less in thickness than the plates to which they are attached. The openings in the shells of cylindrical boilers should have their shorter axes placed longitudinally. It is very desirable that the compensating rings round openings in flat surfaces be made of L or T iron. Cast iron doors are not to be passed.

The neutral part of boiler shells under steam domes must be efficiently stiffened and stayed, as serious accidents have arisen from the want of such precautions. The boilers must be tested by hydraulic pressure to twice the working pressure in the presence and to the satisfaction of the Surveyors.

45. Circular furnaces with the longitudinal joints welded or made with a butt strap:— Circular furnaces.

$$\frac{90{,}000 \times \text{the square of the thickness of the plate in inches.}}{(\text{Length in feet} + 1) \times \text{diameter in inches.}}$$

= working pressure per square inch, provided it does not exceed that found by the following formula:—

The second formula limits the crushing stress on the material to 4,000lb. per square inch.

The length is to be measured between the rings if the furnace is made with rings.

If the longitudinal joints instead of being butted are lap jointed in the ordinary way, then 70,000 is to be used instead of 90,000, excepting only where the lap is bevelled and so made as to give the flues the form of a true circle, when 80,000 may be used.*

When the material or the workmanship is not of the best quality, the constants given above must be reduced, that is to say, the 90,000 will become 80,000; the 80,000 will become 70,000; the 70,000 will become 60,000; and when neither the material nor the workmanship are of the best quality, such constants will require to be further reduced, according to circumstances and the judgment of the Surveyor, as in the case of old boilers. One of the conditions of best workmanship is that the joints are either double riveted with single butt straps, or single riveted with double butt straps, and the holes drilled after the bending is done and when in place, and afterwards taken apart, the burr on the holes taken off, and the holes slightly countersunk from the outside.*

The working pressure for corrugated furnaces, practically circular and machine-made, provided the plane parts at the ends do not exceed six inches in length, and the plates are not less than $\frac{5}{16}$ inch thick, should not be greater than found by the following formula:—

$$\frac{9000 \times \text{thickness in inches}}{\text{mean diameter in inches}} = \left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Working pressure per} \\ \text{square inch.} \end{array} \right.$$

When the furnaces are riveted in two or more lengths the case should be submitted for consideration, as it may be necessary to make a deduction.

Cylindrical superheaters.

46. The strength of the joints of cylindrical superheaters and the factor of safety are found in a similar manner as for cylindrical boilers and steam receivers, but instead of using 47,000lb. as the tensile strength of iron 30 000lb. is adopted, unless where the heat or flame impinges at, or nearly at, right angles to the plate; then 22,400lb is substituted.

When a superheater is constructed with a tube subject to external pressure, the working pressure should be ascertained by the rules given for circular furnaces, but the constants should be reduced as 30 to 47

In all cases the internal steam pipes should be so fitted that the steam in flowing to them will pass over all the plates exposed to the impact of heat or flame

Superheaters should, as regards survey, be deemed to be the most important parts of the boilers, and must be inspected inside and outside; those that cannot be entered on account of their size or arrangement must have a sufficient number of doors through which a thorough inspection of the whole of the interior can be made.

Special attention should be paid to the survey of superheaters, as, with high pressure, the plates may become dangerously weak, and not give any sound to indicate their state when tested with a hammer; the plates should therefore be occasionally drilled.

Before commencing the survey, it is prudent to question the Engineer Officers as to the tendency of boilers to flame. If flaming is a frequent occurrence, extra care must be taken in the survey, and in fixing the pressure to be allowed as the tensile strength of the plate, when heated, is often reduced to about four tons per square inch. Drain pipes must in all cases be fitted to superheaters, in which a collection of water in the bottom is possible.

---

* The following examples will serve to shew the application of the constants for the different cases that may arise -

Furnaces with butt joints and drilled rivet holes	90,000 when the longitudinal seams are welded.
	90,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and fitted with single butt straps
	80,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with single butt straps
	90 000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with double butt straps
Furnaces with butt joints and punched rivet holes	85 000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and fitted with single butt straps
	75,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with single butt straps
	85 000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with double butt straps
Furnaces with lapped joints and drilled rivet holes	80 000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and bevelled
	75 000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and not bevelled
	70 000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and bevelled
	65 000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and not bevelled
Furnaces with lapped joints and punched rivet holes	75,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and bevelled
	70,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and not bevelled.
	65,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and bevelled
	60,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and not bevelled

In the case of upright fire boxes of donkey or similar boilers, 10 per cent. should be deducted from the constant given above, applicable to the respective classes of work.

Safety valve for superheaters.

47. Superheaters that can be shut off from the main boilers must be fitted with parliamentary safety valve of sufficient size, but the least size passed should be 3 inches diameter.

The flat ends of all boilers, as far as the steam space extends, and the ends of superheaters, should be fitted with shield, or baffle plates, where exposed to the hot gases in the uptake; as all plates subjected to the direct impact of heat or flame are liable to get injured unless covered with water.

STEEL BOILERS.

48. As there is up to the present time a certain amount of uncertainty about the quality of steel no allowances can be given for steel over iron unless the plates, &c., have been tested and the conditions, as laid down in the following rules, be carried out. In cases where the boilers have been made in the United Kingdom, the Surveyors should accept the test certificate of the Board of Trade, if made under Board of Trade's supervision.

Owners cannot expect a Surveyor to give the full allowances for a steel boiler unless an opportunity has been afforded him of seeing that the material and workmanship are such as to warrant him in making such allowances.

49. The following should guide the Surveyors when the general quality of the steel has been found suitable for marine boilers.

Makers' tests.

The steel-makers or boiler-makers should test one or more strips cut from each plate for tensile strength and elongation, and stamp both results on a part of the plate, where they can be easily seen when the boiler is constructed.

Surveyor's tests.

The Surveyor is not obliged to witness the foregoing tests, although it is very desirable that he should, when his other duties will allow him to do so, but he should, however, select at least one in four of these plates, either at the steel works or the boiler-maker's works, and witness the testing of at least one strip cut from each selected plate.

Rivet tests.

A few rivets of each size should be selected, and should be turned and tested for tensile stress The tensile stress should be from 28 tons to 32 tons per square inch, with a contraction of area of about 60 per cent.

Tensile and bending tests.

If for the plates from which the Surveyor selects the above proportions a greater stress is wished than is allowed for iron, tests for tensile stress and elongation should be made, and those for which no reduction of thickness is asked may be tested for resistance to bending if preferred.

Test strips.

The breadth of tests trips for tensile stress should be about two inches, and the elongation, taken in a length of ten inches, should be about 25 per cent, and not less than 20 per cent. The test strips must be carefully prepared and measured, and they should be cut from the plate by a planing or shaping machine

Bending tests.

The bending tests for plates not exposed to flame should be made with strips in their normal condition; but strips cut from furnaces, combustion boxes, &c., should be heated to a cherry red, then plunged into water of about 80°, and kept there until of the same temperature as the water, and then bent. The bending strips should not be less than two inches broad and 10 inches long, and they should be bent until they break, or until the sides are parallel at the distance from each other of not less than (3) three times the thickness of plate.

Tensile stress, &c.

The tensile stress of the plates not exposed to flame should be about 28 tons, and should not exceed 32 tons per square inch of section and 28 tons should be the stress used in the calculations for cylindrical shells if the plate comply with all the conditions as stated herein; but when the minimum tensile stress of shell plates exceeds 28 tons, and allowance is wished for the excess, the case should be specially submitted for the consideration of Government. The tensile stress of furnace flanging and combustion box plates should range from 26 tons to 30 tons per square inch.

Annealing.

All plates that are punched, flanged, or locally heated must be carefully annealed after being so treated.

Perforating and annealing.

The rivet holes in the furnaces and longitudinal seams of cylindrical shells should be drilled; but if it is wished to punch them, and afterwards bore or anneal the plates in a proper furnace, the proposed method of the punching and boring or annealing should be submitted for consideration before being done; but all punched holes should be made after bending.

In all cases where assent has been given for plates to be punched after bending and then annealed, the makers should stamp the plates with the words "punched after bending and then annealed," and in all cases where assent has been given for punching and afterwards boring plates, the words "punched and then bored" should be stamped on the plates.

Stress on stays.

Bars for stays should be tested. Solid steel screwed stays which have not been welded or otherwise worked after heating may be allowed a working stress of 9,000lb per square inch of net section, provided the tensile stress is from 28 to 32 tons per square inch, and the elongation in 10 inches about 25 per cent. and not less than 20 per cent. Steel stays which have been welded or worked in the fire have been found to be unreliable, therefore they should not be passed.

Constants for flat surfaces.

If the flanging plates and those exposed to flame comply with the foregoing conditions, the constant in the rules for iron boilers may be increased as follows:—

The constants for flat surfaces when they are supported by stays screwed into the plate and riveted 10 per cent.

The constants for flat surfaces when they are supported by stays screwed into the plate and nutted, or when the stays are nutted in the steam space, 25 per cent. This is also applicable to the constants for flat surfaces stiffened by riveted washers or doubling strips and supported by nutted stays.

The constants for combustion box girders 10 per cent.

Furnaces plane and corrugated.

The furnace constants about 10 per cent. when plane. When new corrugated and machine-made, and practically true circles, the working pressure is found by the following formula, provided that the plane parts at the ends do not exceed 6 inches in length, and the plates are not less than $\frac{5}{16}$ inch thick:—

$$\frac{12500 \times T}{D} = \text{working pressure.}$$

T = thickness in inches.

D = mean diameter in inches.

(If the furnace is riveted in two or more lengths, the case should be submitted for consideration.)

Compressive stress on tube plates.

A greater compressive stress should not be allowed on tube plates that than found by the following formula:—

$$\frac{(D-d)\ T \times 20000}{W \times D} = \text{working pressure.}$$

D = least horizontal distances between centres of tubes in inches.

d = inside diameter of tubes in inches.

T = thickness of tube plate in inches.

W=extreme width of combustion box in inches from front of tube plate to back of fire box, or distance between combustion box tube plates when boiler is double-ended and the box common to the furnaces at both ends.

Plate and rivet section

The rivet section, if of iron, in the longitudinal seams of cylindrical shells, where lapped and at least double riveted, should not be less than $\frac{13}{8}$ times the net plate section; but if steel rivets are used, their section should be at least $\frac{23}{28}$ of the net section of the plate, if the tensile stress of the rivets is not less than 28 tons and not more than 32 tons per square inch. Therefore in calculating the working pressure the percentage strength of the rivets may be found in the usual way by the foregoing rules, but in the case of iron rivets, the percentage found should be divided by $\frac{13}{8}$, and in the case of steel rivets by $\frac{23}{28}$, the result being the percentages required. If the percentage strength of the rivets by calculation is less than the calculated percentage strength of the plate, calculate the working pressure by both percentages. When using the percentage strength of the plate, use the nominal factor of safety suitable for the method of construction as by the rules for iron boilers; but when using the percentage strength of rivets, use 5 as the factor of safety. The less of the two pressures so found is the working pressure to be allowed for the cylindrical portion of the shell.

Local heating to be avoided

Local heating of the plates should be avoided, as many plates have failed from having been so treated.

Welding, &c.

Steel plates which have been welded should not be passed if subjected to a tensile stress, and those welded and subject to a compressive stress should be efficiently annealed.

In other respects the boilers should comply with the rules for iron boilers

If the tests are to be made at the steel works, the boiler makers should inform the Surveyors in their district when and where they will be made, so that the Surveyor from the nearest district to the steel works may be instructed to attend to them. The Surveyor should have due notice two or three days when the plates, &c., will be ready for the test pieces to be cut from them. (Surveyors should report all cases of failures of steel plates, &c., which may come to their knowledge).

Steel for superheaters &c

When steel is used in superheaters, or in the uptakes of boilers, the parts where the flame impinges at or nearly at right angles to the plate must be protected with baffle plates; but in all cases steel should be discouraged for this purpose.

This applies to the unshielded uptakes of all boilers, including ordinary vertical donkey boilers.

Makers of steel

50. When the steel is not to be made by any of the following makers, the case will receive the special consideration of the Government, and this should be specially noted by the Surveyors:—

Messrs. Beardmore.
 ,, J. Brown & Co.
 ,, C. Cammell & Co.
Mr. D. Colville
The Landore Steel Company.
The Leeds Forge Company.
The Steel Company of Scotland.
The Weerdale Iron and Coal Company.
The West Cumberland Iron and Steel Company.

Boiler, tracing &c.

51. Difficulty has been experienced with regard to the survey of steel boilers, owing to the fact that some makers were not aware, at the time the boilers were commenced, that a survey certificate would be necessary, and the makers have therefore omitted to submit tracings until the boilers have been nearly completed. Tracings of boilers may therefore be received for examination upon payment of the usual fee of Rs. 50, and the Surveyors may proceed as far as witnessing the hydraulic test before any further instalment of the survey fee is paid Engineers and boiler-makers should be advised of this arrangement.

BOILERS, GENERAL.

Donkey boilers. 52. Donkey boilers that are in any way attached to, or connected with, the main boilers, or with the machinery used for propelling the vessel, must be surveyed and be fitted the same way as the main boilers, and have a water and steam gauge, and all other fittings complete, and, as regards safety valves, must comply with the same regulations as the main boilers.

Stop valves. 53. No boiler or steam chamber is to be so constructed, fitted, or arranged so that the escape of steam from it through the safety valve required by these rules can be wholly or partially intercepted by the action of any other valve.

A stop valve must always be fitted between the boiler and the steam pipe, and, where two or more boilers are connected with a steam receiver or superheater, between each boiler and the superheater or steam receiver. The object of this is obvious, viz to avoid the failure of all the boilers through the failure of one. The necks of stop valves should be as short as practicable.

Gauges, &c. 54. Each boiler must be fitted with a glass water-gauge, at least two test cocks, and steam-gauge; that is to say, each boiler must be fitted with all fittings as complete as if there were only one boiler. Boilers that fire both ends, and those of unusual width, must have water-gauges and test cocks at each end or side, as the case may be When a steamer has more than one boiler, and these boilers are fitted with stop valves each boiler must be treated as a separate one, and have all the requisite fittings

Boilers to be tested when too small to enter. 55. When the boilers are not large enough for the Surveyors to get into, they should see them tested by hydraulic pressure at every annual survey at least The hydraulic test should also be applied at every intermediate survey if the Surveyor considers it necessary. In the case of old boilers the Surveyors must use their own judgment as to the necessary pressure to be applied. This is in no way to interfere with the instructions to test all new boilers to double their working pressure, nor with the proper internal examination of all boilers that are large enough for the Surveyors to get into.

Whenever it is only stays that prevent getting in he may order their removal, and he must see them properly replaced before granting his declaration.

Surveyors not to go into hot boilers. 56. If the boiler is too hot for the Surveyor to examine the inside efficiently, and with safety and convenience, he should decline to examine the boiler, and absolutely refuse to grant a declaration, until he can make an efficient internal examination.

Strength of boilers to be ascertained, and working pressure fixed by calculation. 57. Before testing a boiler, the Surveyor should examine it, take the necessary measurements, and calculate what the working pressure should be in accordance with the regulations, and only test to double the working pressure; if the test is not satisfactory the defects must be made good, and the boiler re-tested.

This instruction applies to superheaters and steam chests as well as to boilers

The Surveyor who grants the declaration must examine the boilers thoroughly. and will be held responsible for the pressure allowed.

Hydraulic test

58. Surveyors should see all new boilers, and boilers that have been taken out of the ship for a thorough repair, tested by hydraulic pressure up to at least double the working pressure that will be allowed previous to the boilers being placed in the vessel, to test the workmanship, &c.; but the working pressure is to be determined by the strength of stays, thickness of plates, and strength of riveting, &c., and not by the hydraulic test.

The hydraulic test should in no case exceed twice the calculated working pressure of the boiler, and it is never to be applied until the boiler has been examined in accordance with paragraph 57 and until the strength has been calculated from the necessary measurements taken from the boiler itself.

When the boilers are in the vessel the Surveyor may, at any time he thinks it necessary, before he gives a declaration, have them tested by hydraulic pressure to satisfy himself as to any doubtful part, or of places not easy of access, care being taken in the case of old boilers not to overstrain them; but the test must always exceed the working pressure.

Surveyors should pay particular attention to the examination and testing of steam pipes

The hydraulic test should be applied to the boilers of all steamers that have not previously had a survey certificate before a declaration is granted for them.

The amount of the hydraulic pressure test and the date on which it was applied to the boilers should be inserted in the Surveyor's declaration and recorded in the office boiler book.

Cast iron in boilers and steam pipes

59. In all boilers in which the Surveyors find that cast iron is employed in such a manner as to be subject to the pressure of steam or water, great care must be taken. Cast iron must not be used for stays, and Surveyors should also discourage the use of cast iron for chocks and saddles for boilers. Particular attention should be paid to the chocking of boilers, more especially when they are fired athwartships.

Pressure fixed by one Surveyor not to be increased by another

60. A pressure once allowed on the boiler of an inland steam-vessel is not to be increased unless, in cases where a Surveyor is of opinion that an increased pressure may with safety be allowed, he has communicated with the Surveyor who last surveyed the vessel; and on learning the reasons why the existing pressure was formerly allowed, the Surveyor is of opinion that it may be increased.

60A. Before granting a declaration or certificate of survey for a steam-vessel where the boilers and machinery are in charge of a native driver, the surveyor should require the production of a certificate either from the Superintending Engineer or from some respectable engineering firm to the effect that the pressure gauges on the boiler or boilers have been overhauled and adjusted and are in proper order.

SAFETY VALVES.

Provisions of the Act as regards safety valves

61. Every inland steam vessel shall be provided with a safety valve upon each boiler, so constructed as to be out of the control of the Engineer when the steam is up, and if such valve is in addition to the ordinary valve, it shall be so constructed as to have an area not less, and a pressure not greater, than the area of and pressure on that valve.

The Surveyors are instructed that in all new boilers, and whenever alterations can be easily made, the valve chest should be placed directly on the boiler; and the neck, or part between the chest and the flange which is bolted on to the boiler, should be as short as possible and be cast in one with the chest.

The Surveyors should note that it is not intended by this instruction that vessels with old boilers which have been previously passed with such an arrangement should be detained for the alterations to be carried out.

Of course in any case in which a Surveyor is of opinion that it is positively dangerous to have a length of pipe between the boilers and the safety valve chest, it is his duty at once to insist on the requisite alterations being made before granting a declaration.

If any person places an undue weight on the safety valve of any steam ship, or increases such weight beyond the limits fixed by the Engineer-Surveyor, he shall, in addition to any other liabilities he may incur by so doing incur a penalty not exceeding one thousand rupees.

The Engineer-Surveyor shall declare, amongst other things, the limits of the weight to be placed on the safety valves; that the safety valves are such, and in such condition as required by these rules, and that the machinery is sufficient for the service for the time he fixes, and is in good condition for that time.

Area of safety valves.

62. The area of Government safety valves, or (when there is more than one) the combined area of the Government safety valves should be not less per square foot of fire grate surface than that given in the following table opposite the boiler pressure intended, provided the valve is not less than three inches in diameter, or where there are two valves the diameter is not less than two inches for each valve.

When, however, the valves are of the common description, and are made in accordance with the tables, it will be necessary to fit them with springs having great elasticity, or to provide other means to keep the accumulation within moderate limits.

If there is only one safety valve on a main boiler, the Surveyor should not grant a declaration without first referring the case to Government for special instructions.

In the case of small boilers, such as launch boilers, if it is wished to fit valves smaller than three inches diameter, the case should be submitted for the consideration of Government.

Examination of safety valve.

63. The Surveyor in his examination of the machinery and boilers is particularly to direct his attention to the safety valves, and whenever he considers it necessary, he is to satisfy himself as to the pressure on the boiler by actual trial.

The Surveyor is to fix the limits of the weights to be placed on the safety valves, and the responsibility of not issuing a declaration before he is fully satisfied on the point is very grave. The law places on the Surveyors the responsibility of "declaring" that the boilers are in his judgment sufficient with the weights he states.

The Surveyor is to examine the whole of the valves, weights, and springs at every survey.

Surveyor see valves weighted.

64. When the Surveyor has determined the amount of pressure, he is to see the valves weighted accordingly, and the weights or springs fixed in such a manner as to preclude the possibility of their shifting or in any way increasing the pressure. The limits of the weight on the valves is to be inserted in the declaration, and should it at any time come to a Surveyor's knowledge that the weights or the loading of the valve have been shifted, or otherwise altered, or that the valve has been in any way interfered with, so as to increase the pressure, he is at once to report the facts to Government.

Spring safety-valves.

65. If the following conditions are complied with, the Surveyor need raise no question as to the substitution of spring loaded valves for dead weighted valves :—

(1) That at least two separate valves are fitted to each boiler, except in the case of donkey or other small boilers, in which the grate surface does not exceed 14 square feet, in which case a single safety valve may be passed, provided it is not less than three inches in diameter.

(2) That the valves are of the proper size.

(3) That the spring and valve be so cased in that it cannot be tampered with.

(4) That provision be made to prevent the valve flying off in case of the spring breaking.

(5) That the requisite safety valve area is cased in the usual manner of Government valves.

(6) That screw lifting gear be provided to ease all the valves as by paragraph .

(7) That the size of the steel of which the spring is made is to be found by the following formula:—

$$\sqrt[3]{\frac{s \times D}{c}} = d.$$

s=the load on the spring in lb.

D=the diameter of the spring (from centre the centre of wire) in inches.

d=the diameter or side of square of the wire in inches.

c=8,000 for round steel.

c=11,000 for square steel.

(8) That the springs be protected from the steam and impurities issuing from the valves.

(9) That when valves are loaded by direct springs, that the compressing screw abuts against a metal stop or washer, when the load sanctioned by the Surveyor is on the valve.

In no case is the Surveyor to give a declartion for a spring loaded valve, unless he has examined it and is acquainted with the details of its construction, and unless he has tried it under full steam and full firing for at least 20 minutes with the feed-water and stop valve shut off. If the accumulation of pressure exceeds 10 per cent. of the loaded pressure, he should not give his declaration.

Owners, masters and Engineers to see that valves are kept in proper order.

66. It is clearly the duty of the masters and engineers of vessels to see, in the intervals between the surveys, that the Government safety valve or valves, as well as the other safety valves and the rest of the machinery, are in proper working order There is no provision in the Inland Steam-vessels Act, exempting the owner of any vessel, on the ground that she has been surveyed, from any liability, civil or criminal, to which he would otherwise be subject. The Government safely valve is to be out of the control of the engineers when the steam is up; this enactment, far from implying that he is not to have access to it, and to see to its working at proper intervals when the vessel is in port, rather implies the contrary ; and the master should take care that the engineer has access to it for that purpose. A substantial lock, that cannot be easily tampered with, and as far as possible weather-proof, should be used for locking up the safety-valve boxes.

All tests for pressure and accumulation are to be made with proper gauges

67. In witnessing the hydraulic tests of boilers, &c., and in witnessing all safety valve tests for accumulation of pressure, the Surveyors are to use the pressure gauges supplied to them for the purpose.

MACHINERY, &c.

What machinery is to be surveyed

68. The machinery to be surveyed comprises the engines and boilers used for propelling the vessel, and all the machinery connected therewith. The boilers of donkey engines are to be surveyed with the boilers and machinery of the vessel, when they are in any way connected with them.

When to be taken to pieces for examination

69. Surveyors should, before granting declarations for any period exceeding six months, be careful when examining the machinery—(1) to have the upper brasses of all bearings taken off; (2) the shaft turned round and carefully examined; (3) the cylinder covers and junk rings lifted for examination of the pistons and cylinders; (4) the slide covers or bonnets removed for examination of the slides, and if necessary, the slides taken out; (5) the air and circulating pump covers lifted for examination of the pump buckets and valves; (6) the covers of all feed and bilge pump valves removed for the examination of the valves; (7) all discharge valves and sea-cocks taken out for examination; (8) the propeller shaft to be drawn when necessary, and it and the screw to be examined, and in all cases in which the shaft is drawn, it is to be seen again after the screw is secured in its place; (9) the bridges and fire bars to be removed to permit of a thorough examination of the boilers and furnaces; (10) all cocks and valves on the boilers to be taken out and examined.

When a Surveyor has seen the machinery of a new steamer in the shop before it was put together, and is satisfied with it, it will not be necessary to have it again opened up on board the ship on the first survey for examination, unless in the Surveyor's judgment it is necessary after the vessel has been tried under steam.

It will rest with owners to determine whether or not they will have a certificate for any period exceeding six months; but if they do so determine, then the above instructions are to be complied with before a declaration is granted.

The above instructions are also to apply at least once a year to the survey of all inland steam vessels, whatever nay be the period for which the declarations are given The examination of sea cocks and outside connections can be made when the vessel is in dry dock or beached.

After the examination of the parts has been made as above, the machinery must, when the Surveyors consider it necessary, be tried under steam at full pressure.

Examination to be carefully made.

70. In the examination of the machinery and boilers the Surveyor should in no case give a declaration without thoroughly satisfying himself that both the boilers and the machinery are sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition.

Separate feed arrangements to be fitted

71. The boilers of all new sea-going vessels, passenger tugs, and other small passenger vessels should be fitted with separate feeding arrangements in addition to, but unconnected with, the main feed pipes and valves. In very small vessels an efficient hand pump, instead of the donkey pump, may be passed if the Surveyor has satisfied himself as to its efficiency when steam is up, and provided there are separate feed pipes and valves as directed above. This instruction is to apply also in the case of old vessels of the above description, when being fitted with new boilers.

The Surveyors should discourage the practice of using the same pump for the bilges and for feeding boilers.

Cocks, valves, and pipes.

72. All inlets or outlets in the bottom or side of a vessel near to, at, or below the deep load water-line other than the outlets of watercloset, soil, scupper, lavatory, and urinal pipes must have cocks or valves fitted between the pipes and the ship's side or bottom; such cocks or valves must be attached to the skin of the ship, and be so arranged that they can be easily and expeditiously opened or closed at any time; and the cocks, valves, and the whole length of the pipes should be accessible at all times.

Guards on blow-off cocks.

With a view to the prevention of accidents to boilers through the blow-off cocks being left open after the boiler is run up, and to prevent water getting accidentally or intentionally into the ship by cocks being left open, and also to prevent the donkey engine becoming useless when used for feeding the boilers, all blow-off cocks and sea connections are to be fitted with a guard over the plug, with a featherway in the same, and a key on the spanner, so that the spanner cannot be taken out unless the plug or cock is closed. One cock is to be fitted to the boiler, and another cock on the skin of the ship or on the side of the Kingston valve.

Non-return valves to pipes.

73. In all cases where pipes are so led or placed that water can run from the boiler or the sea into the bilge, either by accidentally or intentionally leaving a cock or valve open, they should be fitted with a non-return valve and a screw not attached, but which will set the valve down in its seat when necessary; the only exception to this is the firemen's ash cock, which should have a cock or valve on the vessel's side, and be above the stock-hole plates.

Cocks or valves standing exceptional distances from the vessel's plating, that is, where the necks are longer than is necessary for making the joint, are to be discouraged, and if passed, they should be made of brass or gun-metal, and well bracketed.

Non-return valves on feed cocks.

74. Where the feed cock or valve is so placed and arranged that more than one boiler can be fed at the same time through this cock or valve, a non-return valve must be fitted between each boiler and this cock or valve; but it is very desirable that all feed cocks or valves should have a non-return valve fitted between the boiler and the cock or valve.

ACCIDENTS AND DAMAGES.

Damage to be inspected.

75. In all cases in which an inland steamer has sustained damage from any accident, or other cause, affecting her seaworthiness or efficiency in any part of her hull, equipments, or machinery, the Surveyors of the port, where the vessel may be, are to go on board and ascertain the extent of the damage. In doing so they will take care not to make any change in the position or condition of things on board, which would be at all likely to affect any legal evidence, should an enquiry into the case afterwards be considered necessary. It is extremely important that the vessel should be surveyed and a report forwarded as early as possible. In this report the Surveyors are to state whether the vessel is rendered inefficient or unsafe either in hull or machinery; and whether, in their opinion, the certificate should be cancelled or only temporarily withdrawn.

UNDER the powers conferred upon him by section 50, clause (1) of Act VI of 1884 (the Inland Steam-vessels Act), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to make the following rules for the protection of inland steam-vessels from danger by explosion or fire:—

I.—Every inland passenger steamer shall be provided with sufficient hose to reach from her engines to her stem and taffrail, and shall be supplied with fire-buckets in the proportion of one for each of the crew, which shall be kept in a place where they are at once available.

II.—Fire-engines shall be placed under the charge of an officer who should be held responsible that they are ready for immediate use.

III.—Inland steamers shall, before proceeding on a voyage, have all their cargo, and that of any flats they may be towing, safely stowed, and in the case of hay or other inflammable material, shall have the same properly covered with tarpaulins or other sufficient protection

IV —Before starting, passengers shall be called on to deliver up any gunpowder, or any inflammable articles.

V —No naked lights shall be used in the hold or on the cargo-deck, or in the passengers' cabins or accommodation.

VI.—The officers and crew are to be divided into parties and assigned stations in case of fire

VII.—Petroleum shall not be carried by inland passenger steamers in larger quantities than 100 cases, to be stowed apart from other cargo, and as far from the stoke-holds as possible.

VIII —Fire shall only be permitted in galleys properly constructed for the purpose, and no gunpowder or other explosive shall be allowed to be carried unless in a suitably constructed magazine compartment. And no fire is to be permitted on board any flat or steamer while taking in or discharging gunpowder.

IX – The tops of the boiler and galley funnels of all inland steamers must be fitted with spark-catchers.

X —Any person committing a breach of these rules shall be punished with imprisonment or a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

UNDER the powers conferred upon him by section 51, clause (1) of Act VI of 1884 (the Inland Steam-vessels Act), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to make the following rules to regulate the carriage of passengers in inland steam-vessels:—

The master of any inland steam-vessel may refuse to receive on board thereof any person who, by reason of drunkenness or otherwise, is in such a state, or misconducts himself in such a manner, as to cause annoyance to other passengers on board, or, if such person is on board, may put him on shore at any convenient place; and no person so refused admittance or put on shore shall be entitled to the return of any fare he may have paid.

The following offenders, that is to say—

(1) Any person who, being drunken or disorderly, has been on that account refused admission into any duly surveyed inland steam-vessel by the owner or any person in his employ, and who, after having had the amount of his fare (if he has paid the same) returned or rendered to him, nevertheless persists in attempting to enter such steamer;

(2) Any person who, being drunken or disorderly on board any such steamer, is requested by the owner or any person in his employ to leave the same at any place at which he can conveniently so do, and who, having had the amount of his fare (if he has paid the same) returned or tendered to him, refuses to comply with such request;

(3) Any person on board any such steamer who, after warning by the master or any other officer of the steamer, molests or continues to molest any passenger;

(4) Any person who, after having been refused admission into any such steamer by the owner or any person in his employ on account of such steamer being full, and who after having had the full amount of his fare (if he has paid the same) returned or tendered to him, nevertheless persists in attempting to enter the same;

(5) Any person having got on board any such steamer, who upon being requested on the like account by the owner or any person in his employ to leave such steamer before the same has quitted the place at which such person got on board, and who, upon having the full amount of his fare (if he has paid the same) returned or tendered to him, refuses to comply with such request;

(6) Any person who travels or attempts to travel in any such steamer without having previously paid his fare, and with intent to avoid payment thereof;

(7) Any person who, having paid his fare for a certain distance, knowingly and wilfully proceeds in any such steamer beyond such distance without previously paying the additional fare for the additional distance, and with intent to avoid payment thereof;

(8) Any person who knowingly and wilfully refuses or neglects, on arriving at the point to which he has paid his fare, to quit any such steamer; and

(9) Any person on board any such steamer who does not, when required by the master or other officer of such steamer, either pay his fare or exhibit such ticket or other receipt (if any) showing the payment of his fare as is usually given to persons travelling by and paying their fare for such steamer shall, for every such offence, be liable on conviction before a Magistrate to a penalty not exceeding Rs. 20; but such liability shall not prejudice the recovery of any fare payable by him.

NOTICE.

The 6th November 1885.—The following draft of Rules, which it is proposed to issue under section 24 of Act VII of 1884, is published for general information. These rules will be taken into consideration on the expiry of a month from the date of their first publication in the Calcutta Gazette; and the Lieutenant-Governor will receive and give due attention to any objections or suggestions which may be made by any person within that period.

J. WARE EDGAR,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal

UNDER the powers conferred upon him by section 24 of Act VII of 1884 (the Indian Steam-Ships Act), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following rules for the survey of steam-ships :—

1. Surveys shall be made at the Port of Calcutta upon due notice or application from the owner, on any day in the year, with the exception of Sundays and Government holidays, by the Surveyor to the Port Commissioners. Certificates of survey shall be given in the form hereunto annexed by the Vice-Chairman to the Port Commissioners, on payment of the fee specified in the schedule to the Act. Time and place of surveys.

2. The Surveyors will be guided by the rules hereunto annexed in making their survey. In cases where two Surveyors are employed, the Engineer-Surveyor will survey the engines, boilers, and all the machinery required to be surveyed under the Act. The Ship-wright Surveyor will inspect the hull equipments and passenger accommodation, measure and determine the number of passengers the vessel is fit to carry, and see that the certificates of the master, mates, and engineers are such as is required by the Act, also that the lights and fog signals are in accordance with the regulations for the prevention of collisions at sea. Surveyors duties

3. Owners of steam vessels requiring survey are to give the Surveyor at least three days' notice in writing when a survey is required, and should such notice fail to be given, he (the Surveyor) is not responsible for any delay or inconvenience which may occur in consequence. Notice of survey to be given.

4. This notice (which is to be preserved by the Surveyor) must state explicitly the name of the steamer to be surveyed, and the time when, and place at which, she will be ready for inspection. Particulars to be given in notice

5. In order to prevent inconvenience and delay to the owners, the Surveyors are to be careful to be in attendance at the appointed time and place. Should they be unable to attend as required, notice should be given to the owners to that effect Surveyors to attend at appointed time

6. Should a steamer not be ready for inspection at the time arranged, the Surveyors may make such arrangements for the subsequent survey as may be convenient to the owner or his agent. All expenses arising out of this postponement will be charged against the owner when the certificate is issued. Survey if deferred.

SURVEYORS' DECLARATIONS.

7. The Surveyor's declaration under section 11 of the Act shall be made in the form hereunto annexed. The particulars required to be given in the declaration for a certificate of survey are the following, which are treated of under separate heads :— Surveyors' declarations

(1.) That the hull of the ship is sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition.

(2.) That the boats, life-buoys, lights, signals, compasses, and shelter for deck passengers, and the certificates of the master, and mate or mates, engineer or engineers, or engine-driver are such and in such condition as required by any law for the time being in force.

(3.) The time (if less than 12 months) for which the said hull and equipments will be sufficient.

(4.) The limits (if any) beyond which, as regards the hull and equipments, the ship is in the Surveyor's judgment not fit to ply.

(5.) The number of passengers which the ship is, in the Surveyor's judgment, fit to carry, distinguishing if necessary between the respective numbers to be carried on deck, and in the cabins and in different parts of the deck and cabins, such numbers to be subject to such conditions and variations according to the time of the year, the nature of the voyage, the cargo carried, and other circumstances as the case requires.

The declarations of the Surveyor as to the boilers and machinery is to contain a statement of the following particulars:—

(1.) That the machinery of the ship is sufficient for the service intended, and is in good condition.

(2.) The time (12 months or less) for which such machinery will be sufficient.

(3.) That the safety valves and fire hose are such, and in such condition, as are required by the Act, and the rules framed thereunder.

(4.) The limits of the weight to be placed on the safety valves.

(5.) The limits (if any) beyond which as regards the machinery, the ship is, in the Surveyor's judgment, not fit to ply.

When a Surveyor is, from any reason whatever, unable to complete his declaration, an incomplete declaration should be sent to those who applied for survey as soon as possible, stating in it the reasons for not being able to fill up all the particulars under the various heading. He must take care to obliterate all the items in this declaration that he is unable to certify to as being in accordance with the Acts and regulations.

Surveyors may go on board ships

8. Surveyors may go on board any ship at any reasonable time for the purpose of inspecting, either the certificates of the master, mates, or engineers, or the vessel, the machinery, the boats, other equipments, or for any other purpose rendered necessary by the Acts; and the owners, masters, mates, and engineers of steam-ships are required by the Act to give to the Surveyors, on being requested so to do, all such information and assistance within their power as may be requisite for the purpose of making the returns required by the Acts. In the performance of this part of their duties, Surveyors are to be careful to avoid impeding the duty of the vessel, or wilfully giving offence to any of the officers. If they should be hindered or vexatiously obstructed by any person in the performance of their duties, they should by no means mark it by personal resentment, but should communicate the facts without delay to the proper authorities, by whom the case will be taken up, if necessary.

Inspection to be made in the presence of owner, agent, or responsible person

9. Surveyors should, if possible, make their inspections when the agent, master, or chief mate, and engineer of the vessel are present. Repairs can then be required, and defects can be pointed out to the proper persons without incurring the uncertainty and delay attendant upon messages delivered to the subordinate officers. If the owners do not regard the survey as being of sufficient importance to instruct a responsible representative to be present, the Surveyors will of course make the survey in his absence.

10. In order to prevent mistakes as to the nature and extent of repairs required by the Surveyors, whenever they cannot give a declaration until repairs are effected or alterations made, a written statement of the nature and extent of the defects to be remedied or alterations required should in all cases be given to the owner or agent, whether applied for by him or not. A copy of the above should always be taken in the office Press Letter Book. If any difference of opinion arises between the Surveyors and the owners, manufacturers, or others, or any questions are raised, the facts should at once be reported

Statement of repairs required to be given by Surveyors.

11. Surveyors are in no case to give a declaration either for the hull, machinery, boilers, or equipments of a steamer unless they are satisfied that all the requirements of the law have been complied with

Declaration not to be given without great caution

It is the duty of the Surveyor to satisfy himself personally regarding every detail of the survey of a vessel, and not to trust to any certificate or other document given by any person not responsible to the Government. This instruction does not of course apply to certificates of compass adjustment.

12. In any case in which the Surveyor has reason to believe that the hull, machinery, boilers, or equipments are not fit for so long a time as the owner has applied for, he is to grant his declaration for such shorter period as he may deem expedient, informing the owners, if necessary, of his reasons for so doing. Unless it is the docking time only that limits his declaration, or the latest date for which an excursion certificate can be granted in accordance with the regulations, he is not to grant a declaration for sea-going steamers for less than a period of three months. In such cases, also in cases in which the Surveyor refuses a declaration altogether, he is to give a statement in writing of the repairs he considers necessary to enable him to grant a declaration for the time asked. By this paragraph the Surveyor is to understand that a sea-going steam ship that is not fit for a declaration for three months is not to be deemed by him as fit to hold a certificate at all.

Short declaration when to be granted

13. It is most desirable that a Surveyor should complete the survey of a vessel in every detail when he has commenced it, and if possible, arrangements should always be made to secure this. In exceptional cases, however, when this cannot be arranged, one or more Surveyors should complete the parts of the survey left unfinished. The Surveyor who commenced the survey should not sign a declaration for any details which he has not surveyed, and for which consequently he is not prepared to hold himself personally responsible. He can only relieve himself from entire responsibility for every detail by distinctly noting on his declaration that he has been unable to attend to certain details specified by him, and in respect only of the details so specified will his claim to irresponsibility be accepted. The Surveyor or Surveyors who attend to the details of the survey which have been left unfinished should also give declarations for the particulars they have attended to. The supplementary declaration should be attached to the main declaration.

Surveyor to complete survey where possible, but to sign only for details surveyed. Declarations to be in such form as the Government may direct

14. A report should be made to the Local Government of the name, port of registry, and official number of all vessels for which declarations are refused. This should be done as soon as possible after the vessel is withdrawn from survey, and full reasons for the refusal should be given. A declaration for twelve months should not be granted whenever the Surveyor has any doubt whatever as to the efficiency of any part of the vessel, or her machinery, or equipments for such period.

Refusal of declaration to be notified

The object of rule 14 is to enable the Local Government to communicate to other Local Governments notice that declarations have been refused to such vessels

EXAMINATION OF HULL, &c

Hulls to be examined.

15. Surveyors are to determine whether the hulls of sea-going vessels are in good condition and fit for the service for which they are intended; and they are to examine the hulls of such vessels outside and inside once at least in every year, at such time as is most convenient to the owners.

Owner should give notice when a vessel is in dry dock.

16. Delays and inconvenience may to a great extent be prevented if notice is given by owners when a vessel, which requires a certificate, is undergoing repairs, or is in dry dock for any other purpose, as this notice might obviate the occasional necessity of re-docking a vessel at an inconvenient time. Surveyors should explain this to owners or their agents whenever an opportunity occurs.

New ships to be inspected before being painted or cemented.

17. The Government cannot regard as a satisfactory survey of a new steam ship a survey made only after the hull is complete, and is cemented and painted. Surveyors are therefore instructed to decline to grant declarations for any new steamer, unless they inspected her before she was painted or cemented. Any survey made while the vessel is being built is not to interfere with the complete inspection afterwards, but is to be made solely with a view of enabling the Surveyors to form an opinion of the workmanship, material, and construction.

The bottoms of new vessels need not be examined in dry dock after launching, if they have been examined by the Surveyor before launching, unless he has special reasons for considering it necessary.

Water-tight collision bulkheads and water-tight compartment round stern tube of screw shaft. Other bulkheads.

18. A collision water-tight bulkhead, also an after water-tight compartment to cover the stern tube to the screw shaft, must be fitted in all sea-going steamers, both new and old. As regards other bulkheads, the Surveyors should not refuse to grant a declaration upon the ground that they are not fitted, or are defective, unless they are of opinion that the want of, or the defective state of, the bulkheads renders the ship unseaworthy

As to screw tunnels.

19. It is necessary that the screw tunnels of all iron passenger steam vessels should be made of iron, and should be strongly constructed and water-tight, with a stuffing-box round the shaft at the forward end. If there are manholes or openings in the floor, care must be taken that all are efficiently fitted with covers or doors, so arranged that they can easily and rapidly be made water-tight. If means are provided for entering the tunnel by a separate opening abaft the engine-room bulkhead, the passage down from the upper deck must be strongly constructed of iron, perfectly secure, and water-tight. In some cases the inside of an iron mast serves for this purpose. Cocks, or valves, and pipes must be fitted to let the water off the floor of the tunnel, and must be made to open or shut from the upper or main deck. If there is an opening through the engine-room bulkhead into the tunnel, a properly constructed water-tight door should be fitted to it, arrangements being made that it can be easily opened or shut from the upper or main-deck. In vessels which have already received Surveyor's certificates, this regulation need not be enforced if there be an effective arrangement of water-tight bulkheads, decks, floors, and stuffing-boxes, which will so confine any water entering the ship from the aftermost stuffing-box as to prevent it from finding its way into the ship in such quantity as will interfere with her safety.

Examination of the bottom outside.

20. In no case should a Surveyor grant a declaration for a steamer the outside of the bottom of which has not been examined by a Surveyor during the twelve months preceding the date of survey, and in no case should a declaration be granted for a longer period than a period terminating within twelve months from the date of the last outside examination. For instance, if a steamer be examined outside on the 1st of January, she will (if the law be complied with) be entitled to a certificate for twelve months (i.e., until the 1st of January following). But supposing the survey is not completed until the 1st of February, the Surveyor is (if the vessel be fit) to grant his declaration for a period ending the 1st of January following and no longer, unless the vessel be re-docked for examination.

Examination of bottom to be made before painted. Cocks, &c., to be examined in dry dock.

21. The Surveyors, before granting a declaration for twelve months, should be careful to make a thorough examination of the outside of the bottom of the ship in a dry dock, after it has been cleaned. They should examine the pintles and braces of the rudder, as well as the bearings of the screw shaft and the different openings, valves, bolt-heads, &c., in the ship's bottom. All bolts, connecting cocks, valves, or pipes to the skin of the ship should have the heads outside, and such heads should be either countersunk or cupheaded. All discharge valves and sea-cocks should be taken out for examination while the vessel is in dry dock. Before Surveyors finally pass the hull of a vessel they are to see it fit to go into the water.

Ceiling to be removed as Surveyor thinks necessary.

22. For examining the internal parts of the ship, they should have parts of the ceiling removed, in order that they may ascertain the condition of the ship; they should also carefully examine the cement to ascertain its condition, and where they find it cracked or doubtful, they should extend their examination, and cause such a portion of the cement to be removed as may, in their judgment, be necessary to enable them to form a correct opinion as to the state of the ship covered by the cement. The* roses for the deck pumps, also those for the bilge pumps, should be taken out of the bilges and cleaned, and the sluices and cocks on the bulkheads inspected and put in good working order.

Examination of vessel in engine-room, coal bunkers, &c.

23. The Surveyors should examine very particularly the plating, stringers, frames, floors, &c., in the engine-room, boiler space, and coal bunkers, the bunkers of course being empty.

Entries in office book.

24. The date of the last outside inspection of the bottom is to be entered in the declaration, as it is from that date that the docking time is to count. If the hull is not passed at all, or not passed for the maximum time (twelve months), the fact should be noted in the declaration for the vessel. The repairs which have been executed from time to time should be recorded in the office book.

As to coamings, skylights, scuppers, ports, gratings, &c.

25. The height of the coamings round all openings in the main deck, and the means provided for securely protecting or fastening down all skylights, bunker openings, &c., as well as the sufficiency of the water-ports and scuppers for relieving the decks of water, are important items to be noted by the Surveyors in sea-going vessels coming under their survey. All side-lights should be fitted with deadlights, and all stern and other ports fitted in such a manner that they can be quickly and efficiently secured. All openings below the weather-deck in sea-going steam and sailing vessels carrying passengers or emigrants, whether such weather-deck be a poop, awning-deck, spar-deck, or forecastle, must be fitted with gratings or hatch covers, and tarpaulins, and also with means for effectually securing the tarpaulins down, and making the openings water-tight. Such gratings or hatch covers must be kept and secured in a suitable place, at all times accessible and near to the openings for which they are intended. Many casualties happen through the engine-room skylights, coamings, companions, &c., being of light construction and insufficiently secured, instead of being of sufficient strength to form permanent parts of the structure of the ship; casualties also arise through the fronts of poops and bridge-houses being weak and insufficiently secured. The fore and aft beams or "strong backs," in the hatchways and the hatches themselves are often too weak to bear the pressure of water which may find its way on to them in a heavy sea. The Surveyors should in granting declarations for passenger steamers look especially to these points, and should in like manner, in the case of ships other than passenger steamers, look to these amongst other points when reporting a ship for detention as unsafe

BOATS AND LIFE-BUOYS.

Dimensions of boats

26. It will be the duty of the Surveyor to take care that all steam ships are provided with the boats or rafts required by the law for the time being in force, both as to number and cubic contents; and to see that they are efficient, and in good order and ready for service, subject to the rules contained in these instructions. Surveyors are not to insist upon the precise lengths, breadths, and depths inserted in the table, but are to approve of any efficient boats of sufficient strength, the cubic contents of which are respectively equal to, or greater than, the cubic contents of the boats specified in the table laid down in rule.

If the smaller number of boats required by the law for the time being in force is carried, one of them must be a launch of at least the capacity named in column 2 of the said table.

If the larger number of boats is carried, the cubic contents (equal in their aggregate to the cubic contents required by law) may be spread in any way over the whole number of boats.

Rule for ascertaining the capacity of boats

27. To ascertain the cubic capacity of a boat. Measure the length and breadth outside and the depth inside. Multiply them together and by ·6; the product is the capacity of the boat in cubic feet. Thus, a boat 28 feet long, 8 ft 6 ins. broad, and 3 ft. 6 ins. deep will be regarded as having a capacity of $28 \times 8{\cdot}5 \times 3{\cdot}5 \times {\cdot}6 = 499{\cdot}8$, or 500 cubic feet. If the oars are pulled in rowlocks the bottom of the rowlock is to be considered the gunwale of the boat for ascertaining her depth

As to life boats

28. A life-boat, fitted with efficient and substantial air casings, is deemed to be capable of carrying one adult for every 10 cubic feet of her capacity. Thus a life-boat measuring $28 \times 8{\cdot}5 \times 3{\cdot}5$, whose cubic contents by the present rule are 500 cubic feet, is deemed to be sufficient for 50 adult persons. The space in the boat must be sufficient for the seating of the persons carried in it, and for the proper use of the oars.

Air cases

29. No boat should be passed as a life-boat unless she has for every person she carries, or, what is the same thing, for every 10 cubic feet computed as above, at least one and a half cubic feet of strong and serviceable inclosed air-tight compartments, so constructed, fitted, and arranged that water cannot find its way into them. That is to say, the life-boat measuring $28 \times 8{\cdot}5 \times 3{\cdot}5$, whose whole cubic contents are 500 cubic feet, and which is deemed to be sufficient for 50 adults, is to have 75 cubic feet occupied by inclosed air cases.

Zinc is not permitted in the construction of a life-boat or her air cases, neither is copper to be used if the boat is built of iron.

If the boat is built of wood, copper of a good substance is of course a good material for the air cases, but the Surveyor should not insist upon it being employed; if used he should see that it is not too thin, as cases have occurred in which air cases have been made of sheet copper not much thicker than tin foil, and the fraud has escaped detection at the time.

If the air cases are made of galvanised iron, care should be taken that the galvanising is well done, as otherwise it is nearly as bad as zinc.

The air-tight compartments or cases must be so distributed as to give the boat good buoyancy and stability, whether a part of the air cases should be under thwarts, or whether they should be all in the ends, or along the sides, will, so long as an efficient life-boat is obtained, be left to the option of the owner. If air cases are in the bottom of the boat, the depth of the boat is to be measured from the top of the bottom air cases. It is desirable that the coverings in the boats over the air cases be secured with screws or otherwise so as to enable the cases to be removed without difficulty for examination.

Spaces filled with or containing any material are not to be deemed air spaces.

No boat fitted with a steam-engine is to be passed as a life-boat.

No life-boat other than a metal one should be passed if carried sufficiently near the funnel as to be injuriously affected by the heat therefrom.

Build.

30. Life-boats should be built whale-boat fashion, both ends alike. They should have a sheer of about three-quarters of an inch to a foot, rising equally from the midships to the stem and stern, and they should be made buoyant in accordance with the preceding instructions. A square-sterned boat is not to be passed as a life-boat, and, excepting in small boats, the oars should be double-banked.

Compasses.

31. In sea-going vessels a boat's compass must be supplied for each of the life-boats required.

Boats to be hung in davits. Requisites for use in boats.

32. As regards requisites for use. All boats should be hung in davits and kept ready for service at any moment. The Surveyors should see that in all boats the full complement of oars, including steering oar and two spare oars at least, are provided (in large boats more than two spare oars ought to be provided); that each boat has two plugs for each plughole, attached with lanyards or chains, and one set and a half of thole pins or crutches attached to the boat by sound lanyards; a bailer, a rudder and tiller, or yoke and yoke lines; a painter of sufficient length, and a boat hook, the rudder and bailer to be attached to the boat by sufficiently long lanyards, and kept ready for use.

Lowering gear.

Means for speedily detaching the boats from the lower blocks of the davit tackles should be insisted upon; an ordinary fixed hook in the lower block shipping into a fixed eye in the boat should not be allowed. Surveyors should also see that the davits are strong enough, that they are so spaced that the boats can be swung out without unnecessary labour, that the boats' chocks can be expeditiously removed, and that the boats will not foul the ship's side in lowering when the ship has no list, and that the whole of the tackling, including davits, falls, blocks, eye-bolts, and rings, &c., is of sufficient strength to lower the boat, with its full complement on board, into the water. The boat's falls must be long enough to lower the boat into the water when the vessel is light. Life-lines should be fitted to the davits long enough to reach the water, when the vessel is light, and allowance made for the extreme roll of the ship.

Surveyors are to refuse declarations in cases in which the foregoing instructions are not fully carried out, but it is to be left to shipowners themselves to provide such methods as they please for lowering the boats, so long as the intention of the Legislature is complied with.

All the boats should be seen lowered into the water at every survey.

Equipments of life boats

33. In the case of life-boats, the Surveyor should see that the hatchet or tomahawk, which is to be kept in each end of each life-boat, is in good order, and attached with a lanyard, and that a mast or masts, with at least one good sail and proper gear for each, and a life-jacket or life-belt for each oarsman and one for the coxswain is also provided; a life-line in loops should run round the outside of the boat and be securely made fast.

Life jackets standard of

34. No life-jacket or belt should be passed that is not capable of floating in the water for 24 hours with 23 lb of iron suspended from it; and to ensure this buoyancy a life-jacket, in which the cork must be exposed and have a canvas back and straps only, should weigh 5 lb when dry.

Life-buoys, standard of

35. As regards life-buoys. No life-buoy stuffed with rushes or with cork shavings or other shavings, or granulated cork, or any loose material should be passed. All cork life-buoys should be built of solid cork and fitted with life-lines and loops securely seized to the life-buoy, and none should be passed that will not float for 24 hours in water with 32 lb of iron suspended from them. If life-buoys are not made of solid cork, then any other strong life-buoy of an approved pattern may be passed that is capable of floating in the water for 24 hours with 40 lb of iron suspended from it No contrivance is to be passed as a life-buoy that requires inflation before use. Life-buoys with lines attached should be secured by a toggle and becket, or any other similar method, so that they can be quickly released; they must not be lashed nor seized to the rail or any other part of the vessel. but must be kept so as to be ready for use at a moment's notice in case of an emergency.

Life-buoys should in all cases be carefully examined by the Surveyor, who will satisfy himself of the buoyancy, and see that the materials of which they are composed have not become sodden, and that the lines attached to them are sufficient Surveyors are to call the attention of owners and masters to the penalties imposed for not keeping the boats and efficient life-buoys in constant readiness for use.

Steam launches

36. As regards steam-launches or boats fitted with steam power, the contents taken up in the boat by the engine and boiler are not to be deemed part of the clear contents of the boat. The boilers of steam-launches should, as regards fittings and strength, comply with the same regulations as the main boilers. As regards the safety valves fitted to the boilers of steam-launches, and of other boats carried by sea-going steamers, the Surveyors should see that they are out of the control of the engineer when steam is up, and comply with the same rules as the safety valves on the main boilers. The lifting or easing gear for the valve should actually lift the valve and not merely the weight. The boilers should also have a steam-gauge, a glass water-gauge, and test cocks.

As to boats already passed

37. In carrying these instructions into effect, Surveyors are to be careful not to interfere unduly with life-boats passed before April 1884, provided their buoyancy and efficiency are equal or nearly equal to that indicated above; but in the case of new boats coming under survey for the first time, as well as in all cases in which the fittings of the boats require renewal, the rules contained in these instructions are to be strictly adhered to, whilst the Surveyors are to be careful not to interfere so as to condemn apparatus that may have been already passed, and that still remains efficient.

38*a*. Before granting a declaration or certificate of survey for a steam vessel, where the boilers and machinery are in charge of a native driver, the Surveyor should require the production of a certificate either from the Superintending Engineer or from some respectable engineering firm, to the effect that the pressure guages on the boiler or boilers have been overhauled and adjusted and are in proper order.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Sail power.

39. As a general rule, if sea going steamers are fitted with sufficient sail power to enable them to work as sailing vessels in the event of their machinery becoming disabled, no question need be raised. They should of course be provided with sufficient spare sails to be kept on board. All the sails must be examined by the Surveyors, who must at every survey be perfectly satisfied with their efficiency, as also with that of the standing and running gear.

Compasses to be adjusted to Surveyor satisfaction.

40. The compasses of every sea-going steam ship employed to carry passengers must be properly adjusted from time to time; such adjustment, in the case of ships surveyed as herein mentioned, to be made to the satisfaction of the Surveyor, and according to such regulations as may be issued by the Government.

The Surveyor should satisfy himself as to the proficiency of the person whose signature is attached to the adjustment certificate in question.

Standard compass.

41. Every foreign-going iron or composite built ship should have a standard compass fitted with the means of taking accurate bearings, and a table of errors for this compass should be furnished by the master.

Certificate of master and mate to be taken in certain cases.

42. In other cases the Surveyor should act as follows, viz.—

The Surveyor should, before he grants his declaration, receive a certificate from the owners to the following effect, viz.—"We the undersigned hereby certify that the compasses of the steamer (name of steamer) are in all respects to our satisfaction. We know the errors and can apply them."

Dated at

this day of 18 .

________________________Master.

________________________Mate.

"We hereby attest the above signatures and certify that the said (master's name) sailed as master. and that the said (mate's name) sailed as mate of the said vessel on her last voyage, ending 18 .

________________________Owners.

This certificate, which must be attested by the owners, must be signed by the master and mate, one of whom at least must have made the previous, and is going to make the next voyage in the vessel.

Deck pump to be fitted.

43. There must be for each compartment a pump of sufficient size, which can be worked from the upper deck. A rose or perforated box of sufficient size should be fitted at the end of the suction pipe of each pump, and means provided for clearing the end of the suction pipe. A trunk-way leading from the upper deck to the suction of each pump, large enough for a man to go down to the end of the suction pipe, is the best arrangement for this purpose.

It is very desirable that the steam winches (if any) be so fitted and arranged that the deck pumps can be worked by them as well as by hand.

Deck pumps, when not worked by machinery, should have handles at least long enough for two men to work at them.

Sounding pipes, &c.

44. There must be fitted at the bottom of each bulkhead means for ascertaining the depth of water in each compartment.

Engine-room pumps.

45. Pipes connected with pumps worked by the engines are to be carried through the bulkheads into the compartments fore and aft of the engine-room, so that each compartment can be pumped out separately by the engines as well as by the deck pump. The pipes should be well secured where they pass through the bulkheads, and it is very desirable that cocks or valves be fitted between these suction pipes and the bulkheads, to be capable of being opened or shut from the upper or main deck.

Pumps not necessary in fore peak, &c.

46. In all sea-going screw vessels there must be a strong water-tight deck over the cast-iron tube aft, so as to make a tank round the tube, and a properly fitted man-hole at the top or fore end. Collision bulkheads must also be fitted in sea-going vessels: if they are not fitted, the Surveyor should decline to grant a declaration. These compartments are generally small, and the Surveyor should not insist on a separate deck pump leading direct into them.

Steering gear

47. A spare tiller, properly fitted to the rudder head, relieving tackle, &c., should, in all sea-going and home-trade steamers, be kept near the after-steering gear ready for immediate service. Rudder pendants should also be securely fastened to the back of the rudder, with their ends led up to a place accessible in all weathers. In any case where the Surveyor is not satisfied that the rudder pendants are made fast so as to have sufficient power over the rudder, he should see that an efficient bumpkin is securely fitted, to which the rudder pendants must be made fast. The steering gear should be thoroughly overhauled at every survey, and taken to pieces and thoroughly examined at least once a year. The chains and blocks that are liable to interfere with or endanger the passengers or crew should be guarded by portable but properly secured guards.

It is very desirable that the man at the helm should be so placed that he has a clear look-out ahead, more especially in steamers that frequent crowded harbours or rivers.

Helm indicators.

48. In passing a helm indicator, the Surveyor should ascertain by actual trial that whenever the pointer moves to the word "port" on the dial or plate, wherever that word may be, it shows that the helm is ported, and whenever the pointer points to the word "starboard," wherever that word may be, it means that the helm is starboarded.

Meaning of port helm

49. In the foregoing directions, it is assumed that "port helm" means that the helm is so moved as to turn the ship's head to the right, and "starboard helm" means that the helm is so moved as to turn the ship's head to the left.

Lead lines.

50. A deep-sea lead-line of at least 120 fathoms, a lead of at least 28 lb weight, and a suitable reel, together with at least two hand lead-lines of at least 25 fathoms, and leads of at least 7 lb should be supplied to all foreign-going steamers In short-voyage steamers two hand lead-lines of 25 fathoms each and leads of at least 7 lb must be demanded. These are the minimum requirements. For a 1st class (i.e., twelve months) declaration double the number of lines and eads must be provided. The Surveyor should see that the lead-lines are properly marked. The following marks are those usually adopted:—

At 2 fathoms a piece of leather split in two strips.
" 3 " " " " three strips.
" 5 " " white bunting.
" 7 " " red bunting.
" 10 " " leather with a hole.
" 13 " " blue bunting.
" 15 " " white bunting.
" 17 " " red bunting.
" 20 " a strand with two knots tied in it.

It is always best to have the lines fitted with calico for white marks, bunting for red marks, and serge for blue marks, because a man can tell the difference by the feel in the dark.

Anchors chains cables hawsers, warps, &c

51. Surveyors must be very careful to see that each steam ship they survey is provided with chain cables and anchors duly certified under the Chain Cable Acts. (34 & 35 Victoria Chapter 101). When the stream and kedge anchors exceed 168 lb in weight they also must be tested in accordance with the same Acts. The Surveyors should upon each survey require the production of the test certificates of all the chain cables and anchors. When from any cause these cannot be produced, the Surveyors should require satisfactory proof that the provisions of the Acts have been complied with.

The Surveyors must also see that the chain cable and anchors on board are sufficient for the service and in good condition. The chain cables must be removed from the chain lockers at least once in twelve months, cleaned, if necessary, and the pins knocked out of the shackles. The shackle pins should be secured by small pins of hard wood.

The spare anchors should not be stowed below, but kept where they will be ready in case they are required.

Proper hawsers and warps must also be supplied.

y dis- signals

52. The signals specified in the first schedule of the English Merchant Shipping Act of 1873 shall be deemed to be signals of distress.

In the daytime.—The following signals numbered 1, 2, and 3, when used or displayed together or separately, shall be deemed to be signals of distress in the daytime:—(1) a gun fired at intervals of about a minute; (2) the international code signal of distress indicated by N C; (3) the distant signal, consisting of a square flag having either above or below it a ball, or anything resembling a ball.

At night.—The following signals numbered 1, 2, 3, when used or displayed together or separately, shall be deemed to be signals of distress:—(1) a gun fired at intervals of about a minute; (2) flames on the ship (as from a burning tar barrel, oil barrel, &c.); (3) rockets or shells, of any colour or description, fired one at a time at short intervals.

To be examined

53. The means for making signals of distress are to be carefully examined by the Surveyors, to see that they are kept dry and in good order, and are protected from fire and accident; and that the cannon or mortar, which is to be of at least the size below specified, is in good condition and ready for use. The means for making flames should be lights that burn in water, or some other approved arrangement.

Description of signals to be provided, size of gun, &c

54. The signals required are 12 blue lights, two of Holmes' storm or danger signal lights, and six of the smaller lights of the same description with means for attaching them to life-buoys; 12 rockets, each containing 16 ozs. of composition; one gun at least 3½ inches in the bore, or one mortar at least 5½ inches in the bore, with 12 charges of ammunition. The Socket Distress Signals of the Cotton Powder Company may be passed as sufficient for signals of distress, and they may be passed in lieu of guns or in lieu of rockets, but not as equivalent to both in sea-going steam ships and emigrant ships. When a gun is carried, each charge must contain 16 ozs. of pebble or bean powder in a flannel bag. An air-tight copper magazine, rammers, sponges, wads, priming wires, friction tubes, powder flask with fine powder for priming, and means for firing and withdrawing charges should be provided and carefully examined. The Holmes' Patent Storm and Danger Signal Lights must be supplied to each sea-going steam ship.

Rocket lockers.

55. The locker for keeping the rockets, blue lights, &c., should not be air-tight, but should have sufficient small safe openings to allow of the escape of any moisture generated; by this means the rockets, blue lights, &c., can be kept for a long period. Red pyrotechnic lights are dangerous.

Distress signals

56. Surveyors should in every case in which the regulation distress signals are not on board the passenger (emigrant) ships, and sea-going passenger steamers, which they may be called on to survey, decline to grant papers or declarations, unless a written guarantee is given to them that the signals shall be on board, and an opportunity given for inspecting them before the ship sails.

Fire hose

57. Passenger steamers going to sea are to be provided with a hose adapted for the purpose of extinguishing fire in any part of the ship, and capable of being connected with the engines of the ship or with the donkey engine if it can be worked from the main boiler. The Surveyor must take care that it answers the required purpose.

The fire-hoses should be connected, stretched to judge of their length, and thoroughly examined at every survey, and at least once a year (and at any other time that the Surveyor thinks it necessary) tested with the conductor in its place, by pumping water through them by the main or donkey engines at full speed. A proper conductor and metal bend or goose neck forms part of its equipment and must be provided. Generally leather hoses are the most durable, and should be supplied when a declaration for twelve months is required.

Deck to be caulked and have proper hatches, &c.

58. All decks and floors upon which passengers are carried, which are the main and lower decks only in sea-going steamers, must be caulked and properly secured. Sufficient light and ventilation must be provided. Scuttles and hatches are not considered as efficient means of ventilation. Proper and sufficient means of ingress and egress must be fitted. Companions or booby hatches must in all cases be fitted to the entrances to passenger spaces, and be so arranged as to open and shut easily. Surveyors should satisfy themselves that there are hatches to batten down in bad weather, or that otherwise the booby hatch is itself so strong, and so securely bolted as to be part and parcel of the ship, and so fitted that it can be securely closed.

Height, &c., of bulwarks

59. All sea-going passenger steamers must have planked bulwarks of such a height as is, in the Surveyor's judgment, necessary for the proper shelter and protection of the passengers, or rails, stanchions and a weather cloth, to give the required protection.

BOILERS AND SUPERHEATERS.

Board of Trade test certificates to be accepted

60. In the case of boilers built in the United Kingdom for steam ships applying for survey certificates under Act VII of 1884, the Surveyor is authorized to accept test certificates for such boilers duly signed by officers of the Board of Trade. If such a certificate cannot be produced, the addition (Y) in Rule 70 will be made to the factor of safety in computing the strength of the boiler.

The Surveyor to fix pressure on safety valves

61. The Surveyor is required to fix the limits of weight to be placed on the safety-valves of sea-going steam ships. The Surveyor having himself fixed the limits of the weight, is then required to declare that in his judgment the boiler and machinery are sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition, and that they will be sufficient for twelve months, or such other period as he may, in his judgment, determine. For his guidance the following directions are given.

Working pressure to be fixed by calculation

62. The Surveyor should fix the working pressure for boilers by a series of calculations of the strength of the various parts and according to the workmanship and material. The Surveyors should therefore receive and report on any plans of boilers intended for sea-going vessels that may be submitted in due course with the form of application and fees. They are not to report on any tracing or plan that is not accompanied by that form, or when they have reason to believe that the boilers, when finished, are not intended to be placed on board steamers that will require survey certificates. When the Surveyor has received plans and tracings of new boilers, or of alterations of boilers, and has approved of them, he will of course, be careful in making his examinations from time to time, to see that they are followed in construction. When he has not had the plans submitted, but is called in to survey a boiler, he will, of course measure the parts, note the details of construction, and, if necessary, bore the plates to ascertain their thickness, &c., before he gives his declaration.

The Surveyor cannot declare a boiler to be safe unless he is fully informed as to its construction, material, and workmanship. He should therefore be very careful how he ventures to give a declaration for a boiler that he is not called in to survey until after it is completed and fixed in the ship.

Respecting stays

63. In the case of new boilers the Surveyors may allow a stress not exceeding 7,000lb per square inch of net section on solid iron screwed stays and supporting flat surfaces, but the stress should not exceed 5,000lb when the stays have been welded or worked in the fire.

The areas of diagonal stays are found in the following way :—Find the area of a direct stay needed to support the surface; multiply this area by the length of the diagonal stay, and divide the product by the length of a line drawn at right angles to the surface supported to the end of the diagonal stay; the quotient will be the area of the diagonal stay required.

When gusset stays are used their area should be in excess of that found in the above way.

Girders for flat surfaces.

64. When the tops of combustion boxes or other parts of a boiler are supported by solid rectangular girders the following formula should be used for finding the working pressure to be allowed on the girders, assuming that they are not subjected to a greater temperature than the ordinary heat of steam; and in the case of combustion chambers, that the ends are fitted to the edges of the tube plate and the back plate of the combustion box :—

$$\frac{C \times d^2 \times T}{(W-P)\,D \times L} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

W = Width of combustion box in inches.
P = Pitch of supporting bolts in inches.
D = Distance between the girders from centre to centre in inches.
L = Length of girder in feet.
d = Depth of girder in inches.
T = Thickness of girder in inches.
C = 500 when the girder is fitted with one supporting bolt.
C = 750 when the girder is fitted with two or three supporting bolts.
C = 850 when the girder is fitted with four supporting bolts.

The working pressure for the supporting bolts and for the plate between them should be determined by the rule for ordinary stays.

Flat surfaces of boilers

65. The pressure on plates forming flat surfaces is found by the following formula :—

$$\frac{C \times (T+1)^2}{S-6} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

T = Thickness of the plate in sixteenths of an inch.
S = Surface supported in square inches.
C = Constant according to the following circumstances.
C = 100 when the plates are not exposed to the impact of heat of flame, and the stays are fitted with nuts and washers, the latter being at least three times the diameter of the stay and two-thirds the thickness of the plates they cover.*
C = 90 when the plates are not exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and the stays are fitted with nuts only.

---

* If the diameter of riveted washers be at least ⅔rds the pitch of the stays, and the thickness not less than the plates they cover, the constant may be increased to 150.

When doubling plates are fitted of the same thickness as the plates they cover, and not less in width than ⅔rds of the pitch of the stays, the constant may be increased to 160.

When doubling plates cover the whole of the flat surface the case should be submitted for the consideration of the Board.

C = 60 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plates, and the stays fitted with nuts and washers, the latter being at least three times the diameter of the stay and two-thirds the thickness of the plate they cover.

C = 54 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plate, and the stays fitted with nuts only.

C = 80 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, with water in contact with the plates, and the stays screwed into the plate and fitted with nuts.

C = 60 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, with water in contact with the plate, and the stays screwed into the plate, having the ends riveted over to form a substantial head.

C = 36 when the plates are exposed to the impact of heat or flame, and steam in contact with the plates, with the stays screwed into the plate, and having the ends riveto dover to form a substantial head.

When the riveted ends of screwed stays are much worn, or when the nuts are burned, the constants should be reduced, but the Surveyor must act according to the circumstances that present themselves at the time of survey ; and it is expected that in cases where the riveted ends of screwed stays in the combustion boxes and furnaces are found in this state it will be often necessary to reduce the constant 60 to about 36.

Compressive stress on tube plates.

66. The Surveyors should not in any case allow a greater compressive stress on the tube plates than is obtained by the following formula:—

$$\frac{(D-d) \times 15000}{W \times D} = \text{Working pressure.}$$

D = least horizontal distance between centres of tubes in inches.

d = inside diameter of ordinary tubes in inches.

T = thickness of tube plate in inches.

W = extreme width of combustion box in inches from front of tube plate to back of fire box, or distance between combustion box tube plates when boiler is double ended and the box common to the furnaces at both ends.

Wet-bottomed boilers.

67. The Surveyors should take care that wet-bottomed boilers, the outside of the bottom of which cannot be seen, are lifted for inspection at least once in every four years, or oftener, if the Surveyor considers it necessary. It will often be found necessary long before this to reduce the pressure, unless the boilers are lifted from their seats, for the latter to judge of their efficiency. If the owners in any special case have any good reasons for not wishing to lift them when the Surveyor requires it, the Surveyor should submit the whole case in detail to the Government for consideration. The Surveyor must recollect that he is not to certify as sufficient any boiler respecting which he cannot thoroughly satisfy himself.

The Surveyor should record in the hydraulic test book the dates on which wet-bottomed boilers are inspected when lifted, and whether the boilers were out of the ship when examined, and if out of the ship where they were examined. Boilers which have been lifted should in all cases be subjected to the hydraulic test before they are re-set.

Cylindrical boilers.

68. When cylindrical boilers are made of the best material with all the rivet holes drilled in place and all the seams fitted with double butt straps each of at least ⅝ the thickness of the plates they cover, and all the seams at least double riveted with rivets having an allowance of not more than 75 per cent. over the single shear, and provided that the boilers have been open to inspection during the whole period of construction, then five may be used as a factor of safety. The tensile strength of the iron is to be taken as equal to 47,000lb per square inch with the grain, and 40,000lb across the grain. But when the above conditions are not complied with, the additions in the following scale must be added to the factor 5, according to the circumstances of each case :—

A†	·15	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but drilled out of place after bending.
B†	·3	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but drilled out of place before bending.
C	·3	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but punched after bending instead of drilled.
D	·5	To be added when all the holes are fair and good in the longitudinal seams, but punched before bending.
E*	·75	To be added when all the holes are not fair and good in the longitudinal seams.
F	·1	To be added if the holes are all fair and good in the circumferential seams, but drilled out of place after bending.
G†	·15	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferential seams, but drilled before bending.
H	·15	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferential seams, but punched after bending.
I†	·2	To be added if the holes are fair and good in the circumferental seams, but punched before bending.
J*	·2	To be added if the holes are not fair and good in the circumferential seams.
K	·2	To be added if double butt straps are not fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are lap and double riveted.
L	·1	To be added if double butt straps are not fitted to the longitudinal seam, and the said seams are lap and treble riveted.
M	·3	To be added if only single butt straps are fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are double riveted.
N	·15	To be added if only single butt straps are fitted to the longitudinal seams, and the said seams are treble riveted.
O	1·	To be added when any description of joint in the longitudinal seams is single riveted.
P	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with single butt straps and are double riveted.
Q	·2	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with single butt straps and are single riveted.
R	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are fitted with double butt straps and are single riveted.
S†+	·1	To be added if the circumferential seams are lap joints and are double riveted.

T	·2	To be added if the circumferential seams are lap joints and are single riveted.
U	·25	To be added when the circumferential seams a re lap and the strakes of plates are not entirely under or over.
V‡	·3	To be ad ded when the boiler is of such a length as to fire from both ends, or is of unusual length, such as flue boilers; and the circumferential seams are fitted as described opposite P, R, and S, but of course when the circumferential seams are as described opposite Q and T, V ·3 will become V ·4.
W*	·4	To be added if the seams are not properly crossed.
X*	·4	To be added when the iron is in any way doubtful, and the Surveyor is not satisfied that it is of the best quality.
Y†††	1·65	To be added if the boiler is not open to inspection during the whole period of its construction.

Where marked * the allowance may be increased still further if the workmanship or material is very doubtful or very unsatisfactory.

† When the holes are to be rimered or bored out in place the case should be referred for orders as to the reduction or omission of A, B, G, and I as heretofore.

‡ When boilers are comparatively short the cases should be submitted for consideration as to the omission of V.

†† When the circumferential seams are lapped and treble-riveted the case should be submitted for orders.

††† When surveying boilers that have not been open to his inspection during construction, the Surveyor may accept test certificate granted by a Board of Trade Surveyor in the United Kingdom.

The strength of the joints is found by the following method:—

Then take iron as equal to 47,000lb per square inch and use the smaller of the two percentages as the strength of the joint, and adopt the factor of safety as found from the preceding scale—

* If the rivets are exposed to double shear multiply the percentage found by 1·75.

In the case of zigzag riveting, the strength through the plate diagonally between the rivets is equal to that horizontally between the rivets, when diagonal pitch $= \frac{6}{10}$ horizontal pitch $+ \frac{4}{10}$ diameter of rivet.

Butt straps.

Plates that are drilled in place must be taken apart and the burr taken off, and the holes slightly countersunk from the outsides.

69. Butt straps must be cut from plates and not from bars, and must be of as good a quality as the shell plates, and for the longitudinal seams must be cut across the fibre. The rivet holes may be punched or drilled when the plates are punched or drilled OUT of place, but when drilled in place, must be taken apart and the burr taken off and slightly countersunk from the outside.

When single butt straps are used and the rivet holes in them punched they must be one-eighth thicker than the plates they cover.

The diameter of the rivets must not be less than the thickness of the plates of which the shell is made; but it will be found when the plates are thin, or when lap joints or single butt straps are adopted, that the diameter of the rivets should be in excess of the thickness of the plates.

Dished ends must be stayed as flat surfaces; but when they are theoretically equal to the pressure needed, when considered as portions of spheres, the stays, when solid, may have a stress of 14,000lb. per square inch of net section, but the stress should not exceed 10,000lb. when the stays have been welded or worked in the fire.

Truly hemispherical ends subjected to internal pressure may be allowed double the pressure that is suitable for cylinder of the same diameter and thickness

All man-holes and openings must be stiffened with compensating rings of at least the same effective sectional area as the plates cut out, and in no case should the plate rings be less in thickness than the plates to which they are attached. The openings in the shells of cylindrical boilers should have their shorter axes placed longitudinally. It is very desirable that the compensating rings round openings in flat surfaces be made of L or T iron. Cast iron doors are not to be passed.

Circular furnaces.

The neutral part of boiler shells under steam domes must be efficiently stiffened and stayed, as serious accidents have arisen from the want of such precautions. The boilers must be tested by hydraulic pressure to twice the working pressure in the presence and to the satisfaction of the Surveyors.

70. Circular furnaces with the longitudinal joints welded or made with a butt strap :—

$$\frac{90{,}000 \times \text{the square of the thickness of the plate in inches.}}{(\text{Length in feet} + 1) \times \text{diameter in inches.}}$$

= working pressure per square inch, provided it does not exceed that found by the following formula :—

$$\frac{8{,}000 \times \text{thickness in inches}}{\text{diameter in inches}} = \left\{\begin{array}{l}\text{Working pressure}\\ \text{per square inch.}\end{array}\right.$$

The second formula limits the crushing stress on the material to 4,000lb per square inch.

The length is to be measured between the rings if the furnace is made with rings.

If the longitudinal joints instead of being butted are lap jointed in the ordinary way, then 70,000 is to be used instead of 90,000, excepting only where the lap is bevelled and so made as to give the flues the form of a true circle, when 80,000 may be used.

When the material or the workmanship is not of the best quality, the constants given above must be reduced, that is to say, the 90,000 will become 80,000; the 80,000 will become 70,000; the 70,000 will become 60,000; and when neither the material nor the workmanship are of the best quality, such constants will require to be further reduced, according to circumstances and the judgment of the Surveyor, as in the case of old boilers. One of the conditions of best workmanship is that the joints are either double riveted with single butt straps, or single riveted with double butt straps, and the holes drilled after the bending is done and when in place, and afterwards taken apart, the burr on the holes taken off, and the holes slightly countersunk from the outside.*

The working pressure for corrugated furnaces, practically circular and machine-made, provided the plane parts at the ends do not exceed six inches in length, and the plates are not less than $\frac{5}{16}$ inch thick, should not be greater than found by the following formula:—

$$\frac{9{,}000 \times \text{thickness in inches}}{\text{mean diameter in inches.}} = \left\{ \begin{array}{l} \text{Working pressure per} \\ \text{square inch.} \end{array} \right.$$

When the furnaces are riveted in two or more lengths the case should be submitted for consideration, as it may be necessary to make a deduction.

71. The strength of the joints of cylindrical superheaters and the factor of safety are found in a similar manner as for cylindrical boilers and steam receivers, but instead of using 47,000 lb as the tensile strength of iron 30,000 lb is adopted, unless where the heat or flame impinges at, or nearly at, right angles to the plate; then 22,400 lb is substituted.

Cylindrical superheaters

When a superheater is constructed with a tube subject to external pressure the working pressure should be ascertained by the rules given for circular furnaces, but the constants should be reduced as 30 to 47.

In all cases the internal steam pipes should be so fitted that the steam in flowing to them will pass over all the plates exposed to the impact of heat or flame.

Superheaters should, as regards survey, be deemed to be the most important parts of the boilers, and must be inspected inside and outside; those that cannot be entered on account of their size or arrangement must have a sufficient number of doors through which a thorough inspection of the whole of the interior can be made.

Special attention should be paid to the survey of superheaters, as with high pressure the plates may become dangerously weak, and not give any sound to

---

* The following examples will serve to show the application of the constants for the different cases that may arise:—

Furnaces with butt joints and drilled rivet holes.	90,000 when the longitudinal seams are welded. 90,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and fitted with single butt straps. 80,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with single butt straps. 90,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with double butt straps.
Furnaces with butt joints and punched rivet holes.	85,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and fitted with single butt straps. 75,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with single butt straps. 85,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and fitted with double butt straps.
Furnaces with lapped joints and drilled rivet holes.	80,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and bevelled. 75,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and not bevelled. 70,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and bevelled. 65,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and not bevelled.
Furnaces with lapped joints and punched rivet holes.	75,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and bevelled. 70,000 where the longitudinal seams are double riveted and not bevelled. 65,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and bevelled. 60,000 where the longitudinal seams are single riveted and not bevelled.

In the case of upright fire boxes of donkey or similar boilers, 10 per cent. should be deducted from the constant given above, applicable to the respective classes of work.

indicate their state when tested with a hammer; the plates should therefore be occasionally drilled.

Before commencing the survey, it is prudent to question the engineer officers as to the tendency of boilers to flame; if flaming is a frequent occurrence, extra care must be taken in the survey, and in fixing the pressure to be allowed as the tensile strength of the plate, when heated, is often reduced to about four tons per square inch. Drain pipes must in all cases be fitted to superheaters in which a collection of water in the bottom is possible.

Safety valve for superheaters.

72. Superheaters that can be shut off from the main boilers must be fitted with parliamentary safety valve of sufficient size, but the least size passed should be 3 inches diameter.

The flat ends of all boilers, as far as the steam space extends, and the ends of superheaters, should be fitted with shield, or baffle-plates, where exposed to the hot gases in the uptake; as all plates subjected to the direct impact of heat or flame are liable to get injured unless covered with water.

STEEL BOILERS.

73. The following should guide the Surveyors when the general quality of the steel has been found suitable for marine boilers.

Maker's test.

74. The steel-makers or boiler-makers should test one or more strips cut from each plate for tensile strength and elongation, and stamp both results on a part of the plate, where they can be easily seen when the boiler is constructed.

Surveyor's tests.

75. The Surveyor is not obliged to witness the foregoing tests, although it is very desirable that he should, when his other duties will allow him to do so, but he should, however, select at least one in four of these plates, either at the steel works or the boiler-maker's works, and witness the testing of at least one strip cut from each selected plate.

Rivet tests.

76. A few rivets of each size should be selected, and should be turned and tested for tensile stress. The tensile stress should be from 28 tons to 32 tons per square inch, with a contraction of area of about 60 per cent.

Tensile and bending tests.

77. If for the plates from which the Surveyor selects the above proportions a greater stress is wished than is allowed for iron, tests for tensile stress and elongation should be made, and those for which no reduction of thickness is asked may be tested for resistance to bending if preferred

Test strips.

78. The breadth of test strips for tensile stress should be about two inches, and the elongation, taken in a length of ten inches, should be about 25 per cent., and not less than 20 per cent. The test strips must be carefully prepared and measured, and they should be cut from the plate by a planing or shaping machine.

Bending tests.

79. The bending tests for plates not exposed to flame should be made with strips in their normal condition, but strips cut from furnaces, combustion boxes, &c., should be heated to a cherry red, then plunged into water of about 80°, and kept there until of the same temperature as the water, and then bent. The bending strips should not be less than two inches broad and 10 inches long, and they should be bent until they break, or until the sides are parallel at the distance from each other of not less than (3) three times the thickness of plate.

Tensile stress, &c.

80. The tensile stress of the plates not exposed to flame should be about 28 tons, and should not exceed 32 tons per square inch of section, and 28 tons should be the stress used in the calculations for cylindrical shells if the plate comply with all the conditions as stated herein; but when the minimum tensile stress of shell plates exceeds 28 tons, and allowance is wished for the excess, the case should be specially submitted for the consideration of Government. The tensile stress of furnace flanging and combustion-box plates should range from 26 tons to 30 tons per square inch.

81. All plates that are punched, flanged, or locally heated must be carefully annealed after being so treated. Annealing.

82. The rivet holes in the furnaces and longitudinal seams of cylindrical shells should be drilled, but if it is wished to punch them and afterwards bore or anneal the plates in a proper furnace, the proposed method of the punching and boring or annealing should be submitted for consideration before being done; but all punched holes should be made after bending. Perforating and annealing.

In all cases where assent has been given to for plates to be punched after bending and then annealed, the makers should stamp the plates with the words "punched after bending and then annealed," and in all cases where assent has been given for punching and afterwards boring plates, the words "punched and then bored" should be stamped on the plates.

83. Bars for stays should be tested. Solid steel screwed stays which have not been welded or otherwise worked after heating may be allowed a working stress of 9,000 lb per square inch of net section, provided the tensile stress is from 28 to 30 tons per square inch and the elongation in 10 inches about 25 per cent. and not less than 20 per cent. Steel stays which have been welded or worked in the fire have been found to be unreliable, therefore they should not be passed. Stress on stays.

84. If the flanging plates and those exposed to flame comply with the foregoing conditions, the constant in the Board of Trade rules for iron boilers may be increased as follows:— Constants for flat surfaces.

The constants for flat surfaces when they are supported by stays screwed into the plate and riveted 10 per cent.

The constants for flat surfaces when they are suported by stays screwed into the plate and nutted, or when the stays are nutted in the steam space, 25 per cent. This is also applicable to the constants for flat surfaces stiffened by revited washers or doubling strips and supported by nutted stays.

The constants for combustion-box girders 10 per cent.

85. The furnace constants about 10 per cent. when plane. When new corrugated and machine-made, and practically true circles, the working pressure is found by the following formula, provided that the plane parts at the ends do not exceed 6 inches in length, and the plates are not less than $\frac{5}{16}$ inch thick. Furnaces, plane and corrugated.

$\frac{12,500 \times T}{D}$ = working pressure.

T = thickness in inches.

D = mean diameter in inches.

(If the furnace is riveted in two or more lengths, the case should be submitted for consideration.)

86. A greater compressive stress should not be allowed on tube plates than that found by the following formula:— Compressive stress on tube plates.

$$\frac{(D-d)\ T \times 20,000}{W \times D} = \text{working pressure.}$$

D = least horizontal distances between centres of tubes in inches.

d = inside diameter of tubes in inches.

T = thickness of tube plate in inches.

W = extreme width of combustion-box in inches from front of tube-plate to back of fire-box, or distance between combustion-box tube-plates when boiler is double-ended and the box common to the furnaces at both ends.

Plate and rivet section.

87. The rivet section, if of iron, in the longitudinal seams of cylindrical shells, where lapped and at least double riveted, should not be less than $\frac{13}{8}$ times the net plate section, but if steel rivets are used, their section should be at least $\frac{28}{23}$ of the net section, if the plate of the tensile stress of the rivets is not less than 28 tons and not more than 32 tons per square inch. Therefore in calculating the working pressure the percentage strength of the rivets may be found in the usual way by the foregoing rules, but in the case of iron rivets, the percentage found should be divided by $\frac{13}{8}$, and in the case of steel rivets by $\frac{28}{23}$, the result being the percentages required. If the percentage strength of the rivets by calculation is less than the calculated percentage strength of the plate, calculate the working pressure by both percentages. When using the percentage strength of the plate, use the nominal factor of safety suitable for the method of construction, as by the rules for iron boilers; but when using the percentage strength of rivets, use 5 as the factor of safety. The less of the two pressures so found is the working pressure to be allowed for the cylindrical portion of the shell.

Local heating to be avoided.

88. Local heating of the plates should be avoided, as many plates have failed from having been so treated.

Welding, &c.

Steel plates which have been welded should not be passed if subjected to a tensile stress, and those welded and subject to a compressive stress should be efficiently annealed.

In other respect the boilers should comply with the rules for iron boilers.

If the tests are to be made at the steel works, the boiler-makers should inform the Surveyors in their district when and where they will be mad, so that the Surveyor from the nearest dist iiot to the steel works may be instructed to attend to them. The Surveyor should have due notice two or three days when the plates, &c., will be ready for the test pieces to be cut from them. (Surveyors should report all cases of failures of steel plates, &c., which may come to their knowledge.)

Steel for superheaters, &c.

89. If steel is proposed to be used in superheaters, the particulars should be submitted to the Government for consideration; but in all cases it should be discouraged for this purpose.

This applies to the unshielded uptakes of all boilers, including ordinary vertical donkey boilers.

Makers of steel.

90. When the steel is not to be made by any of the following makers, the case will receive the special consideration of the Government, and this should be specially noted by the Surveyors:—

Messrs. Beardmore.
" J. Brown & Co.
" C. Cammell & Co.
Mr. D. Colville.
The Landore Steel Company.
The Leeds Forge Company.
The Steel Company of Scotland.
The Weerdale Iron and Coal Company.
The West Cumberland Iron and Steel Company.

Boiler tracings, &c.

91. Difficulty has been experienced with regard to the survey of steel boilers, owing to the fact that some makers were not aware, at the time the boilers were commenced, that a Survey certificate would be necessary, and the makers have therefore omitted to submit tracings until the boilers have been nearly completed. Tracings of boilers may therefore be received for examination upon payment of the usual fee of Rs. 50, and the Surveyors may proceed as far as witnessing the hydraulic test before any further instalment of the survey fee is paid. Engineers and boiler makers should be advised of this arrangement.

BOILERS GENERAL.

Donkey boilers

92. Donkey boilers that are in any way attached to, or connected with, the main boilers, or with the machinery used for propelling the vessel, must be surveyed and be fitted the same way as the main boilers, and have a water and steam gauge, and all other fittings complete, and, as regards safety valves, must comply with the same regulations as the main boilers.

Stop valves

93. No boiler or steam chamber is to be so constructed, fitted, or arranged so that the escape of steam from it through the safety valve required by the Act of Parliament can be wholly, or partially, intercepted by the action of any other valve.

A stop valve must always be fitted between the boiler and the steam pipe, and, where two or more boilers are connected with a steam receiver or superheater, between each boiler and the superheater or steam receiver. The object of this is obvious, viz. to avoid the failure of all the boilers through the failure of one. The necks of stop valves should be as short as practicable.

Gauges, &c.

94. Each boiler must be fitted with a glass water-gauge, at least two test cocks, and steam-gauge; that is to say, each boiler must be fitted with all fittings as complete as if there were only one boiler. Boilers that fire both ends, and those of unusual width, must have water-gauges and test cocks at each end or side, as the case may be. When a steamer has more than one boiler, and these boilers are fitted with stop-valves, each boiler must be treated as a separate one, and have all the requisite fittings.

Boilers to be tested when too small to enter

95. When the boilers are not large enough for the Surveyors to get into, they should see them tested by hydraulic pressure at every annual survey at least. The hydraulic test should also be applied at every intermediate survey if the Surveyor considers it necessary. In the case of old boilers the Surveyors must use their own judgment as to the necessary pressure to be applied. This is in no way to interfere with the instructions to test all new boilers to double their working pressure, nor with the proper internal examination of all boilers that are large enough for the Surveyors to get into.

Whenever it is only stays that prevent getting in, he may order their removal, and he must see them properly replaced before granting his declaration.

Surveyors not to go into hot boilers.

96. If the boiler is too hot for the Surveyor to examine the inside efficiently, and with safety and convenience, he should decline to examine the boiler, and absolutely refuse to grant a declaration, until he can make an efficient internal examination.

Strength of boilers to be ascertained, and working pressure fixed by calculation.

97. Before testing a boiler, the Surveyor should examine it, take the necessary measurements, and calculate what the working pressure should be in accordance with the regulations, and only test to double the working pressure; if the test is not satisfactory the defects must be made good, and the boiler re-tested.

This instruction applies to superheaters and steam chests as well as to boilers.

The Surveyor who grants the declaration must examine the boilers thoroughly, and will be held responsible for the pressure allowed.

Hydraulic tes[t]

98. Surveyors should see all new boilers, and boilers that have been taken out of the ship for a thorough repair, tested by hydraulic pressure up to at least double the working pressure that will be allowed previous to the boilers being placed in the vessel, to test the workmanship, &c.; but the working pressure is to be determined by the strength of stays, thickness of plates, and strength of riveting, &c., and not by the hydraulic test.

The hydraulic test should in no case exceed twice the calculated working pressure of the boiler, and it is never to be applied until the boiler has been examined in accordance with paragraph and until the strength has been calculated from the necessary measurements taken from the boiler itself.

When the boilers are in the vessel the Surveyor may, at any time he thinks it necessary, before he gives a declaration, have them tested by hydraulic pressure to satisfy himself as to any doubtful part, or of places not easy of access, care being taken in the case of old boilers not to overstrain them; but the test must always exceed the working pressure.

Surveyors should pay particular attention to the examination and testing of steam pipes.

The hydraulic test should be applied to the boilers of all steamers that have not previously had a survey certificate, before a declaration is granted for them. The amount of the hydraulic pressure test and the date on which it was last applied to the boilers should be inserted in the Surveyor's declaration and recorded in the office boiler book.

Cast iron in boilers and steam-pipes

99. In all boilers in which the Surveyors find that cast iron is employed in such a manner as to be subject to the pressure of steam or water, great care must be taken. Cast iron must not be used for stays, and Surveyors should also discourage the use of cast iron for chocks and saddles for boilers. Particular attention should be paid to the chocking of boilers, more especially when they are fired athwartships.

Pressure fixed by one Surveyor not to be increased by another.

100. A pressure once allowed on the boiler of a sea-going steam ship is not to be increased unless, in cases where a Surveyor is of opinion that an increased pressure may with safety be allowed, he has communicated with the Surveyor who last surveyed the vessel; and on learning the reasons why the existing pressure was formerly allowed, the Surveyor is of opinion that it may be increased.

SAFETY VALVES.

Provisions of the Act as regards safety-valves

101. Every steam ship shall be provided with a safety valve upon each boiler, so constructed as to be out of the control of the engineer when the steam is up, and if such valve is in addition to the ordinary valve, it shall be so constructed as to have an area not less, and a pressure not greater, than the area of and pressure on that valve.

The Surveyors are instructed that in all new boilers, and whenever alterations can be easily made, the valve chest should be placed directly on the boiler; and the neck, or part between the chest and the flange which is bolted on to the boiler, should be as short as possible and be cast in one with the chest.

The Surveyors should note that it is not intended by this instruction that vessels with old boilers which have been previously passed with such an arrangement should be detained for the alterations to be carried out.

Of course in any case in which a Surveyor is of opinion that it is positively dangerous to have a length of pipe between the boilers and the safety valve chest, it is his duty at once to insist on the requisite alterations being made before granting a declaration.

If any person places an undue weight on the safety valve of any steam ship, or increases such weight beyond the limits fixed by the Engineer-Surveyor, he shall, in addition to any other liabilities he may incur by so doing, incur a penalty not exceeding one thousand rupees.

The Engineer-Surveyor shall declare, amongst other things, the limits of the weight to be placed on the safety valves; that the safety valves are such, and in such condition as required by these rules, and that the machinery is sufficient for the service for the time he fixes, and is in good condition for that time.

Area of safety-valves

102. The area of Government safety valves, or (when there is more than one) the combined area of the Government safety valves should be not less per square foot of fire-grate surface than that given in the following table opposite the boiler pressure intended, provided the valves are not less than three inches in diameter. This applies to new vessels or vessels which have not received survey certificate.

When, however, the valves are of the common description, and are made in accordance with the tables, it will be necessary to fit them with springs having great elasticity, or to provide other means to keep the accumulation within moderate limits.

If there is only one safety valve on a main boiler, the Surveyor should not grant a declaration without first referring the case for special instructions.

In the case of small boilers, such as launch boilers, if it is wished to fit valves smaller than three inches diameter, the case should be submitted for orders.

Examination of safety-valves.

103. The Surveyor, in his examination of the machinery and boilers, is particularly to direct his attention to the safety-valves, and whenever he considers it necessary, he is to satisfy himself as to the pressure on the boiler by actual trial.

The Surveyor is to fix the limits of the weights to be placed on the safety-valves, and the responsibility of not issuing a declaration before he is fully satisfied on the point is very grave. The law places on the Surveyors the responsibility of "declaring" that the boilers are in his judgment sufficient with the weights he states.

The Surveyor is to examine the whole of the valves, weights, and springs at every survey.

Surveyor to see valves weighted.

104. When the Surveyor has determined the amount of pressure, he is to see the valves weighted accordingly, and the weights or springs fixed in such a manner as to preclude the possibility of their shifting or in any way increasing the pressure. The limits of the weight on the valves is to be inserted in the declaration, and should it at any time come to a Surveyor's knowledge that the weights or the loading of the valve have been shifted, or otherwise altered, or that the valve has been in any way interfered with, so as to increase the pressure, he is at once to report the facts to Government.

Spring safety-valves.

105. If the following conditions are complied with, the Surveyor need raise no question as to the substitution of spring loaded valves for dead weighted valves :—

(1) That at least two separate valves are fitted to each boiler, except in the case of donkey or other small boilers, in which the grate surface does not exceed 14 square feet, in which case a single safety-valve may be passed, provided it is not less than three inches in diameter.

(2) That the valves are of the proper size.

(3) That the spring and valve be so cased in that it cannot be tampered with.

(4) That provision be made to prevent the valve flying off in case of the spring breaking.

(5) That the requisite safety-valve area is cased in the usual manner of Government valves

(6) That screw lifting gear be provided to ease all the valves.

(7) That the size of the steel of which the spring is made is to be found by the following formula:—

$$\sqrt[3]{\frac{s \times D}{c}} = d:$$

s = the load on the spring in lb.

D = the diameter of the spring (from centre to centre of wire) in inches.

d = the diameter, or side of square, of the wire in inches.

c = 8,000 for round steel.

c = 11,000 for square steel.

(8) That the springs be protected from the steam and impurities issuing from the valves.

(9) That when valves are loaded by direct springs, that the compressing screw abuts against a metal stop or washer, when the load sanctioned by the Surveyor is on the valve.

In no case is the Surveyor to give a declaration for a spring-loaded valve, unless he has examined it and is acquainted with the details of its construction, and unless he has tried it under full steam, and full firing, for at least 20 minutes with the feed-water and stop valve shut off. If the accumulation of pressure exceeds 10 per cent. of the loaded pressure, he should not give his declaration.

106. It is clearly the duty of the masters and engineers of vessels to see, in the intervals between the surveys, that the Government safety-valve or valves, as well as the other safety-valves and the rest of the machinery, are in proper working order. There is no provision in the Indian Steam-Ships' Act, exempting the owner of any vessel, on the ground that she has been surveyed, from any liability, civil or criminal, to which he would otherwise be subject. The Government safety-valve is to be out of the control of the engineer when the steam is up; this enactment, far from implying that he is not to have access to it, and to see to its working at proper intervals when the vessel is in port, rather implies the contrary; and the master should take care that the engineer has access to it for that purpose. A substantial lock, that cannot be easily tampered with, and as far as possible weather-proof, should be used for locking up the safety-valve boxes.

Owners, masters, and engineers to see that valves are kept in proper order

107. In witnessing the hydraulic tests of boilers, &c., and in witnessing all safety-valve tests for accumulation of pressure, the Surveyors are to use the pressure gauges supplied to them for the purpose.

All tests for pressure and accumulation are to be made with proper gauges

MACHINERY, &c.

108. The machinery to be surveyed comprises the engines and boilers used for propelling the vessel, and all the machinery connected therewith. The boilers of donkey engines are to be surveyed with the boilers and machinery of the vessel, when they are in any way connected with them.

What machinery is to be surveyed

109. Surveyors should, before granting declarations for any period exceeding six months, be careful when examining the machinery; (1) to have the upper brasses of all bearings taken off; (2) the shaft turned round and carefully examined; (3) the cylinder covers and junk rings lifted for examination of the pistons and cylinders; (4) the slide covers or bonnets removed for examination of the slides, and if necessary, the slides taken out; (5) the air and circulating pump covers lifted for examination of the pump buckets and valves; (6) the covers of all feed and bilge pump valves removed for the examination of the valves; (7) all discharge valves and sea-cocks taken out for examination; (8) the propeller shaft to be drawn when necessary, and it and the screw to be examined, and in all cases in which the shaft is drawn, it is to be seen again after the screw is secured in its place; (9) the bridges and fire-bars to be removed to permit of a thorough examination of the boilers and furnaces; (10) all cocks and valves on the boilers to be taken out and examined.

When to be taken to piece for examination

When a Surveyor has seen the machinery of a new steamer in the shop before it was put together, and is satisfied with it, it will not be necessary to have it again opened up on board the ship on the first survey for examination, unless in the Surveyor's judgment it is necessary after the vessel has been tried under steam.

It will rest with owners to determine whether or not they will have a certificate for any period exceeding six months; but if they do so determine, then the above instructions are to be complied with before a declaration is granted.

The above instructions are also to apply at least once a year to the survey of all sea-going steamers, with the exception named in the next paragraph, whatever may be the period for which the declarations are given, and to carry out the whole of the above, it must be done when the vessel is in dry dock.

After the examination of the parts has been made as above, the machinery must be tried under steam at full pressure.

Examination to be carefully made

110. In the examination of the machinery and boilers the Surveyor should in no case give a declaration without thoroughly satisfying himself that both the boilers and the machinery are sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition.

Separate feed arrangements to be fitted

111. The boilers of all new sea-going vessels, passenger tugs, and other small passenger vessels, should be fitted with separate feeding arrangements in addition to, but unconnected with, the main feed pipes and valves. In very small vessels an efficient hand pump, instead of the donkey pump, may be passed if the Surveyor has satisfied himself as to its efficiency when steam is up, and provided there are separate feed pipes and valves as directed above. This instruction is to apply also in the case of old vessels of the above description, when being fitted with new boilers.

The Surveyors should discourage the practice of using the same pump for the bilges and for feeding boilers.

Cocks, valves and pipes communicating with ship's side.

112. All inlets or outlets in the bottom or side of a vessel near to, at, or below the deep-load water-line other than the outlets of watercloset, soil, scupper, lavatory, and urinal pipes, must have cocks or valves fitted between the pipes and the ship's side or bottom: such cocks or valves must be attached to the skin of the ship, and be so arranged that they can be easily and expeditiously opened or closed at any time; and the cocks, valves, and the whole length of the pipes should be accessible at all times.

Guards on blow-off cocks.

113. With a view to the prevention of accidents to boilers through the blow-off cocks being left open after the boiler is run up, and to prevent water getting accidentally or intentionally into the ship by cocks being left open, and also to prevent the donkey engine becoming useless when used for feeding the boilers, all blow-off cocks and sea connexions are to be fitted with a guard over the plug, with a featherway in the same, and a key on the spanner, so that the spanner cannot be taken out unless the plug or cock is closed. One cock is to be fitted to the boiler, and another cock on the skin of the ship or on the side of the Kingston valve.

Non-return valves to pipes.

114. In all cases where pipes are so led or placed that water can run from the boiler or the sea into the bilge, either by accidentally or intentionally leaving a cock or valve open, they should be fitted with a non-return valve and a screw not attached, but which will set the valve down in its seat when necessary; the only exception to this is the firemen's ash cock, which should have a cock or valve on the ship's side, and be above the stoke-hole plates.

Exhaust pipe of donkey engine not led through ship's side

115. The exhaust pipe for the donkey engine must not be led through the ship's side, but must be led on deck or into the main waste-steam pipe; and in all cases it should have a drain-cock on it. This will prevent water getting into the pipe when the ship is deeply laden or rolling.

Cocks or valves standing exceptional distances from the ship's plating, that is where the necks are longer than is necessary for making the joint, are to be discouraged, and if passed, they should be made of brass or gun-metal, and well bracketed.

Non-return valves on feed cocks.

116. Where the feed-cock or valve is so placed and arranged that more than one boiler can be fed at the same time through this cock or valve, a non-return valve must be fitted between each boiler and this cock or valve; but it is very desirable that all feed-cocks or valves should have a non-return valve fitted between the boiler and the cock or valve.

Cast-iron stand-pipes or cocks through which hot brine has to pass must never be passed.

Outlets of watercloset and scupper pipes.

117. In the case of the outlets of watercloset, soil, scupper, lavatory and urinal pipes which are below the weather deck, there should be an elbow of good substantial metal other than cast-iron or lead, and the pipe connected with this elbow should, if of lead, have a sufficient bend to provide for expansion in the pipe or any movement from the working of the ship. Pipes, no matter of what material they may be constructed, are never to be fitted in a direct line between the aparture in the ship's side and its connexion with the deck, or closet, or other fitting. Unless the watercloset and scupper pipes and their outlets are fitted in the way hereby required, or in a manner that will in the opinion of the Surveyor be more or equally efficient and safe, the Surveyor should refuse to grant a declaration. This paragraph applies only to sea-going vessels coming under survey for the first time.

Spare gear and stores to be carried

118. No question as to gear need be raised if the following spare gear and stores are supplied. The heavier portions of this gear must have been fitted and tried in its place, and must be kept on board where access can at all times be had to it:—

1 pair of connecting-rod brasses.
1 air-pump bucket, and rod, with guide.
1 circulating pump bucket and rod
1 air-pump head valve, seat, and guard.
1 set of india-rubber valves for air pumps.
1 circulating pump head valve, seat and guard.
1 set of india-rubber valves for circulating pumps.
2 main bearing bolts and nuts.
2 connecting-rod bolts and nuts.
2 piston-rod bolts and nuts.
8 screw shaft coupling bolts and nuts.
1 set of piston springs.
3 sets, if of india-rubber, or 1 set if of metal, of feed-pump valves and seats.
3 sets, if of india-rubber, or 1 set if of metal, of bilge pump valves and seats.
1 hydrometer.
Boiler tubes, 3 for each boiler.
100 iron assorted bolts, nuts, and washers, screwed, but need not be turned.
12 brass bolts and nuts, assorted, turned and fitted.
50 iron " " " "
50 condenser tubes.
100 sets of packing for condenser tube ends, or an equivalent.
At least one spare spring of each size for escape valves.
1 set of water gauge glasses.
$\frac{1}{10}$th of the total number of fire-bars necessary.
3 plates of iron, assorted.
6 bars of iron, assorted
1 complete set of stocks, dies, and taps, suitable for the engines.
1 smith's anvil.
1 fitter's vice.
Ratchet-braces, and suitable drills.
1 copper or metal hammer.
Suitable blocks and tacking for lifting weights.
1 dozen files, assorted, and handles for the same.
1 set of drifts, or expanders for boiler tubes.
1 set of safety valve springs (if so fitted) for every four valves; if there are not four valves, then at least one set of springs must be carried.
1 screw jack.
And a set of engineer's tools suitable for the service, including hammers and chisels for vice and forge; solder and soldering iron; sheets of tin and copper; spelter; muriatic acid, or other equivalent, &c., &c.

Sizes of shafting.

119. Main, and tunnel, and propeller shafts must not be passed without reference to Government if found to be less in diameter than that found by the following rules :—

For compound engine, with two cylinders :—

$$\text{Diameter of shaft in inches} = \sqrt[3]{\frac{(d^2 \times P) + (D^2 \times 15)}{f}} C,$$ where d=diameter of high pressure cylinder in inches.

D=diameter of low pressure cylinder in inches.

P=boiler pressure.

C=length of crank in inches.

f=constant from following table.

For ordinary condensing engines, with two cylinders, when the pressure is not low :—

$$\text{Diameter of shaft in inches} = \sqrt[3]{\frac{D^2 \times P \times 2}{f}} C,$$ where D=diameter of cylinder.

P=boiler pressure.

C=length of crank in inches.

f=constant from following table

Surveyors should not grant a declaration for twelve months whenever they have any doubt whatever as to the efficiency of any portion of the vessel, or her machinery, for such period.

Distilling apparatus for making fresh water.

120. The distilling apparatus of emigrant ships must be taken to pieces every voyage, except in the cases of steamers holding passenger certificates, which must be taken to pieces at least once every six months, or oftener, if the Surveyor thinks it necessary, and the tubes or coils tested to at least twice the highest working pressure of the boiler from which the apparatus can be worked, and the machinery and boilers thoroughly examined. After the distilling apparatus is put together again, it must be tested as to the quantity and quality of the water made.

How to be examined, and what is to be capable of doing

The water must be perfectly cool, pure, and fit to drink immediately it is drawn off from the filter. No distilling apparatus is to be passed, unless fitted with a suitable sized filter, charged with animal charcoal, the charcoal must be taken out, cleansed, or renewed every voyage, except in cases of steamers holding passenger certificates, in which case it need not be taken out, unless the Surveyor think it necessary, oftener than every six months. In such cases (where sea-going steamers are coming frequently in for survey under the Emigration Acts, and such complete examination is not made previous to each voyage,) the Surveyor will be held wholly responsible for the efficiency of the apparatus; but the quantity and quality of the water must be tried previous to every voyage. It therefore rests with him whether he orders the distilling apparatus to be taken to pieces every voyage or not. The boilers must be at least equal in strength to the boilers of passenger steamers, and must have the same fittings as is necessary for them, in accordance with the Regulations. The Surveyor must satisfy himself as to the capability of the man who is to have charge of the apparatus.

The steam for working the apparatus is not to be taken from the main boilers. No exhaust steam must be permitted to go into the condenser if appliances for the introduction of lubricants be fitted to the steam pipes, or steam cylinder of the pumping engine. The boiler of the apparatus must not be filled or fed with water from the surface condensers of the main engines, and must not be fitted with cocks, &c., for the introduction of tallow or oil.

When the water is pumped into the condenser, there should be an escape valve fitted to it, which cannot be readily tampered with; and if the condensing portion of the apparatus or the cooler and filter be unfit to bear the pressure on the boiler, an efficient safety-valve, that cannot be readily overloaded, should be fitted between the steam-pipe and the apparatus.

121. It is advisable that the donkey-engine for pumping water through the condenser be so fitted that it can be available in case of emergency for extinguishing fire in any part of the ship; a leather hose, with suitable bends and conductors, are to be supplied for this purpose.

Pump for distilling apparatus to be fitted as fire engine.

122. The following list of tools and materials must be provided for distilling apparatus:—

Stores to be carried with distilling apparatus.

- 1 set of stoking tools.
- 1 scaling tool.
- 1 spanner for boiler doors.
- 1 set of fire-bars, suitable for boiler.
- 1 14-inch flat bastard file.
- 1 14-inch half round file.
- 1 10-inch round file.
- 3 file handles
- 2 hand cold-chisels.
- 1 chipping hammer.
- 1 pair patent gas-tongs.
- 1 soldering iron.
- 10 lbs. of solder.
- 2 ,, of rosin.
- 6 gauge-glasses.
- 24 india-rubber gauge-glass washers.
- 30 bolts and nuts, assorted.
- 1 slide-rod for donkey-pump.
- 5 lbs. spun-yarn.
- 10 ,, cotton-waste.
- 1 deal box, with lock complete.
- 2 gallons machinery oil.
- Animal charcoal sufficient to charge the filter at least twice.
- 1 can for machinery oil.
- 1 oil-feeder.
- 1 small bench vice.
- 1 ratchet-brace.
- 4 drills, assorted.
- 1 set dies and taps, suitable for the bolts.
- 2 glass salinometers.
- 1 hydrometer and pot.
- 1 shifting spanner.
- 1 lamp for engineer.

And other articles that the particular distiller and boiler supplied may, in the Surveyor's judgment, require.

List of distilling apparatus that have been approved by the :—

1. Normandy's patent.
2. Winchester and Graveley's patent
3. Chaptin & Co 's patent.
4. Brown & Co.'s patent.
5. Fraser's patent.
6. Hocking & Co.'s patent.
7. Kirkaldy's patent.
8. Siddeley & Co.'s patent.
9. Rayner's patent.
10. Union S. S Co.'s patent.
11. Willoughby & Co.'s patent.

ACCIDENTS AND DAMAGES.

Damage to be inspected

123. In all cases in which a steam-ship has sustained damage from any accident, or other cause, affecting her seaworthiness or efficiency in any part of her hull, equipments, or machinery, the surveyors of the port where the vessel may be, are to go on board and ascertain the extent of the damage. In doing so they will take care not to make any change in the position or condition of things on board, which would be at all likely to affect any legal evidence, should an enquiry into the case afterwards be considered necessary.

It is extremely important that the vessel should be surveyed and a report forwarded as early as possible.

Report to be sent to Government.

124. They are forthwith to send a report, together with a rough figured sketch, showing the position of all the bulkheads, and distinguishing the compartments that may have been injured, to the Government, in order that the certificate may be cancelled, if necessary In this report they are to state whether the vessel is rendered inefficient or unseaworthy either in hull or machinery; and whether, in their opinion, the certificate should be cancelled or only temporarily withdrawn.

Lights to be examined.

125. The Surveyor should at the same time examine the lights and screens of the vessel, and if the vessel with which she has been in collision is in port, he should examine the lights of that vessel also, and should forward to the Government, in a separate report, a statement respecting the size, condition, and place of her lamps and screens, and whether, in his opinion, they comply with the requirements of the regulations, and if not, in what respects they are deficient.

The Surveyors shall be very careful in wording their reports as to lights and screens, as they may be used in evidence in cases taken into court.

Surveyor may order vessel to be docked

126. If, in consequence of any accident to a steam-ship, or for any other reason, the Surveyor considers it necessary to require the vessel to be taken into dock for the purpose of surveying the hull thereof, he may do so, but he is to be cautious never to exercise this power unless the circumstances of the case actually require it.

Certificate to be held during repairs

127. Unless directions to the contrary are given, the Surveyor is to hold the certificate of the vessel during the time she is under repair, and for this purpose he is to require it of the master, unless the damage is such that in the Surveyor's judgment the certificate should be cancelled, in which case he should forward it to the officer authorized to grant certificates of survey under the Act, who will obtain the orders of Government on the subject. In all cases of serious damage the certificates should be cancelled.

Certificate may be endorsed if it has not been cancelled.

128. When the vessel is in every respect rendered sea-worthy and efficient, both in hull and machinery, to the entire satisfaction of the Surveyor, he is to put an endorsement on the back of the certificate and duplicate, if they have not previously been cancelled to the effect that the damage has been made good so as to last for the period for which the certificate was granted, and return the certificate to the master or owner, or his agent, and allow the vessel to proceed.

CERTIFICATES OF MASTERS, MATES, AND ENGINEERS.

Surveyors inspect certificates.

129. It will be the duty of the Surveyor to report in his declaration that the certificates of the Master, Mates, Engineers, and Engine-drivers of the vessel under survey are such as are required by the Act.

The Surveyors are to state on their declarations, in the appropriate place, the number and description of these certificates.

The details of the officers' certificates should be taken from the certificates themselves at every survey, the Surveyors carefully noting that by their certificates the officers are qualified for the positions they occupy.

PASSENGER ACCOMMODATION.*

Passenger in sea-going steam-ships

130. The upper weather deck and the upper surface of the poop, forecastle, and spar deck being exposed to the weather are not to be included in the measurements for passengers in sea-going steamers, during the foul season as defined by Government notification No. 1366, dated Simla, 26th May 1882, nor on voyages extending to 120 hours and upwards; nor are the poop, round-house, or deck-house to be measured for passengers, unless they form part of the permanent structure of the vessel. They should in all cases be railed round at the top to prevent passengers from falling overboard.

Care should be taken that the means provided for ventilation are sufficient to allow of a good supply of air in the event of the hatches being closed in bad weather. Places ventilated by hatches only, or in which provision is not made for a sufficient supply of air and light under ALL circumstances, should not be measured for passengers.

Persons for space check.

131. Sea-going steam-ships carrying more than 12 passengers, and not coming within the operation of the Passengers Act, 1876, are to be measured as follows:—

Saloon or 1st class.—The number of properly constructed fixed berths or sofas that are fitted determine the number of passengers to be allowed, if sufficient light and ventilation is provided and a reasonable amount of floor space—2nd class.—The number is found in the same way as the 1st class. The number of 3rd-class passengers may be determined in like manner, if berths are fitted; if not, the number of passengers for each deck shall be determined according to the following scale:—

	Fair season, square feet.	Foul season, square feet.	Long voyage.
Hurricane deck, bridge or poop ...	6	0	0
Main or upper deck ...	6	9	0
Upper 'tween decks ..	9	9	9
Lower „ „ ...	12	15	15

When 'tween deck passengers are carried, for each person so carried a space of 4 square feet is to be allowed on the upper deck or hurricane deck, bridge or poop.

The height of between decks to be in no case less than 6 feet from deck to deck when 'tween deck passengers are carried.

The breadth of the deck is taken inside the waterway, or at the greatest tumble home, if the sides do tumble home.

* Detailed instructions as to the proper mode of ascertaining the maximum number of passengers to be carried under the different classes of passenger certificates will be found in the appendix. (See Appendix A.)

Deduction when stores are carried in passenger space

132. When cargo or stores are carried in the space measured for passengers, the area in superficial feet of deck space so occupied is to be deducted.

In the following rules the words "deck passengers" are intended to include all passengers, whether carried on deck or in the cabins, except passengers entered as 2nd class or saloon passengers in the way bill.

Water-closets in sea going ships.

133. In addition to, and exclusive of, closets for cabin and saloon passengers, closets are to be provided for the exclusive use of deck passengers in the ratio of three for every two hundred deck passengers allowed by the survey certificate, and a fair proportion are to be allotted to the sole use of women and children, and so marked outside. Clear passages to these closets must always be maintained. In no case is a less number than two to be provided. These closets should be clean, well lighted, and well drained, and must be of sufficient height and size, and effectually protected from weather and sea.

Arrangement necessary when cattle are carried

134. If cattle are carried under cover on the same level deck as passengers, they are to be separated from the passenger space by a moveable close bulkhead running athwartships across the deck, and extending from the deck to the covering above, or must be otherwise efficiently separated.

When the cattle are not under cover, the space occupied by the cattle shall be effectually shut off from the passenger space by bulk-heads, wooden partitions, or otherwise. The partitions need not be close; but efficient wash-boards must be fitted to prevent the dung or urine of the cattle from getting on to the passenger space.

If cattle are carried either in the 'tween decks or holds, then the passenger space must be effectually shut off from the cattle space, and separately ventilated, so that no effluvia from the cattle space can escape into the passenger space.

135. The Surveyors should measure the ship in sections or parts, as set forth in the applications for survey, taking care that some definite limits, or some mark, or conspicuous object, indicates the boundary of each space which is measured separately.

The deck space set apart for deck or third class passengers is always to be measured from abaft the windlass (as at present), to a mark which, in paddle steamers, shall be placed over the shafts, and in other vessels shall be an arbitrary line marked vertically on the house or bulwarks amidships, or as near thereto as convenient. From this mark aft the deck space is to be measured as far as the deck or third class passengers accommodation extends, whether to a break or raised quarter-deck; to a poop or the entire after length of the deck, to the wheel, as the case may be. The breadth of measurement shall be to a point which affords good and convenient foot-room.

Spaces on deck for first class passengers, and for all passengers other than those included in the category of deck or third class passengers, are to be measured in a similar manner.

The breadths are taken from inside the gutter waterway, or the inside edge of the raised covering board, or inside edge of the rail, if the bulwarks tumble home further than the inside edge of water-way or covering board. Clear area means the space after all incumbrances, such as hatchways, skylights, companions, steam-chest casings, funnel casings, wheel, windlass, binnacles, masts, dunnage for luggage, boats carried inboard, and fittings for cattle, &c., are deducted, and in no case is the crew space to be included.

Where cargo, cattle, &c., are carried in the space measured for passengers in sea-going passenger

NOTICE.

The 6th November 1885.—The following draft of Rules, which it is proposed to issue under section 29 of Act VI of 1884 and section 36 of Act VII of 1884, is published for general information. These rules will be taken into consideration on the expiry of a month from the date of their first publication in the Calcutta Gazette; and the Lieutenant-Governor will receive and give due attention to any objections or suggestions which may be made by any person within that period.

J. WARE EDGAR,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

Rules for the examination of, and grant of Certificates to, Masters of Inland Steam Vessels under section 29, Act VI of 1884.

1. Candidates for certificates as first class Masters of Inland Steam vessels must be not less than twenty-one years of age and must have served either three years at sea and three years as Mate of a river steamer or Master of a flat, or six years as Mate of a river steamer or Master of a river flat.

2. Every such Candidate shall apply for permission to appear for examination in a printed form* to be filled up by him and forwarded to the Port Officer, Calcutta, together with such documentary evidence as shall satisfy the Port Officer that the Candidate has complied with the conditions of Rule 66 above, and that he is of sober habits and of good character. Each Candidate shall forward with his application a fee of Rs. 16, which will not be returned in case of failure.

* Copies will be supplied to intending Candidates by the Port Officer, Calcutta, on application

3. The Port Officer shall notify to accepted Candidates the date and hour of examination, in fixing which he shall have due regard to the convenience of their employers. The fees of any Candidate who is not accepted shall be returned to him.

4. The examination of Candidates shall ordinarily be conducted by the Committee which sits quarterly for the examination of Pilots, assisted by two persons selected in each case by the Port Officer, holding certificates as first class Masters of Inland Steam Vessels, duly in force under these rules. But the Port Officer may at any time convene a Special Committee for the examination of Candidates under these rules.

5. Before proceeding to examine any Candidate in the manner provided in the rule next following, the Committee shall carefully test his ability to distinguish the following colours which enter largely into the combinations of signals by day and night, viz. black, white, red, green, yellow, and blue. In the event of any Candidate failing to satisfy completely the usual tests for colour-blindness in respect of all of these colours, the Committee will decline to proceed with his examination, and will report the case through the Port Officer for the information of the local Government.

6. The Committee will examine each Candidate apart, and vivâ voce, in each and all of the following subjects:—

(1).—The names and courses of the river reaches from Calcutta to Mud Point, and the extent of the sands in such reaches.

(2).—The sets of the tides within the said limits.

(3).—The names of all points in the river within the said limits.

(4).—The candidate's general knowledge of soundings in the channels and over the sands within the said limits.

(5).—The tracks over the Moyapore and Royapore flats, the Fultah tracks, and the Eastern and Western Guts.

(6).—The marks for fair channels or hauling in to reaches where such exist.

(7).—The marks for the limits of sands where such exist.

(8).—The rules of the road.

(9).—The management of river steamers under all contingencies of meeting, overtaking, and passing vessels in all possible positions within the limits described in No. 1.

(10).—The Tide Table.

(11).—The rules of the Port of Calcutta including the prescribed Storm Signals.

(12).—The provisions of Act VI of 1884, and the rules framed under it.

7. If the Candidate satisfy the Committee as to his knowledge of the subjects set forth in the foregoing rule, and generally as to his competency to command an inland river steamer, they shall certify the same to the Port Officer, who will then grant a certificate of such competency in the form appended to these rules

8. Every certificate of competency shall be made in duplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the person entitled to the certificate and the other shall be kept and recorded by the Port Office.

9. No Candidate who fails to satisfy the Committee shall be at liberty to submit a fresh application for examination until six months have passed from the date of such failure.

10. A candidate for a certificate as second class Master of an Inland Steam vessel must produce satisfactory certificates of sobriety and intelligence, and that he has served four years as mate of a small steam vessel or helmsman of a large steam vessel, and shall be examined by the examining body defined in rule 69 virâ voce as to his knowledge in the following subjects :—Colours, rule of the road and lights, management of small river steamers, rules of the Port of Calcutta and storm signals.

11. A fee of Rs. 6 will be charged, which will not be returned in case of failure.

REGULATIONS

RELATING TO THE

EXAMINATIONS OF ENGINEERS AND ENGINE-DRIVERS.

UNDER SECTION 29, ACT VI OF 1884, AND SECTION 36, ACT VII OF 1884.

EXAMINATION OF ENGINEERS FOR CERTIFICATES OF COMPETENCY.

Proliminary.

The penalties incurred by persons proceeding to sea in the capacity of Engineers or Engine-drivers without possessing the necessary certificate are laid down in the Indian Steam Ships Act, VII of 1884, and the Inland Steam Vessels Act, VI of 1884.

Certificates of competency granted to persons who pass requisite examinations.

1. CERTIFICATES of competency will be granted to those persons who pass the requisite examinations, and otherwise comply with the requisite conditions.

2. Examinations will be held once every two months by the Chief Engineer of the Dockyard, and two Engineers who will be appointed by the local Government under section 22 of Act VI of 1881, and section 26 of Act VII of 1884. The Chief Engineer will be the permanent President of the Examining Committee, and the other members will usually be selected from the Superintending Engineers of the different Steam Companies in the port. Each examiner will receive a fee of Rs. 32 for the examination.

3. Every certificate of competency shall be made in duplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the person entitled to the certificate and the other shall be kept and recorded by the Port Officer.

Examinations continued till all the candidates are examined.

4. The examinations will commence early in the forenoon and will be continued from day to day until all the candidates whose names appear upon the Port Officer's list on the day of examination are examined.

Application how to be made.

5. The application for examination is to be made on Form Exn. 3, which may be obtained at the Port Office. The Exn. 3 properly filled in, together with the Candidate's testimonials, must be lodged with the Port Officer not later than the day before the day of examination.

Testimonials required.

6. Applicants will be required to produce, in addition to the usual Forms of Discharge, satisfactory testimonials as to sobriety, experience, ability, and general good conduct for at least the 12 months immediately preceding the date of application to be examined, and without producing them no person will be examined. If the service has been on shore the testimonial must be signed by an Employer, if at sea by the Master Managing Owner, and Chief or Superintending Engineer.

7. As such testimonials and discharges have to be verified before the candidates can be examined, it is desirable that they should be handed in, together with the Form Exn. 3, as early as possible.

Testimonials of Foreigners.

8. The testimonials of servitude of Forcigners and of British Seamen serving in foreign vessels which cannot be verified by the Port Officer must be confirmed either by the Consul of the country to which the ship in which the candidate served belonged, or by some other recognized official authority of that country; or by the testimony of some credible person on the spot having personal knowledge of the facts required to be established. The production, however, of such proofs will not of necessity be deemed sufficient. Each case must be decided on its own merits; and if the sufficiency of the proofs given appears to be at all doubtful, the point must be referred to the Local Government.

Certificate as to age. 9. Should any doubt exist as to the age of a Candidate he will be required to produce a Certificate of Birth or Baptism.

Foreigners to know English. 10. Foreigners must prove to the satisfaction of the Examiners that they can speak and write the English language sufficiently well to perform the duties required of them on board a British vessel.

Verification of services, &c., by Articles. 11. Services which cannot be verified by proper entries in the Articles of the Ships in which the Candidates have served cannot be counted.

12. Service performed on rivers, or within smooth or partially smooth water limits, cannot be accepted, except for inland steamers.

Assistant Engineer. 13. Service entered upon a Ship's Articles as having been performed in the capacity of Assistant Engineer must be supported by proof of the Candidate having acted as 2nd, 3rd, 4th, &c., Engineer, as the case may be.

Service in Home or Coasting Trade. 14. The service required by the Regulations to qualify a candidate for examination is to be regarded as referring to service in the Foreign Trade only. Service in the Home or Coasting Trade must amount to at least half as much again as that required by the Regulations to make up for the time spent in Port, e.g., for every twelve months' service under the Regulations, eighteen months' service in Home Trade or Coasting Vessels will be required.

Service as Engineer only accepted as qualifying service. 15. Service in the engine-room (afterwards referred to) for qualifying a candidate to be examined for a Second-class Engineer's Certificate must be only in those capacities which afford opportunities of obtaining practical experience as an engineer; and service in the capacity of fireman stoker, donkeyman, greaser, winchmen, labourer, engineer's steward, or any other capacity than that of engineer taking watch will not be accepted

Service as Third Engineer. 16. Service as a Third Engineer in Steamers, where more than three Engineers are carried, their names being entered on the Articles in their respective ratings on board, may be accepted as equivalent to service as Second Engineer for qualifying a candidate for examination for a First-class Engineer's Certificate, provided the candidate has been in possession of a Second-class Engineer's Certificate (Imperial or under an Order in Council) during the performance of such service, and his name has been entered on the Articles as Third Engineer.

Service as Second Engineer where Certificate not required. 17. If a candidate has served in the Engine-Room with a Second-class Certificate in the capacity of a Second Engineer in Foreign-going Steam Ships under 100 horse-power or in Home Trade Passenger Steam Ships, which are not required by law to carry a certificated Second Engineer, his service may be accepted without reference to the vessel's horse-power, provided he has been on the ship's articles as Second Engineer, and produces certificates of discharge as Second Engineer, for the required period.

First-class Certificates without Second. 18. The Port Officer may see fit to allow an applicant who, in consequence of service abroad, has been unable to obtain a Second-class Certificate, to be examined for a First-class Certificate, without first obtaining a Certificate of the lower grade, provided he is able to satisfy him as to the satisfactory character of his services.

Unsuccessful candidates may in certain cases receive Certificates for inferior grade. 19. In such cases (para. 17) or in cases where the candidate is already in possession of a Certificate of Service, should he fail to pass the examination for the higher grade, but passes the examination for the lower grade, he may receive a Certificate accordingly, but no part of the fee will be returned.

Consequence of failure in such cases. 20. A candidate who under the above regulation (para. 17) has been permitted to be examined for a First-class Certificate without first obtaining a Second-class Certificate of Competency, and who fails in his vivâ voce examination, may not be re-examined for a Certificate of the higher grade until he has served 12 months as Second Engineer with a Second-class Engineer's Certificate of Competency as required by the Regulations.

21. If the candidate fails altogether, i.e., both in the examination for the lower as well as for the higher grade of Certificate (para. 17) he may be re-examined for a Second-class Certificate only, subject to the usual regulations relating to failure.

Inaccurate statements of service.

22. Every person who makes, or procures to be made, or assists in making, any false representation for the purpose of obtaining for himself or for any other person a Certificate of Competency, shall for each offence be liable to punishment under chapters V and XI of the Indian Penal Code.

23. These provisions will be strictly enforced by the Local Government, and any candidate for a Certificate of Competency as First or Second Engineer who shall, for the purpose of obtaining any such Certificate, present to the Examiner any "application to be examined for a Certificate of Competency" (Exn. 3.), or statutory declaration containing any false or inaccurate statement of service, and any other person who shall make or prepare, or assist in making or preparing, any such false or inaccurate statement will be prosecuted.

If after passing examination services are found to have been insufficient.

24. If after a candidate has passed his examination it is discovered on further investigation, e.g., by verification on the part of the Port Officer that his services are insufficient to entitle him to receive a Certificate of the grade for which he has passed, it will not be granted to him; but if the Local Government are satisfied that the error in the calculation of his services did not occur through any fault or wilful misrepresentation on his part, the Certificate may be issued to him, or he may be allowed to go up for re-examination without payment of further fee, when he has performed the amount of service in which he was deficient as the Local Government may direct.

Certificate of lower grade may be granted on certain conditions

25. If, in such a case, the applicant's services are sufficient to entitle him to receive a Certificate of a lower grade, provided as aforesaid he has not wilfully misrepresented the amount of his services, an Inferior Certificate may be granted to him, and the difference between the fee paid by him for the Superior Certificate and the fee payable for the Inferior Certificate may be placed to his credit.

Must be re-examined for certificate of higher grade

26. In such a case when the applicant has by further service made up the time in which he was found to be short, he may be required, before he can receive the higher Certificate, to be re-examined in all the subjects.

Qualifications for Certificates of Competency

27. AS ENGINE-DRIVERS.

a. Such certificates of competency will be granted only to those persons who possess the qualifications hereinafter detailed and otherwise comply with the requisite conditions.

b. Applications for such certificates of competency are to be made to the Port Officer, on whose recommendation examiners will be appointed to test the qualifications of candidates under the following rules.

c. A candidate for a certificate of competency under these rules must have attained the age of twenty-two years.

d. He must have the testimonial shown in one of the appendices to this code of rules filled up by the engineer with whom he has last served, or his other testimonials must contain all the particulars therein required.

e. The fee for examination under these rules will be ten rupees, and the amount must be remitted with the application to the Port Officer. If a candidate fails, no part of the fee he has paid will be returned to him.

f. Such certificates will be granted by the Port Officer in the form prescribed in one of the appendices to this code.

g. In case of failure, candidates may be re-examined de novo after a lapse of six months, if the past examination showed that they might reasonably be expected to qualify.

FOR INLAND STEAMERS UNDER ACT VI OF 1884.

a. He must have been three years principal serang or tindal in the engine-room of a steamer, or have been three years in charges of the engine of a factory or mill under a European manager or engineer, as well as one year principal serang or tindal or assistant engineer in the engine-room of a steamer under a certificated-engineer, or he must prove that he has been employed for not less than five years in the making and repairing of engines, and has been employed as assistant in the engine-room of a steamer or in charge of a steam launch for a period of not less than twelve months.

b. He must pass a vivâ voce examination before the Board of Examiners as to the working of an engine and the use of its different parts.

c. He must be able to show his practical qualifications by one week's trial in a Government steamer after fulfilling the other tests to which he will be subjected.

FOR SEA-GOING STEAMERS UNDER ACT VII OF 1884.

A candidate will be required to have served three years as principal serang or as tindal in the engine-room of a sea-going steamer under a certificated Enginer, and to show, in addition to the qualifications required of a candidate for a certificate of competency as engine-driver of an inland steamer under Act VI of 1884, a knowledge of the use of brine cocks and blowing off of the salinometer, and of the care of the boiler in salt-water.

FOR INLAND STEAMERS UNDER ACT VI OF 1884.

Qualification of candidate for Inland Engineer's Certificate.

28. A candidate for a certificate as Engineer for Inland Steamers must have served an appreaticeship to an Engineer, of three years in England or five years in India, and must prove that during the period of his apprenticeship he has been employed on the making and repairing of engines. Or, if he has not served an apprenticeship, he must prove that for not less than three years in England or five years in India he has been employed as a journeyman or master-hand in some factory or workshop on the making or repairing of engines. In either case he must also have served two years thereafter as an engine-driver or Engineer afloat. Any one who has passed as a Second class Engineer under Act VII of 1884 will be considered to be qualified as an Engineer for inland steamers.

FOR SEA-GOING STEAMERS.

Qualification of candidate for Second class Engineer's Certificate.

29. SECOND-CLASS ENGINEER.—A candidate for a Second-class Engineer's Certificate must be 21 years of age;

He must have served an apprenticeship to an Engineer for three years in England or five in India at least, and prove that during the period of his apprenticeship he has been employed on the making and repairing of engines. Or if he has not served an apprenticeship, he must prove that for not less than three years in England or five in India he has been employed as a journeyman mechanic in some factory or workshop on the making or repairing of engines.* In either case he must also have served one year at sea in the engine-room as an Engineer on the Watch in the Foreign, or eighteen months in the Home or Coasting Trade; or

He must have served at least four years at sea in the engine-room as an Engineer on the Watch in the Foreign, or six years in the Home, or Coasting Trade.

* These may be either land or marine engines.

FOR BOTH CLASSES OF CANDIDATES.

(a) He must be able to give a description of boilers and the methods of staying them, together with the use and management of the different valves, cocks, pipes, and connections.

(b) He must understand how to correct defects from accident, decay, &c., and the means of repairing such defects.

(c) He must understand the use of the barometer, thermometer, and salinometer, and the principles on which they are constructed.

(d) He must state the causes, effects, and usual remedies for incrustation and corrosion.

(e) He must be able to state how a temporary or permanent repair could be effected in case of derangement of a part of the machinery, or total break down.

(f) He must write a legible hand, and understand the first five rules of arithmetic, and decimals, and their application to questions about consumption of stores, and full capacities of tanks and bunkers, the duty of pumps, and the direct strains in engines and boilers.

(g) He must be able to pass a creditable examination as to the various constructions of paddle and screw engines in general use; as to the details of the different working parts, external and internal, and the use of each part.

FOR SEA-GOING STEAMERS.

Qualification of candidate for First-class Engineer's Certificate.

30. FIRST-CLASS ENGINEER.—A candidate for a First-class Engineer's Certificate must be 22 years of age.

31. In addition to the qualification required for a Second-class Engineer;

(a) He must have served for one year at sea as Second Engineer with a Second-class Engineer's Certificate of Competency (See also para. 15 as regards service as Third Engineer).

(b) The Examiner should therefore be satisfied that an applicant for a First-class Engineer's Certificate has not only been in possession of a Second-class Certificate for the periods above stated, but that he has actually served for such periods in the engine-room, at sea with a Second-class Certificate, in the capacities referred to, and that his name has been entered in the articles of agreement accordingly. (See also para. 17)

32. (a) He will be required to make an intelligible hand sketch, or a working drawing of some one or more of the principal parts of a steam-engine; and to mark in, without a copy, all the necessary dimensions in figures, so that the sketch or drawing could be worked from.*

(b) He must also be able to take off and calculate indicator diagrams.

(c) He must be able to calculate safety-valve pressures and the strength of the boiler, shell, stay, and rivetting.

(d) He must be able to state the general proportions borne by the principal parts of the machinery to each other, and to calculate the direct strain, the twisting strain, and the bending strain in rectangular bars, and in round bars with given loads.

(e) He must be able to explain the method of testing and altering the setting of the slide valves, and to sketch about what difference any alteration in the slide valve will make in the indicator diagram, and of testing the fairness of the paddle and screw shafts and of adjusting them.

(f) He must be conversant with surface condensation, superheating, and the working of steam expansively.

(g.) His knowledge of arithmetic must include the mensuration of superficies and solids and the extraction of the square root, and the application of these rules to questions relating to the power, duty and economy of engines and boilers, and to the strains in rods, shafts, and levers of the engine.

Service in the Royal Navy or Indian Marine.

33. Retired Engineers of the Royal Navy or Indian Marine are qualified to be examined for First-class Engineer's Certificates in the Mercantile Marine, provided that their character and ability have been satisfactory.

Engineers.

34. Retired First-class Assistant or Assistant Engineers of the Royal Navy or Indian Marine may be examined for Second-class Engineer's Certificates in the Mercantile Marine under similar conditions.

Assistants Engineers

35. Temporary service in the Royal Navy or Indian Marine does not count.

Temporary service.

36. Service performed on shore in the capacity of Engineer Artificer may count as workshop service to qualify a candidate for examination for a Second-class Engineer's Certificate of Competency in the Mercantile Marine.

Engineer Artificer.

37. Application for permission to be examined must be made to the Port Officer.

Fees.

38. Candidates for examination, in making their application on Form Exn. 3, will be required to pay the examination fees before any step is taken, whether by inquiring into their services or testing their qualifications, &c.

39. The fee for examination must be paid to the Port Officer.

Fees to be paid by applicants for examination. (S. 133, Exn. 17.)

40. If a candidate fails in his examination, no part of the fee he has paid will be returned to him.

41. The fees are as follow:—

Engine-driver's Certificate - -	Rs.	10
Inland Engineer's Certificate - -	,,	12
Second-class Engineer's Certificate -	,,	12
First-class Engineer's Certificate -	,,	24
First-class Engineer's Certificate if candidate is already in possession of a Second-class Certificate of competency granted by the Board of Trade or by the Government of a British Possession under Section 8 of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869 - - - - -	,,	12
Renewal of any certificate - -	,,	5

General Rules as to Examinations

42. All books necessary for the use of candidates under examination will be provided by the Local Government, and applicants will not be permitted to take into the examination room any book, paper, document, or memoranda of any description whatever, and subject to the provisions referred to hereafter. They will also not be allowed to work out their problems on a slate or on waste paper.

Candidates not to take books, &c., into examination room.

43. Candidates will be allowed in the time allotted to cancel any part of their work, and when required additional papers will be supplied by the examiners. These additional sheets must be attached to and form part of the examination papers.

44. Candidates for First-class Certificates have to pass an examination in Rough Working Drawing, which may be either hand sketches clearly dimensioned and complete in the necessary views and sections, or drawings to a scale. Drawing boards and T squares will be provided by the Local Government, but the applicants will have to bring with them any drawing instruments they may require.*

Punishment for breaking rules.

45. In the event of any candidate being discovered copying from another, or affording any assistance or giving any information to another, or communicating in any way with another during the time of examination, he will be regarded as having failed in his examination, and will be turned back for three months, in the same manner as if he had failed in the practical part of the examination; and no part of the fees he may have paid for examination will be returned to him.

Leaving examination room.

46. If a candidate leaves the room before answering any question which has been given to him, he cannot afterwards be permitted to answer it, but the Examiners may substitute other data or another question.

Questions from Form Exn. 15a.

47. All applicants presenting themselves for examination will be required to give written answers to eight out of a list of ten questions selected from Form Exn. 15a.,† "Elementary "Questions for the first examinations of Engineers for certificates of competency." These questions are intended to furnish a record to some extent of the candidate's knowledge at the time of his examination, and also to induce the candidates to pay more attention to their handwriting and spelling.

48. The Form Exn. 15b.,† on which these answers will be written, contains also some questions as to the experience of the applicant, to be answered by him in writing.

49. Examiners may add to their vivâ voce questions on the practical management of steam engines and boilers any of those contained in Exn. 15a.

50. If at the expiration of the time allowed the Candidate has worked out correctly the whole of the questions set to him, and given satisfactory answers in the vivâ voce examination, he will be declared to have passed.

51. If at the expiration of the time allowed he has not worked out the whole of the questions set to him, but if the result of the vivâ voce examination taken in connection with the answers to such of the questions as he has worked out is sufficient to satisfy the Examiner that the applicant is competent to take charge of engines, he will be declared to have passed.

52. In other cases he will be declared to have failed.

53. A report of the examination, and the examination papers, will be forwarded to the Port Officer on the Form Exn. 15).

Notification of having passed will be given to successful candidates. (Exn. 16.)

54. If the candidate passes he will receive the Form Exn. 16, which authorises the Port Officer to issue the Certificate to the candidate, whose testimonials, &c., will be returned at the same time. It is therefore important that the port of destination of the certificate should be the same on both the Form Exn. 16 and the Form Exn. 2. If circumstances should make any alteration necessary, the examiners should see that it is made in both forms, otherwise delay in the issue of the certificate may be caused.

Failure.

55. If the applicant fails in the vivâ voce or practical part of the examination he may not present himself for re-examination until he can produce proofs of THREE MONTHS' further service at sea as Engineer from the date of failure. If he fails in arithmetic or drawing only, he may come up again at any time. Engine-drivers may be examined de novo after six months, if the past examination shewed that they might reasonably be expected to qualify.

P. B. ROBERTS, C.E., Executive Engineer,
Nuddea Rivers Division.

Berhampore, the 16th November 1885.

The following revised advertisement is published in substitution of that which appeared at page 1084, Part II of the Calcutta Gazette of the 9th July 1884 :—

The Indian Law Reports,

Published under Authority.

THE Indian Law Reports, published under the authority of the Governor-General in Council, appear in monthly parts, published as soon as possible after the first of each month at Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad, and comprise four series—one for the Calcutta High Court, a second for the Madras High Court, a third for the Bombay High Court, and a fourth for the Allahabad High Court. The cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from each High Court are reported in the Series for that High Court. Cases heard by the Privy Council on appeal from Provinces in India not subject to any High Court are reported in the Calcutta Series.

The Calcutta Series is distributed by the Bengal Secretariat; the copies for subscribers registered by Messrs Thacker, Spink & Co, are distributed by that firm; and the Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad Series are distributed direct from Madras, Bombay, and Allahabad respectively.

In supersession of the previous advertisements, on and from the 1st January 1885, the terms of subscription and sale will be as follows —

Terms of subscription payable annually in advance.

PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations. or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th October, 1885:—

No. 17 OF 1885.

A Bill rendering it permissive to the members of the Maimon Community to declare themselves subject to Muhammadan Law.

WHEREAS there is in the Presidency of Bombay and elsewhere a class of persons known as Maimons, and questions have from time to time arisen in the case of some of those persons as to the law by which in certain particulars they are governed, and whereas some of those persons consider that they are governed or desire to be governed in those particulars by the Muhammadan law as established in the Hanafi School;

And whereas it is expedient that a procedure should be provided whereby the applicability of that law to them in those particulars could be placed beyond dispute;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Maimons Act, 1886.

Declaration to be made by Maimons.

2. (1) When any Maimon who has attained his majority has declared in manner next hereinafter provided that he desires to be governed by the Muhammadan law as established in the Hanafi School, that law shall thereafter, notwithstanding any custom to the contrary, apply to him in each part of British India in the same particulars and to the same extent as it applies to other persons in that part of British India who are governed by it.

(2) A declaration to take effect under sub-section (1) must be made by a written instrument under the hand of the person making the same, in the form given in the schedule to this Act or in a form to the like effect, and must—

(a) if made in a part of British India in which the Indian Registration Act, 1877, is for the time being in force, be registered during his lifetime under that Act; and [Act III of 1877. • 33] III of 1877.

(b) if made elsewhere, be executed before, and authenticated by, a notary public or a Court, Judge, Magistrate, British Consul or Vice-Consul or representative of Her Majesty or of the Government of India.

(3) Nothing in this Act shall prevent any person being or becoming subject to any form of Muhammadan law in any other manner than that provided by this Act.

THE SCHEDULE.

FORM OF DECLARATION.

I hereby declare that I wish to be governed to the extent provided by the Maimons Act, 1886, by the Muhammadan law as established in the Hanafi School.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. THE Maimons, like the Khojás, were originally Hindus, and have been converted to Muhammadanism, but though they are said, as a rule, to be Muhammadans in a fuller sense than the great body of the Khojás, it has been held by the Courts that certain sections of them are in some particulars still governed by Hindu customs instead of by Muhammadan law.

2. From a petition lately received by the Government, it appears that to a large number of the Maimons in question this position is not satisfactory. They hold that they should be governed, or they wish to be governed, by the Muhammadan law of the Hanafi School, and they ask that it may be declared by the legislature that they are so governed.

3. It is not to be expected that any such declaration would be made by the legislature unless it were shown that it was desired by the entire community to which it would apply, and it must be admitted that there is a want of unanimity among them on this subject.

It seems but reasonable, however, that some simple procedure should be provided by which the petitioners and other members of the Maimon class, who may be of their way of thinking, would be enabled to secure the application to themselves of those portions of the Muhammadan law which are applied by our Courts to ordinary Muhammadans, and to avoid all risk of being held to be governed by customs which are distasteful to them, and which it is to be apprehended are far from being well settled.

4. Such a procedure is to be found in the clause which it has been proposed to insert in the Khojá Succession Bill now under consideration, and which provides that a Khojá of full age may by a registered declaration withdraw himself from the peculiar law of succession by which Khojás are to be governed and place himself under the Muhammadan law of succession.

The present Bill has been prepared with a view to providing a similar procedure for Maimons. It is, however, not restricted to the matter of succession, as the difficulty which it is intended to meet is not confined to that branch of the law; and as, from all that has appeared up to this, the Hanafi form of the Muhammadan law is the only one to which Maimons would desire to be subject, it provides for the application to them only of that form of the law.

5. As it is obviously undesirable that any doubt should be thrown on the legal position of Maimons who may be already fully subject to the Muhammadan law, or that it should be suggested that a Maimon could not after the passing of the Bill become fully subject to that law in any way in which he, in common with Hindus and others, might become subject to it at present, a clause has been inserted in the Bill, providing that nothing therein contained shall prevent any person from being or becoming subject to any form of Muhammadan law in any other manner than that provided by the Bill.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor-General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 22nd October, 1885:—

No. 18 OF 1885.

THE INDIAN TRAMWAYS BILL, 1885.

CONTENTS.

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 1-4.

Supplemental Provisions.

A Bill to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of Tramways.

WHEREAS it is expedient to facilitate the construction and to regulate the working of tramways, It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preliminary.

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Tramways Act, 1886; and

(2) It shall come into force at once.

Local extent.

2. (1) It extends in the first instance to the whole of British India, except the territories administered by the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, the Governor of Bombay in Council, and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

(2) But the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, the Governor of Bombay in Council or the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may, by notification in the official Gazette, extend this Act to the whole or any part of the territories under his administration.

Definitions.

3. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

[Act XIII, 1885, s. 3, clause (7).]

(1) "local authority" means a municipal committee, district board, body of port commissioners or other authority legally entitled to, or entrusted by the Government with, the control or management of a municipal or local fund:

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 2.]

(2) "road" means the way of a road, street, thoroughfare, passage or place along or across which a tramway authorised under this Act is, or is intended to be, laid, and includes the surface soil and sub-soil of a road, and the footway and drains of a road, and any bridge, culvert or causeway forming part of a road:

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 3.]

(3) "road-authority", in relation to a road, means—

(a) if a local authority maintains and repairs the road, then that authority:

(b) if a local authority does not maintain and repair the road, and the road is neither vested in Her Majesty nor maintained and repaired by the Government, then the person in whom the road is vested; and

(c) if a local authority does not maintain and repair the road, and the road is vested in Her Majesty or maintained and repaired by the Government, then the Local Government:

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 3.]

(4) "circle", in relation to a local authority or road-authority, means the area within the control of that authority:

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 2.]

(5) "tramway" means a tramway, or any part of a tramway, or any siding, turnout, connection, line or track belonging to a tramway:

(6) "order" means an order authorising the construction of a tramway under this Act, and includes a further order substituted for, or amending, extending or varying, that order:

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 4, 24, 43 & 44; and Act XXII, 1883, Schedule, Articles 1 and 26.]

(7) "promoter" means a local authority or person in whose favour an order has been made, and includes a local authority or person on whom the rights and liabilities conferred and imposed on the promoter by this Act and the order and any rules made under the Act, as to the construction, maintenance and use of the tramway, have devolved:

(8) "undertaking" includes all moveable and immoveable property of the promoter suitable to and used by him for the purposes of the tramway:

(9) "carriage", in the case of a tramway on which steam-power or any other mechanical power is used, includes an engine worked on the tramway for the purpose of producing that power

(10) "toll" includes any charge leviable in respect of the use of a tramway:

(11) "lessee" means a person to whom a lease has been granted of the right of user of a tramway and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls:

(12) "District Magistrate" includes an officer empowered by the Local Government by name or by virtue of his office to discharge within any local area all or any of the functions of a District Magistrate under this Act:

(13) "Collector" means the chief officer in charge of the revenue-administration of a district, and includes an officer empowered by the Local Government by name or by virtue of his office to discharge within any local area the functions of a Collector under this Act; and

(14) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made by the Local Government under this Act.

Orders authorising the Construction of Tramways.

Application for and consent necessary to making of order.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 4.]

4. (1) The Local Government may make an order authorising the construction of a tramway in a circle on the application of—

(a) the local authority of the circle, with, where that authority is not the road-authority of a road or part of a road to be traversed by the tramway, the consent of the road-authority in respect of that road or part; or

(b) any person with the consent of the local authority and, where that authority is not the road-authority of a road or part of a road to be traversed by the tramway, of the road-authority in respect of that road or part:

Provided that, if any part of the proposed tramway is to traverse land which is not included within the limits of a municipality or of a cantonment, the Local Government shall not make the order without the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council.

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 5-7.

(2) A local authority shall not make an application for an order, or be deemed to consent to an application being made by any person for an order, unless the making of the application or the giving of the consent has been approved by the local authority in manner prescribed.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 5.]

Consent of local or road authority not necessary in certain cases.

5. When it is proposed to lay a tramway in two or more circles, and a local authority or road-authority having control in either or any of the circles does not consent thereto, the Local Government may, nevertheless, make an order authorising the construction of the tramway in the circle, if, after considering the objections of the dissenting authority, and the benefit which the public is likely to derive from the tramway being laid in the circle of that authority, it is satisfied that the construction of the tramway therein is expedient.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 7 & 8; & Act XV, 1873, s. 68.]

Procedure for making order.

6. (1) The Local Government on receiving an application shall consider it, and, if satisfied as to the propriety of proceeding thereon, publish in the official Gazette, and in such other manner as it deems sufficient for giving information to persons interested, a draft of a proposed order authorising the construction of the tramway.

(2) A notice shall be published with the draft stating that any objection or suggestion which any person may desire to make with respect to the proposed order will, if submitted to the Local Government on or before a date to be specified in the notice, be received and considered.

(3) If, after considering any objections or suggestions which may have been made with respect to the draft on or before the date so specified, the Local Government is of opinion that the application should be granted, with or without addition or modification, or subject or not to any restriction or condition, it may settle and make an order accordingly.

(4) Every order authorising the construction of a tramway shall be published in the official Gazette in English, and in the other prescribed language or languages, if any, and that publication shall be conclusive proof that the order has been made as required by this section.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 8.]

Contents of order.

7. (1) An order made under section 6 shall empower the promoter therein specified to construct and maintain the tramway therein described in the manner therein provided, and shall specify the time within which the tramway shall be commenced and the time within which it shall be completed and opened for public traffic.

[See 33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 18, and s. 10 of this Bill.]

(2) The order may also provide, in manner consistent with this Act, for all or any of the following, among other matters, that is to say:—

[Provisional Order Clause 41.]

(a) a period before the expiration of which the tramway shall not be commenced, and the conditions subject to which the local authority, when it is not itself the promoter, may, within that period, elect to be substituted in the place of the promoter in respect of the undertaking or of so much thereof as is within its circle; and the limits of time within which, and the terms upon which, the local authority may, after the tramway has been constructed, require the promoter to sell to it the undertaking or so much thereof as is within its circle;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 43.]

(b) the acquisition by the promoter of land for the purposes of the tramway, and the disposal by him of land which has been acquired but is no longer required for those purposes;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 8 & 15; Provisional Order Clauses 2 and 5; and Report of House of Lords Committee, 1879, paragraph 11.]

(c) the conditions subject to which roads may be opened and broken up for the purposes of the construction or maintenance of the tramway or any part thereof, and the method of, and materials to be used in, the re-instating of the roads, and the approval of the method and materials by the Local Government or the road-authority before the commencement of the work;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 26 & 27, and Provisional Order Clause 9.]

(d) the conditions on which the tramway may be constructed over a bridge or across a railway or tramway when the carriageway over the bridge is to form part of the tramway or when the tramway is to cross a railway or another tramway on the level;

[33 & 34 Vic. c. 78, s. 26.]

(e) the space which shall ordinarily intervene between the outside of the carriageway on either side of a road whereon the tramway is to be constructed and the nearest rail of the tramway, and the conditions on which a smaller space may be permitted;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 9, and Provisional Order Clause 13.]

(f) the gauge of the tramway; the rails to be used, and the mode in which, and the level at which, they shall be laid and maintained; and the adoption and application by the promoter of such improvements in the rails, and in their situation, and in the sub-structure upon which they rest, as the Local Government may require;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 25, and Provisional Order Clauses 8 and 10.]

(g) the portion of the road or roads traversed by the tramway to be kept in repair by the promoter, the maintenance by the promoter to the satisfaction of the Local Government or the road-authority, or both, of that portion of the road or roads, and the liability of the promoter, on the requisition of the Local Government, from time to time to adopt and apply such improvements in the tramway as the Local Government may consider necessary or desirable for the safety and convenience of the public, and to alter the position or level of the tramway to suit future alterations in the road or roads;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 28, and Provisional Order Clauses 8, 11 & 12.]

(h) the application of material excavated by the promoter in the construction or maintenance of the tramway;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 27, and Provisional Order Clause 17.]

(i) the provision of such crossings, passing-places, sidings, junctions and other works, in addition to those specified in or authorised by the order, as may from time to time be necessary or convenient to the efficient working of the tramway;

[Provisional Order Clause 15.]

(j) the powers which may from time to time be exercised by the Local Government, the local authority, the road-authority or any person in respect of sewers, drains, telegraph-lines, gas-pipes or water-pipes in or

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 32, and Provisional Order Clause 18.]

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 8-10.

on land occupied by the tramway; the notice (if any) to be given of the intended exercise of those powers; the manner in which the powers shall be exercised; and the extent to which the tramway and the traffic thereon may be interfered with in the exercise thereof;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 30 & 31.]

(k) the conditions subject to which the promoter may from time to time interfere with, or alter or require the alteration of the position of, drains (not being sewers or main drains), telegraph-lines, gas-pipes or water-pipes;

[Provisional Order Clause 16.]

(l) the provision of a temporary tramway in place of a part of a tramway which has been removed, or of which the use has been discontinued, by reason of the execution of any work affecting a road along which the part of the tramway was laid;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 34; and Provisional Order Clauses 25, 26 & 27.]

(m) the motive power to be used on the tramway, and the conditions on which steam-power or any other mechanical power may be used;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 34; Schedule A to form of Provisional Order; and Regulations and Bye-laws of the Board of Trade with respect to the use of steam-power on tramways.]

(n) the nature, dimensions, fittings, appliances and apparatus of the carriages to be used on the tramway, and the inspection and examination thereof by officers of the Local Government or the local authority, and the liability of the promoter or lessee, on the requisition of the Local Government, from time to time, to adopt and apply such improvements in the carriages, and in the fittings, appliances and apparatus, as the Local Government may consider necessary or desirable for the safety and convenience of the public;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 10, and Provisional Order Clauses 33 to 36 and 38 to 43.]

(o) the traffic which may be carried on the tramway, the traffic which the promoter or lessee shall be bound to carry, and the traffic which he may refuse to carry; the tolls to be leviable by the promoter or lessee, and the periodical revision thereof by the Local Government; and the regulation of the traffic and of the levy of the tolls;

[Provisional Order Clause 37.]

(p) the use of the tramway free of toll by the local authority, with its own carriages, for specified purposes, during specified hours, with power to the local authority to make such sidings, and other works as may be necessary for communication between its premises and the tramway;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 44, and Provisional Order Clause 18.]

(q) the conditions subject to which the promoter may transfer the undertaking, or any part thereof, by sale, mortgage, lease, exchange or otherwise; and the conditions subject to which the local authority may be the transferee;

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 28, proviso.]

(r) the performance by the Local Government or by the local authority or road-authority of any work required by the Act or the order to be done by the promoter; and

[Provisional Order Clauses 10, 11, 26, 27 and 40.]

(s) the penalty to be incurred by the promoter or lessee for failure to observe any condition or direction contained in the order, and the application of the penalty when recovered.

[Report House of Lords' Committee, 1879, para. 11.]

(3) The Local Government may, in providing in the order for the acquisition of land for the purposes of a tramway of which the promoter is not a company, direct that land may be acquired for the promoter under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1870, in the same manner and on the same conditions as it might be acquired for the purposes of the tramway if a company were the promoter.

X of 1870.

(4) The order shall imply the condition—

(a) in the case of a tramway of which a local authority is the promoter, that a lease thereof shall be granted only in manner by this Act provided, and

(b) in the case of a tramway of which a local authority is not the promoter, that a lease thereof shall be only of the right of user and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls, and shall not confer or impose on the lessee any of the powers or duties of the promoter in respect of the construction or maintenance of the tramway.

Further orders.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 16.]

8. (1) The Local Government may, on the application of the promoter, revoke, amend, extend or vary the order by a further order.

(2) An application for a further order shall be made in the same manner and subject to the same conditions as an application for an order.

(3) The Local Government may, in its discretion, either grant or reject the application.

(4) If it grants the application, it shall make the further order in the same manner as an order, except that no addition to, or modification of, the rights, powers and authorities asked for in the application, or restriction or condition with respect thereto, shall be made or imposed by the further order without the consent in writing of the promoter.

Power to authorise joint work by local authorities.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 17.]

9. (1) Subject to, and in accordance with, the provisions of this Act, the Local Government may, on a joint application, or on two or more separate applications, settle and make an order empowering two or more local authorities, respectively, jointly to construct the whole, or separately to construct parts, of a tramway, and jointly or separately to own the whole or parts thereof.

(2) All the provisions of this Act which relate to the construction of tramways shall extend and apply to the construction of the whole and the separate parts of the tramway, and the form of the order may be adapted to the circumstances of the case.

Cesser of powers given by an order.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 18.]

10. (1) If a promoter authorised by an order to construct a tramway—

(a) does not within the time specified in the order substantially commence the construction of the tramway, or

(b) having commenced the construction, suspends it without a reason sufficient in the opinion of the Local Government to warrant the suspension, or

(c) does not within the time specified in the order complete the tramway and open it for public traffic,—

the following consequences shall ensue:—

(i) the powers given by the order to the promoter for constructing the tramway and otherwise in relation thereto shall, unless

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 11-17.

the Local Government, by special direction in writing, prolongs the time or condones the suspension, cease to be exercised except as to so much of the tramway as is then completed;

(ii) as to so much of the tramway as is then completed, the Local Government may either permit, or refuse to permit, the powers given by the order to continue;

(iii) if the Local Government refuses to permit the powers to continue, then so much of the tramway as is then completed may be dealt with, under the provisions of this Act relating to the discontinuance of tramways, as a tramway of which the discontinuance has been proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government.

[Sections 19 & 20 of this Bill.]

(2) A notification published by the Local Government in the official Gazette to the effect that on a date specified in the notification the construction of a tramway had not been substantially commenced or a tramway had not been completed and opened for public traffic, or that the construction of a tramway had been suspended without sufficient reason, shall, for the purposes of this section, be conclusive proof of the matter stated therein.

Construction and Maintenance of Tramways.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 25.]

Mode of formation of tramway.

11. A tramway shall be constructed and maintained in the manner provided by the order.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 25, & Act IV, 1879, s. 5.]

Inspection of tramway before opening.

12. A tramway, or portion or extension of, or addition to, a tramway, shall not be opened for public traffic until an engineer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government has inspected it and certified it to be fit for such traffic.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 29.]

Agreement between road-authority and promoter as to repair of roadway.

13. The road-authority and the promoter may from time to time enter into agreements with respect to the keeping in repair of the whole or a part of a road traversed by a tramway, and with respect to the proportion to be paid by either of them of the expense of keeping the road or part in repair.

Traffic on Tramways.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 34 & 62, and Act XXII, 1883, s. 8.]

Rights of promoters and the public over tramways.

14. (1) The promoter of a tramway shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (2) and to the other provisions of this Act and of the order, have the exclusive use of the tramway for carriages with flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail described in the order as the rail to be used on the tramway:

Provided that nothing in this Act or the order or in any rule made under the Act shall affect the right of any person authorised to use a tramway or railway to pass across a tramway constructed under this Act with carriages having wheels suitable to run on the rail thereof.

(2) The public shall have a right to pass along or across any part of a road along or across which a tramway is constructed, whether on or off the tramway, with carriages not having flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail of the tramway: provided—

(a) that this sub-section shall not apply where the tramway is constructed on land the right to the exclusive possession of which has been acquired by the promoter, and

(b) that the Local Government may by an order authorise the construction of a tramway on any part of a road with rails raised above the surface of the road, if it is satisfied that the convenience of the public will not be injuriously affected thereby.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 45.]

Tolls leviable by promoter or lessee.

15. (1) The promoter or lessee may demand and take, in respect of the tramway, tolls not exceeding the limits specified in or determinable under the order, or if the order contains no provision in this behalf, then such sums as may from time to time be fixed by the promoter or lessee with the previous sanction of the Local Government.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s 53 and Act XXII, 1883, s. 13.]

(2) A list of all the tolls authorised to be levied shall be exhibited, in such languages as the District Magistrate may direct, in a conspicuous place inside and outside each of the carriages used upon the tramway.

Carriage of dangerous or offensive goods.

16. (1) A person shall not be entitled to carry, or to require to be carried, on a tramway constructed under this Act, any goods of a dangerous or offensive nature.

(2) A person taking such goods with him on the tramway shall, before entering the carriage, give notice of their nature to the servant of the promoter or lessee in charge of the carriage.

(3) A person sending such goods by the tramway shall distinctly mark their nature on the outside of the package containing them, or otherwise give notice thereof in writing to the servant of the promoter or lessee with whom he leaves them for the purpose of their being sent by the tramway.

(4) Any servant of the promoter or lessee may refuse to carry upon the tramway a parcel which he suspects to contain goods of a dangerous or offensive nature, and, if any such parcel has been received for the purpose of being carried upon the tramway, may stop the transit thereof until he is satisfied as to the nature of its contents.

Licenses to use Tramways.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 35.]

Grant to third parties of licenses to use tramway in certain events.

17. If, at any time after a tramway or part of a tramway has been for three years opened for public traffic in a circle, the local authority of the circle represents in writing to the Local Government that the public is deprived of the full benefit of the tramway or of the part thereof, the Local Government may, if after such enquiry as it deems necessary it is satisfied as to the truth of the representation, grant a license to any person to use the tramway conformably to this Act and the order and to the rules made under the Act, subject to the following provisions, namely:—

(a) the license shall be for a period not less than one year or more than three years from the date of the license, but the Local Government may in its discretion renew it;

(b) the license shall be to use the whole of the tramway for the time being opened for public traffic, or such part or parts of the tramway as the Local Government, having regard to the cause for granting the license, thinks fit;

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 18-22.)

(c) the license shall specify the number of carriages which the licensee shall run upon the tramway, the mode in which, and times at which, the carriages shall be run, the tolls to be paid to the promoter or lessee by the licensee for the use of the tramway, and the tolls, being those for the time being leviable by the promoter or lessee, which the licensee may demand and take for the use of his carriages;

(d) the licensee and his officers and servants shall permit one person, duly authorised for that purpose by the promoter or lessee, to travel free of toll in or upon each carriage of the licensee run upon the tramway for the whole or any part of a journey; and

(e) the Local Government may revoke, alter or modify the license for any cause sufficient in its opinion to warrant the revocation, alteration or modification thereof.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 37.]

Licensee to give to promoter or lessee an account of traffic.

18 A licensee shall, on demand, give to an officer or servant authorised in that behalf by the promoter or lessee an exact account in writing, signed by the licensee, of the number of passengers, or number or quantity of goods, conveyed by any and every carriage used by him on the tramway.

Discontinuance of Tramways.

Cesser of powers of promoter and lessee on discontinuance of tramway.

19. If it is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government, at any time after the opening of a tramway for public traffic, that the working of the tramway, or any part thereof, has been discontinued, for the space of three months, without a reason sufficient, in the opinion of the Local Government, to warrant the discontinuance, the Local Government, if it thinks fit, may, by notification in the official Gazette, declare that the powers of the promoter and of the lessee, if any, in respect of the tramway or the part thereof so discontinued, shall, from the date of the notification, be at an end, and thereupon the said powers shall cease and determine, except in so far as they may be purchased by a local authority in manner by this Act provided.

[Section 22 of this Bill.]

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 41.]

Powers of road-authority on cesser of powers of promoter.

20. (1) Where a notification has been published under section 19, the road-authority may, at any time after the expiration of two months from the date of the notification, remove the tramway or part of the tramway so discontinued, and use the materials thereof in re-instating the road.

(2) The promoter shall pay to the road-authority the cost incurred by that authority in removing the tramway or the part thereof and in re-instating the road.

(3) The cost shall be certified by an officer of the road-authority, and his certificate, countersigned by the District Magistrate, shall be conclusive proof as to the cost incurred.

(4) If the promoter does not pay the amount so certified, within one month after the delivery to him of the certificate or of a copy thereof, the road-authority may, without any previous notice to the promoter and without prejudice to any other remedy which it may have for the recovery of the amount, sell and dispose of such materials of the tramway or part thereof removed as it has not used in re-instating the road, either by public auction or by private sale, and for such sum or sums, and to such person or persons, as it thinks fit, and may, out of the proceeds of the sale, pay and reimburse itself the amount of the cost aforesaid and of the expenses of the sale, and shall pay over the residue (if any) of the proceeds of the sale to the promoter.

[Section 36 of this Bill.]

Insolvency of Promoter.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 42.]

Proceedings in case of insolvency of promoter.

21. (1) If, at any time after the opening of a tramway in a circle for public traffic, it appears to the road-authority or local authority of the circle that the promoter of the tramway is insolvent, so that he is unable to maintain the tramway, or work it with advantage to the public, and either of those authorities makes a representation to that effect to the Local Government, the Local Government may, if after such enquiry as it deems necessary it is satisfied as to the truth of the representation, declare, by notification in the official Gazette, that the powers of the promoter shall, at the expiration of six months from the publication of the notification, be at an end; and the powers of the promoter shall cease and determine at the expiration of that period, except in so far as they may be purchased by a local authority in manner by this Act provided.

[Section 22 of this Bill.]

(2) Where a notification has been published under sub-section (1), the road-authority may, at any time after the expiration of six months from the date thereof, remove the tramway in the same manner, and subject to the same provisions as to the payment of the cost of the removal, and to the same remedy for recovery of the cost, in every respect as in cases of removal under section 20.

Purchase of Tramways.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 43.]

Future purchase of undertaking by local authority.

22. (1) Where the promoter of a tramway in a circle is not the local authority, the local authority, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, may—

(a) within such limits of time as may be specified in this behalf in the order, or

(b) if a time was not specified in the order, then within six months after the expiration of a period of twenty-one years from the date of the order, and within six months after the expiration of every subsequent period of seven years, or

(c) within two months after the publication of a notification under section 19 or within six months after the publication of a notification under section 21,—

by notice in writing, require the promoter to sell to the local authority his undertaking or the part thereof which is within the circle of the local authority; and thereupon the promoter shall sell the same upon the terms specified in the order, or, if the terms were not specified in the order, then upon the terms of paying the then value of the undertaking or of the part thereof, exclusive of any allowance for past or future profits of the undertaking or any compensation for compulsory sale or other consideration whatsoever.

(2) A requisition shall not be made under sub-section (1) unless the making thereof has been approved by the local authority in manner prescribed.

(3) When a sale has been made under this section, all the rights, powers and authorities of the promoter in respect of the undertaking or part thereof sold, or, where a notification has been published under section 19 or section 21, all the rights, powers and authorities of the promoter previous to the publication of the notification in respect of the undertaking or part thereof sold, shall be transferred to the authority to whom the undertaking or part has been sold, and shall vest in, and may be exercised by, that authority in the same manner as if the tramway had been constructed by it under an order made under this Act.

(4) Subject to, and in accordance with, the preceding provisions of this section, two or more local authorities may jointly purchase an undertaking or so much thereof as is within their circles.

Working of Tramways owned by Local Authorities.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 19.]

Lease of, or working of, tramway by local authority.

23. (1) When a local authority has under the authority of an order completed a tramway, or has under the provisions of this Act or of an order acquired possession of a tramway, it may, by a lease to be approved by the Local Government, let to any person the right of user of the tramway and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls.

(2) On the determination of a lease, the local authority may from time to time let the right for such further term and on such conditions as the Local Government may approve.

(3) Every lease made under this section shall imply a condition of re-entry if at any time after the making thereof it is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government that the lessee has discontinued the working of the tramway leased, or of any part thereof, for the space of three months, without a reason sufficient, in the opinion of the Local Government, to warrant the discontinuance.

(4) Notice of the intention of the local authority to make a lease shall be given in manner prescribed.

(5) If the local authority cannot by means of a lease obtain what it deems to be a fair rent for the tramway, it may itself, with the previous sanction of the Local Government and for such term as the Local Government directs, place and run carriages upon the tramway, and demand and take the authorised tolls in respect of the use of the carriages.

Rules.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 46 & 64; and Act XXII, 1883, s. 20.]

Power to make rules.

24. (1) In addition to any other power to make rules expressly or by implication conferred by this Act, the Local Government may make rules consistent with this Act—

(a) as to the form in which an application for an order shall be made;

(b) as to the costs to be paid by an applicant in respect of an order, and the time when, and the place where, those costs shall be paid;

(c) as to the payment of money or lodgment of securities, by way of deposit, by the applicant for an order before the order is published under section 6, sub-section (4), or a further order is made under section 8; the investment of money so paid; the disposal of interest or dividends from time to time accruing due on money or securities so paid, lodged or invested; the application of the money or securities or the produce thereof to the discharge of any liability incurred by the promoter, and the forfeiture, repayment or return of the money or securities;

(d) as to the plans and sections of any works to be deposited by applicants for orders or by promoters;

(e) for regulating the use of steam-power or any other mechanical power on a tramway;

(f) as to any matter specified in section 7, sub-section (2), clauses (c), (d), (e), (j) and (k), as a matter which may be provided for in an order, when that matter has not been so provided for, or has not, in the opinion of the Local Government, been effectually so provided for;

(g) as to any matter respecting which rules may be made under this section by a local authority or a promoter or lessee; and,

(h) generally, as to any other matter or thing in respect of which it may seem to the Local Government to be expedient to make rules for the purpose of carrying this Act into execution.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 46; and Act XXII, 1883, s. 20.]

(2) A local authority may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules, consistent with this Act and the order and any rules made by the Local Government under the Act, for regulating—

(a) the rate of speed to be observed in travelling upon a tramway within the circle of the local authority;

(b) the use of animal power on the tramway;

(c) the distances at which carriages using the tramway shall be allowed to follow one after the other;

(d) the stopping of carriages using the tramway;

(e) the traffic on roads along or across which the tramway is laid;

(f) the number of passengers which may be carried in any carriage;

(g) the licensing and control of drivers, conductors and other persons having charge of the carriages of the promoter or lessee or a licensee; and, [33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 48.]

(h) generally, the mode of use of the tramway. [Act XXII, 1883, s. 20.]

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 46; and Act XXII, 1883, s. 20.]

(3) The promoter or lessee of a tramway may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, make rules consistent with this Act and the order and any rules made under the Act—

(a) for preventing the commission of any nuisance in or upon any carriage, or in or against any premises belonging to him; and

(b) for regulating the travelling in any carriage belonging to him.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 47.]

Power to impose penalty by rule.

25. The authority making any rule under section 24 may direct that a breach of it shall be punishable with fine which may extend—

(a) if the authority making the rule is the Local Government, to two hundred rupees, and [Act XXII, 1883, s. 14.]

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 26-31.

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 20, sub-section (3).]

(b) if that authority is a local authority or a promoter or lessee, to twenty rupees;

and, when the breach is a continuing breach, with a further fine which may extend—

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 14]

(c) if the authority making the rule is the Local Government, to fifty rupees, and

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 47]

(d) if that authority is a local authority or a promoter or lessee, to five rupees, for every day after the first during which the breach continues.

Procedure for making, and publication of, rules.

26. (1) Every authority having power to make rules under any section of this Act shall, before making the rules, publish a draft of the proposed rules for the information of persons likely to be affected thereby.

(2) The publication shall be made, in the case of rules made by the Local Government, in such manner as may in its opinion be sufficient for giving information to persons interested, and, in the case of rules made by a local authority or by a promoter or lessee, in manner prescribed.

(3) There shall be published with the draft a notice specifying a date, not earlier than the expiration of one month after the date of publication, at or after which the draft will be taken into consideration.

(4) The authority shall receive and consider any objection or suggestion which may be made by any person with respect to the draft before the date so specified.

(5) The publication in the official Gazette of a rule purporting to be made under this Act shall be conclusive proof that it has been duly made.

(6) The Local Government may cancel any rule made by a local authority or by a promoter or lessee under section 24.

Offences.

Penalty for failure of promoter, lessee or licensee to comply with Act or order.

27. If a promoter—

(a) constructs or maintains a tramway otherwise than in accordance with the order;

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 11.]

(b) opens the tramway for traffic, or permits it to be so opened, before it has been inspected and certified in manner required by section 12; or

(c) fails to observe any requirement or condition of the order for neglect or breach whereof no penalty has been expressly provided in the order;

or if a promoter, lessee or licensee runs a carriage on a tramway otherwise than in accordance with the order;—

he shall (without prejudice to the enforcement of specific performance of the requirements of this Act or of the order, or to any other remedy which may be obtained against him in a Court of Civil Judicature), on the complaint of the Local Government or of the local authority or road-authority or of any person injuriously affected thereby, be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees, and in the case of a continuing offence to a further fine which may extend to fifty rupees for every day after the first during which the offence continues to be committed.

Penalty for obstructing promoter in exercise of his powers.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 49, and Act XXII, 1883, s. 15.]

28. If any person without lawful excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, wilfully obstructs any person acting under the authority of the promoter in the lawful exercise of his powers in constructing or maintaining a tramway, or injures or destroys any mark made for the purpose of setting out the line of the tramway, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

Penalty for interfering with tramway.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 50, and Act XXII, 1883, s. 16]

29. If any person without lawful excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon him, wilfully does any of the following things, namely:—

(a) interferes with, removes or alters any part of a tramway constructed under this Act, or of the works connected therewith;

(b) places or throws upon or across any such tramway any wood, stone, refuse or other thing;

(c) does anything in such a manner as to obstruct any carriage using any such tramway; or

(d) abets within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code the doing of, or attempts to do, anything mentioned in clause (a), clause (b) or clause (c),

XLV of 1860.

he shall (without prejudice to any other remedy which may be obtained against him in a Court of Civil Judicature) be punished with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Penalty for using tramway with carriage having flange wheels.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 54.]

30. If any person, except under a lease from, or by agreement with, the promoter, or under license from the Local Government granted under this Act, uses on a tramway, otherwise than as permitted by section 14, a carriage having flange-wheels or other wheels suitable to run on the rail of the tramway, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Penalty for evading payment of proper toll.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 51, and Act XXII, 1883, s. 18.]

31. (1) If any person travelling or having travelled in a carriage of the promoter or lessee or a licensee evades or attempts to evade payment of toll, or if any person having paid toll for a certain distance wilfully proceeds in any such carriage beyond that distance and does not pay the additional toll for the additional distance or attempts to evade payment thereof, or if any person wilfully refuses or neglects on arriving at the point to which he has paid toll to quit the carriage, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to ten rupees.

[33 & 34 Vic. c. 78, s. 52 Act XXII, 1883, s. 19, and Act X, 1882, s. 57.]

(2) When a person commits an offence under this section and refuses, on demand of a servant of the promoter, lessee or licensee, to give his name and residence, or gives a name or residence which the servant has reason to believe to be false, he may be arrested and taken to the nearest police-station by the servant or any person whom the servant may call in for his assistance.

(3) When the person is taken to the police-station, he shall with the least possible delay be forwarded to the nearest Magistrate unless his true name and residence are ascertained, in which case he shall be released on his executing a bond for his appearance before a Magistrate if so required.

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 32-39.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 53, and Act XXII, 1883, s. 17.]

Penalty for taking or sending dangerous or offensive goods without giving a notice.

32. If any person takes or sends by a tramway any goods of a dangerous or offensive nature without giving the notice required by section 16, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 38.]

Penalty for licensee not giving to promoter or lessee an account of traffic or giving false account.

33. (1) If a licensee fails on demand to give the account mentioned in section 18, or, with intent to evade the payment of tolls, gives a false account when he is called upon to give an account under that section, he shall be punished with fine which may extend to fifty rupees.

(2) The fine shall be in addition to any tolls payable by the licensee to the promoter or lessee in respect of the passengers or goods conveyed by the carriage or carriages used by the licensee on the tramway.

[Act XIII, 1881, s. 158.]

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

34. Nothing in this Act shall prevent a person from being prosecuted under any other law for an act or omission which constitutes an offence against this Act or the rules made under it, or from being liable under that other law to any other or higher punishment or penalty than that provided by this Act or the rules made under it: Provided that a person shall not be punished twice for the same offence.

Settlement of Differences.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 33.]

Differences between promoters or lessees and authorities.

35. (1) If any difference arises between the promoter or lessee on the one hand and the Local Government, or the local authority, or the road-authority, or a person having the charge of any sewers, drains, telegraph lines, gas-pipes or water-pipes, on the other hand, with respect to any interference or control exercised or claimed to be exercised by, or on behalf of, either party by virtue of this or any other Act, or of the order, or of rules made under this Act, or with respect to the propriety of, or the mode of, the execution of any work, or with respect to any compensation to be made by or to the promoter or lessee, or on the question whether any work is such as ought reasonably to satisfy the Local Government or the road-authority or both, or with respect to any other subject or thing regulated by, or comprised in, this Act or the order or rules made under the Act, and not otherwise expressly provided for therein, the matter in difference shall, on the application of either party, be settled by a referee.

(2) Where the difference is between the promoter or lessee on the one hand and the Local Government, either as such or as the road-authority, on the other, the referee shall be the District Court within the jurisdiction of which the tramway is situate, or, where the tramway is within the jurisdiction of more than one District Court, the District Court within the jurisdiction of which the greater part of the tramway is situate.

(3) In other cases, the referee shall be appointed by the Local Government.

(4) The powers and procedure of the referee may be prescribed.

(5) The decision of the referee shall be binding and conclusive on both parties.

Recovery of Tolls.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 56, & Act XIII, 1884, s. 61.]

Recovery of moneys due from promoters and, in certain cases, from lessees.

36. Any of the following moneys, namely, any rent due to a local authority from a lessee, any penalty recoverable from a promoter or lessee under an order, any sum payable by a promoter or lessee under an award of a referee, the cost of the performance under this Act by the Local Government or by a local authority or road-authority of any work required by this Act or an order to be done by a promoter, and the cost incurred by a road-authority in removing a tramway and reinstating a road under this Act, may, without prejudice to any other remedy the authority to which the money is due may have by suit or otherwise, be recovered by that authority, on application made in this behalf to the Collector, as if the sum due were an arrear of land-revenue due by the promoter or lessee or his surety (if any):

Provided that nothing in this section shall authorise the arrest of the promoter or lessee or his surety in execution of any process issued by the Collector.

[Act XIII, 1881, s. 172.]

Recovery of tolls from licensees.

37. (1) If a licensee fails to pay on demand the tolls due for the use of a tramway, the promoter or lessee to whom the tolls are due may, without prejudice to the remedy which he may have by suit, apply to a Magistrate to recover the amount of the tolls, and the Magistrate may, after giving notice to the licensee if possible and allowing him an opportunity of being heard, proceed to recover the amount by distress and sale of any carriages or other moveable property of the licensee which may be found on the tramway or on premises connected therewith.

(2) When a licensee has failed to pay on demand the tolls due from him, the promoter or lessee to whom the tolls are due may seize any carriage or other moveable property of the licensee on the tramway or on premises connected therewith, and detain the same for forty-eight hours unless the tolls are sooner paid.

(3) When application is made to a Magistrate under sub-section (1), he may make an interim order of distraint pending his final decision.

[Act XIII, 1884, s. 172.]

Recovery of tolls from passengers.

38. Any toll due to a promoter, lessee or licensee from a passenger may be recovered either by suit or, on application to a Magistrate having jurisdiction within any local area in which any part of the tramway is laid, by distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the passenger within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Magistrate.

Savings.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 57, and Act XXII, 1883, s. 9.]

Promoter to have right of user only.

39. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act or in an order, a promoter shall not acquire any right other than that of user only over a road along or across which he lays a tramway, nor shall anything contained in this Act or in an order exempt the promoter of a tramway, or any other person using the tramway, from the payment of such charges as may lawfully be levied in respect of the use of a road or bridge along or across which the tramway is laid.

[Act VIII, 1851.]

(2) The Local Government may, if it thinks fit, fix rates at which a promoter, lessee or licensee

[Act XVII, 1878, s. 18.]

The Indian Tramways Bill, 1885.—Sections 40-48.

may compound for the charges payable in respect of the use of a road or bridge.

[33 & 34 Vic. c. 78, ss. 32 & 60.]

40. (1) Nothing in this Act or in an order shall take away or abridge any power which a road-authority, local authority or other person has by law to break up, widen, alter, divert or improve a road, railroad or tramway along or across which a tramway is laid.

Saving of power over roads traversed by tramways

(2) The road-authority, local authority or other person executing any work referred to in sub-section (1) shall not be liable to pay to a promoter, lessee or licensee any compensation for injury done to a tramway by the execution of the work or for loss of traffic occasioned by the reasonable use of any power lawfully exercised for the execution thereof.

33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 61; and Act XXII, 1883, s. 10.]

41. Nothing in this Act or in an order shall affect the powers of a local authority or of a magistrate or police-officer to regulate the passage of traffic along or across a road along or across which a tramway is laid; and the authority, magistrate or officer aforesaid may exercise its or his powers as well on as off the tramway and with respect as well to the traffic of a promoter, lessee or licensee as to the traffic of other persons.

Saving of power of local authority and police to regulate traffic on roads.

Supplemental Provisions.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, ss. 10 & 55.]

42. A promoter, lessee or licensee shall be answerable for all injuries happening through his act or default, or through the act or default of any person in his employment, by reason or in consequence of any of his carriages or works, and shall save harmless all authorities and persons collectively and individually, and their officers and servants, from all damages and costs in respect of injuries so happening.

Promoters, lessees and licensees to be responsible for all injuries.

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 21.]

43. For the purposes of this Act, want of funds shall not be deemed to be a sufficient reason for the suspension of the construction, or the discontinuance of the working, of a tramway by a promoter or lessee.

Want of funds not a sufficient reason for default.

[Act XXII, 1883, s. 22.]

44. When a tramway is constructed under this Act within the limits of a municipality, the Local Government may exempt the animals, plant, rolling-stock, yards, workshops, engine-sheds and depôts of the promoter or lessee, for such period as it thinks fit, from all or any municipal taxes leviable within those limits.

Power to exempt from municipal taxation.

[33 & 34 Vic., c. 78, s. 20.]

45. The fund to or with the control or management of which the local authority of a municipality, cantonment or district is entitled or entrusted shall, notwithstanding anything in any Act respecting the purposes to which that fund may be applied, be applicable, subject to the control of the Local Government, to the payment of expenses incidental to the exercise of the powers and functions which may be vested in or exercised by a local authority under this Act.

Application by local authorities of local funds to tramways.

46. The Local Government may, with the consent of the local authority and road-authority and of the promoter, extend any part of this Act or of any rules made thereunder, either with or without modification, to the whole or any part of a tramway constructed, or authorised to be constructed, before the passing of this Act, and to any extension of, or addition to, any such tramway, and may withdraw any part of the Act so extended.

Extension of Act to existing tramways.

IV of 1879.

47. In section 54 of the Indian Railway Act, 1879, the word "tramway" shall have the meaning assigned to it by section 3 of this Act.

Meaning of "tramway" in Railway Act.

[Act XIII, 1881, s. 173.]

48. All powers conferred by this Act on a Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

Powers of Local Government exercisable from time to time.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE introduction of this Bill has been rendered necessary by the projected construction of tramways in parts of India beyond the reach of a local legislature. In 1883 a special Act was passed by the Governor General in Council to authorise the making, and regulate the working, of tramways in Rangoon. Since that year application has been made for special Acts for tramways in Lahore and Amritsar, and legislation would probably be found to be necessary to regulate the use of tramways in other large towns in which their construction has been approved by, or is under the consideration of, the local authorities.

2. The Bill has been drawn on the lines of the Tramways Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vic., c. 78), and of the provisional orders and rules made by the Board of Trade under that statute. These orders and rules, and the fullest discussion on almost all points connected with the subject of tramways, will be found in Mr. Sutton's "Tramway Acts of the United Kingdom."

3. The Bill, extends in the first instance to the whole of British India except the territories comprised within the sphere of a local legislature, and is extendible to those territories by the Local Government.

4. "Orders" take the place of the "provisional orders" of the English statute, but differ from those orders in not being "provisional" and not being confirmed by a subsequent Act of the Legislature. They also differ from provisional orders in that they must be consistent with the Act and cannot vary or except any part of it.

5. Sections 4 to 6 of the Bill prescribe the conditions on which, and the manner in which, an order may be made; and section 7 specifies the matters for which provision may be made in an order. A reference to the authorities cited against the several clauses of that section will show how those matters are now provided for in the United Kingdom. If an order is found on experience to be defective, it can be supplemented by a further order on the application of the person in whose favour the original order was made (section 8), or, in certain particulars, by rules (section 24).

6. When the order has been made, the tramway must be constructed, maintained and worked in the manner provided by the order (sections 11 and 27). If the tramway is constructed by a local authority, it will ordinarily be worked by a lessee (section 23). If it is constructed by a private speculator, it may be worked by him or by a lessee to whom he has let the right of user and of demanding and taking the authorised tolls (section 7, sub-section (4)). If the owner of the tramway or his lessee so works the tramway that the public is deprived of the full benefit of it, the Local Government may grant a license to any person to use the tramway on the payment of tolls to the owner or the lessee (section 17). If the owner discontinues the working of the tramway (section 19) or through want of funds is unable to maintain the tramway or work it with advantage to the public (section 21), the Local Government may revoke his powers. When the powers of the owner are so revoked, the tramway may either be removed by the authority which has charge of the road on which the tramway is laid (section 20 and section 21, sub-section (2)), or it may be purchased by the local authority (section 22).

7. Section 22 provides for tramways which have been constructed by companies and private persons being purchased by local authorities on the expiration of the periods, and upon the terms, specified in the order, or, if the periods and terms were not specified in the order, then on the expiration of the periods, and upon the terms, prescribed in the English statute.

8. When a tramway is purchased by a local authority, it will ordinarily be worked by a lessee. There may, however, be cases in which the authority would be unable to let a tramway for an adequate consideration. It has been provided, therefore (section 23), that in those cases the Local Government may authorise the local authority itself to engage in the business of running carriages.

9. Differences between owners or lessees of tramways and the Local Government or local authorities are to be settled by a referee (section 35), who, if the Local Government is directly interested, is to be the District Judge. The decision of the referee will be final.

10. Sections 36 to 38 provide for the recovery by suit or summary process of moneys due to and from owners, lessees and licensees of tramways.

11. Sections 39 to 41 contain the savings usually found in enactments and agreements relating to the construction of tramways, and section 44 enables the Local Government to exempt from local taxation the animals, plant, rolling-stock and premises of owners and lessees of tramways constructed within the limits of municipalities.

12. Section 46 enables the Local Government, with the consent of the owner and the local authorities, to extend any part of the Act, with or without modification, to a tramway or any part of a tramway constructed, or authorised to be constructed, before the passing of the Act.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE TRIBUTARY STATES OF ORISSA FOR THE YEAR 1884-85.

POLITICAL.

Calcutta, the 12th November 1885.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Annual Report on the Administration of the Tributary States of Orissa for the year 1884-85.

Read also—

The Reports for the years 1882-83 and 1883-84, and the orders of Government recorded thereon.

The only administrative change in the management of the Tributary States during the past year was caused by the death of the Rajah of Nursingpore, who was succeeded by his minor son. This State, therefore, together with those of Baramba, Dhenkenal, and Mohurbhunj, is now under direct management. Of the remaining 15 States, 13 are administered by their own Chiefs under the supervision of the Superintendent of the Tributary Mehals; and two—Angul and the Khond Mals—are Government estates.

2. Of the total yearly tribute of Rs. 33,249 payable to Government, the sum of Rs. 3,482 was paid in before the commencement of the year, and during it the entire balance was realized, together with Rs. 6,546 of the claim for the current year.

3. The rainfall during the year is reported to have been generally sufficient. In Pal Lehara, Dhenkenal, Angul, and Hindole, the rains commenced late, and the crops suffered somewhat in consequence. In Baramba and Nursingpore some damage was caused by floods. In Dhenkenal and Angul the rice was only an 8 to 12 annas crop owing to the late setting in of the monsoon, while the cold-weather crops were a total failure. The highest rainfall registered was 64 inches at Duspalla. The rainfall registered at Keonjhur was only 28½ inches, which is evidently incorrect. In his report for the year 1883-84, the Superintendent remarked on the inaccuracy of the registration in Keonjhur, and stated that the Maharajah would be asked to place the rainfall register in better hands. The change, if any has been made, has apparently failed to correct the evil. The Maharajah's attention should again be drawn to the subject with a view to such arrangements being made as will ensure at least approximately correct returns.

4. The general health of the people was good during the past year, though there was an outbreak of cholera in the Nilgiri and Khandpara States. There was also a slight epidemic of the disease in Runpore, Duspalla and Baramba, but not in any of the other States. Two first-class dispensaries exist—one at Mohurbhunj and the other at Dhenkenal—which are in charge of Assistant Surgeons. In eight other States there are dispensaries in charge of hospital assistants, and in a ninth, one of the same class is about to be opened. Some slight progress was made in vaccination. In Mohurbhunj 7,230 persons were vaccinated, and in Baramba, into which State vaccination was for the first time introduced, 1,801 operations were performed. In Pal Lehara, on an epidemic of small-opx breaking out, the Rajah had some persons inoculated: prior to this no one in that State had been either vaccinated or inoculated. In Dhenkenal 1,540 persons were vaccinated, but the work is said to proceed slowly in this State as the people, at the instigation of inoculators, oppose it. The Rajah of Talchere asked for a vaccinator and one was sent, but unfortunately the lymph was bad and the failure of most of the operations creating a bad impression the work had to be stopped. The Superintendent, however, states that a fresh attempt will be made during the current year with better lymph. This subject was specially referred to in the Resolution on the report of 1883-84. It is not necessary here to do more than again draw attention to the remarks there made. With the addition of Nursingpore, more than one-third of the Tributary States are now under direct management, and the time has therefore arrived for a real effort to be made to overcome the people's prejudice against vaccination, and so gradually to remove the superstitious notions that now prevail as to the cause of small-pox.

5. No improvements were made during the year in the general means of communication in the States. The Superintendent remarks that the two most important lines of communication from Cuttack to Sumbulpore—one viâ Angul and the other along the course of the Mahanuddy—are below flood-level and unbridged, and are useless for more than half the year. He considers that no reasonable expenditure would make them available for traffic during the whole year. It appears, however, that a road could be constructed at a reasonable cost, which would run above the watershed of the country and be thus independent of the floods. The decision of the local Public Works Department, under whose consideration the matter is at present, should be reported to Government. The road will be a useful one, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that enquiry may show that its execution is practicable The Rajah of Athgur has, it appears, at length consented to construct the portion of the Cuttack-Dhenkenal road which will lie within his State. It is to be regretted that he has shown hitherto so much opposition to a work from which his State will undoubtedly derive benefits, and the Lieutenant-Governor now hopes that nothing will be allowed to interfere with the fulfilment of his promise. The question of the road between Dhenkenal and Tangy is also one which should be taken up, and the Cuttack Road Cess Committee should give their best consideration to the proposal to construct the portion of it which lies within the Cuttack district. The slow progress in the material development of these Tributary States, which every annual report brings to notice, is due mainly to the want of roads and proper communications. It may be hoped that in the course of a few years railways will be established in the province. The surveys for some of these have already been completed or are under prosecution, and it is of urgent importance that the roads which connect different parts of the country with the railway should be now taken in hand. The Lieutenant-Governor will hope to have the opportunity of discussing the question with the Commissioner on his approaching tour in Orissa, and it seems to him, if the impecuniosity of the Chiefs stands in the way of road extensions, some plan might be devised by which, under a system of advances from Government, the work would be commenced and carried through.

6. The question regarding the status of the Tributary Mehals of Orissa, which arose in consequence of a decision of the High Court, that Mohurbhunj is not a part of British India, is one which has for some time been before Government. The Government of India finally decided that this ruling must be accepted as conclusive, and that no steps should be taken " in any way indicating a desire to claim Mohurbhunj as part of British India." The Government of India also held that it was not impossible that the principles which governed the Mohurbhunj case might be held applicable to the other Orissa States, and it was directed that the proceedings of this Government in regard to these States should be so regulated " as to avoid, as far as possible, the risk of the complications which might arise from a decision that the Mehals are not British territory." The Government of India reserved, however, " the fullest right to interfere to such extent as might seem fit for the purpose of securing the good administration of the Mehals, and, when necessary, of conferring upon their officers powers to be exercised within the Mehals." The Superintendent was, in consequence of this decision, asked to consider what arrangements should be made for the trial of cases in the Mehals. His reply has been received, and is now under the Lieutenant-Governor's consideration. With regard to Angul lists of the enactments which are, and which are not, in force in that Mehal were forwarded, prior to publication, for the sanction of the Government of India. A subsequent letter was, however, received from that Government on the subject, and after consulting the Legal Remembrancer and the Superintendent, the Lieutenant-Governor has decided that it is not necessary to publish any notification under section 3 of the Scheduled Districts Act, and information to this effect has been sent to the Government of India. The Superintendent remarks on the difficulties connected with the administration of justice in the Tributary States, and the doubts and uncertainties which exist. The Lieutenant-Governor is aware of the fact, but until orders are issued on the report of the Superintendent regarding the practice at present obtaining in the States, the procedure now in force should be maintained.

7. There was a large increase in the number of civil and revenue suits for disposal in the courts of original jurisdiction during the past year, of which no explanation has been given. The number of cases pending at the close of 1883-84 was 1,553, and to these must be added 2,681 cases of Nursingpore, which was brought under direct management during the year. The number of fresh cases instituted was 11,444 as compared with 6,774 in 1883-84. The total number of cases for disposal was thus 15,678 as compared with 8,136 in the preceding year. Of these 12,873 were disposed of, leaving 2,805 pending at the close of the year. The number of cases disposed of by tehsildars and managers was 12,599, and the number of pending cases on their files 2,496.

8. The number of criminal offences reported during the year was 1,725 as compared with 1,456 in 1883-84. Of these, 1,402 were returned as true. The number of persons concerned in criminal cases, who were under trial during the year, was 2,657, including 134 whose cases were pending from the previous year, the number in 1883-84 being 2,129. Of these, 1,413 were convicted, 1,102 were acquitted or discharged, 37 died, escaped, or were transferred, and 105 remained under trial at the close of the year. There was an increase, as compared with 1883-84 from 321 to 441 in the number of cases of theft returned as true, from 184 to 269 in cases of assault, and from 12 to 48 in the number of cases of criminal misappropriation; while, on the other hand, the number of cases of mischief decreased from 107 to 77.

9. The number of appeals in criminal cases was 159 as compared with 66 in the preceding year. Of these, the appeal was rejected in 11 cases, the sentence or order was confirmed in 121, reduced or altered in 7, reversed in 17, and 3 appeals were pending at the close of the year. There were 250 appeals in civil and revenue cases, including 20 miscellaneous appeals. Of these, the original orders were reversed in 29 cases only, and 35 appeals were pending at the close of the year.

10. The area of the reserved forests in Angul was not increased during the year, but after its close an additional block was added. Steps were taken with some success to prevent injury to these reserved forests from the firing of the jungles beyond the forest reserve to clear the land for toyla cultivation: in spite of the precautions taken considerable damage was caused to the forests by fires. The Superintendent being unable to visit the Khond Mals, the report which was promised regarding the steps to be taken for a partial forest conservancy has not been submitted. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the Superintendent may be able to submit it after his visit to the Mals during the ensuing cold weather. Regarding the States which are under the management of their Chiefs, the Superintendent remarks: "In the Native States there now appears to be some reaction. The forests of Ranpore, Nayagur, Khandpara, Athgur, and Boad have been either reserved or protected by their Chiefs, and the cutting of trees in Baramba and Nursingpore, which are under the management of this office, has for the present been absolutely prohibited. * * * In Athmullick, the Rajah himself looks after his forests. He cuts large timber trees on his own account and transports them to Cuttack for sale; the felling of sapplings or even of small timber trees is not permitted. Hindole was a few years ago almost denuded of valuable timber trees, but great care is now taken to allow the sapplings to grow" All this is satisfactory. It shows that some of the Chiefs are at length becoming aware of the value of their forests, and are making some efforts to put a stop to the wanton destruction which prevailed while indiscriminate felling was allowed. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets, however, to learn that the Rajah of Duspulla has let out on lease some of his best forests, and for a very inadequate consideration. The Superintendent should explain to him the folly of his action, if he has not already done so, in order that the Rajah may, if possible, be deterred from sacrificing such other portions of his forests as have not been alienated.

11. During the year three new post offices were opened, one of which is a Government post office, while the other two are maintained partly from the Gurjat post fund and partly by Government. Of the 18 offices which exist, three are Government post offices, nine are maintained entirely from the Gurjat post fund, four partly from the latter and partly by Government, and two, at Keonjhur and Bahalda, are private, and are supported by the Keonjhur and Mohurbhunj States, respectively. The contributions of the Chiefs to the Gurjat post fund had to be increased from Rs. 2,200 to Rs. 2,400 during the past year owing to the state of disrepair into which the office buildings and dâk sheds had been allowed to fall, and to the want of proper arrangements for crossing the mails at the different ferries. These matters, which had hitherto been left to the Chiefs themselves, were accordingly taken charge of by the Postal Department, and some expenditure was necessarily incurred. There is little doubt, however, that as the postal system becomes more appreciated, the Chiefs will be relieved of all contributions to the fund. The Lieutenant-Governor notices that the balance due from the States of Boad, Khandpara, Nayagur, and Duspulla on this account are considerable. The Chiefs should be requested to liquidate them. The Chiefs were permitted to send official covers containing magisterial and police papers free of charge to the other Tributary Chiefs of Orissa from the 15th May last, whereas previously they could only send official covers free to the office of the Superintendent.

12. The number of schools at the close of the year was 1,151 as compared with 1,060 at the close of 1883-84, and the number of students increased from 13,667 to 14,836. The increase of 91 schools was due to an increase of 103 in the number of lower primary schools, of one in the number of private institutions, and of three in the number of girls' schools; while, on the other hand, there was a decrease of 16 in the number of upper primary schools. This decrease was due to the fact that, while there was an increase of four in the number of these schools in the other States, 20 out of 26 such schools in the Khond Mals, which had been erroneously entered as upper primary, were removed from that heading and entered as lower primary schools. The number of Government schools was seven, as in the preceding year. The number of cess schools also remained at 26, but the primary fund schools decreased from 138 to 126, while the number of unaided schools increased from 889 to 992. The total expenditure during the past year was Rs 59,364, of which Government contributed Rs. 8,122, as compared with Rs. 60,029, expended in 1883-84, of which Rs. 7,589 was paid by Government. The inspecting agency, consisting of five Sub-Inspectors and six inspecting pundits, is stated to be insufficient, and proposals, which will give some increase in connection with a revision of the Dhenkenal and Mohurbhunj educational establishments, have been submitted to Government. When orders have been passed on the subject, the Superintendent is prepared to submit further proposals. Of 69 candidates who went up for the upper primary examination, 47 passed, while 187 out of 294 passed the lower scholarship examination.

13. Mr. Wylly, the Manager, was in charge of the Mohurbhunj State during the year, and performed his duties with judgment and ability. During the year Baboo Brindabun Chunder Bhunj, brother of the late Maharajah, again petitioned Government to be appointed Manager. This question had been thoroughly considered by the Lieutenant-Governor before Mr. Wylly was appointed, and the conclusion arrived at was that the Baboo was in no respect a suitable person for the charge. Several memorials have from time to time been presented by the Baboo and his mother against this decision. These were, after a full review of all the circumstances, dealt with in a Resolution dated 30th May last, in which Sir Rivers Thompson finally declined to make any change in the existing arrangements. It may be as well to mention that in Baboo Brindabun Chunder Bhunj's last memorials charges of various kinds were made against the officers connected with the administration, which were found on enquiry to be absolutely untenable. Some of the settlements made by the late Maharajah have expired, and during the past two years four pergunnahs were resettled at an increase of Rs. 20,634 in the rents. Three other pergunnahs remain to be resettled The cost of the Settlement Department in the State during the past year was Rs. 4,709. The expenditure on public works during 1884-85 was Rs. 55,870. The current demand on account of land revenue for 1884-85 was Rs. 1,59,377 as compared with a current demand of Rs. 1,70,780 in 1883-84. The decrease is caused by the exclusion of part of the revenue from the Nayabasan zemindari in Midnapore, only Rs. 7,000 actually received from the Collector of Midnapore being shown, instead of the whole current demand. The total demand for 1884-85, including arrears, was Rs. 2,68,233 as compared with Rs. 3,32,099, the similar demand for 1883-84. The difference is due to the exclusion of the portion of the rent for Nayabasan, to the fact of the inclusion in the figures for 1883-84 of an item under the head "Extraordinary Miscellaneous Revenue" amounting to Rs. 29,110 on account of refund of salaries drawn in excess, which does not appear in the items of receipt for 1884-85, and, lastly, to the fact that in 1883-84 the arrear demands amounted to Rs. 1,00,866, while last year they only amounted to Rs. 73,701. It is very satisfactory that with a smaller demand the collections exceeded those of the preceding year, the collections being Rs. 1,86,358 and Rs. 1,82,505 respectively. Taking the receipts at Rs. 1,86,358 and the expenditure at Rs. 1,82,786, the balance in hand at the close of the year was Rs. 49,484 as compared with a balance of Rs. 45,912 at the close of the preceding year. The minor Chief resides with his tutor at Cuttack, and attends the Ravenshaw College there. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to learn that the progress of the minor in school is not so good as it should be. The explanation which has been called for from Mr. Kiddell, the minor's private tutor, on this point will be considered at Cuttack. The Lieutenant-Governor is satisfied that the boy is by no means wanting in intelligence, and as he is decidedly stronger and in better health generally than he was a couple of years ago, there is no apparent reason for his not being able to do as well as other boys in his class.

14. In consequence of the turbulent state of the Nilgiri Mehal, Mr. Ricketts was, on the Rajah's special request for a European officer, appointed Manager in 1883-84. The Superintendent reports that peace and tranquillity have been restored, that the relations between the Rajah and the Manager appear friendly, and that no complaints are made against the present administration. This is satisfactory. The Rajah appears to have made over the management of the State to his Manager. The Superintendent observes that a balance of about Rs. 8,000 is due to the Rajah on account of land revenue from persons who are resident in British India, but that he cannot recover the amount as "the decrees against them in the Rajah's Court cannot be enforced on the debtors for want of any procedure for the enforcement of decrees of Native Courts in British India." The subject will receive the consideration of Government. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes after the ensuing cold weather to receive the report regarding the contested claim to adoption between the nephew of the Rajah and the son of the late Chief of Mohurbhunj.

15. Keonjhur is next to Mohurbhunj the largest State in Orissa. It has an area of 3,000 square miles and frequent disputes regarding its boundaries have arisen during the year. A boundary dispute between the Keonjhur State and the zemandari mehal of Balasore assumed so serious a form that a party of police under an Inspector had to be stationed on the spot till the Superintendent arrived and settled the dispute. Two other disputes in the same State regarding the boundary with Singbhoom and with the Sukinda estate in Cuttack were settled during the year. It is not stated whether, during the past year, anything was done towards improving the internal communications. Much improvement in this respect cannot, of course, be expected, as, with a very extensive area, this State has an income of not more than a lakh of rupees.

16. The total demand in Dhenkenal for the past year, including arrears, was Rs. 99,251, out of which Rs. 90,624 was realized, Rs. 785 was remitted, and Rs. 7,842 was outstanding at the close of the year. A measurement which has been made shows that the area of land under cultivation amounts to 95,513 acres The cost of settlement operations during the past year was Rs. 5,172, the total cost up to the end of the year from the commencement of operations extending over eight years being Rs. 45,007, while the increase in revenue up to the same time was Rs. 19,241. Since the close of the year, the Lieutenant-Governor has sanctioned experimentally for one year the opening of a new sub-division in the State, at the termination of which period a report on the working of the new arrangement will be submitted by the Superintendent. Vaccination was, the Superintendent reports, introduced systematically during the year, and two vaccinators were appointed. Vaccination is not yet appreciated by the people, and only 1,540 operations were performed during the year, out of which 1,266 were successful. The amount spent on public works during the year was Rs. 31,264, of which Rs. 23,453 was spent on original works, including roads, buildings, bridges, the construction of embankments, and the excavation of a tank. Since the close of the year the Lieutenant-Governor has received with much regret the intelligence of the death of the young Rajah, who was only in his 20th year. The event is all the more to be mourned because the young Chief gave promise of being a worthy successor to his father, whose enlightened policy was the cause of Dhenkanal being recognized as the most advanced of all the Tributary Mehals.

17. The agricultural class in Talchere is stated by the Superintendent to be the poorest that he has seen in the Gurjats. Their poverty is said to be due to their over-assessment in 1877. The settlement which was first made for seven years, and subsequently extended for a further period of 10 years, has yet some nine years to run. Under these circumstances it is reassuring to learn that the Rajah takes a personal interest in the administration of his State, "has seen the unreasonableness of the demand, and has in a praiseworthy manner revised and reduced the demand where it pressed heavily." The middle vernacular school at the head-quarters of the State is stated to be a very good school, and it is greatly to the credit of the Rajah that he entirely supports the institution at an annual cost of Rs. 417. The Rajah has also established a dispensary and is constructing roads. He also issued during the past year a report on the administration of his State, which he had published in the local press and circulated to other Chiefs. His example might advantageously be followed in the other States. The Lieutenant-Governor is glad to learn that the Rajah attends Court and decides cases regularly. The very marked improvements in this State are in a great measure attributable, in the first instance, to the Dewan, Baboo Jagabandhu Ghose.

18. When the Baramba State came under the direct management of the Superintendent, it was burdened with a debt of Rs. 28,000. The whole of this has been paid off, and most of the cesses which the people had to pay have been abolished. The total demand for the past year was Rs. 29,919 as compared with Rs. 29,900 for 1883-84; of this amount Rs. 24,599 was realized and Rs. 1,288 was remitted. The Rajah, who is not yet six years of age, has suffered in health apparently from the bad position of the house he inhabits with his mother. The Manager has been asked to select a better site for his residence.

19. The total revenue demand for Angul for the past year, excluding Rs. 11-8 remitted on account of lands relinquished, was Rs. 32,854 as compared with Rs. 32,984 in the preceding year. The sum of Rs. 4,330 had been paid in advance during 1883-84, and Rs. 28,507 was collected during the year, leaving a balance of only Rs. 17 at its close. There was a falling off in the number of schools and also of scholars, the number of schools decreasing from 144 in 1883-84 to 132 in the past year, and the number of scholars falling from 2,255 to 2,037. There has been a gradual increase in the number of patients treated at the dispensary since 1880-81, the number in that year being 1,791 and during 1884-85, 5,397. The Superintendent remarks that the supply of English medicines, and especially those for the treatment of fever, is insufficient for such a feverish place, and recommends a more liberal supply of medicines to the Angul dispensary as well as to that in the Khond Mals. This recommendation will be forwarded to the Medical Department of this Government for consideration. The construction of a pucca building for the dispensary at Angul has been sanctioned, but as no funds are available the work cannot be carried out at present.

20. The report regarding Pal Lehara is unsatisfactory. The Superintendent states that, with an annual income of a little over Rs. 15,000, the Rajah is in debt to the amount of Rs. 37,000; there is no administrative difficulty in the management of Pal Lehara, but the Rajah's administration is far from satisfactory. The Superintendent thinks that a dewan should be appointed, and that the Rajah should take no active part in the management of the State till the debts have been paid off. Mr. Metcalfe was unable to visit the State personally during the past year, but the Lieutenant Governor hopes that he may be able to do so this cold weather. After his visit to the State, a report should be submitted to Government embodying such proposals for the better administration of the State and the liquidation of the debts as may seem advisable after a personal and local enquiry into the existing circumstances.

21. The Duspalla State was not visited either during 1883-84 or during the past year by the Superintendent. Mr. Metcalfe should, if possible, do so during the next camping season, as it is very undesirable to leave any State for any length of time without local supervision.

22. The total demand, including arrears and miscellaneous receipts for the past year in Nayagur was Rs. 47,629, out of which Rs. 41,808 were realized. The Rajah is reported to be expensive in his tastes, and to spend almost all his revenue on himself and very little for the public benefit. The Superintendent thinks that it may be necessary to appoint a dewan for this State also. The further communication on this subject is promised.

23. In Boad, in order to assist in the administration of justice in the interior, where there are no courts, it used, until recently, to be the custom to permit the sarbarakars, with the aid of punchayets, to try petty criminal cases, and to impose fines not exceeding Rs. 2. It is reported that these persons, probably from want of supervision, not only tried and disposed of cases which they should not have tried, but further that they imposed fines exceeding Rs. 2, and the Rajah has now abolished the system. It is further reported that it was the custom to allow the sarbarakars to retain half the fines. Such a procedure was most irregular and improper; for the judge, having a pecuniary interest in the result of the case he was trying, had this incentive not only to convict the accused, but to impose the heaviest possible fine. The Superintendent considers that some plan must be devised by which justice can be brought to the doors of the rough aborigines who reside at a distance from head-quarters, and who cannot be expected to bring all their cases before the courts there. The Lieutenant-Governor will be glad to receive definite proposals on the subject.

24. The Rajah of Runpore vested his dewan during the year with powers similar to those of a Magistrate of the second class, a Munsif, and a Deputy Collector. This was done with the approval of the Superintendent. The Lieutenant-Governor must request that all questions of vesting subordinates may be submitted to Government, who will, if necessary, confer the powers; the chiefs should not be permitted to exercise their discretion in this matter.

25. Though only in charge as Superintendent for the last five months of the year, Mr. Metcalfe has submitted an excellant report, for which the Lieutenant-Governor desires to express his thanks. The remarks regarding the officers mentioned in paragraphs 234 to 244 have been noted by Sir Rivers Thompson, and will be recorded in the Appointment Department.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

F. B. PEACOCK,

Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE TRIBUTARY AND POLITICAL STATES OF CHOTA NAGPORE FOR 1884-85.

POLITICAL.

Calcutta, the 13th November 1885.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Administration Report of the Tributary and Political States of Chota Nagpore for 1884-85.

Read also—

The Reports for 1882-83 and 1883-84, and the orders of Government recorded thereon.

Mr. Hewitt, the late Commissioner of the Chota Nagpore Division, was in charge of the division for 10 months out of the year, and was after its close succeeded by Mr. C. C. Stevens, by whom the Annual Report has been submitted.

2. Mr. Hewitt passed a considerable part of the cold weather in the Tributary Mehals. Entering Gangpore in the beginning of December, he was during his stay in it occupied for some time in settling a dispute which had been going on since 1865 about the Tetarkera taruf between the zemindar of Nagra and two other persons. The cause of quarrel was at first a question of boundaries and the improper inclusion in the demarcation of certain "tolas" which were claimed as separate villages. The Commissioner, in the presence of all the subordinate landholders and village headmen concerned in the dispute, made a full investigation and arrived at a decision which was subsequently confirmed by the Government. Mr. Hewitt subsequently visited Bonai and Jushpore; in the latter State he enquired into a statement made to Government by the Vaccination Department, that the Rajah obstructed vaccination The Commissioner found that there was no ground whatever for such a charge; and that the Rajah had acted quite within his rights in resisting the claim for fees which the vaccinators demanded in excess of the regular authorized fee of two annas in each case It has since been settled that an Inspector of Vaccination shall be appointed for the Jushpore and Gangpore States, each State contributing a moiety of his salary; and under such an arrangement there should be no more complaints of extortionate proceedings on the part of the subordinates of the Department. The next States visited were Sirgoojah and Oodeypore. In Oodeypore, Mr. Hewitt temporarily settled a dispute between the Rajah and his brother, Lal Dharam Pal Sing; the dispute, however, broke out again, and has been referred to the Rajah of Sirgoojah, who is the head of the family, as it is one which involves the division of family property. The Commissioner during his tour in Sirgoojah enquired into an oldstanding quarrel which had revived between the Rajah of Korea and his Dewan. During the Rajah's minority, from 1869 to 1876, the State had been managed with excellent results by Bhyro Singh. "During all these years," the Commissioner says, "there were no troubles in Korea." But with the Rajah's assumption of personal authority he wished to displace his Dewan in favour of alien advisers. Both in Colonel Dalton's time, and again in the past year, the Rajah's action has been the cause of serious trouble and confusion, and the Commissioner rightly insisted that the Rajah must get rid of the foreign advisers who were plundering the State. Against these orders the Rajah appealed to Government, and requested confirmation of his order dismissing the Dewan. The Lieutenant-Governor, in refusing to comply with the Rajah's requests, has addressed a serious warning to him regarding the condition of his State, which, from the Commissioner's report, will be rapidly ruined and the country depopulated under the Rajah's misrule. In the meantime the present Commissioner has been directed to visit the State during the ensuing cold weather with a view to the enforcement of salutary reforms. Kharsowan was also visited by Mr. Hewitt, and Seraikella by Lieutenant-Colonel Garbett, the Deputy Commissioner of Singbhoom, who enquired into the condition of the people, the state of the crops, and inspected the Chyebassa-Purulia road which traverses this State. Arrangements also were made for the establishment of primary schools in several places. The young Chief of Seraikella was invested during the year with the insignia and title of Rajah of the State.

3. The rainfall was sufficient in most of the States, and in Sirgoojah, Oodeypore and Chang Bhakur, as well as in Seraikella and Kharsowan, the crops were all good. Excessive rain in Gangpore and Bonai reduced the outturn in those States to half that of an average year; while in Korea the crops suffered from want of rain. The general health of the people was good, though in Sirgoojah there were 391 deaths from cholera, as compared with 197 in the preceding year; the deaths from small-pox in this State fell, however, from 179 in 1883-84 to 99 during the past year. Cattle-disease prevailed in some of the States, the number of cattle dying in Sirgoojah alone being 23,499, as compared with 8,628 during 1883-84. The mortality amongst the cattle, and the injury to the crops in some of the States, affected the material condition of the people to some extent. The failure in the harvest was chiefly felt in Korea. The only opposition offered to vaccination in the mohals during the past year was in Bonai, where the Rajah admitted that he did not allow the vaccinators deputed to his State to work, because he had had two daughters married during the year. Mr. Hewitt told him he was quite wrong on grounds of mere suspicion in preventing them. In other States, particularly in Sirgoojah, Jushpore and Gangpore, vaccination operations were extensively and successfully carried on.

4. But little was done during the past year for the improvement of education in the States. The general complaint appears to be that the people themselves do not care to send their children to school. The best results were found in Seraikella, where the Rajah and the Babu of Icha, one of his subordinate zemindars, have been showing an intelligent interest in the subject, by frequently visiting existing schools, examining the pupils and distributing prizes Both too have been liberal in their pecuniary contributions to the cause of education. If the action of the Rajah and the Babu of Icha was followed in some of the other States, the backwardness of education generally in the Tributary Mehals would cease to be an object of remark.

5. No new roads were constructed during the year, but the present lines of communication were kept in repair. Mr. Hewitt, when in Sirgoojah, discussed the question of a road in connection with the Bengal-Nagpore Railway. He left on record the following remarks with reference to the matter:—

"The general question discussed this year in Sirgoojah was that relating to the roads. The Rajah and zemindars all agreed to join and construct a series of roads along lines defined in their proceedings, all of which were to meet a centre Grand Trunk Road, beginning opposite Burghur on the banks of the Kunhar in Palamow, and going south-west towards Korba down the Matranga Ghât. The road from Burghur to Garwa, through which almost all the Sirgoojah trade passes, will be made by the Lohardugga Road Committee, and I have written to the Commissioner of Chattisgurh in the Central Provinces to ask whether he cannot arrange for making the road down the Matranga Ghât to Korba. It is absolutely necessary that this road should be made if any of the Sirgoojah trade is to reach the Bengal-Nagpore Railway."

The Lieutenant-Governor will await a further communication regarding the result of the reference made to the Commissioner of Chattisgurh. In the Resolution on the Report for 1883-84, the Commissioner was asked for fuller information regarding the communications in the States, and for any suggestions he might have to make regarding improvements. Mr. Stevens remarks that Mr. Hewitt has left no notes on the subject of improvements, and that, as he himself has as yet no personal knowledge of the various States, he must defer his recommendations to a later period. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that in the next report, when Mr. Stevens has gained some experience of the country, this important subject will receive his careful consideration. With the not distant prospect of railway extension through parts of the Division, the question of interior road connections becomes of paramount importance.

6. There were 27 cases instituted in the Commissioner's office during the year and 27 were pending from the preceding year. Of the total of 54 cases, only 18 were disposed of, leaving 36 pending on the 31st March 1885. Out of 13 appeals from the decisions of the Chiefs, 8 were disposed of, the order being confirmed in 6 cases, and reversed in 2; the other 5 appeals were pending at the close of the year. The number of persons committed by the Chiefs for trial by the Court of Sessions was 22. Of these, 15 were convicted and 7 were acquitted.

7. The number of criminal cases instituted during the past year amounted to 638, as compared with 505 instituted during the preceding year. There was an increase of 42 in the number of cases of causing hurt, of 58 in the number of theft cases, and of 61 in the number of cases of house-breaking. There were, however, only two cases of murder, as compared with 12 in the preceding year; and under the head of culpable homicide, also, there was a slight decrease, there being only 8 cases, as compared with 10 in 1883-84. The total number of persons concerned in the criminal cases was 1,367, as compared with 905 during the preceding year. There were 295 persons fined during the year, the fines imposed amounting to Rs. 2,313, of which Rs. 1,967 were realized, as compared with 214 persons fined, fines to the amount of Rs. 2,088 imposed, and Rs. 1,724 realized during 1883-84. There were 136 prisoners in jail at the commencement of the year, as compared with 105 at the commencement of the preceding one; and 517 were admitted during the year, making a total of 653, as compared with a total of 382 during 1883-84. Of the total number, 448 were released, 3 died, 9 escaped, and 193 were in jail at the close of the year. It is satisfactory to observe that during the past year, with a jail population greater by nearly 75 per cent. than during the preceding year, the deaths fell from 5 to 3. The total number of accidental deaths was 346, as compared with 311 during 1883-84; of these, 137 were caused by snake-bite, 58 persons were killed by wild animals, 67 were drowned, the rest of the deaths were due to various other causes.

8. Including suits pending at the commencement of the year, there were 492 civil suits for disposal during 1884-85, as compared with 359 for disposal during 1883-84. Of these, 333 were disposed of during the year, and 159 were pending at its close. There were 28 execution cases pending on the 31st March 1884, and 90 were instituted during the year. Of these, 78 were disposed of, and 40 were pending at the end of the year. The amount of civil work in the Tributary States is not large, and is generally limited to petty land disputes and bond debts. The powers of the Chiefs are exercised under the appellate control of the Commissioner of the Division.

9. The report of the management of the Sirgoojah State by the Rajah is again favourable. The Chief continues to receive valuable assistance from his Dewan, Jaffir Ali Khan, and is said to be always "most anxious to do what is right." No disturbance by the Korwas has been mentioned, and the measures alluded to in the Resolution on the Report for 1883-84 appear to have had the anticipated effect of repressing the turbulence of this lawless clan.

10. The Rajahs of Oodeypore and Jushpore have both been commended for their management of their respective States during the past year, and it is also stated that the son of the latter Chief is "beginning to take an active share in business." The Lieutenant-Governor joins in the expression of the Commissioner's hope that he will prove a worthy successor to his father.

11. The Chief of Gangpore acted unwisely in allowing himself to be persuaded by a Sumbulpore Brahmin, whom he employed as a tutor for his son, to impose fees on suitors in civil cases, and to charge a percentage on tradesmen's profits. He also allowed the Brahmin to try civil suits. The Commissioner, however, pointed out to the Chief the impropriety of preventing the people in so poor a State as Gangpore from seeking justice except at a cost which was beyond their means, and that taxes on trades were illegal, and informed him that he had no power to depute the trial of civil suits to a subordinate. The Chief at once agreed to cease to realise the taxes, and to dispense with the services of the Brahmin. The ill-advice given to the Rajah is, as the Commissioner remarks, another instance of "the evil that is done by introducing unscrupulous outsiders in these States."

12. Sir Rivers Thompson is glad that the Superintendent should be able to report so well of the Chief of Seraikella, who only succeeded to the State on the death of his father during the year preceding that to which the report relates. He has given practical evidence during his first year of administration of a wish to promote the welfare of his people. The late Commissioner, Mr. Hewitt, whose remarks are quoted by Mr. Stevens, speaks well also of the minor Chief of Kharsowan, whose state is for the time under a manager appointed by Government.

13. The tribute payable by the States amounted to Rs. 4,686, and the whole of this amount, as well as Rs 533 due from Oodeypore on account of the previous year, was realized during the past year.

14. The administration of the different States, with the exception of Korea, has been satisfactory. During the ensuing cold season, Mr. Stevens will no doubt be able to visit most of the Tributary States and to form a personal acquaintance with their Chiefs. He will then be able to speak from his own experience and observation regarding many matters with reference to which he could, in the report under review, merely repeat what he had heard.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of the Resolution be forwarded to the Commissioner of Chota Nagpore for information and guidance.

Ordered also that a copy of the Resolution, together with a copy of the Report, be forwarded to the Government of India in the Foreign Department.

F. B. PEACOCK,

Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

SELECTION OF CANDIDATES FOR ADMISSION INTO THE STATUTORY CIVIL SERVICE.

RESOLUTION.

APPOINTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 14th November 1885.

READ—

Letter from the Secretary to the Government of India, Home Department, No. 1894, dated the 29th October 1885, calling for the submission, in due course, of the names of candidates for appointment under the Rules framed under 33 Vic., Cap. 3, Section 6.

The Government of India have intimated that the number of nominations of natives of India to offices ordinarily held by members of the Covenanted Civil Service, to be made in 1886 under the rules framed under the Statute 33 Vic., Cap. 3, Section 6, will probably be two for Bengal, and that the Governor-General in Council will be glad to receive, in due course, the names of three selected candidates for each of the said appointments arranged in order of merit.

2. The Government of India have allowed the Government of Bengal to choose its candidates in any manner that may appear to it desirable, special regard being paid (in the case of candidates whose merits and abilities have not been already proved by employment in the public service) to educational attainments and proficiency. It is left open to this Government to select candidates from the Uncovenanted Service or the learned professions, to institute a test of limited competition among nominated candidates, or to follow any other mode of selection that may be thought suitable.

3. The Lieutenant-Governor has, after full consideration, resolved to select out of the whole number of applicants ten for each appointment to be given, and to subject them to a competitive examination to be held in January next on dates to be hereafter notified, and on the conditions specified below. On the conclusion of the examination, Sir Rivers Thompson will submit, with his recommendations, the names, in order of merit, of the first six most successful candidates, from whom two will be finally selected by the Government of India.

4. For the purpose of conducting the proposed examination, a Committee will be appointed, consisting of the Director of Public Instruction, the Secretary to the Board of Revenue, and the Legal Remembrancer. The examinations will extend over four days. On the first day an essay in English, on a subject to be prescribed hereafter, will be written by the candidates; on the second day a general paper of literary, historical, and philosophical questions will be set; on the third day there will be a general paper on mathematics and physical science; and the subjects of the fourth day's examination will be the Penal and Criminal Procedure Codes and Mr. Field's Introduction to the Bengal Regulations. The candidates allowed to appear at the examination will hereafter be informed by the Committee, which will be appointed as above indicated, of the place at which the examination will be held, and of any other circumstances necessary for their information.

5. The Lieutenant-Governor will make his selection of candidates for examination from (a) officers in the service of Government who have specially distinguished themselves; (b) persons who have taken the degree of B.A. at the Calcutta University, provided that such persons can produce certificates of their having a thorough practical knowledge of the English language, of their being physically fitted for the service of Government, of their being of good moral character, of active habits and able to ride; (c) persons of proved merit and ability in the practice of a learned profession. No candidate not in the service of Government, or who has not been at least five years engaged in the service of a learned profession, will be selected after he has attained the age of 25 years. Applications, which must be accompanied by the certificates above mentioned, and, when necessary, by certificates of age, should be made to the Under-Secretary in the Appointment Department by the 15th December next, after which date no applications will be received.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

F. B. PEACOCK,

Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86 formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

MEMORANDA.

The birth and death returns of the principal Municipalities in Bengal furnish the following results for the week ending 31st October 1885:—

1. That births and deaths were registered in these Municipalities in the proportions per 1,000 of population of 27 3 and 37·0 respectively, as opposed to 24 5 and 34 0 per 1,000 respectively, in the preceding week ending 24th October, indicating a sensible advance in the registration of both events.

2 That the highest proportions of births and deaths were returned from the following Municipalities:—

Births.

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans, above alluded to, cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorised form of age classification.

General Remarks on the fluctuation of principal staples carried over the East Indian Railway during the month ended 26th September 1885.

INCREASES.

Coal and Coke.—There was an increase in the upwards and a decrease in the downwards traffic, resulting in a net increase. The increase in the up traffic was due to demands from foreign railways, and the decrease in the down traffic may, in a measure, be attributed to the work in certain collieries having been partly suspended owing to floods.

Jute manufactured (Gunny)—The increase in this commodity was due to heavy transactions in wheat and seeds and gram and pulses.

Wheat.—The satisfactory increase in this staple is due to good demand for export.

Gram and Pulses.—The increase in these articles is attributable to improved local demand chiefly in Bengal

Other Grains.—As mentioned last month, the increase in these grains were due principally to despatches from Cawnpore and neighbourhood to Bombay and to Dinapore and neighbourhood on this railway.

Seeds—The increase in seeds was chiefly in linseed, and was due to active demand for export.

Government Stores.—The increase in these articles is chiefly in despatches from Howrah.

DECREASES.

Piece-goods—The despatches during the previous month were heavy, but during the earlier portion of September 1885, business in the interior was seriously interfered with by heavy rains and floods; hence the decrease in this commodity

Iron.—This decrease was owing to dull market

Salt.—The decrease in this staple is chiefly due to despatches from Howrah, viâ Cawnpore and viâ Delhi, owing to less demand.

NOTICE.

The 6th November 1885.—The following draft of Rules, which it is proposed to issue under sections 21, 50 (clause 1) and 51 (clause 1) of Act VI of 1884, is published for general information. These rules will be taken into consideration on the expiry of a month from the date of their first publication in the Calcutta Gazette; and the Lieutenant-Governor will receive and give due attention to any objections or suggestions which may be made by any person within that period.

J. WARE EDGAR,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal

UNDER the powers conferred upon him by section 21 of Act VI of 1884 (the Inland Steam-vessels Act), and, with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following rules for the survey of Inland Steam-vessels:—

Time and place of survey.

1. Surveys shall be made at the Ports of Calcutta, Chittagong, Patna, Cuttack, Goalundo, Kooshtea, Dehree, Khoolna, and at such other places, as may, from time to time, be declared by the Local Government to be places of survey upon due notice or application from the owner, on any day in the year, with the exception of Sundays and Government holidays, by the Surveyor or Surveyors appointed under the Act. The declarations of surveyors will be made and certificates of survey will be granted in the annexed forms on the payment of fees specified in the second Schedule annexed to the Act.

Surveyors' duties.

2. The Surveyors will be guided by the rules hereunto annexed in making their survey. In cases where two Surveyors are employed, the Engineer-Surveyor will survey the engines, boilers, and all the machinery required to be surveyed under the Act. The Ship-wright Surveyor will inspect the hull, equipments, and passenger accommodation; measure and determine the number of passengers the vessel is fit to carry, and see that the certificates of the master, mates, and engineers are such as is required by the Act; also that the lights and fog signals are in accordance with the regulations for the prevention of collisions at sea.

Notice of survey to be given.

3. Owners of steam-vessels requiring survey are requested to give the Surveyor at least three days' notice in writing when a survey is required, and are warned that, should such notice fail to be given, the Surveyor is not responsible for any delay or inconvenience which may occur in consequence.

Particulars to be given in notice.

4 This notice (which is to be preserved by the Surveyor) must state explicitly the name of the steamer to be surveyed, and the time when, and place at which, she will be ready for inspection.

Surveyors to attend at appointed time.

5. In order to prevent inconvenience and delay to the owners, the Surveyors are to be careful to be in attendance at the appointed time and place. Should they be unable to attend as required, notice should be given to the owners to that effect.

Survey if deferred.

6. Should a steamer not be ready for inspection at the time arranged, the Surveyors may make such arrangements for the subsequent survey as may be convenient to the owner or his agent. All expenses arising out of this postponement will be charged against the owner when the certificate is issued.

SURVEYORS' DECLARATIONS.

Surveyors' declarations.

7. The Surveyor's declaration under section 9 of the Act shall be made in the form hereunto annexed. The particulars required to be given in the declaration for a certificate of survey are the following, which are treated of under separate heads:—

(1) That the hull of the vessel is sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition.

(2) That the boats, life-buoys, lights, signals, compasses, and shelter for deck passengers, and the certificates of the master, engineer or engineers, engine-driver or engine-drivers, are such and in such condition as required by those rules.

(3) The time (if less than 12 months) for which the said hull and equipments will be sufficient.

(4) The limits (if any) beyond which, as regards the hull and equipments, the vessel is, in the Surveyor's judgment, not fit to ply.

(5) The number of passengers (if any) which the ship is, in the Surveyor's judgment, fit to carry, distinguishing if necessary between the respective numbers to be carried on deck and in the cabins and in different parts of the deck and cabins: such numbers to be subject to such conditions and variations according to the time of the year, the nature of the voyage, the cargo carried, and other circumstances as the case requires.

The declaration of the Surveyor as to the boilers and machinery is to contain a statement of the following particulars:—

(1) That the machinery of the vessel is sufficient for the service intended, and is in good condition.

(2) The time (12 months or less) for which such machinery will be sufficient.

(3) That the safety valves and fire hose are such and in such condition as are required by these rules.

(4) The limits of the weight to be placed on the safety valves.

(5) The limits (if any) beyond which, as regards the machinery, the vessel is, in the Surveyor's judgment, not fit to ply.

When a Surveyor is, from any reason whatever, unable to complete his declaration, an incomplete declaration should be sent to those who applied for survey as soon as possible, stating in it the reasons for not being able to fill up all the particulars under the various headings. He must take care to obliterate all the items in this declaration that he is unable to certify to as being in accordance with the Acts and regulations.

Surveyors may go on board inland steam vessels.

8. Surveyors may go on board any vessel at any reasonable time for the purpose of inspecting either the certificates of the master, or engineer, or the vessel, the machinery, the boats, other equipments, or for any other purpose rendered necessary by the Act; and the owners, masters, and engineers of inland steam vessels are required by the Act to give to the Surveyors, on being requested so to do, all such information and assistance within their power as may be requisite for the purpose of making the returns required by the Act. In the performance of

Rules for the examination of, and grant of Certificates to, Masters of Inland Steam Vessels under section 29, Act VI of 1884.

1. Candidates for certificates as first class Masters of Inland Steam vessels must be not less than twenty-one years of age and must have served either three years at sea and three years as Mate of a river steamer or Master of a flat, or six years as Mate of a river steamer or Master of a river flat.

2. Every such Candidate shall apply for permission to appear for examination in a printed form* to be filled up by him and forwarded to the Port Officer, Calcutta, together with such documentary evidence as shall satisfy the Port Officer that the Candidate has complied with the conditions of Rule 66 above, and that he is of sober habits and of good character. Each Candidate shall forward with his application a fee of Rs. 16, which will not be returned in case of failure.

* Copies will be supplied to intending Candidates by the Port Officer, Calcutta, on application.

3. The Port Officer shall notify to accepted Candidates the date and hour of examination, in fixing which he shall have due regard to the convenience of their employers. The fees of any Candidate who is not accepted shall be returned to him.

4. The examination of Candidates shall ordinarily be conducted by the Committee which sits quarterly for the examination of Pilots, assisted by two persons selected in each case by the Port Officer, holding certificates as first class Masters of Inland Steam Vessels, duly in force under these rules. But the Port Officer may at any time convene a Special Committee for the examination of Candidates under these rules.

5. Before proceeding to examine any Candidate in the manner provided in the rule next following, the Committee shall carefully test his ability to distinguish the following colours which enter largely into the combinations of signals by day and night, viz. black, white, red, green, yellow, and blue. In the event of any Candidate failing to satisfy completely the usual tests for colour-blindness in respect of all of these colours, the Committee will decline to proceed with his examination, and will report the case through the Port Officer for the information of the local Government.

6. The Committee will examine each Candidate apart, and vivâ voce, in each and all of the following subjects:—

(1).—The names and courses of the river reaches from Calcutta to Mud Point, and the extent of the sands in such reaches.

(2).—The sets of the tides within the said limits.

(3).—The names of all points in the river within the said limits.

(4).—The candidate's general knowledge of soundings in the channels and over the sands within the said limits.

(5).—The tracks over the Moyapore and Royapore flats, the Fultah tracks, and the Eastern and Western Guts.

(6).—The marks for fair channels or hauling in to reaches where such exist.

(7).—The marks for the limits of sands where such exist.

(8).—The rules of the road.

(9).—The management of river steamers under all contingencies of meeting, overtaking, and passing vessels in all possible positions within the limits described in No. 1.

(10).—The Tide Table.

(11).—The rules of the Port of Calcutta including the prescribed Storm Signals.

(12).—The provisions of Act VI of 1884, and the rules framed under it.

7. If the Candidate satisfy the Committee as to his knowledge of the subjects set forth in the foregoing rule, and generally as to his competency to command an inland river steamer, they shall certify the same to the Port Officer. who will then grant a certificate of such competency in the form appended to these rules

8. Every certificate of competency shall be made in duplicate, and one copy shall be delivered to the person entitled to the certificate and the other shall be kept and recorded by the Port Office.

9. No Candidate who fails to satisfy the Committee shall be at liberty to submit a fresh application for examination until six months have passed from the date of such failure.

10. A candidate for a certificate as second class Master of an Inland Steam vessel must produce satisfactory certificates of sobriety and intelligence, and that he has served four years as mate of a small steam vessel or helmsman of a large steam vessel, and shall be examined by the examining body defined in rule 69 vird voce as to his knowledge in the following subjects :—Colours, rule of the road and lights, management of small river steamers, rules of the Port of Calcutta and storm signals.

11. A fee of Rs. 6 will be charged, which will not be returned in case of failure.

The 6th November 1885.—The following draft of Rules, which it is proposed to issue under section 24 of Act VII of 1884, is published for general information. These rules will be taken into consideration on the expiry of a month from the date of their first publication in the Calcutta Gazette; and the Lieutenant-Governor will receive and give due attention to any objections or suggestions which may be made by any person within that period.

J. WARE EDGAR,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

UNDER the powers conferred upon him by section 24 of Act VII of 1884 (the Indian Steam-Ships Act), and with the previous sanction of the Governor-General in Council, the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to make the following rules for the survey of steam-ships :—

Time and place of surveys.

1. Surveys shall be made at the Port of Calcutta upon due notice or application from the owner, on any day in the year, with the exception of Sundays and Government holidays, by the Surveyor to the Port Commissioners. Certificates of survey shall be given in the form hereunto annexed by the Vice-Chairman to the Port Commissioners, on payment of the fee specified in the schedule to the Act.

Surveyors' duties.

2. The Surveyors will be guided by the rules hereunto annexed in making their survey. In cases where two Surveyors are employed, the Engineer-Surveyor will survey the engines, boilers, and all the machinery required to be surveyed under the Act. The Ship-wright Surveyor will inspect the hull equipments and passenger accommodation, measure and determine the number of passengers the vessel is fit to carry, and see that the certificates of the master, mates, and engineers are such as is required by the Act, also that the lights and fog signals are in accordance with the regulations for the prevention of collisions at sea.

Notice of survey to be given.

3. Owners of steam vessels requiring survey are to give the Surveyor at least three days' notice in writing when a survey is required, and should such notice fail to be given, he (the Surveyor) is not responsible for any delay or inconvenience which may occur in consequence.

Particulars to be given in notice.

4. This notice (which is to be preserved by the Surveyor) must state explicitly the name of the steamer to be surveyed, and the time when, and place at which, she will be ready for inspection.

Surveyors to attend at appointed time.

5. In order to prevent inconvenience and delay to the owners, the Surveyors are to be careful to be in attendance at the appointed time and place. Should they be unable to attend as required, notice should be given to the owners to that effect.

Survey if deferred.

6. Should a steamer not be ready for inspection at the time arranged, the Surveyors may make such arrangements for the subsequent survey as may be convenient to the owner or his agent. All expenses arising out of this postponement will be charged against the owner when the certificate is issued.

SURVEYORS' DECLARATIONS.

Surveyors' declarations.

7. The Surveyor's declaration under section 11 of the Act shall be made in the form hereunto annexed. The particulars required to be given in the declaration for a certificate of survey are the following, which are treated of under separate heads :—

(1.) That the hull of the ship is sufficient for the service intended, and in good condition.

(2.) That the boats, life-buoys, lights, signals, compasses, and shelter for deck passengers, and the certificates of the master, and mate or mates, engineer or engineers, or engine-driver are such and in such condition as required by any law for the time being in force.

(3.) The time (if less than 12 months) for which the said hull and equipments will be sufficient.

(4.) The limits (if any) beyond which, as regards the hull and equipments, the ship is in the Surveyor's judgment not fit to ply.

(5.) The number of passengers which the ship is, in the Surveyor's judgment, fit to carry, distinguishing if necessary between the respective numbers to be carried on deck, and in the cabins and in different parts of the deck and cabins, such numbers to be subject to such conditions and variations according to the time of the year, the nature of the voyage, the cargo carried, and other circumstances as the case requires.

The declarations of the Surveyor as to the boilers and machinery is to contain a statement of the following particulars:—

(1.) That the machinery of the ship is sufficient for the service intended, and is in good condition.

(2.) The time (12 months or less) for which such machinery will be sufficient.

(3.) That the safety valves and fire hose are such, and in such condition, as are required by the Act, and the rules framed thereunder.

(4.) The limits of the weight to be placed on the safety valves.

(5.) The limits (if any) beyond which as regards the machinery, the ship is, in the Surveyor's judgment, not fit to ply.

When a Surveyor is, from any reason whatever, unable to complete his declaration, an incomplete declaration should be sent to those who applied for survey as soon as possible, stating in it the reasons for not being able to fill up all the particulars under the various heading. He must take care to obliterate all the items in this declaration that he is unable to certify to as being in accordance with the Acts and regulations.

Surveyors may go on board ships.

8. Surveyors may go on board any ship at any reasonable time for the purpose of inspecting, either the certificates of the master, mates, or engineers, or the vessel, the machinery, the boats, other equipments, or for any other purpose rendered necessary by the Acts; and the owners, masters, mates, and engineers of steam-ships are required by the Act to give to the Surveyors, on being requested so to do, all such information and assistance within their power as may be requisite for the purpose of making the returns required by the Acts. In the performance of this part of their duties, Surveyors are to be careful to avoid impeding the duty of the vessel, or wilfully giving offence to any of the officers. If they should be hindered or vexatiously obstructed by any person in the performance of their duties, they should by no means mark it by personal resentment, but should communicate the facts without delay to the proper authorities, by whom the case will be taken up, if necessary.

Inspection to be made in the presence of owner, agent, or responsible person.

9. Surveyors should, if possible, make their inspections when the agent, master, or chief mate, and engineer of the vessel are present. Repairs can then be required, and defects can be pointed out to the proper persons without incurring the uncertainty and delay attendant upon messages delivered to the subordinate officers. If the owners do not regard the survey as being of sufficient importance to instruct a responsible representative to be present, the Surveyors will of course make the survey in his absence.
